The reason giving the smelt a try on Monday was, early that morning I noticed a large flock of merganser ducks feeding at the mouth of the river off Victoria Park and as these ducks are a fish eater the chances were they could be feeding either on minnows or smelt. It is a little too early for the minnows so it had to be smelt. I was right.

The brook trout were biting, over the weekend at Hinchey's Pond near Milbrook, on the weekend, several local fisherman taking their limit.

These two waters are stocked here by the Department of Lands and Forests last Wednesday and age not very big, but, they do make

Ten-Pin Tidbits

By GRACE POSTE

"Ladies" W.I.B.C. tournament taking place at Brunswick Belleville on Friday, Saturday, seventeen teams (5 bowlers) a team are from Deseronto and Belleville, Saturday night.

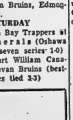
Summer league is being formed at Brunswick Bowling to start June 1.

Seeing on the sick list, sorry about last week's column that appears in The Intelligencer's (thanks for the phone calls).

Our league standing have a new look...Monday night the "Major A" League all men bowling at nine o'clock (five man team). The teams are as follows: Bowl-o-Mat Maids, Hatfield Texaco 80, Tolworth's Texaco 77, three weeks of bowling, no games. Norton Coffee League have three teams all within one point of top place. International Nickel were J.F.K. 77; Wed. Ladies' P.M., Moirettes 89½; Paul Kelly Drugs 83.

Congratulations to Roy McKenzie of the Men's Classic League (at 8:30) single game. Roy's average in two leagues (182).

I take my hat off to one male bowler at the Brunswick Bowl his 10-pin bowling. Here's his average his two leagues. One of the top ten bowlers, he also does well in the 5-pin bowling. Some style bowling in both games. Congratulations to Wally Lavery.



To obtain a top average all year in several leagues takes more than all high scores bowling. Albert (Toots) Holloway and Jerry Miller have over (175) averages in all their one league.

Ladies having 180 average are few. Barb Ward 179 average in two leagues and Marilyn Thurgood 167, two leagues; Grace Poste 180, three leagues. Our junior bowlings are going well also, Jim Sedore 130 average Saturday A.M.; Patti Reid 120 under fourteen years old, Mike Anderson 160 and Vivian Moreau 145, fourteen to eighteen age group.

Older Citizens Can Still Be Useful

DEAR DORIS: I loved your stories about older people who were doing really worth-while things. Thank you for helping us to feel that vintage years should have some sparkle! — ONE OF THEM.

DORIE CLARK

DEAR ONE: You're welcome. Since writing that I attended the one hundredth birthday party of one of Canada's nineteenth century settlers, Mrs. Eliza Bromley of Grimsby, Ontario.

She is alert, physically fine and can read the newspaper without glasses. While she may rest a little more and go out a little less than she did twenty years ago, the sparkle is still in her eye. She laughed and visited with every guest, flirted with the photographers, and wore with great pride a gorgeous orchid from her great-grandchildren.

Barons Win 6-2 Over Hornets

CLEVELAND (AP) — Bob Courcy scored two goals within 22 seconds to lead Cleveland Barons to a 6-2 victory over the Pittsburgh Hornets Friday night and a 2-0 lead in the best-of-five American Hockey League's Calder Cup quarter-finals.

Courcy fired a 10-footer into the left side past goalie George Gardner at 10:55 of the third period, then took a pass from Joe Szura after the face-off and put one into the right side from about the same position.

Courcy now has four goals in two playoff games with the Hornets. Gary Jarrett added the final goal cut Cleveland's lead to 3-2, but Courcy hit twice and Joe Szura scored at 18:18 to put the game out of reach.

Ten penalties were called in the fast-checking third period, five to each team. Pittsburgh centre Ted Tanner scored the only broken rose in the final period when he slid into the Cleveland net.

Keith McCreary of Cleveland jammed a first-period shot between the goal posts of Pittsburgh skate of Gardner as two Hornets were trying to force him away from the net.

Ted Lesson fired a hot shot from near centre ice that whipped past McCreary, who had screened Gardner from the play.

Both teams were a major short in the second period when Nor man Beaudin fired a 18-footer past Cleveland goalie Les Binkley. Gary McCarthy came back with a short shot that went over Gardner, who had fallen in front of the net.

Sherbrooke Wallops Morrisburg

BROCKVILLE (CP) — Sherbrooke Beavers, defending Allan Cup champions, remained alive in the Eastern Canada senior hockey semi-finals Friday night with an 11-5 victory over Morrisburg Combines.

The Beavers trail the best-of-seven series 2-1 and must go back to Sherbrooke for the sixth game, scheduled Sunday.

If the Beavers win that one and force the series to the limit, the seventh game will be played in Sherbrooke Monday.

The Beavers, who polished off Nelson Maple Leafs in the two successive games of the Allan Cup final last May, were sparked by Guy Blaicki's three-goal performance.

Other Sherbrooke marksmen were Bill Dupre and Rejean Riche, each with two goals, and Rene Tepin, Jean Portin, George Roy and Jean-Pierre Mallette.

Morrisburg goals went to Rowdy Gillard, Mel Tomalty, Harold White, Doug Casselman and Ed St. Louis.

Swingin' Down The Fives Lanes

With JIM McKENNIE

Of the popular bowling games played in North America Firepins, Tenpins, Duckpins, Rubber - banded Duckpins and Candlepins - the most challenging is the latter. Candlepins is some not well - known in this part of the country and seldom played. However, in the Maritimes and the New England states it is held a firm grip on the populous since its inception in 1890.

Candlepin bowling was introduced in that year in Worcester, Massachusetts, by Justin White and Thomas Narumi. The reason of the opinion that bowling should be a blend of skill and finesse. Tiring of the big - ball Tenpin game, they copied many of the features of the English bowling game of Skittles. Candlepins could be described as a cross between table game and your first look at the pins tells you why the game is so called. The pin is about 15 3/4" tall and less than 3" in diameter and when ten of them are set at the end of a lane it looks like somebody's having a tenth birthday.

For the person who might think their game is difficult, should "suffer through a game or two of this Candlepin game. Bowling Firepins is fun, I always say, but it can, at times be a little frustrating. Compared to Candlepins ... it's hilarious! Candlepins should be played by all who like to bowl. If not taken too seriously. How anyone could play this game and not have fun is beyond my comprehension. They must go home talking to themselves about their game that night.

Like tenpins, a perfect game would be 300, except that in Candlepins it is just as difficult. There has never been a perfect game in Candlepins! But then, there's always a first at it for seventy - six years. A good average in the game is 100 and over. A bowler who is hitting an average of 108 and over, is considered to be a good bowler. He is the best in the 118 neighborhood. Highest game on record is 217 and the highest series recorded by Canadian Sports Hall-of-Famer Wilbert Thomas Harris of Nova Scotia who held the world's record for many years with his 235 for three games.

Mar(k)et, the only bowler to break into the Sports Hall of Fame, was a Candlepin champ pinner in the Maritimes for fifty years, prior to his death in 1954 at the age of seventy-six, rolling over 400 in three games on 25 occasions in league play, highlighted by his perfect game of bowling 1,000 and over in our Firepin game.

Now you might dispute the claim that Candlepins is the most difficult of bowling games, but the statistics are conclusive. It has already been mentioned that the closest anyone has come to a perfect game is 235, pin game is 217 (out of 300). Well, the odds against a perfect game in Candlepins are one million to one, in five pins twelve and a half million to one. Statistics don't always tell the exact of the games and there are even more perfect scores than 300 in Candlepins, but in the regular duckpin game (without the bands) there has been a perfect game, never been a perfect game. That suggests that there should, perhaps, be a tournament for Candlepin champs.

Why is the candlepin game so difficult? Five pin bowlers, used to their three - inch ball and a half pounds in weight, found lighter and a half inch smaller in diameter, with weight and difficulty presented by throwing a ball around lighter and a half inch smaller in diameter, with weight and difficulty presented by throwing a ball around much narrower than set pins and spaced much further apart. Now comes the game is so popular and is now spreading through the introduction of automatic pinsetters? Because the game is fascinating . . . and challenging . . . and frustrating.

There is little chance that the game will become popular in our area, as most bowling lanes are owned and run by their automatic equipment, which sets only one type of bowling game, Tenpins. By dovicdling chance to try the Candlepin game right here, in Belleville, at the Quinte Bowl Drome, where there are still a few lanes that can be hand set. Any adventurous bowlers are picking up the challenge this coming Wednesday, when a Springtime Candlepin League will be inaugurated.

I understand that the manufacturers are considering making an offer of one million dollars for the first perfect game, in candlepin that is.

Relaxation of Tight Control Of Art Is Evident in Romania

Romania is seeking closer cultural, commercial, political and social ties with the West. Symbolic of this trend are two art exhibitions of modern work from Italy and Britain. Romania's bid to extend its cultural links with the West is outlined in this story by Canadian Press reporter John Best based on a visit to Bucharest.

BY JOHN BEST

BUCHAREST (CP) — Residents of this Romanian capital have been flocking this spring to two simultaneous exhibitions of art from the Western world.

One is an exhibition of modern Italian painting and sculpture. The other is a collection of works by English sculptor Henry Moore.

The exhibitions are notable not only on account of being representative of Western culture. Both also are decidedly abstract in style.

They can be taken as symbolic of two trends that have become discernible in this country once tightly locked into the Soviet Union's "satellite empire" but now forcefully asserting its independence.

One is Romania's determined pursuit of broader ties of all kinds with the West—cultural, commercial, political and social.

The other is a certain tolerance for experiments in free creative expression. The avant-garde Italian and British works currently on display have their counterpart in native Romanian works of the same variety that not only get created but also exhibited publicly and sold.

STILL UNDER WRAPS

Western observers here are not at all certain, however, that relaxation of the Communist government's tight control in the field of the arts, begun two to three years ago, is continuing on a broad front.

Some foreign diplomats say they have detected signs recently of a possible levelling-off or even retrogression. They say the new Communist party chief, Nicolae Ceausescu, has shown signs of taking a tougher stand than his predecessor, the late Gheorghe Gheorghiu-Dej.

However, this is said to apply chiefly to writers. Principal evidence advanced is the removal in recent weeks of a moderate pa head of the Romanian writers union and his replacement by a man regarded as a party hardliner.

In the visual arts, freedom to use forms and styles once in disfavor is said to be reasonably secure, at least for the time being.

Romania's search for expanded links with the West is emphasized by a rekindling of historical associations with France and Italy, with which Romanians—a Latin people—feel a particularly close cultural affinity.

FRENCH IS POPULAR

Practically every body in this city of 1,300,000 can speak some French. Most manage a little English or German.

"France is the most important foreign influence in our culture," says Alexandru Balaci, vice-president of the state committee for culture and art.

Among Romanian school and college students, French is the most popular foreign language, followed by English and German. In technical institutes, Russian makes a showing, being favored along with English.

As for Italian, Romanians generally don't even bother to study it. They and the Italians can understand 80 per cent of what the others say even without studying their language; they are that similar.

It's not just in the West that Romania seeks to extend its bonds.

"We don't refuse a contact with anybody," says Balaci. "We are opening large windows to every corner of the earth. We have global visions."

MUCH FOOD IMPORTED

On the commercial side, Italy's Fiat is the most popular foreign car sold in Romania. Other models in Bucharest's broad, tree-lined thoroughfares include Russian Volgas and Moskvich's, German Volkswagens and Mercedes, French Renaults and English Hillmans.

However, only a comparatively small percentage of Romanians make enough money to buy a car.

Romania's increasing ties with the world market can be seen from a stroll through a Bucharest supermarket. On sale, in addition to Romanian produce and goods from the socialist countries, are such items as:

Scotch whisky, Italian vermouth, French champagne and cognac, London gin, German vodka, English - made cornflakes, Danish milk powder, Swiss soup, English Worcestershire sauce and ketchup, Brazilian and Swiss instant coffee, English - made French capers, French canned mushrooms, American peach halves, Israeli grapefruit juice, English tapioca, Portuguese orange slices, Swiss condensed milk, American and English cigarettes.

Smoking foreign cigarettes is expensive. The cost of a pack of American regular-size: 18 Romanian lei, or $1 U.S.

Need Big Money to Retire? 'This Is So Much Nonsense'

By THOMAS COLLINS

Things are going to be awful, naturally, when you topple off your fine salary at 65 and fall into the poverty class. With only pensions to keep your whole life from coming unstuck.

Just ask the wife of an $800 a month man who'll drop to $350 when he retires. She'll usually tell you how terrible it will be. And keep on telling you until the next lunar eclipse.

A retired man who is living the good life in a small town in southern California thinks all this is so much nonsense. He and his wife have an income of $250 a month. They're saving about $20 a month out of it.

"This is their budget:

All Food	$85
All Utilities	18
Gasoline, Oil, etc.	25
Clothes	30
Christmas Fund	10
Drugs	6
Haircuts, Shoe Repairs	4
Household Costs	10
Vacations	20
Hospital Insur. and Taxes	41
Husband's Spending	20
Wife's Spending	10
Total	$240

MOBILE HOME

This couple lives in a mobile home, parked on a lot they own. They pay a modest home licence and property tax on the lot and its improvements.

According to the husband, the budget item for clothes includes such things as drycleaning. All food means just what it says — if we eat out the cost comes out of this item. The household item includes newspapers, soap, etc., and drugs, while not including everything bought in a drugstore, would cover such a thing as a hot water bottle.

"The Christmas fund goes for my wife — it's her Christmas present. The personal spending fund for each of us must cover dues for any lodge, association, religious donations, and small personal items we buy . . ."

The key to a good life on a small income, this couple insists, is a budget. "You simply must live on a budget. You have to figure it out carefully, and you must live within it." They have lived in six different locations since they retired and say it is not important where you live if you have to cut costs — "It's the area or neighborhood that matters."

WILL FIND SHORTAGES

Some people who read this column will find all sorts of shortages in the above budget—no money for doctor bills, new cars, TV sets, and cultural advantages which some people make a big to do about. Still, the couple in California is managing. And is happy with the results.

There are those, too, who think mobile homes are what you see in junk flats on the outskirts of cities, fit only for poor folks and bums . . . and quite beneath their station in life. They just haven't informed themselves about the high standards of desirable living the mobile home people have set up for themselves in the West, along the Gulf Coast, and in Florida.

The great fault of any retirement budget has always been what old neighbors and other people who knew you when will think. Which is one of the best arguments for moving away when you retire . . . by sprouting your old patterns of living you nearly always can find savings, and by settling among new people who don't know and don't care how fancy you once were you can get down to the brass tacks of existence.

W. D. Gordon, director of sales development for Canadian Pacific Airlines at Vancouver, will speak Monday night to members of the Kinsmen Club at the Shrine Club. His topic will be the present significance and future of air transportation.

Goldwater Would Use Full Power

By HARRY KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP)—Barry Goldwater charged today President Johnson is playing politics with the Vietnamese war by trying to keep it at "a low level" to save Democratic seats in next fall's congressional elections.

He claimed Johnson was trying to please both the hawks and the doves.

"We're not exerting our full air power against the enemy and I don't think that is playing fair with the men . . . being sent over to Viet Nam," Johnson's 1964 Republican presidential opponent said in a copyrighted interview in U.S. News and World Report.

Congress returns today to face the South Vietnamese political storm that broke during the Easter recess and as State Secretary Dean Rusk testifies before the Senate foreign relations committee.

The committee has been a bothed of congressional criticism of Johnson's Asian policies. Chairman of the committee J. W. Fulbright (Dem. Ark.) said he didn't think "there will be any fireworks."

'WE'RE IN TROUBLE'

The committee's mood, said Senator John J. Williams (Rep-Del.) may depend on Rusk—"to the extent he is frank with us . . . there is no use fooling ourselves, we are in trouble. We can't correct a problem by ignoring it."

The reason for Rusk's appearance before the committee is to support the administration's foreign aid requests. Defence Secretary Robert McNamara will appear before the committee Wednesday.

The hearings are to be televised nationally.

Adding to Goldwater's call for the use of more power was Senator John C. Stennis (Dem. Miss.), chairman of the Senate armed services subcommittee.

"We have not yet hit with sufficient military strength and power . . . to win . . . and not win by this policy of holding back," Stennis said on a radio-television show.

HAVE-TO COMPLY

As for the present political storm in Viet Nam, Stennis and Senator Jacob Javits (Rep. N.Y.) said that if a freely elected government asks pthe United States to withdraw its forces, it would have to comply.

John Kenneth Galbraith, former ambassador to India, urged in an end to U.S. bombing of North Viet Nam and the beginning of a defensive holding action in the south.

Galbraith, speaking at the University of North Carolina, said the bombings "create no one major and intolerable risk" of involvement with China or even Russia.

Two Labor Strikes in Que. End

MONTREAL (CP) — Two labor strikes in Quebec have ended while the provincial government takes legal measures to halt a third.

Montreal construction workers voted 780 to 532 Sunday night to accept a new three-year contract, ending a five-day strike that affected most construction in the area except for the world's fair. About 10,000 men were involved.

Near Baie Comeau, 220 miles northeast of Quebec City, work is to resume this week on Hydro - Quebec projects on the Manicouagan and Outardes rivers. Some 3,200 men who held 'study sessions' for 6 weeks will return to work.

But the strike of 2,200 technical teachers employed by he Quebec government goes on.

Premier Lesage said Sunday, after his return to Quebec City from a Florida vacation, the teachers set a poor example to their pupils by refusing to obey a court injunction to return to work immediately.

No Signs Of Spying By Gerda

OTTAWA (CP)—Mr. Justice Wishart Spence declared today that there is no evidence that Gerda Munsinger was active in espionage work while living in Canada.

He made the statement during a 45-minute open session of the royal commission inquiry into charges by Justice Minister Cardin that two or more Conservative cabinet ministers were involved with the 36 - year - old German blonde, who lived in Canada from 1955 to 1961.

Mr. Cardin said at a press conference March 10 that the commissioner affair was a bona fide security case.

Mr. Justice Spence rejected for the present the application of Conservative lawyers that the hearings be public to the greatest extent possible.

HAMPERED BY SECRECY

He said he does not see how the lawyers could examine witnesses without referring to important and confidential papers, including cabinet directives and RCMP reports which showed the way police collected information and their sources.

"I have come to the conclusion that it would be very difficult to carry on efficiently the task given to me by the order-in-council (setting up the inquiry) unless I . . . have practically all the backstairs in camera."

He said those cleared by the evidence need have no fear that their names will not be cleared publicly because his report would be a public document.

Protests Mount Against CBC Dismissals of Hosts of Show

TORONTO (CP) — Protest grew across Canada early today against a CBC management decision to dismiss the co-hosts of the television program This Hour Has Seven Days.

The program set up a hot line following the show Sunday evening to receive reaction to an interview with Welfare Minister Rene Levesque of Quebec, but the public appeared more interested in the future of Seven Days than in the future of French-English relations.

Meanwhile, a citizens' committee started Saturday in Toronto by Prof. William M. Kilborn, chairman of humanities at York University, to protest the dismissals of Patrick Watson and Laurier LaPierre, met for a second Sunday with branches in 13 cities from Halifax to Vancouver. A handful of pickets also appeared outside the CBC Toronto studios Sunday night.

Only 12 callers got through to the studio in the 45 minutes after the show signed off at 11 p.m. EST. In the taped conversations, nine expressed indignation at the dismissals, one criticized the co-hosts for being subjective and two were only concerned with Mr. Levesque.

A Bell Telephone Co. supervisor reported 5,100 attempts to reach the hot line from Eastern Canada in the 45 minutes and another supervisor said Bell switchboards were practically immobilized by the flood of calls from Western Canada when the program was aired there an hour later.

Douglas Leiterman, executive producer of Seven Days, said following the show that the program's future was "very bright" and that he will not likely be involved in it.

Mr. LaPierre, a McGill University graduate professor and part-time broadcaster, was told his contract will not be renewed when it expires in May.

The Document program will be aired as usual in place of Seven Days next Sunday and the controversial public affairs program that has been in and out of hot water since its inception in the fall of 1964 will completed-it series run the following two Sundays.

The issue prompted CBC Chairman Alphonse Ouimet to call a meeting of Toronto public affairs supervisors, including Steven Hagan, head of the department, in Ottawa this morning.

The Toronto protest group, The Citizens Save the Seven Days and the Integrity of the CBC Committee—sent a telegram to Mr. Ouimet Sunday expressing concern "about interference with the creative freedom of CBC public affairs staff in their attempt to produce penetrating and controversial programs of wide general interest and in particular with the attack on Document and Seven Days expressed in the dismissal of Patrick Watson and Laurier LaPierre."

State Secretary Judy LaMarsh, who speaks for the CBC in Parliament, added to the uproar when she told a Young Liberal Federation convention in Ottawa Saturday that this Ouimet squabble in the CBC "like an iceberg may be only a symptom of a wider problem."

Mr. Leiterman told a press conference late Sunday night the basic issue in the dispute is that the proper chain of authority was bypassed by CBC management in the dismissals.

He said that in this case he, as producer, was not informed of the dismissals and as a result other CBC producers have expressed grave concern over management methods.

Executive members of the Toronto Producers' Association are expected to have a briefing session with Mr. Ouimet in Ottawa this afternoon and will hold a meeting Tuesday in Toronto to discuss the situation.

Young Liberals Set New Maximum Age

OTTAWA (CP) — The Young Liberal Federation of Canada will sport a younger look from now on, mainly to fight inroads by the New Democratic Party.

The federation knocked five years off its upper age limit Sunday and elected a 24-year-old president dedicated to beating back "the new challenge from the left."

The new maximum age for Young Liberals will be 30 instead of 35, their national convention decided.

The federation will work hardest for members at the high school level, where political clubs are spreading up. There's no minimum age for membership.

New Democrat activity among teens, especially in Ontario, was a lever that forced the age-change through the convention despite strong opposition.

The change was voted down in full plenary session Saturday but the 170-strong Ontario delegation reintroduced the issue Sunday and in a second hour cleared the necessary two-thirds majority by two votes.

Clyde Wells of Corner Brook, Nfld., warned that the federation was driving out the New Democrats and Newfoundland provincial associations with the change.

New President David Smith, a Toronto law student, said Young Liberals have two big jobs. One was to combat the NDP, the other to help choose a new Liberal party leader "within two years."

He wanted a share in the senior party's free-line political telecasts, appointment of a full-time Young Liberal organizer, and promises to promote regional thinkers' conferences.

In a two-way fight for the presidency Mr. Smith defeated Frank Shunock, Sault Ste. Marie lawyer, 128 votes to 93.

U.S. Jets Hit Close To Hanoi

By THOMAS A. REEDY

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Air Force jets smashed two Soviet-built missile sites on the outskirts of Hanoi in the closest raid yet to the North Vietnamese capital and left two key bridges in ruins, U.S. spokesmen reported today.

Another group of navy fighter-bombers set off a huge explosion at a suspected missile site 27 miles south of the coastal city of Vinh, 180 miles south of Hanoi, silenced seven enemy anti-aircraft batteries and sank a junk.

Air force F-105 Thunderchiefs began the raid around Hanoi Sunday by bombing a bridge 33 miles south of the capital on the road to the chief port of Haiphong.

The span was put out of commission, a spokesman said.

The jets then moved closer to the capital hitting a missile site 25 miles south of the city and another 17 miles southeast with rockets and cannon fire. An explosion rocked one of the targets, a pilot reported. The airmen spotted rockets on the launching pads but only one missile was sent up. It missed.

Three other flights of Thunderchiefs struck the main railway bridge between Hanoi and Vinh with 750 - pound bombs, leaving it completely "sagged, twisted and definitely unserviceable," a spokesman said. The bridge was hit last November but had been rebuilt.

LOST FIVE PLANES

The loss of five more U.S. planes in the last three days raised the number brought down in the 13 - month - old bombing of North Viet Nam to 210. Two flyers were reported lost during the weekend.

An A-1H navy Skyraider was lost to communist ground fire this afternoon three miles south of Tiger Island and just north of the 17th parallel frontier. The pilot was rescued by helicopter.

Although no American planes were reported lost in the attacks around Hanoi, other heavy air strikes Sunday near Vinh and Dong Hoi cost five planes. Helicopters rescued all five crew members.

A spokesman also said that an air force F-4C Phantom jet fell Saturday and a navy A-4E fire near Dong Hoi, 250 miles south of Hanoi, had been given up as lost. In two-man crew was listed as missing in action.

Over the south, B-52s hit a suspected Viet Cong regimental base 65 miles northwest of Saigon near the Cambodian border.

Groups Kept Apart

By GODFREY ANDERSON

BELFAST (AP) — Northern Ireland returned to normal today after a tense weekend spent virtually under siege during commemoration of the 1916 Easter uprising in Dublin.

Roman Catholic and Republican demonstrators, 12,000 strong, hastily sang the national anthem of the Irish Republic in Casement Park Sunday. About a mile away, 3,000 Protestant and pro-British counter-demonstrators sang God Save the Queen outside Ulster Hall.

Union Jacks were paraded with bands through the centre of the city to the site of the memorial. But the green, white and orange flag of the Irish Republic was also flew, though only in Roman Catholic districts of the city.

Leaders of the Easter uprising were honored as heroes with a minute's silence at Casement Park. They were condemned at Ulster Hall as rebels who stabbed Britain in the back.

Somewhere, uneasily in the middle, large police forces sought to keep the two groups apart. They turned a blind eye when the Irish Republican tri color so long as it was kept out of non-Catholic areas.

The Queen, 40 on Thursday, Again Planning Busy Day

LONDON (AP)—Next Thursday the Queen reaches the age of 40 and anniversary on which most women come to term with their face and figure.

There are indications that the second Queen Elizabeth has already come to terms with hers. She diets and limits her hair, but ignores faint wrinkles creeping into one of the world's best known faces.

She will be busy on her 40th birthday. The new Parliament convenes Thursday—and by law the Queen opens Parliament.

She will breakfast with Prince Philip, put on one of her famed crest dresses, don some priceless jewelry and a diamond-studded tara, enter a lavishly decorated carriage and be pulled by a team of high-stepping horses to the Houses of Parliament.

Londoners will see the Queen smiling and waving from her coach, the mounted bodyguard with its gleaming swords and breastplates and plumed helmets, the bandsmen in all their gold and crimson finery, while trumpets blare.

In Hyde Park, less than a quarter of a mile from her Buckingham palace residence, a troop of the Royal Horse Artillery will fire a 41-gun salute.

In early afternoon after a birthday lunch at the palace the Queen will leave London to keep a long-ago baptism date of her yearly calendar—the Badminton Horse Trials.

As the guest of Henry Hugh Arthur FitzRoy Somerset, 10th Duke of Beaufort, and the duchess, the Queen always enjoys herself at the annual horse trials on the spacious grounds of his ancestral home, Badminton House, in County Gloucestershire.

The Duke of Beaufort is England's "horsiest man. He possesses a pageful of titles, but his friends say his proudest is: Master of the Horse to Her Majesty.

The Queen will also open a new research centre at the Wild Fowl trust's establishment at Slimbridge, Gloucestershire.

Thus there should not be a great deal of time for the Queen to contemplate what it means to be 40.

In terms of the Queen what does it mean?

She has paid off in an almost girlish figure with a narrow waist, slim hips and pretty tapered legs.

Some fashion writers criticize her clothes, others complain that her style is not regal. Her defenders say this is nit-picking —that she dresses exceedingly well, especially for a person who lives in the white light of publicity, and dresses to please

Hundreds of Teen-agers Living In Cave Society Says Pastor

MATLOCK, England (Reuters)—Hundreds of British teenagers have gone underground near this central England resort to get away from it all.

And, according to an evangelist working among them, they included vagrants, drug addicts and prostitutes and are building their own cave-men society with a special moral code, mock marriages and a ban on outsiders.

Girls of 13 and 15 on the run from their homes sleep with boys.

Hills around this Derbyshire spa are honeycombed with caverns, some natural, some hacked out by ancient miners.

There, amid thousand - year - old stalactites and stalermites, the 20th century teen-age tro] odytes have taken up residences.

More than 50 "trogs," as they are called, are living permanently in the caverns—and at the weekends the number underground is increased sometimes to 1,000 by part-time troglodytes known to initiates as weekend cavers."

Why have these boys and girls followed the example of prehistoric cave-dwellers and gone to the interior of the earth?

"They are young people on the run — they hide away in these damp, dark caves because they feel society is against them, and most of them have become addicted to their strange way of life," said Ken Terhoven, 39, leader of a Protestant evangelist group working among the trogs.

Terhoven said the trogs moved about the country, but seemed to have made their headquarters at Matlock.

"Some are intellectuals who write "poetry," he said.

"They have a strict moral code among themselves and hold mock marriages with the girls to ease their consciences. The trogs are now flocking to Matlock—a staid resort with about 17,000 people. Some could put up notices saying "No trogs allowed."

The proprietors recognize trogs by their uniform—long hair, slogan - covered jackets, packs and boots.

Terhoven said "these youngsters beg food from cafe kitchens at night and resort to confidence tricks to get money."

A Matlock police official said there was little police could do unless they caused trouble.

Fire Damages Double House On Station St.

Fire caused by a defective oil space heater damaged a double house at 245-247 Station St. Sunday morning. The fire broke out in the living quarters of Mr. and Mrs. Lorenz Biron, 247 Station St.

Fire damage was confined to the Biron half of the house. Furniture as well as the ceiling and floor of the living room were damaged.

Mrs. J. W. Fox and her son Howard live in the other half of the house. Their quarters suffered smoke damage.

Belleville Fire Department received the call at 12.56 a.m. yesterday and a pumper was on the scene until 2.35 a.m.

Contents of both sides of the house are covered by insurance.

Owner of the house is E. V. Matura of Toronto. The building is insured for $20,000. No estimate of damage has been made as yet.

Yesterday afternoon, a shed adjoining a house at 174A Church St. was heavily damaged by fire of undetermined origin. The City Fire Department, responding to the call at 3.07 p.m. confined fire damage to the shed although smoke entered the kitchen of the dwelling occupied by Mrs. A. Archer.

A neighbor told firemen that two boys were seen running away from the scene of the fire shortly before the alarm was turned in. Chief T. E. Pote said efforts to identify the boys have been unsuccessful but investigations are continuing.

Centennial year program workers from municipalities in the Bay of Quinte district convened in Belleville today to discuss the events to be staged locally to help celebrate Canada's birthday.

Close to 75 mayors and reeves, municipal officials and other local centennial committee workers attended the day-long workshop at the Tops Motor Hotel sponsored by the Ontario Centennial Planning Branch.

The delegates were welcomed by Mayor J. R. Ellis, then heard a keynote address by J. A. Brockie, director of the Ontario Centennial Planning Branch who outlined the type of events which could be planned to help observe Canada's centennial year at the local level.

"The success of the centennial will depend a-the extent to which every one of us takes part and helps to do something worthwhile in the area we know best, our own community," he said.

SPECIAL INTERESTS

All across the province many fundraisers were held taking a special interest in community improvement and beautification. Better local amenities could be developed by taking any already established annual event and giving it emphasis on developing it into a truly major event in the centennial year.

Mr. Brockie said that while there will be many large scale projects during 1967 sponsored by governments, these events should only prime the centennial celebration pump.

"The real job is for the people of each community," he said.

He said the women's committee of his branch came up with a winning slogan for the centennial birthday cake.

"The recipe is simple." Mr. Brockie said, "Some interest — lots if imagination—and plenty of enthusiasm. Mix these ingredients with a generous portion of Canadiana, spice with fun, and constantly and serve in 1867."

GIVEN DETAILS

Workshop delegates were given details of the confederation trials and excursion which will be visiting many centres all across Canada carrying the centennial message to an estimated 5,000,000 visitors.

Also there will be special entertainment by the performing arts in many communities while pageant plays for community theatre groups are also being prepared.

Armed forces ceremonials and parades, sports and literature observances, community improvement and beautification programs, special films showing centennial year projects by the schools, could all be worked into local celebrations.

Belleville was well represented at the workshop. Included were centennial committee members, Mayor J. R. Ellis, Mrs. Dorothy Howell, Bill Killough, and Mr. Lee Shore, centennial committee executive director and program co-ordinator.

He said we must take care of the poor, the aged and get rid of racial injustice.

EROSION WIDESPREAD

"The erosion of moral authority in our society is widespread and alarming. If you don't have moral authority, then the other authorities are no good at all.

"Linked with that is a second problem, the situation that the isolated person can exist in a vacuum all by himself."

He said that isolation seems to be a fashion today. "Even on the dance floor. You don't dance with a partner any more, you go off by yourself and 'do the Watusi."

The speaker said the original appeal of Confederation has not been lost, despite the many claims to the contrary.

"The biggest problem our governments will face in the next two years is to organize leisure time effectively for the average working man. It will be up to us fraternals to group these people into our courts and give them busy on community charitable and social organizations.

Scouting activities

The regular monthly meeting of Belleville District Council for Scouting was held in St. Thomas Parish Hall on Monday, April 11th. Majoh Homewood of the Salvation Army opened the meeting with prayer and the minutes of the previous meeting having been duly circulated were adopted on a motion by O. Owen, seconded by A. Lewis. The Annual Recognition Ceremony for Queen's Scout (or King's Scouts) is under preparation and more will be announced in this column. A letter and correspondence had been taken care of President J. A. Glover reported on the Provincial Conference held in Kitchener-Waterloo at Waterloo University where inspiring addresses from Mr. H. W. Page and R. Smiley resulted in considerable lively discussion on "Leadership", "Leadership", "Publicity" and "Public Relations". The general feeling of knowledge gained as it applies to the "Sponsoring Body" and "General Meetings" came under serious consideration.

The Treasurer's report showed "District" to be in satisfactory financial shape and was duly approved. Reports from committee chairmen and group representatives indicated that the matter of information available certainly leaves much to be desired. To stir up a little more interest in the "Auxiliaries" side of the activity a Pot Luck Supper is being planned for May 25 when Mrs. Hamilton, well known in scouting activities in Hamilton will be the guest speaker.

Mrs. E. Fort, secretary of district council, indicated that only two groups had made use of the enclosed report form to detail their activities during the past months. Several other groups indicated their intent to do so in subsequent months. Only ten out of the twenty-two active groups in the Belleville District were officially represented at the meeting.

A hearty vote of thanks was moved by L. Andrews and seconded by O. Owen to H. Beech and the 17th group for his untiring efforts in assisting either directly or indirectly in the phenomenal task of training boys in swimming. Mr. Andrews is adament on the subject that no boy receive a swimming badge unless he can really swim and is dedicated to this activity. Well in this worthy effort is much appreciated.

Preparations for a mammoth Scouting parade for cubs, scouts, venturers, rovers, brownies and guides are well under way for the 75th. Groups will form up on the grounds of B.C.I.V.S. and the joint service will be held at Bridge St. United Church as announced as the occasion approaches.

Assistance has been offered by the Department of Lands and Forests in training and testing for conservation badges. Leaders should get details from D. C. Fort. Regret was expressed that the D.C. was unable to attend due to an attack of "flu" and hope for a speedy recovery was expressed.

A wood burning stove is urgently require for the pole barn at Sacouaka. Any offers should be directed to J. A. Glover, P. Pickering or D. C. "Art" Fort. On a motion the meeting adjourned at 9.03.

Radio Hookup For Fire Halls Is Given Test

BRIGHTON — Does Brighton envy the doubtful distinction of having the only fireball in Ontario bulk backwards?

This question was posed by a member of the Fire Department Saturday and took on greater importance over the weekend in the light of a recommendation by Fire Chief Ed Boes that consideration be given to radio for this year, and in the light of the temporary installation of an inlay-zone radio hookup operating on the assigned Emergency Measures frequency. The radio system was tested Saturday by EMO and local fire departments in five communities, Brighton, Campbellford, Orono, Millbrook and Bowmanville, all in the County of the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham. All five are municipalities that have mutual aid arrangements with neighboring townships and the test use of the radio "fire line" being made up by those communities in the light of an expected decision at a meeting of Counties Council later on this month as to whether or not to approve the purchase for installation in mutual and participating fire departments throughout the United Counties.

EMO Co-ordinator Gordon Wright said Sunday morning that the five fire departments having mutual aid responsibilities have been given instructions for up to date fire equipment and the installation of a mobile radio in fire trucks so that communication will always be available while firefighters are at the scene of a fire or while other fire municipalities having equipment within 15 years old would qualify.

NEED NEW TRUCK

Ironically, despite Brighton's key position, there is no important to have a communication radio link with adjacent Hastings County centres for up to date fire equipment and the United Counties) Brighton's present fire truck will be virtually for a mobile unit if the United Counties Council approves the radio communication system. The radio equipment would then be placed on the hoods of the United Counties 35 percent and the Ontario Government 45 percent, Mr. Wright said. Here fire protection would require a new fire hall as well and thus solve the difficult manpower problem. This could be accomplish each time they return from a fire by backing the fire truck into the fire hall.

"You fellows certainly have very little clearance either at the roof or the sides," a member of the Colony Fire Department told the group during the installation of the temporary equipment Saturday, observed, as the trucks and cars and his volunteer brigade were returning from putting out a grass fire in a newly planted 4-acre hydro-way 2 at Smithfield Saturday noon.

START SATURDAY

The radio hookup between the five Northumberland-Durham municipalities will start late early from EMO central control and the transmission and receiving of messages between the Golden Plough Lodge, Cobourg, Saturday night. Sunday morning, the first message that crackled over the hot line was a warning about the constant dangers of grass fires at the time. Brighton firefighters were in action at the Glen Covell property on Cedar St. at the southern part of Brighton. They quickly stamped out a potentially dangerous grass and bush fire in an area adjacent to several homes and immediately south of a pioneer burial ground.

It is thought that the temporary set-up is operating on the assigned EMO radio frequency 30.96 approved by the United Counties for permanent operation when communities such as Brighton will have their own common frequency.

In addition, there will be another frequency again in use at EMO headquarters in Cobourg to tie in with the Provincial Fire Marshal's Office frequency. Three men would be required by the United Counties to operate the radio set up on a full-time, round-the-clock, every day basis.

If the proposed radio hookup now operating on a trial basis at no cost to the municipalities is approved, Chief Boes and his fellow fire chiefs who are urging the hookup will have a strategic case for newer equipment, and in the case of Brighton, the after-the job of getting the fire truck into a fire hall built backwards will be a thing of the past.

150 Years Ago

Wednesday 17th . . . Employed in taking the courses and distances north and front Street and laying off the Water lots.

Thursday 18th . . . Completed the Eastern limits of the Reservation from the north side of the River Moira to the intersection of the 2nd Con. and 4 links west of an old post marked 4/5 and on measuring from post No. 2 and 4 along the Con line found the distance 10 chains.

Note: On March 30, 1816, Wilmot had written the Surveyor General suggesting: "to have a small alteration differing from the Plan of guidance which would be of Public utility, that is, to lay off small water lots for the purpose of erecting store houses and wards from No. 16 to the Bay of Quinte along the bank of the River Moira as it is navigable for vessels of 30 or 40 Tons burden . . .".

On April 8, the reply was written: "I have this day received yours of the 30th of March and adopt your Recommendations to lay off Water Lots from No. 16 to the Bay of Quinty along the Bank of the River Moira to be of the dimensions you propose, viz. 60 links in depth by 96 links in width, and do hereby authorize you to execute the same, and also to make such other amendments in the general Plan of Survey for the Village as you may, in your Judgement, and from your local knowledge of the ground deem advantageous exercis.

I have also this day received a letter from Mr. J. W. Meyers, in which he mentions the advantage that would arise from having 'a small space of ground left along the water for the use of the Settlement' (I presume he means to the extent of the Village Plot) for wharves and store houses . Your letter has anticipated I think, his wishes".

These 16 lots lie on the river bank between Dundas Street and Wharf Street (now St. Paul Street. Fortunately the old name is preserved for us in the "Wharf Street Debating Club".

Other winners declared were:

into the economy.

Effective economic planning meant a "directed economy," not the existing "mixed economy," delegates resolved. The government should create Crown corporations to run utilities extending across provincial borders—such as pipelines and railways.

SUGGEST COMMISSIONS

The Young Liberals want a national board to conserve water, a national commission to set and implement planning guidelines, a royal commission to investigate marriage and divorce, and a national agricultural committee of their own federation to formulate long-term farm policy.

The convention declined support of United States policy in Viet Nam, advised against joining the Organization of American States just now, and urged recognition of China—but its entry into the United Nations.

The Young Liberals' policy on bilingualism asked Ontario and New Brunswick to give the French language official legal status and recommended full education for French- and English-speaking Canadians in their own language where possible.

With a crack at the party's "appositive or ruling elite" in Ottawa, the convention called for party reorganization into regional power centres.

The jets brought reported U.S. air losses over North Viet Nam to 208 since the air attacks began 15 months ago.

KY GETS BOOST

On the political front, Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's hold on the reins of government was strengthened by a declaration from the country's most militant Buddhist leader that he was prepared to let the military junta stay in power until the elections it has promised to hold in three to five months.

Thich Tri Quang, chief agitator of the months-long anti-government unrest, told nearly 5,000 followers in Da Nang that he was joining moderates in the Buddhist hierarchy in calling for a suspension of demonstrations.

Quang said that Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu's decree ordering elections in three to five months "fulfilled our main demand."

Appealing for order in the rebellious north during the pre-election phase, Quang said:

"Whether Ky or Thieu is in power is not the issue any more, and it is not important. What is important is that they be permitted to remain in power so that they can fulfil their promise of elections."

In a change from the pattern of protest demonstrations in the last few weeks, some 3,000 persons from a Roman Catholic refugee village 15 miles north of Saigon marched past headquarters of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division at Bien Hoa Sunday carrying aloft pro-government and pro-American banners.

U.S. marines carried the brunt of the ground war Sunday reporting 36 Viet Cong killed in three actions near Da Nang, 380 miles northeast of Saigon. Marine casualties were light, a spokesman said.

Less Shore Is Co-ordinator Of Centennial Activities

The job of co-ordinating the various events making up Belleville's program for Canada's centennial year celebrations is to be the responsibility of a former mayor of Smooth Rock Falls, Northern Ontario paper mill town.

Mayor Jack R. Ellis announced Saturday that Mr. Les Shore, retired Abitibi Power and Paper Company locomotive engineer, and now living in Belleville, had been named executive director for the city's centennial year program.

"The job was too much for local committee members to handle and a full time co-ordinator for the program was found to be necessary," he said.

As executive director of Belleville's centennial program, it will be Mr. Shore's job to co-ordinate the various events scheduled for throughout the year, and to direct the activities of the entire committee.

It will be his job to make sure that all plans are in readiness for the various centennial year projects planned by local organizations.

Mr. Shore served for nine years on the Smooth Rock Falls council, seven of them as mayor and has a long record of community service to his credit.

He was a member of the Kapuskasing Children's Aid Society for ten years, has worked on hospital and health unit boards and was chairman of the Northeastern Ontario Municipal Association for two years, and has served on labor conciliation boards throughout the province.

He is honorary president of the International Brotherhood of Pulp and Sulphide and Paper Mill Workers.

During his association with Abitibi Power and Paper Company, he was locomotive and maintenance engineer'on possibly one of the shortest railways in Ontario — a three mile stretch of company-owned track serving the Smooth Rock Falls paper mill.

government obtained an interim injunction from Superior Court Wednesday, which ordered them to return to work at once.

The justice department Saturday asked the court for legal sanctions against those responsible for the continuation of the strike. Maximum penalty for contravening the injunction is a fine of $2,000 a day and a 60 day jail term for each day of continued infraction.

The teachers' union is an affiliate of the Quebec-based Confederation of National Trade Unions.

The Montreal construction workers also are members of CNTU affiliates. At a mass meeting Sunday night, Real Labelle, a CNTU negotiator, told the men further talks with the Montreal Construction Association had resulted in nine revisions in the contract which workers turned down last week.

STEPS UP PAY

The revised agreement offers wages of $96.40 a week to laborers, retroactive to April 1, with increases to $124.80 as of April 1, 1967, and $142.00 april 1, 1968. Carpenters get $124.40 at once, with raises to $135.00 next year and $177.20 in 1968. Plasterers, bricklayers and masons, all in the same category, get $123.20, $164.80 and $186.00 in the three years of the contract. Lucien Giroux, strike director, said that if the QFL branches had not been only "a bunch of slobs" (une bande de vaches), the settlement would have been better.

Settlement of the Hydro-Quebec dispute came when representatives of both sides, meeting in the Sherbrooke office of Labor Minister Carrier Forbin, agreed to the appointment of an arbitrator who is to make recommendations in 30 days on the suspension of four workers. The suspension led to the walkout.

If either side should reject the arbitrator's conclusions, the Quebec government will appoint a commissioner to hold an inquiry. The commissioner's decision will be binding.

Port Hope Guide Now Press Member

TORONTO (CP) — The Port Hope Guide, an evening newspaper with circulation of about 3,000, today became the 102rd member of The Canadian Press, the national news-gathering cooperative.

This new membership, raising the total to the same number as when the association was formed in 1917, was approved at today's meeting of the CP board of directors in the name of publisher A. B. Schultz Jr.

The Guide has been receiving the CP news service on non-member contract since 1960 and has become a voting member of the co-operative.

Seventy-seven cities now are represented in the membership, compared with 46 at CP's start. Memberships in new cities have more than offset mergers and cessation of publication in larger cities.

Firemen Busy Dousing 12 Grass Fires

What is so rare as a day in spring without a grass fire? Belleville Fire's Department must be wondering just that after being called on the weekend to douse no fewer than 12 grass fires that raced out of control.

The Department responded to some of the calls Saturday, during a span of just under six hours. Five of the fires were in the city while Thurlow and Ameliasburg Townships, chalked up two each. Yesterday, the total reached 12 with three more grass fires in the city.

Permit Needed Before Setting Grass Fire

The prevalence of grass fires in Thurlow township is causing concern on the part of township officials who are afraid that property damage may result should any of the blazes get out of control.

Township Reeve Clayton Hall today reminded residents of his municipality that regulations call for obtaining a permit before grass fires are set.

Grass fire permits may be obtained from the Fire Prevention Department, who have the responsibility of fighting fires in Thurlow township. The permits may be secured at the Moira Street fire station.

Need Ombudsman

The Munsinger case, which came to light almost by accident only after Conservative baiting of the government's handling of the Spencer investigation, has revived interest in the appointment of an ombudsman, or parliamentary commissioner, to probe the grievances of citizens.

Former Justice Minister David Fulton says he is convinced that an ombudsman, or a board of ombudsmen, could be invaluable in protecting the rights of individual citizens in security cases where public airing of the facts are impractical because security is involved and in immigration cases. He said the Spencer case was one in which an ombudsman could have rendered a great public service.

Mr. Fulton also made a valid point when he expressed concern about the trend to appoint judicial inquiries to probe individual cases, since it deprived the already overworked—Canadian courts of the judges whose first responsibility is to preside over their operations.

He has received support from NDP House Leader Stanley Knowles. "At the moment," said Mr. Knowles, "individual members of parliament are doing what they can to perform the ombudsman function. But it takes time from other parliamentary responsibilities and, in addition, MPs don't have the power to secure and scrutinize the documents which would be at the disposal of a parliamentary commissioner."

The ruling Liberal party also has its advocates of the office of ombudsman, as now practised in Scandinavia and in New Zealand. John Matheson, the member for Leeds County, is one who has often spoken on the merits of introducing an ombudsman in Canada.

The recent happenings in parliament and in public life in Canada make it clear there is plenty of room for an ombudsman in this country. There are sufficient gaps in the administration of justice to justify this office, which concerns itself specifically with the rights of individual citizens.

No Sensationalism

By all appearances, the Munsinger inquiry is going to be a pretty tame affair. Already there are indications much of it will take place in closed session. If it is sensationalism the public craves their appetite is not likely to be satisfied.

Mrs. Munsinger herself has not been invited to appear before the commission investigating allegations that she was involved with ministers of the Diefenbaker government and that she was a spy.

Meanwhile Mr. Justice Spence, who is conducting the inquiry, is showing signs of irritation that the press should want to know just what is going on. "I am becoming increasingly concerned that everybody except the man appointed to do the job seems to want to run this inquiry," he said. Reporters would not have the nerve to call him, he said, if it were a matter of litigation in the courts.

But this is not a matter of litigation in the courts. It is a matter involving the honor and dignity not only of individuals but of Parliament itself. Thus, while evidence affecting national security may legitimately be held in camera, there is no justification for excluding the press and public from the inquiry proper.

Already much is known, if only from the debate (or should it be termed a "free-for-all") in the Commons. But there is much that is not known and there has been enough in the way of innuendo and gossip to make it essential that a full a public rendering of the facts as is consistent with national security be given.

Divided Ireland

The Irish Republican Army is showing signs of renewing its efforts to bring turmoil to a country which long since has tired-of violence. The Easter Sunday edition resulted in both independence and partition of the country, to accomodate two opposing systems, occurred 50 years ago.

Some Irishmen cannot forget the past, since the IRA symbolize the inability of the old bygones be bygones. Yet nothing could be more futile than to renew the old animosities. The IRA believes the country should be united, but the north want no part of such a premise and even the Dublin government, for the time being at least, seems to have given up its efforts to persuade Ulster to join the republic.

Guerrilla action - at this time stands even less chance than before. Its activities were were concentrated in the border area, and particularly against Ulster police, public buildings, power installations and the like.

But today there is greater co-operation between the north and south and both the IRA are not likely to get very far if they are planning further attacks. There have been a number of incidents, and surprisingly, most have been in the far east Fermanagh area of Waterford, a telephone exchange was blown up at Waterford. Such incidents are in sharp contrast to those of previous years when it was the north — regarded as the holdout in any question of unity — was the prime target of the outlawed guerrillas.

Even more surprising was the blowing up of a Tipperary monument to former IRA men. This incident occurred in the heart of republican Ireland. Is the IRA turning on its own people?

Few Belleville citizens are aware that over 175 million trout were hatched at the local hatchery during the past winter. Of this number about 85 million were white fish which will soon be deposited in the Bay of Quinte. The trout will be deposited in Lake Ontario at Presqu'ile. It takes about six months to hatch white fish and trout and three weeks for the hatching of pickerel. The hatchery has been under the supervision of the Dominion Government Fishery Department for some time and commencing May 1, it will be controlled by the Ontario Government Fish-eries Department.

Thyroid Hormones Sometimes Help Tired

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: For several years I felt too weak to live. Finally a doctor made tests and found I have an underactive thyroid. He prescribed tablets daily which helped so much. . .

What causes this ailment and is there a cure? - - Mrs. C. MMC.

The thyroid gland produces hormones which regulate metabolism. If too little of the thyroid hormone is produced, the body processes slow down. We are tired. Hair loses lustre, skin is dry and lacks tone.

Specifying why the gland slows down is difficult, because the gland is part of the intricate endocrine system.

One element is the presence (or lack) of iodine. The thyroid needs traces of iodine to produce thyroid hormone. It does not need much, but it must have a little.

Furthermore some people are born with a thyroid gland which does not operate at proper rate. Again, reasons are complicated and not always definable.

All this gives some idea of the complexity of your system. For practical purposes, it is much better to give the body needed extra thyroid hormone to make up for what is not being produced, than it is to try to "cure" the gland. Anyway, that may not be possible.

You are not alone in your case, Mrs. MCM. With the aid of thyroid substance in pill form, you regained your former vigor and life became worth living again. You may now need a larger dose than you did at first, it is not unusual for the dosage to have to be changed from time to time, so occasional checkups are wise.

Underactivity of the thyroid isn't the only thing that can produce a tired feeling, but we recognize that subtle thyroid deficiency is quite prevalent, and should be investigated when other conditions do not explain such lassitude.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am 69 and have a lump the size of a bean! out in my breast. My family doctor wants me to have a test of it but I can't make up my mind. If it proved to be malignant I don't think I could be helped. Some cancers may be cured but this might not be that kind- - C. B.

Stop talking such dangerous nonsense. The test is to find out whether it is malignant. If it isn't, you can relax. If it is, you have no reason to doubt that you can be helped. Thousands of such cancers have been cured by removing them before they have spread too far. Have the test your doctor suggested, and do it quickly.

Dear Dr. Molner. I have a mild case of emphysema but have never smoked. To what do you attribute this condition? - - H. W.

Remember that a lot of people who do smoke don't get emphysema. Why?

Smoking encourages this disease has struck. But some inhalmost importance onto the disease has struck. But some inherent weakness of the lungs may be involved. Or a lung disease. Or excessive strain on the lungs (glassblowers, and sometimes musicians using wind instruments are somewhat more likely to develope emphysema). Infections or irritants getting into the lungs can be factors. I have no doubt at all that if you had been a smoker, your trouble would be much worse than mild.

Emphysema can be controlled. To learn how to live with this serious lung disease, write to Dr. Molner in care of this newspaper, requesting a copy of the booklet, "How To Control Emphysema," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 10c in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail but regret that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

He was apparently one of the victims of this unusual government decree which said such longhairs will be stopped at the border and not allowed to enter France.

The young man said if the situation keeps up in France, he might have to go to Spain. The French may have started something. It could end up in the United Nations with worldwide import restrictions against long-haired beatniks.

Ontario's Expensive Schools

Toronto Star

No document of the last 30 years holds more importance for the children of this province than the report Education Minister William Davis tabled in the Legislature. It's the 70-page study of his committee on the training of elementary school teachers, a committee that has been working since September 1964.

The report says very plainly that inadequately educated and immature teachers have been foisted on pupils, and still are. This won't happen much longer, if his recommendations are acted on — and Mr. Davis says they will be implemented, but by stages.

Here is the shape of the revolution ahead:

— No more teachers' colleges.

— No more youngsters out of Grade 13 becoming teachers after only one year's preparation.

— All teacher education to be done by universities, in colleges of education on campuses.

— All teachers to have degrees of some kind, either through a four-year course in which teacher education is combined with academic subjects, or a usual BA or BSc course with a year of teacher education on top of it (as now done in colleges of education for secondary school teachers).

— No more division between elementary and secondary school teachers; one professional certificate for all, issued by the Department of Education.

There ought to be general approval of the report; the question is how soon the government (and the universities) will move to bring in the reforms. Obviously the system can't be changed overnight, but as Mr. Davis indicated, teachers' colleges now located in university towns (such as Peterborough, Port Arthur, Sudbury, Toronto, Ottawa, Hamilton) could very quickly be absorbed by their universities. And the first phase of upgrading as recommended in the report, a basic two-year course, should be instituted without delay.

It is absurd and harmful that Ontario, which used to have a leading educational system, should drag behind most of the western world in the qualifications of its teachers. A two-year course in university is the minimum required for certification in the three most westerly provinces and in Quebec. New York state this year is demanding the minimum for an MA of all new teachers. In England, three years training beyond high school is usually required. It's not good enough for Ontario to put out teachers after one year removed from high school, and some of whom can't qualify for university entrance.

The recommendations allow for considerable flexibility. For example, blending high school teachers can conceivably, as now, on academic subjects; in-service training for teachers can continue, as now, on academic subjects; in-service primary grade teachers, on child philosophy and sociology. Community College graduates may fully count their training toward teacher certification. So may College of Art and Ryerson graduates.

The reforms are overdue, for the sake of the profession as well as pupils.

Should Keep Dogs Under Control

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

With regard to the letter in your paper April 14, while I must agree with the statement about suffering the annual by-law dog owners should be obliged to keep their dogs off other people's property.

I have the same problem here with a neighbor who comes home every night at 6 p.m. and turns his dog loose to run at will for hours. But the person who wrote the letter is apparently not man or woman enough to print his or her name. The writer said that other than for police or seeing eye dogs, dogs have no value and should be eliminated from the city. This person only shows his ignorance by such a statement.

Besides these dogs there are many that are trained hunting dogs, and they are just as valuable for conservation purpose. Anyone wishing to have such a dog has full right to have it, but the animal should be kept under control and on the owner's property. Another thing, look at the money the city gets out of dog tags.

Concerning the statement that dog owners should form a club to clean up after the animals, let me point out that if a dog drifts someone's lawn or yard, and it can be proved, then its owner should clean it up.

I am a dog owner and my dogs stay at home. They are not allowed to run at any time except when they are on a hunting trip. This is as it should be. And no one has any right to tell me I can't keep my dogs on my property, whether it is city, town or country, so long as I have my dogs or licence. Besides these dogs there are many pets that people look after and keep at home.

It is the people that refuse to keep them home that are at fault, and not all dog owners as the writer of the letter tried to make out.

D. R. Buchanan,
Co-owner of Moira Bend Kennel.

CNR Gets With It

Montreal Gazette

The announcement last week from the CNR must have produced a collective sigh of relief from the usual train traveller.

At long last, the railway has decided to make up its summer timetable in Daylight Saving Time. The train listings will not be an hour ahead (or was it behind?) but in real time.

How many times were missed when the railway remained on Standard Time while the rest of us were functioning on Daylight Saving Time which is an hour ahead (or is it behind) will never be known.

Anyway, all is forgiven.

A Surfeit of Success

Kitchener-Waterloo Record

In two brief appearances the Elmira maple syrup festival is in danger of dying from surfeit of success.

An estimated 15,000 people jammed that small community, and the 2,200 on Saturday for the second annual celebration of an event that has demanded unsatisfied appeal in the hunger of Canadians for something specifically and genuinely their own.

The result was good-natured chaos, a highway jam several miles long on the main road from Kitchener-Waterloo and interminable waits in long queues for the pancakes which are the product of the Elmira maple forests.

The attendance this year more than doubled that of the first festival and appeared to catch its sponsors by surprise. They ran out of tickets, for one thing, and had to reissue used ones to latecomers.

Much of the inconvenience experienced by visitors stemmed from the magnitude of the turnout. Obviously if the festival is to continue it must be better organized, particularly from the standpoint of traffic control and parking.

Those annual mumm-ouncement dates however, and the interest in the event suggests they are well worth the effort needed to rectify them.

It should be a comparatively easy matter to double the number of booths and cooking stoves, for example, and reduce the waiting for this delectable item to much less than 30 minutes or more that many endured on Saturday.

For those children whose knowledge of country life and natural ways is sketchy, the opportunity to visit a small community and to see how the art of maple syrup making is continued in the same fashion as in pioneer days was a real treat.

Elmira is engaged in a profitable and worthwhile enterprise. Many will hope it can be improved and continued.

Strictly Personal

Learning Aptitudes Vary

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

When the suffragette movement began here 30 years ago, it was a badly-needed blow for freedom and equality. Women's rights had been ignored and trampled for too long.

But the mistake made is usually made in such matters lies in confusing equality with identity. Women should have equal rights with men; this does not mean, however, that men and women have identical needs and abilities, or that they should be treated the same in all respects.

We are now learning, through high-level experiments in educational psychology, that men and women have different learning aptitudes and different strengths and weaknesses in intellectual areas. All tests with school children seem to confirm these basic differences.

Girls, for instance, are ready for first-grade long before boys are. The early educational process is tailor-made for girls, who are more passive and patient and willing to absorb learning by rote. Boys are not at least a year behind them in emotional development.

Boys, on the other hand, catch up with and outstrip the girls by the 10th grade - - because the educational emphasis in the upper grades is geared more to the masculine kind of mentality. Throughout college generally, the top students are boys.

There is good reason to believe that some classes and courses should be segregated by sex, if by no other, at second grade simply cannot learn as fast as a girl can, largely because he will not sit still long enough, and becomes easily discouraged when he does not have the same motor skills that the girls possess.

It is beginning to be believed that this disparity is at the root of the whole learning process. Six times as many boys drop out of high school before the 10th grade, for the girls merely have to keep quiet, write in a neat hand, and memorize material they do not understand or care about. Docility is being rewarded, not learning.

The association with "equality" in this field, does a great disservice in individuality - - for treating unequals equally - - and ignores congenital sexual differences, in a psychiatrist's language, that injures, distorts and slows down the whole educational process.

It is no accident that five times as many boys as girls have reading and writing difficulties in the early years, and require special corrective techniques; nor that, in the later years, the girls find it harder to handle logical, mathematical and historical material. Any schooling that ignores these profound differences does more harm than good.

Six Militia Units Train At Picton

PICTON — Elements of six Ontario militia units attended an infantry training concentration at Camp Picton over the weekend. Included on the program was a display of infantry company weapons and vehicles, and demonstrations of advance and attack methods up to the militia company level.

Approximately one hundred militiamen were on camp from the Lake Superior Scottish Regiment from the Lakehead, the Algonquin Regiment from North Bay, the 2nd Irish Regiment of Canada from Sudbury, the Lorne Scots from Brampton, the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment from Belleville and the Princess of Wales' Own Regiment from Kingston.

With members of the 1st Canadian Guards acting as hosts, the exercises, were held from Saturday morning to late Sunday afternoon. The militiamen were welcomed to Camp Picton by the commanding officer, Lt. Col. J. G. Haynes.

The militia units also participated in signals training, and were exercised in day and night patrols.

Financial Aid Appreciated By Utilities

PICTON (Staff) — Public Utility officials have received good news with regard to financial aid in the waterworks expansion program. The PUC has received confirmation from the Department of National Defence that it will give assistance by the contribution of a cheque for the amount of $16,800 to assist in the construction by the town of an additional one million gallon reservoir and to pay the cost of any necessary relocation of electric and water lines on the new reservoir site.

The PUC has also received a cheque for $9,257.79 from the department to pay a difference in increased water costs for the Picton Army Camp dating back to 1961. Public Utilities Officials are satisfied that the cheque and subsidy will be of great assistance in the proposed expansion program, which also includes, a new 500,000 gallon clear water reservoir and a new pumping station.

Total cost of the entire program has been estimated at $250,000. The P.U.C. has received preliminary approval from the Ontario Water Resources Commission and town council has agreed to issue the debentures on behalf of the PUC. The Commission is now awaiting final drawings from the architects before any further approvals can be made.

In his monthly report Mr. H. C. Blakely, PUC manager, said that 11 of 25 sections in town have undergone voltage conversion and about one third the total load is now being carried on the new hydro sub-station, constructed last year. "In many cases, the voltage conversion will provide more regular control of domestic voltage, thus improving efficiency of electrical appliances of all kinds," said the manager.

through the Protestant demonstration as it was breaking up.

The crowd attacked and pursued them. Two were reagued quickly by police, but the third was besieged in a house while the mob smashed its windows.

Police took the three girls and a flag-waving youth into protective custody.

Apart from another window-smashing episode and the burning of St. Theresa's Roman Catholic school, a temporary wooden building, the heavy police precautions apparently prevented major trouble.

Northern Ireland was virtually sealed off from the Republic throughout the critical period of the demonstrations. All trains across the 183-mile border were halted. Police with machine - guns checked road traffic.

CROSSINGS LIGHT

This tough security curtain prevented the big influx of Republican sympathizers from south of the border that had been feared. Border crossings were so slight that many police patrols were withdrawn ahead of schedule.

The Republic held its commemoration of the 1916 uprising a week ago, during the Easter weekend.

In Dublin, Republican extremists planted a timebomb in a telephone exchange Sunday Sunday but a caretaker found it before it exploded, and police defused it. Republican extremists want all of Ireland united, at all costs, under the republic.

In Clondalkin, County Dublin, a main telephone cable was cut by an ax, disrupting lines to the south of the Republic.

The outlawed Irish Republican Army announced it was planning a campaign of violence to protest against jail sentences on some of its members and against the Republican government's strengthened trade ties with Britain.

The Queen

people of all ages as well as her husband and family.

She looks best in ball gowns and sport clothes, and not so good in short evening gowns.

Her small face looks strained at times and even tired. She is still shy and during some emotional moments—particularly at royal weddings—her pretty face has lost its stern and even angry. Those who know her well blame this on nerves. They say she has a delightful sense of humor when in private company.

WORKS LONG HOURS

She is an exceedingly hard worker and works long hours.

She spends most weekends 20 miles from London at Windsor Castle, her summers at Balmoral Castle in Scotland. The rest of the time she is generally at Buckingham Palace, where her day begins with breakfast with her husband. Together they spend more than an hour with the youngest of their four children.

Prince Charles, 17, is at school in Australia. Princess Anne, 15, attends a boarding school in nearby County Kent. At home are Prince Andrew, 6, and Prince Edward, 2 last month.

After the hour with the children, the queen goes to her study and begins her work day by reading the newspapers. After this she and her secretary, Sir Philip Adeane, discus the order of the day.

At 11:15 she begins her daily audience with ambassadors, prelates and visiting royalty.

Then come the government boxes—big oblong leather-covered boxes crammed with official documents. The Queen spends much time with these, making her one of the world's best-informed women on foreign and diplomatic matters.

Her daily luncheon is a three-course affair in the palace's gold room on golden dishes and with golden knives, forks and spoons.

In recent years—said to be at the urging of Prince Philip—she has greatly broadened the circle with which she lunches.

At fairly frequent intervals, the luncheons are attended by politicians, businessmen, actors, musicians, dancers, trade union officials, law enforcement officers, members of the armed services, churchmen, lawyers, authors, athletes, or journalist.

Her afternoons and evenings are packed with all kinds of official functions—opening hospitals, dedicating this museum and that art centre and snipping ribbons across the portals of new arches and bridges.

On rare afternoons she is able to stroll in the walled grounds of the palace with her children and dogs.

Time is also found to try on dresses, stand for fittings, select shoes and hats, and have long sessions with the hairdressers.

Into this crowded life she finds time to shop for birthday and Christmas presents for members of her family and friends. She attends church every Sunday.

Some Britons say the nation expects too much of the Queen, that she should be allowed to slow down. Friends say she would be the last to ever suggest this.

One Eskimo Is Acquitted, Another Given Suspended Sentence in Murder Case

By RON MacDONALD,

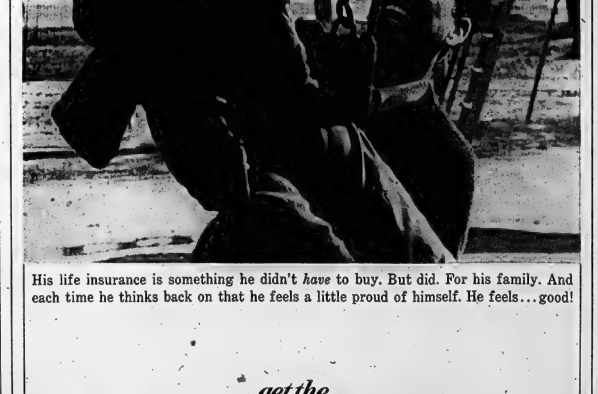
SPENCE BAY, N.W.T. (CP) One young Eskimo has been acquitted of capital murder in the shooting of his mother at a remote hunting camp and another has been convicted on a reduced charge of manslaughter and given a two-year suspended sentence.

The jury of three whites and three Eskimos Saturday acquitted Aiyaoot, about 21, and convicted Ipochee Shooyook, 28, of manslaughter.

The men had been charged with capital murder in the shooting of Sonee, 40-year-old mother of Aiyaoot who was shot to death in mid-July.

Eskimo witnesses told the court they lived in growing fear of Soosee because her mental illness was a sign she was possessed by devils. They believed that by "blowing her breath" on them, she also could make them possessed by devils.

The six-man jury, normal in the Northwest Territories, deliberated for about 90 minutes and made a "very strong recommendation for leniency" for Shooyook's sentence. During the 90 minutes the jury twice returned to the courtroom for information.



The two young Eskimos smiled broadly with relief when it was explained to them through a court interpreter that they would not have to go to jail.

For the court appearance Shooyook was dressed in mukluks, a plaid shirt and khaki pants, and Aiyaoot was dressed similarly but with a padded blue vest.

Judge John H. Sissons of the territorial court gave Shooyook the two-year suspended sentence.

CHRIST CHURCH PARISH GUILD

The Parish Guild of Christ Church held their April meeting recently at the home of Mrs. H. Wright, who, with her daughter, Mrs. G. Livingstone, and daughter-in-law, Mrs. James Wright, made the members welcome.

The business portion of the meeting was chaired by president Mrs. J. M. Cousins and reports were heard from all conveners. Correspondence included letters from a faithful member, Mrs. J. Cretney and from Mrs. R. B. dB. Wright.

The "floor" project at the rectory has been successfully completed and further contributions from the Guild will be made to the wardens for church work. The Guild will cater for a wedding reception at the end of the month.

Following the business meeting, everyone began work on items to be sold at the Blossom Tea and Sale which will be held in June. While the sewing and cutting went on, members listened while Miss Florence Fitzgerald read from the book "A Path To Live By" by Dr. Harry Hutchison.

Plans for the forthcoming Tea Sale and exhibition of paintings are going well and tickets were distributed to members. Refreshments were served by the hostesses. The Guild has been invited by Mrs. R. B. Wright to hold its May meeting at the rectory.

AWAY ALL MOTHS!

Dry cleaning, hot sunshine, cedar oil, mothballs, crystals, flakes, sprays, and good housekeeping.

These are some of the weapons on which we must depend in our fall scale, all out war on M-O-T-H-S!

PLAN STRATEGY NOW

Our offensive must be well under way by May and June. Here are the two months of the year when the enemy's flight signals are Go. It is the time when he digs in with a complete complement of ground and air crew — and millions of reserves.

GOOD HOUSEKEEPING HELPS

Through vacuuming of rugs, baseboards and crevices, and regular cleaning in out of the way areas, so that dust does not accumulate, give basic insurance against moths obtaining a foothold in our homes.

STORE CLEAN GARMENTS ONLY

It is most unwise to store soiled garments. Moth larvae are so attracted to sticky particles and food stains that where soiled garments are concerned they will not restrict their infestations to woolens, furs and feathers.

Where the work or the expense of an overall cleaning of blankets and other items is not warranted, then give them a thorough brushing and spot cleaning from stem to stem.

WHAT DOES DRY CLEANING DO

It kills all trace of moths. Clean woolen garments should then be sprayed against future moth infestation. Some cleaners automatically mothproof as well as will do so on request.

HOT SUNSHINE

This too, kills moth life wherever it reaches, but so many of today's fabric mixtures and colors can be damaged by hanging or laying them in the sun that is hardly worth the risk involved.

WHICH METHOD DO I USE?

Moth balls, crystals or flakes are used when articles are being stored in a sealed area. Leave undisturbed for at least two weeks.

Use a pound of moth proofer for a trunk size box, or for a 6' x 4' x 2'.

WHAT ABOUT CRYSTALS?

Paradichorobenzene or "para" crystals are most often recommended because they are fast and thorough.

THE STORAGE CLOSET

There are several methods for using the crystals. You can place them in a flat, perforated container on the upper shelf — the fumes work downward; fill a thin muslin bag with crystals and tie it to the coat rod; use the special fume-blowing attachment on your vacuum cleaner.

Always seal the door with special tape or newspaper wadding.

FLAT STORAGE IN BOXES, CHESTS AND BAGS

Scatter crystals between the folds of blankets and between the complete layers of garments. Spread tissue paper between the layers. Seal all closing edges.

TWO KINDS OF SPRAY

The oil spray or moth proofer is to be used directly on fabrics. Talk to the salesman about your selection and follow directions carefully. There are excellent sprays and pressure bombs on the market today.

A good method is to line items up on hangers on the clothes line and go up and down the row spraying uniformly and lightly. Give special attention to pockets, cuffs and concealed areas. Allow to dry thoroughly. Do not place moist garments back in storage.

A 5 per cent DDT solution is what is known as a moth face spray. It is to be used in empty cupboard, closet and baseboards and in the — before the clothes are put back.

It is effective too, along the edges of carpets, behind radiators and in other spots where dust collects to harbor moths. The dry deposit is the contact killer.

Keep pets and children clear until it has dried.

Many of the better paper hangers use a solution of cedar oil and water to coat the inside of closets and along baseboards before decorating, to keep them free of moths.

FELT AND FUR HAT STORAGE

Sprays are not recommended for furs.

Shake the hat well and fluff into its natural contour.

Brush gently with a soft clothes brush and stuff with tissue paper so that the shape is retained. Build the tissue up carefully at the bottom so that the box is not pressing against the hat at any point.

Cover the crown with a layer of tissue and sprinkle moth crystals liberally over the paper.

Tape the lid closed so that the box is completely sealed.

CAN CEDAR CHESTS BE TRUSTED?

The finest, well sealed, heartwood cedar chests can no doubt be counted on 100 per cent.

However, the effectiveness of cedar chests does diminish in time, so that it is wise to use additional moth deterrent precautions. — SUSANNA.

Unsure Daughter Needs Love and Reassurance

DEAR DORIS: My 13-year-old daughter lacks self-confidence. For instance, she knows her school work very well, but takes every long over each question, as she is afraid she'll put down the wrong answer.

Until about a year ago she was her father's pet and he had no time for our son; but now he is the pet, and my heband picks on our daughter. Since she is turning into a young lady, my husband doesn't seem to feel comfortable with her. He had a very bad relationship with his mother, and seems ill at ease with all women — even me.

Several times our daughter has cried because her father will no longer play cards with her, as he used to do in the past. Could this be why she is so uncertain of herself? — AT SEA.

DORIS CLARE

DEAR AT SEA: It could help. What with all the regular jolts that come with the teens, she has the added one of thinking her father doesn't like her anymore.

Could you explain that just because he acts differently, this doesn't mean he doesn't love her? You might add something like: "You know, your father isn't much of a hand at talking with women, and you are getting to be a young lady now yourself!"

As for the perfectionist complex, remind her that nobody expects a masterpiece every time she does her homework. Then help her to have fun and friends around when she's through with her assignments.

Gift of Flesh Empty Compared With Mind

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Whenever I read something in your column that burns me up I promise myself I'll sit down and write a letter to straighten you out, but I have never gotten mad enough. Until now. Yesterday you went too far.

You told a girl she was a fool because she had given away her most precious gift — meaning her virginity. How naive can you be? The gift of the flesh can be the emptiest and most meaningless gift of all. A girl can give her body and make no real commitment.

ANN LANDERS

Any female can give her virginity, but the girl who can give her mind is giving the most precious gift of all. I would like to hear your defence. If you can think of one. — A BELIEVER IN STRATIFIED LOVE.

DEAR LOVE: Your statement that any girl can give her virginity was a trifle incomplete. You should have added the word "once."

I hope you don't give too many fellows the gift of your mind, Lovely, because from the sound of your letter you don't have a great deal to spare.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was stopped cold by your answer to the man who wanted to know why American males in public life always want to be photographed with mom. He asked if America is really a matriarchy and if it is true that in most American families, mom's voice is the one that is heard loudest and longest. You said, "Yes, it is true."

I am not challenging your answer, Ann, but in the interest of fairness you might have explained why it is true.

I am a wife who is head of the house and I'd give anything if I weren't. I have begged my husband to take an interest in the children but he refuses. He says that's my job. He has never taken our sons fishing or to baseball games or a football game. He insists that he goes strictly for business reasons and he must invite clients. I don't want to imply that my husband is mean to the children. He simply ignores them.

To a long time astute observer, it probably look like a domineering female who has shoved her husband out of the driver's seat. The truth is simply that my husband is too selfish and too immature to accept his role as a father, so I must do his job. So please, Ann, tell your readers not to leap to conclusions when they see an aggressive woman at the head of a family. It may well be that she had no choice. — PENNSYLVANIA MATRIARCH.

DEAR MATRIARCH: Your letter was only one of the hundreds which expressed the same point of view. Thank you for showing the readers the other side of the coin — and a very real side it is, too.

Wife of Denmark's P.M. Most Beautiful Woman Also Most Paradoxical

By JOY MILLER

COPENHAGEN (AP) — Helle Virkner Krag of Denmark is probably the most beautiful wife any prime minister in the Western world can boast.

She is also probably the most paradoxical.

A talented actress, Prime Minister Jens Otto Krag's wife has given up the theatre in favor of family and passes off her one film comedy a year as too slight a vehicle for export to North America.

She is a charming hostess who enchants visiting heads of state yet has no patience with small talk and turns down every women's club invitation as something beyond the call of duty.

The blonde 40-year-old Dane is rated by Baron, the famous European social photographer, as among the 10 most beautiful women. Yet on her first trip to the United States five years ago, she greeted a woman reporter for an early morning interview in an old bathrobe with her hair in curlers.

REVISITING U.S.

The other day she talked to the same reporter in her Copenhagen home, an ordinary yellow brick house, about the U.S. customers.

visit she and her husband will start Tuesday.

Mrs. Krag is eager to tell President Johnson that her son, Jens Christian, 5, wants to be a cowboy and is devoted to his rocking horse Johnson sent him. The Krags' other child, Astrid, 2, is greatly attached to her talking doll from Lynda Bird Johnson.

Mrs. Krag addresses factory workers two or three times a week, all over Denmark, on behalf of her favorite social work: raising money for homes for the aged.

The Krags, who married July 31, 1935, met when Krag was foreign minister, as the reigning queen of Danish theatre. Danes thought it terribly romantic but she rejects the idea saying:

"Even for the wedding, you ask if I really is love. In proper time you know the answer, but he was very charming and handsome and that was enough when we first met."

KIWANIS LADIES' AUXILIARY

Dr. Vincent Castellano of the Family Counselling Services was the guest speaker at the recent meeting of the Kiwanis Ladies auxiliary. The appointment of Dr. Castellano as the head of the Family Counselling Services in September 1965 followed a survey which proved a necessity of such services in our area.

Dr. Castellano explained that the extreme advances in science and industrial worlds in the past 50 years have left the emotional level of society behind, creating many problems in marital, parent-child and individual relationships. Everyone at one time or another in his lifetime has need of these services. It is now a matter of educating the community to these conditions and to the fact that these excellent Services are available to all.

An interesting question and answer period followed.

Mrs. Castellano was introduced by Kay Burton and the appreciation of his audience was expressed by Elsie Trafford.

During the business portion of the meeting, chaired by Vice-president Barbara Lumbers it was announced that the Wives Night Out would be guests at the May meeting. Welcome visitors for the evening were Isobel Kemp and Lucille Burgess of Rochester N.Y.

Mrs. Gorshine's and Mrs. Mastin's group had charge of the programme. Mrs. Gorsline opened the program with prayer and Mrs. R. Jose gave the devotional.

Readings were given by Mrs. Mastin and Mrs. Carbutt and a solo was sung by Mrs. Wannamaker accompanied by Mrs. E. Farnsworth.

BANANA BRAN MUFFINS

Bran Muffins are popular in Canada. Last night for dinner we had them with big bowls of bean soup. But to make them different I added mashed bananas. If I wanted to be cute I could call them Bananas Muffins but that is a little far out for this square.

MONDAY

Dinner Menu

by

Mary Moore

Polish Cabbage Rolls; Tomato Sauce and Dairy Sour Cream; Crumbed Fried Sliced Parsnips; Zucchini Squash; Lettuce Wedges with Russian Dressing; Peach Shortcake (using canned peaches); Tea.

There were so many little extra dividends connected with these Banana Bran Muffins that I hope you will indulge me if I crow a little about it.

In the first place they were easy to make. Your young people could manage them easily. You could make them with one hand tied.

Secondly I baked them in my teflon-lined muffin pans and to show my family how easily they lifted from the pan a day's supply of muffins directly from the oven to the dining-room table and tipped them into the bread basket without one stick-ing. It was a great comfort.

And last of all the flavor of these muffins fresh from the oven was perfect.

I hope all of our readers will clip this recipe now and make the muffins within the next day or two. An ideal way to use up overripe bananas.

BANANA BRAN MUFFINS
(makes twelve 2½" diameter)

1 cup packaged all-bran.
1 cup mashed ripe bananas (about 2½ medium),
½ cup milk.
1 egg.
¼ cup shortening (room temperature).
1 cup sifted all-purpose flour.
2 teaspoons single-acting baking powder.
½ teaspoon salt.
¼ cup sugar.

Into large mixing bowl measure the bran. Add the mashed bananas, milk, egg and shortening. Let blend-stand to allow bran to soak up the milk, while you sift the dry ingredients. Sift and measure flour and sift it with the baking powder, salt and sugar. Beat the first 3 ingredients until thoroughly blended. Remove electric beater and barely mix in the dry sifted ingredients. Be sure you do not overmix muffin batter. Turn into buttered muffin tins. If using teflon muffin pans lightly oil them. If using non-teflon-lined muffin pans butter them well. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. 20 minutes. Serve hot with butter. Lovely with main course bean soup - recipe for which will be given tomorrow.

Never Felt Like Clown Until Small Boy Laughed And Waved Says Writer

Louise Levitt, an Associated Press reporter, realized a longtime ambition when she spent a day as a clown in the Ringling Bros. Barnum and Bailey Circus.

By LOUISE LEVITT

NEW YORK (AP)—I put on my baggy pants, smeared my face with white greasepaint, and practised making faces before a mirror. I thought I looked funny. Funny and sad.

But I didn't really feel like a clown until I got a little boy with laughing eyes and a shy smile, put aside his cotton candy and waved at me with what must have been all his heart.

Then, I realized, I was no longer me. I was a clown, and that's a magic personality you can assume only when you believe very, very hard.

"Clowns are like no other entertainment," Jackie Cooper, a dwarf clown, said as he watched the throngs of men, women and children pour into Madison Square Garden. "People are always half happy before they get here."

Michael Polakova, a clown named Coco, helped arrange my outfit: Droopy checked trousers, a long striped polka shirt and an oversized coat. The big sad eyes were my own.

I became dizzy with advice, words which really didn't take on meaning. I found, until I stumbled into that vast arena and blurs became laughing faces.

IT'S GOD'S GIFT

"If you're funny, you're born with it. It's God's gift, and if you find it and you're awfully lucky. . . .

"You must love children . . . because if you don't, they know it and pull you apart. . . ."

Then someone pushed me into the ring, muttering: "We've got a full house today—18,000 people."

That didn't help any, and I stumbled, blushed and remembered the blush couldn't be seen. The lights were blurs, stretching off into the vast recesses of the arena like so many trees in a forest.

Then I saw the little boy, only a few feet away. He hunched his cotton candy to his mother and waved. I waved back and he laughed.

And suddenly it wasn't so hard. I continued around the ring, my red nose bobbing, the children's faces from the great blur and watching each one become a big laugh as I waved.

They weren't laughing because of my baggy pants and my goofy makeup. I kept telling myself that, and kept laughing, and smiling, because I was helping them to believe in a world void of sadness — and they're as sure of that world as they are of peppermint candy and Santa Claus.

U.C.W. Meetings

ELMBROOK U.C.W.

The April 8 meeting of the Elmbrook U.C.W. was held in the home of Mrs. Reg Moore, with an excellent attendance.

It was decided to revert back to evening meetings with the advent of winter; and to donate $25 to the parsonage fund.

Thank-you cards were read by Mrs. Arthur Stone from Mrs. Arnold Wilbanks and Mrs. Mabel Lloyd. A special offering was taken for the flower fund.

An interesting Christian stewardship reading was given by Mrs. David Pinkerton, followed by an enlightening reading by Mrs. Raymond Jinks.

Mrs. Willett Potter had charge of a most informative Easter program. The Scripture reading was given by Mrs. F. Ditchburn. Other readings were given by Mesdames Arnold Ackerman, Quinney May, Arthur Stone, Reg. Moore, Herbert Lister and Raymond Jinks. Excerpts from a Billy Graham Easter Easter article, given by Mrs. Willett Potter were "New York City is more concerned with Easter Parades than the true meaning of Easter. Jerusalem is more concerned with the facts surrounding the Resurrection. The commercial aspects of Easter are to be deplored.

The May meeting is to be held in the home of Mrs. Arthur Stone, with Mrs. Arnold Ackerman taking the program. Mrs. Frank Ditchburn the lunch, and Mrs. Orval May, the contest.

Mrs. A. Ackerman conducted an amusing contest, pertaining to the townships of the county.

Pity the Poor Tax Collector Who Has to Listen to Gripes

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks a tax collector gets tired of hearing this time of year:

"What has the government ever done for me?"

"You'll have to explain it again. I didn't understand a word you said."

"If my cat has kittens, can I list each one of them as a dependent? I am their sole support. Their father ran away."

"Do you think that'll satisfy you—or do you also want the gold fillings out of my teeth?"

"Just put on the handcuffs. I'll go quietly."

"In the old days they used to tax salt. How come you guys overlooked that one?"

"Why don't you fellows just take what you want from my pay cheque, and let me spend the rest in peace?"

"May I borrow your handkerchief? I think I'm going to cry."

"What do you guys know about business expenses? I'd like to see you have to meet a payroll—just once."

"I hate to bother you while you're so busy, but in going over my records I found I made a $1.36 error in my 1965 return. I'd like to straighten it out right now. I don't want to have any trouble with the government."

"So throw me in jail. You still can't get blood out of a turnip."

"His, so it's records you want, is it? Well, Mr. Smarty, it's records I got plenty of already. Hey, Irving, back that truck up to the side door!"

"The poor pay taxes, and the rich hire lawyers."

"I came here in place of my husband. He says he's too sick and tired to fight the government. Well, I'm not!"

"Better than pay what you ask, young man, I should take you into the firm as a silent partner."

"Let's make a deal. You say I owe you $988; I say you owe me $578. Let's split the difference. You pay me $150—and we'll forget the whole matter, and start all over next year."

"Why shouldn't a dentist deduct a trip to Bermuda as a business expense? You should read the paper I'm preparing for our dental society on orthodontal problems among Bermuda caddies. Very interesting. By the way, if your own teeth need fixing, I can give you a very reasonable estimate."

"Is there a sales tax on your income tax?"

Salty Parson Says Seamen Nature's Own Gentlemen

HALIFAX (CP) — In Canon Brinley J. Williams' estimation, seagoing men are "a kindly race—nature's own gentlemen."

The seamen themselves return the compliment. They've affectionately dubbed him "the salty parson."

Canon Williams, 63-year-old native of Cardiff, Wales, has been pastor of the Anglican Church's Mission to Seamen here for 11 years.

Every morning, no matter how inclement the weather, he can be seen striding along piers and up the gangplank of some ship in port.

He tries to visit every freighter that calls at his "salt water parish" and speak with as many of the crew as possible. There is always an invitation to visit the mission ashore for billiards, a dance, movies, books or just a chat.

The invitation is issued without regard to the crew's religion. Canon Williams hands out the invitation cards aboard Russian ships, where he says he is always well received, but admits he has never seen the men come along to the mission.

Ordained 37 years ago in Australia, Canon Williams spent 6½ years in charge of a mission at Bluff, New Zealand, took a similar mission at Wellington, N.Z., for 16 years and later spent periods in Adelaide, Australia, Antwerp, Hamburg and Glasgow.

In all his 36 years among men of the sea, he says, he has never met any rudeness or unpleasantness.

"In fact, the unfailing courtesy is quite amazing," he says.

Radiation No Bar to Moon Flights

MOSCOW (Reuters)—The Soviet Union's Luna X space station shows that radiation in near-lunar space is no bar to manned moon flights, it was announced here today.

Professor Mstislav Keldysh, president of the Soviet Academy of Sciences, said flights in the vicinity of the moon should be possible, but the most difficult task will be returning the spacecraft through the earth's atmosphere.

Keldysh, giving a press conference on the Luna X which began orbiting the moon 13 days ago, said it is using chemical power sources.

Cosmonauts are studying how to assemble space ships in orbit, he said.

Academician Aleksandr Vinogradov, a noted geochemist, said gamma radiation from the moon's surface is comparable with that of terrestrial granites, but part of this is due not to natural radioactivity but to the interaction of cosmic rays and lunar matter. Such radiation was absent in terrestial rocks because of the shielding effect of the earth's atmosphere.

The natural radioactivity of lunar rocks was comparable with that of basalt rocks on earth, suggesting that the processes of the formation of the crust of the earth and its planets was similar.

He said Luna X registered 53 hits by meteor particles in five hours and 16 minutes—100 times more than the average in interplanetary space.

Another scientist told the press conference Luna X signalled that the moon had a weak but regular magnetic field.

here's the other half.

The GMC pickup's box floor is made of preservative-treated wood. It can't rust; won't "drum." Stays like new longer!

Standard two-stage coil rear suspension automatically adjusts springs to load demand. Optional heavy duty leaf springs shown here.

Double roof-panels with sandwiched insulation help keep driver warm in winter, cool in summer and cut down on noise in cab.

Standard cab comfort and convenience features include windshield washers, two-speed electric wipers, and comfortable, deep-padded seats with two seat belts.

Printed circuit for instruments eliminates spaghetti-like tangle of wires, ends shorting, makes circuit-tracing easy.

A sturdy three-speed manual transmission is standard. Or choose an extra-cost heavy duty three-speed, four-speed, or automatic transmission (on most models).

Standard GMC pickup engine is an eager 250 cu. in. six with 155 hp. More powerful engines are available, including a 170-hp six, a 175-hp V8 and a 220-hp V8.

Independent coil-spring front suspension makes GMC ride almost like a car. The load is better cushioned and handling is easy at any speed. GMC pickups are great with camper backs.

Current Affairs Club Will Send Books to Foreign Lands

NAPANEE — After months of apparent inactivity, the Current Affairs Club of the N.D.-S.S. has again reached the stage where it is attracting everyone's attention. The books for schools in underdeveloped countries will soon be on their way, and the members are enlisting help wherever they can find it to help them meet the shipping dates.

The sorting of 9000 books has been going on but now is ended. Over a ton of books was discarded and sold to the Strathcona Paper Mills. These were books which were in bad condition, were unreadable or out of date. All the paperbacks were kept here and will be sold at a nickel apiece.

Transportation costs will be heavy, but the students have faith that they will be met. Even shipping alone will be at least $350 and this is donated by the docks in Montreal. Already the club has received offers of low, or free transportation from firms whose trucks make trips to Montreal fairly frequently.

When the project was first dreamed up, the Napanee and District Collegiate Institute Board agreed to pay transportation charges, but when it snowballed as it did the club realized that they must raise funds to help out. The money received from the sale of the discards will go for this, as well as from the sale of the paperbacks. It is hoped that the school's share of the proceeds for the bookmobile will be allotted to this, also, and the current Affairs Club will make a contribution from its own limited funds, proceeds of an annual dance.

SHIPPING DATE

Shipping date is April 28 and arrangements must all be made through the Overseas Institute of Canada, with headquarter: in Ottawa. When in Ottawa early this week, Mr. R. E. Dair, teacher-adviser of the Current Affairs Club, visited Angus Archer, the representative, and was able to have the arrangements made quickly. Shipping dates for all the other consignments were secured.

Once the books are on the docks in the designated country, they become the responsibility of the consignee, who must see that they reach their destination, which may be hundreds of miles inland. Strong, waterproof packaging is essential, as the boxes may lie on the docks in tropical rains for weeks before they are picked up.

June Wood, a grade 13 student is chairman of the project. She has never faltered, has inspired everyone, and has never stopped working herself. President Alan Baker has been at school only one week since he was injured at the rink fracturing his skull. Vice-president Peter Genaa has taken his place.

Jaycee Groups Enjoy Joint Social Event

NAPANEE — The Napanee and District Jaycees and Jaycettes got together for an informal dance in the club house of the Napanee Golf and Country Club last Saturday evening. Purpose of the dance was to celebrate the installation of the officers of the Jaycettes, organized only recently. A few invited guests were present.

Carol (Mrs. Denis) Caird is the first president; Myrtle (Mrs. Wayne) Tod is vice-president; Marcia (Mrs. Jim) Hawkins is secretary; Jean (Mrs. Colin) Foster is treasurer. As there is no past-president, Geraldine (Mrs. Wes) Germaine was installed as an alternate.

"Spring Flaw", to be presented Wednesday and Thursday this week, is the next project of these busy young people. The first full rehearsal was held last Wednesday, to bring all the numbers together, and a second will be held Monday.

Saturday of the following week, April 30, the Jaycees are sponsoring a bicycle rodeo and expect that from 200 to 250 boys and girls will come to the Market Square to learn the safety-of-the-road rules for bicycle riders.

Youths Said Recovering From Injuries

DESERONTO — John Leafe and Donald Claus were able to spend the Easter weekend with their families, the first time they were able to leave the Kingston General Hospital since entering it December 10 following a car accident on the outskirts of Deseronto in which six youth were injured. Both are now in Hawken Wing in the hospital, making progress under therapy. They returned to hospital for the week, but were at home again this weekend.

Two Deseronto boys are still in hospital, Donald Hill in Kingston, and Alan Brant in Belleville. Both are making progress.

Robin Williams of Napanee left the Belleville General Hospital a month ago. John Dewar of the Brockville area, the driver, was not seriously injured and left the Kingston General Hospital within a few days. He was the only victim who did not incur one or more broken limbs and severe head injuries.

The Deseronto youths were getting a lift home from Napanee with the two from Napanee, both employed at the Napanee Iron works.

TRADE DEFICIT WITH U.S. — Canada's trade deficit with the United States jumped to more than $6,000,000,000 in 1965. Canada's purchases for the year increased by 17 per cent. U.S. purchases in Canada also increased to $4,838,668,000 from $4,271,059,000. (CP Newsmap)

Two Cars Wrecked in Jaycee Stunt

NAPANEE — Two cars were so badly demolished in Napanee over the weekend that both had to be loaded on to floats to be taken to the wrecking yard.

Moreover, it was deliberately done, with police and citizens looking on and enjoying the destruction. It was all another stunt of the safety-conscious Jaycees, whose slogan for the project was "Smash our car — not yours".

Chairman of the project, L. B. (Buck) Kyle had two cars placed on Service Station lots, and had them painted off into sections with a number on each. The man who felt like finding out how easy it is to wreck a car was given a 10-pound sledge and went to work. It cost him only a quarter to wreck a door, but $2.50 if he wanted to hear the tinkle of the glass of a windshield.

At intervals during the day a car with a loud speaker went up and down the streets advising citizens to "Pay 25 cents and do $500 damage". So good was the advice that by Sunday afternoon both cars were back in the yards of the donor Brinklow Wreckers.

Women Political Neuters Says Ont. Liberal Leader

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Andrew Thompson, leader of the Ontario Liberal party, said Saturday many women in the province are political neuters —uncontrolled with politics, without a grip of political issues and with too few convictions.

In an address to a political workshop of the South Central Ontario Women's Liberal Association he said the greatest sense women come to politics is to comment on Jackie Kennedy's hairdo or the size of her children.

"They are, titillated by the supposed love life of a few of our parliamentarians . . . but they wouldn't tell you the real reason for having a Canada Pension Plan or a comprehensive, universal medicare plan."

He added that the criticism wasn't levelled at his audience, drawn from 19 riding associations in the area around Peterborough.

The Liberal leader said part of the reason for the indifference to politics is shown by women lies with political parties. Women haven't been given enough encouragement or enough genuine responsibility.

WANTS PROTESTS

He called on women to protest divorce laws "that make liars out of some decent citizens," the treatment in Ontario of emotionally disturbed children, the difficulty women have in getting ahead in business and the fact that discrimination because of sex isn't included in the Ontario Human Rights Code.

"Doesn't it bother them that thousands of women living alone —who have been widowed, divorced or separated—have to struggle along with inadequate welfare allowance?

"Are they blind to the fact that slum children, children in rural areas and physically handicapped children cannot develop fully in many cases because our education system is not sophisticated enough to provide special classes and opportunity classes for culturally disadvantaged children?"

Mr. Thompson said he is challenging women because he thinks politics needs their influence.

ACT AGAINST NURSANCES

FREDERICTON (CP) — The New Brunswick telephone company is installing a United States device to trace harassing telephone callers. The device prevents the caller from disconnecting the circuit and allows officials to trace the lines back.

Some new tires are safer than others

Only Fina hasn't any "others"

Effective April 15th, Canadian Petrofina will market only three lines of tires, all as safe or safer than standard original equipment tires (tires installed on new cars at the factory).

Thus, Canadian Petrofina will become the first tire marketer in Canada to discontinue the sale of second, third and fourth line promotional tires.

The savings in distribution costs realized because of the simplification of tire lines will be passed on to the public by reductions in the prices of first and premium line Fina tires.

"With the tire companies and dealers fighting for sales, a large number of "cheapie" tires are being produced which can become a menace to highway safety when used for sustained high-speed driving."—Advertising Age, July 6, 1965 issue.

What's wrong with "other" tires?

You've seen tires on the market that range in price from $8.99 each to $55.00 each. You've heard claims and more claims about treads, plies, cord fabrics, ratings and other factors until you simply can't be bothered listening any more.

However, you probably have not heard that many of the tires marketed by tire companies and distributors are of a lower quality than the tires specified by car manufacturers as original equipment tires. An attempt to justify the sale of these inferior tires is made with the claim that they are "safe when used as intended", e.g., in driving back and forth to work. But, as the president of one tire company put it: "The problem is that the manufacturer's intentions and the consumer's intentions are sometimes 180° apart, and this is how people get killed."

"The need for minimum safety standards for automotive tires is now beyond question," the Federal Trade Commission says.
Toronto Daily Star, February 21, 1966 issue.

If automobile manufacturers won't buy them, don't you!

Like you, car manufacturers must consider both cost and quality. As a result, the specifications of the tires installed at the factory provide for the most economical tire they can buy without going below certain minimum standards of safety and comfort. Obviously, if less expensive tires could be built to give the same results, they would specify them. They like to save money, too. It stands to reason then that even the most price-conscious tire-buyer should not settle for less than original equipment quality tires. And, if you want extra long tread life, extreme strength and safety, plus tremendous resistance to abuse, then you're in the market for near-premium or premium tires.

"Tire buyers now face 'confusion and deception' when they try to puzzle out the meaning of 'such terms as 'premium', 'ply rating', and '100 level', the Federal Trade Commission says. One company's first-line tire might be inferior to the third-line tire of another company."
Toronto Daily Star, February 21, 1966 issue.

How you can tell.

The big question is: how do you know which tires are as good or better than original equipment tires and which tires are not? Broadly speaking, so-called first line and premium tires are as good or better than original equipment tires, while second, third and fourth line promotional tires are inferior in quality. But because tire classifications are not uniform and common to all companies, the first line tires of one brand might be inferior to the third or fourth line of another brand. That is why, in order to eliminate all doubts and uncertainties, we are making a firm public commitment that from now on, the quality of all Fina tires, regardless of price, will be as good as or better than standard original equipment tires.

"There are more than 100 brands of tires today, more or less well-known, labelled in all possible ways. But there is no appropriate legislation on the necessary tire quality standards. The car owner must be made aware of these facts because his life may depend on it."
Translated from La Patrie, January 9, 1966 issue.

Government testing method proves superior strength and safety of Fina tires.

We wanted conclusive proof that our three tires are equal to or better than the quality of original equipment tires. They were compared with original equipment tires by a scientifically-engineered test used by the government to determine carcass strength—the most important factor in tire safety.

Results proved that, compared to original equipment tires, our premium tire, the Fina Executive, is 70% stronger than most original equipment tires. Our near-premium tire, the Fina Flyer, is 50% stronger, and our first line tire, the Fina Superline, is 20% stronger.

We have actually lowered the cost of safe tires.

By standardizing on three safe tires we have made substantial cost reductions—savings that are being passed on to you in the form of prices low enough to surprise you, plus free wheel-balancing and a lifetime guarantee based on tread wear.

So, even if you're a bargain tire buyer, shop at your nearest Fina dealer. The difference is that the bargain tire you'll buy from him will be safer and stronger than the tires on most new cars. You can bet your life on even our lowest priced tire.

A. Campo
President,

Fina makes it safe to save money on tires!

Fina Executive ... the hand-crafted premium tire. World's only tire with single ring belowweight on one side —double on the other.

Giants Win Five In Six

Koufax Has "Florida" Arm; Lifted In 6th

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Sandy Koufax has only one problem: He's in California, but his arm's still in Florida.

Making his second start at Los Angeles Sunday, Koufax struggled through six shutout innings in the Dodgers' 5-0 victory over Chicago Cubs and then admitted that his arm still was at the Florida exhibition stage of the season.

"Right now I'm about that stage in spring training where we would just be beginning to play games," said the Dodger Dandy, who held out for 32 days of the exhibition season. "Normally I would be trying for three innings at this stage."

But Koufax, who received the Cy Young Award before the game for being baseball's best pitcher last year, indicated he was satisfied with his progress.

"My intention was to go nine innings and I'd be dumb enough to try it if they let me," he said. "I thought I had pretty good stuff at times. At least I could throw that time."

SCATTERS FIVE HITS

Last time was his first start, against Houston Astros, and the $130,000 pitcher didn't survive the fourth inning. Against the Cubs he seemed to have difficulty getting loose at the start of each inning but kept five hits scattered while striking out six and allowing one walk.

After the sixth inning, manager Walt Alston lifted his thirty ace and Bob Miller finished up.

Elsewhere, San Francisco Giants won their fifth game in six starts by defeating Houston 3-1, New York Mets went over .500 for the first time in history by edging Atlanta Braves 5-4, Pittsburgh Pirates nipped St. Louis Cardinals 6-5 and Philadelphia Phillies whipped Cincinnati Reds 3-1.

In Saturday's games the Giants hammered Houston 7-1, Reds blanked the Phillies 4-0, Pittsburgh defeated the Cardinals 5-3, the Mets downed the Braves 3-1 and the Dodgers whipped the Cubs 4-2.

The Dodgers put their Sunday game out of reach against Cubs' starter Larry Jackson with a four-run first inning uprising built on Jim Lefebvre's run - producing single and a three-run homer by Lou Johnson. Ron Fairly singled home the final run in the third inning.

SNAP 1-1 TIE

The Giants snapped a 1-1 tie against the Astros in the seventh on singles by Tom Haller, Tito Fuentes and winning pitcher Bob Bolin. Jim Davenport provided an eight-inning homer.

Felipe Alou and Lee Thomas homered for the Braves but the Mets came out on top by scoring in the ninth without a hit. That brought their second to 2-1, the first time in their five-year history they have had a winning record at any point in the season.

Bill Murphy walked to open the ninth for the Mets and raced to third when Thomas picked up Larry Bearnarth's bunt and threw it into centre field. Reliever Billy O'Dell then walked Ed Bressoud and Ron Swoboda, forcing in the tie breaking run.

The Pirates, who had lost 18 in a row to the Cardinals at Pittsburgh's Forbes Field, made it two in a row over St. Louis when Bill Mazeroski lofted a sacrifice fly with the bases loaded in the ninth.

Rich Allen's two-run homer in the first inning gave the Phillies all the runs they needed as Chris Short kept 10 Cincinnati hits well scattered.

Softball Registration Successful

No figures were announced but the Belleville Minor Softball Association's player registration day on Saturday was termed "most successful" by publicity director Keith MacDonald.

Any boys who were unable to register on Saturday have been asked to do so at the Recreation Centre some day this week.

Due to the heavy registration, there is once again an urgent need for coaches in all divisions. Any person interested in helping the youngsters in coaching or as an assistant coach is asked to contact either Ted Sprackett, president of the B.M.S.A., vice-president Don Bronson or Keith MacDonald.

All interested persons are asked to also attend a general meeting scheduled for the Recreation Centre on Wednesday, April 27, at 7:00 p.m.

Playoff Today

Brewer, Palmer Deadlocked

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—There's one thing about golfer Gay Brewer, He doesn't pick on any soft touches in a playoff.

Brewer's opponent in an 18-hole playoff today was a fellow named Arnold Palmer, with whom he tied after the regulation 72 holes Sunday in the $100,000 Tournament of Champions.

One week ago, he faced Jack Nicklaus and Tommy Jacobs over 18 holes after they deadlocked in the Masters.

Nicklaus won that one with a two-under par 70, Jacobs had 72 and Gay 78.

Palmer and Brewer met once before under the same conditions and Arnie won in a sudden-death test in the West Palm Beach Open in 1959.

Brewer went into Sunday's final 18 holes leading Palmer by five strokes.

Palmer, with an eagle three on the fifth hole, cut the margin by three strokes in five holes, caught Gay on the 13th hole with a birdie three and went ahead for the first time on the 17th, again with a birdie three.

Came the 72nd and final hole. All Arnie needed to win was a par four.

He booked his drive into deep rough and was 70 yards short of the green with his second shot. A wedge shot ran 12 feet past the pin and he missed the putt.

Nicklaus, starting with a disastrous 76, finished at 288 and Gary Player was even higher at 294.

Current Affairs Club Will Send Books to Foreign Lands

NAPANEE — After months of apparent inactivity, the Current Affairs Club of the N.D.S.S. has again reached the stage where it is attracting everyone's attention. The books for schools in underdeveloped countries will soon be on their way, and the members are enlisting help wherever they can find it to help them meet the shipping dates.

The sorting of 8000 books has been going on but now is ended. Over a ton of books was discarded and sold to the Strathcona Paper Mills. These were books which were in bad condition, or were unsuitable or out of date. All the paperbacks were kept here and will be sold at a nickel apiece.

Transportation costs will be heavy, but the students have faith that they will be met. Even shipping alone will be at least $500 per container from the docks in Montreal. Already the club has received offers of low, or of free, transportation from firms whose trucks make trips to Montreal fairly frequently.

When the project was first dreamed up, the Napanee and District Collegiate Institute Board agreed to pay transportation charges, but when it snowballed as it did the club realized that they must raise funds to help out. The money received from the sale of the discards will go for this, as well as from the sale of the paperbacks. It is hoped that the school's share of the proceeds for the bookmobile will be allotted to this, also, and the current Affairs Club will make a contribution from its own limited funds, proceeds of an annual dance.

SHIPPING DATE

Shipping date is April 28 and arrangements must all be made through the Overseas Institute of Canada, with headquarters in Ottawa. When in Ottawa early this week, Mr. R. E. Dale, teacher-adviser of the Current Affairs Club, visited Angus Archer, the representative, and was able to have the arrangements made quickly. Shipping dates for all the other consignments were secured.

Once the books are on the docks in the designated country, they become the responsibility of the consignee, who must see that they reach their destination, which may be hundreds of miles inland. Strong, waterproof packaging is essential, as the boxes may rain for weeks before they are picked up.

June Wood, a grade 13 student is chairman of the project. She has never faltered, has inspired everyone, and has never stopped working herself. President Alan Baker has been at school only one week since he was injured at the rink fracturing his skull. Vice-president Peter Gauss has taken his place.

Jaycee Groups Enjoy Joint Social Event

NAPANEE — The Napanee and District Jaycee and Jayettes got together for an informal dance in the club house of the Napanee Golf and Country Club last Saturday evening. Purpose of the dance was to entertain the installation of the officers of the Jayettes, organized only recently. A few invited guests were present.

Carol (Mrs. Denis) Caird is the first president; Myrtle (Mrs. Warner) Tod is vice-president; Marcia (Mrs. Jim) Hawkins is secretary; Jean (Mrs. Colin) Foster is treasurer. As there is no past-president, Geraldine (Mrs. Wes) Germaine was installed as an alternate.

"Spring Flaw", to be presented Wednesday and Thursday this week, is the next project of these busy young people. The first full rehearsal was held last Wednesday, to bring all the members together, and a second will be held Monday.

Saturday of the following week, April 30, the Jaycees are sponsoring a bicycle rodeo and expect that from 200 to 250 boys and girls will come to the Market Square to learn the safety-of-the-road rules for bicycle riders.

Youths Said Recovering From Injuries

DESERONTO — John Leafe and Donald Claus were able to spend the Easter weekend with their families, the first time they were able to leave the Kingston General Hospital since entering it December 10 following a car accident on the outskirts of Deseronto in which six youth were injured. Both are now in Sawden Wing in the hospital, making progress under therapy. They returned to hospital for the week, but were at home again this weekend.

Two Deseronto boys are still in hospital, Donald Hill in Kingston, and Alan Brant in Belleville. Both are making progress.

Robin Williams of Napanee left the Belleville General Hospital a month ago. John Dewar of the Brockville area, the driver, was not seriously injured and left the Kingston General Hospital within a few days. He was the only victim who did not incur one or more broken limbs and severe head injuries.

The Deseronto youths were getting a lift home from Napanee with the two from Napanee, both employed at the Napanee Iron works.

TRADE DEFICIT WITH U.S. — Canada's trade deficit with the United States jumped to more than $6,000,000,000 in 1965. Canada's purchases for the year increased by 17 per cent. U.S. purchases in Canada also increased to $4,838,668,000 from $4,271,059,000. (CP Newsmap).

Two Cars Wrecked in Jaycee Stunt

NAPANEE — Two cars were so badly demolished in Napanee over the weekend that both had to be loaded on to floats to be taken to the wrecking yard.

Moreover, it was deliberately done, with police and citizens looking on and enjoying the destruction. It was all another stunt of the safety-conscious Jaycees, whose slogan for the project was "Smash our car — not yours".

Chairman of the project, L. B. (Buck) Kyle had two cars placed on Service Station lots, and had them painted off into sections with a number on each. The man who felt like finding out how easy it is to wreck a car was given a 10-pound sledge and went to work. It cost him only a quarter to wreck a door, but $2.50 if he wanted to hear the tinkle of the glass of a windshield.

At intervals during the day a car with a loud speaker went up and down the streets advising citizens to "Pay 25 cents and do $500. damage". So good was the advice that by Sunday afternoon both cars were back in the yards of the donor Brinkley Wreckers.

Women Political Neuters Says Ont. Liberal Leader

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Andrew Thompson, leader of the Ontario Liberal party, said Saturday many women in the provinces are political neuters — unconcerned with politics, without grip of political issues and with too few convictions.

In an address to a political meeting in South Central Ontario Women's Liberal Association, he said the closest some women come to politics is to comment on Jackie Kennedy's hairdo or the antics of her children.

"They are titillated by the supposed love life of a few of our parliamentarians . . . but they couldn't tell you the real reason for having a Canada Pension Plan or a comprehensive, universal medicare plan."

He added that the criticism wasn't levelled at his audience, drawn from 10 riding associations in the area around Peterborough.

The Liberal leader said part of the reason for the indifference to politics shown by women lies with political parties. Women haven't been given enough encouragement or enough genuine responsibility.

WANTS PROTESTS

He called on women to protest divorce laws "that make liars out of some decent citizens," the treatment in Ontario of emotionally disturbed children, the difficulty women have in getting ahead in business and the fact that discrimination because of sex isn't included in the Ontario Human Rights Code.

"Doesn't it bother them that thousands of women living alone — who have been widowed, divorced or separated—have to struggle along with inadequate welfare allowances?

"Are they blind to the fact that slum children, children in rural areas and physically handicapped children cannot develop fully in many cases because our education system is not sophisticated enough to provide special classes and opportunity classes for culturally disadvantaged children?"

Mr. Thompson said he is challenging women because he thinks politics needs their influence.

ACT AGAINST NUISANCES

FREDERICTON (CP) — The New Brunswick telephone company is installing a United States device to trace harassing telephone callers. The device prevents the caller from disconnecting the circuit and allows officials to trace the lines back.

Some new tires are safer than others

Only Fina hasn't any "others"

Effective April 15th, Canadian Petrofina will market only three lines of tires, all as safe or safer than standard original equipment tires (tires installed on new cars at the factory).

Thus, Canadian Petrofina will become the first tire marketer in Canada to discontinue the sale of second, third and fourth line promotional tires.

The savings in distribution costs realized because of the simplification of tire lines will be passed on to the public by reductions in the prices of first and premium line Fina tires.

"With the tire companies and dealers fighting for sales, a large number of "cheaple" tires are being produced which can become a menace to highway safety when used for sustained high-speed driving."—Advertising Age, July 6, 1965 issue.

What's wrong with "other" tires?

You've seen tires on the market that range in price from $8.99 each to $55.00 each. You've heard claims and more claims about treads, plies, cord fabrics, ratings and other factors until you simply can't be bothered listening any more.

However, you probably have not heard that many of the tires marketed by tire companies and distributors are of a lower quality than the tires specified by car manufacturers as original equipment tires. An attempt to justify the sale of these inferior tires is made with the claim that they are "safe when used as intended", e.g., in driving back and forth to work. But, as the president of one tire company put it: "The problem is that the manufacturer's intentions and the consumer's intentions are sometimes 180° apart, and this is how people get killed."

"The need for minimum safety standards for automotive tires it is now beyond question, the Federal Trade Commission says.
Toronto Daily Star, February 21, 1966 issue.

If automobile manufacturers won't buy them, don't you!

Like you, car manufacturers must consider both cost and quality. As a result, the specifications of the tires installed at the factory provide for the most economical tire they can buy without going below certain minimum standards of safety and comfort. Obviously, if less expensive tires could be built to give the same results, they would specify them. They like to save money, too. It stands to reason then that even the most price-conscious tire-buyer should not settle for less than original equipment quality tires. And, if you want extra long tread life, extreme strength and safety, plus tremendous resistance to abuse, then you're in the market for near-premium or premium tires.

"Tire buyers now face 'confusion and deception' when they try to puzzle out the meaning of such terms as 'premium', 'ply rating', and '100 level', the Federal Trade Commission says. One company's first-line tire might be inferior to the third-line tire of another company."
Toronto Daily Star, February 21, 1966 issue.

How you can tell.

The big question is: how do you know which tires are as good or better than original equipment tires and which tires are not? Broadly speaking, so-called first line and premium tires are as good or better than original equipment tires, while second, third and fourth line promotional tires are inferior in quality. But because tire classifications are not uniform and common to all companies, the first line tires of one brand might be inferior to the third or fourth line of another brand. That is why, in order to eliminate all doubts and uncertainties, we are making a firm public commitment that from now on, the quality of all Fina tires, regardless of price, will be as good as or better than standard original equipment tires.

"There are more than 100 brands of tires today, many or less well-known, labelled in all possible ways. But there is no appropriate legislation on the necessary tire quality standards. The car owner must be made aware of these facts because his life may depend on it."
Translated from La Patrie, January 9, 1966 issue.

Government testing method proves superior strength and safety of Fina tires.

We wanted conclusive proof that our tires are equal to or better than the quality of original equipment tires. They were compared with original equipment tires by a scientifically-engineered test used by the government to determine carcass strength—the most important factor in tire safety.

Results proved that, compared to original equipment tires, our premium tire, the Fina Executive, is 70% stronger than most original equipment tires. Our near-premium tire, the Fina Flyer, is 50% stronger, and our first line tire, the Fina Superline, is 20% stronger.

We have actually lowered the cost of safe tires.

By standardizing on three safe tires we have made substantial cost reductions—savings that are being passed on to you in the form of prices low enough to surprise you, plus free whitewalls, plus a lifetime guarantee based on tread wear.

So, even if you're a bargain tire buyer, shop at your nearest Fina dealer. The difference is that the bargain tire you'll buy from him will be safer and stronger than the tires on most new cars. You can bet your life on even our lowest priced tire.

A. Campo
President,
Canadian Petrofina Limited

Fina Executive — the hand-crafted premium tire. World's only tire with single ring whitewall on one side — double on the other.

Eskimos and Indians Pour Out String of Worries, Complaints

By STUART LAKE

OTTAWA (CP) — It was a golden opportunity to pour out their worries and complaints and Eskimo and Indians took full advantage of it.

The idea behind the public hearings in the Northwest Territories of the advisory commission on the development of northern government was to get opinions from residents on how to put the North on the road to becoming a province or provinces.

But the natives wanted to speak of other things—of poor hunting and the low price of skins, for example, and of a subsidy be placed on fur as an farming products in the south!

Should the territorial council be expanded and given more independence, the commission wanted to know? The northerners preferred to talk about ways of acquiring decent homes and getting rid of the shacks they now live in.

Elect a territorial commissioner rather than be appointed by a civil servant living in faraway Ottawa? Eskimos wanted to discuss a school system that renders their children unable to hunt and trap and threatens to wipe out their fathers' skills.

Try as it might to solicit opinions about evolution of government, the three-man commission headed by A. W. R. Carrothers of London, Ont., found itself day after day listening to a flow of personal problems that beset the northern natives.

So it's a safe bet the commissioners will deal with some of these problems along with their main recommendations to cabinet later this year.

WON'T BE IGNORED

"I don't see how we can ignore anything people say about them," said commissioner John Parker of Yellowknife, N.W.T.

The other member of the commission is Jean Beetz, a law professor at the University of Montreal.

Established by order-in-council last May, the commission ended its public hearings in March by spending two weeks in the Eastern Arctic. It also visited the territories last summer and held public meetings in Ottawa.

Formation of the commission was prompted by the inability of two governments to get parliamentary approval of a plan to divide the territories. Under the scheme, the Mackenzie was to achieve greater independence while the Eastern Arctic would remain under the care of the federal government.

About two-thirds of the 25,000 persons in the territories live in the Mackenzie area, developing considerably exceeds that in the east.

The 8,000 or so whites in the North clearly spelt out their demands that the northern government be moved from Ottawa to the territories, that a greater number of elected members sit on the territorial council, and that the North generally be given more to say in its own affairs.

There also was keen competition among Western Arctic communities for the prize of becoming the N.W.T. capital.

But the basic needs of food, housing and the kind of education their children are getting formed the theme of Eskimo and Indian contributions to the commission.

ESKIMO ART SHOWS STRUGGLE FOR EXISTENCE — Another Eskimo community in Canada is gaining recognition for its primitive art. The Copper Eskimos at Holman, 1,200 miles north of Edmonton, produced vivid prints of Eskimo life by pressing the paper over inked drawings cut in limestone. This is The Sled by Victor Ekootak. The Eskimos were taught print making by an Oblate missionary, Rev. Henri Tardy. (CP Photo)

Port Authorities Reluctant To Predict Traffic Flow

By HARRY KNOWLES

MONTREAL (CP) — Perhaps they are afraid to tempt Providence, but the authorities at Canadian ocean ports are reluctant to make definite predictions about this year's overseas shipping traffic.

The reason for reluctance is uncertainty of the labor scene and experiences of last year when major strikes caused serious disruption of work at Montreal and Vancouver, the country's busiest ocean ports.

A spokesman for the port of Montreal, which with 2,883 ocean arrivals in 1965 remains Canada's biggest and busiest, said: "It's impossible to make prediction for the 1966 season. Anything could happen on the labor front to upset our best hopes.

"The National Harbors Board —which administers the port of Montreal—is not involved, but we do know that several bodies of workers, including longshoremen, are currently negotiating with employers, and as a result there is always the possibility of strikes."

Last year, there were several strikes in the port, including stoppages by longshoremen and grain elevator workers employed by the National Harbors Board.

On the West Coast, similar worries were expressed by Capt. Ron Newell, harbor master of Victoria, B.C.

He said both longshoremen and members of the International Woodworkers of America (CLC) are involved in negotiations and strikes by either could seriously affect the port.

However, barring serious labor trouble, there would appear to be good prospects for an overall increase in foreign shipping business at Canadian ports this year.

Shipments of huge grain orders to China and the USSR should prove a major factor in this development.

A feature of foreign shipping in the last few years has been a steady increase in the size of ships.

The net registered tonnage of deep sea shipping arriving at Montreal in 1965 was 18,262,642 and at Vancouver it was 10,330,712. This produces an average net registered tonnage of ocean vessels arriving at Montreal of 5,300 and Vancouver of 5,005.

SHIPS GET BIGGER

A National Harbors Board spokesman said: "The trend today is toward bigger ships. The average net registered tonnage goes up year by year and this year I'm sure it will be well up on the figures for 1965."

In some cases, though the number of ships arriving in ports has fallen, the net registered tonnage has remained the same or increased, as have cargo tonnages.

This, Capt. Newell said, is the case at Victoria, where the number of deep sea ships entering the port has fallen over the past three years from 430 to 390.

In Vancouver, port manager Capt. Barney D. L. Johnson said the arrivity of the port for May-June-July-August will "involve roughly 600 ships, the same number as last year, but that tonnages will be higher.

He forecast record-breaking shipments of grain, and increases in bulk materials, such as coal, sulphur, potash and phosphate rock.

SEASON IS SHORT

Canada's most "inland" ocean port is Churchill, Man., which usually has a season of less than three months, though this depends on the day the first ship arrives and the last leaves.

No ships have arrived so far this year, but last year the first vessel arrived July 31 and the last left Oct. 14. In that time a record 34,707,000 bushels of grain was exported from the port. This compared with 21,645,000 in 1964. Expectations are for a similar big increase this year.

Foreign goods tonnage in and out of Montreal has risen steadily from 12,827,224 in 1962 to a record 14,314,533 last year, but the rate is maintained and there is no serious disruption of work at the port, the figure for 1966 should be in excess of the 15,000,000-ton mark.

Cargo tonnage in and out of Quebec City is expected to increase by six or seven per cent. Last year it totalled 6,647,000 tons and Port Manager Paul Bourque hopes it will exceed 7,000,000.

Also 1,000 deep-sea vessels visited the port last year.

Indications in the Maritimes are that business will be normal at Halifax and Saint John as in other years.

EXPECTS NORMAL YEAR

Port Manager [illegible] of Halifax said [illegible] expects the port to have a normal summer, with activity generally limited to oil and gypsum movements.

"We had a good winter season but things are beginning to slack off a bit now and we'll soon reach the summer level," he said. "We expect, however, that there'll be quite a bit of grain passing through."

Imported crude oil for two refineries and export of raw gypsum account for about 3,000,000 tons of the annual 10,000,000 tons of cargo passing through the port.

At Saint John, N.B. shipping arrivals in the first three months of the year were about the same as last year, with 150 vessels of a total net registered tonnage of 1,000,017 arriving, compared with 398 of 1,000,016 N.R.T. in the same period last year.

A total of 544 vessels called at the port in 1965 and the number is expected to increase this year.

Brian Higgins, port manager of St. John's, Nfld., hopes for a record year. Already, in the first three months of the year, arrivals have been up 43 per cent, with calls by 319 ships, Mr. Higgins said.

TO EASE LAWS

MONTREAL (CP) — Tom Kent, deputy minister of citizenship and immigration and former special assistant to Prime Minister Pearson, said Sunday changes are being planned in Canada's immigration laws to guarantee individual rights and control illegal immigration. "We think no immigrant in Canada should be deported for reasons which are not his fault, such as accident, illness or involuntary indigency," he told the annual meeting of the Jewish Immigrant and Aid Services of Canada, eastern region.

Questions and Answers On Highway Travel

Ontario Motor League
Eastern Ontario Club

Question: I have been told that there are some well-known springs in West Virginia, similar to the famous Warm Springs in Georgia. Do you know where they are? Anything you could tell me about them would be much appreciated.

Answer: There are two well-known springs in West Virginia, Berkely Springs and White Sulphur Springs.

Berkley Springs is near Cumberland on Hwy. 40. These springs, at the foot of Warm Spring Mountain, became famous for their supposedly curative properties and were given by Lord Fairfax to the State. The town was established as a health resort in 1776 under the name of Bath, which is still its official name.

The water flows at a rate of 2,000 gallons per minute and maintains a constant temperature of 74 degrees. It has been found to be almost identical with the water at Warm Springs, Ga. in Berkley Springs park are springhouses and bathhouses which offer a variety of baths. The park includes an open-air swimming pool and modern bathouse. The main bathhouse is open all year, swimming pool May 30th to Labor Day.

White Sulphur Springs with its stables of 2,000 feet is in a beautiful upland valley of the west slope of the Allegheny Mountains. White Sulphur Springs is at the junction of Routes 219 and 60. The town was a famous health and pleasure resort as early as 1778. The spring is on the ground of the famous Greenbrier Hotel.

QUESTION: Can you tell me the best way to get from Belleville to Fort France, Ontario, is it still necessary to go by the United States?

ANSWER: The shortest and best way is via the Trans-Canada Highway from Sault Ste. Marie to Port Arthur and then by Highway 11 to Fort France. This section of Highway 11 was opened last fall. The total mileage from Belleville by this route is 1135 miles.

What's your stand on getting the most for your money when you buy life insurance?

Mr. Picard: As far as I know, you get just about the same wherever you buy life insurance. Don't you?

Interviewer: Then you haven't heard about The Mutual Life's low net cost record?

Mr. Picard: Low net cost? What's that?

Interviewer: Net cost of a life insurance policy is what you pay in, compared to what you get back. And for many years now, The Mutual Life has been a leader in providing low net cost protection.

Mr. Picard: But how can there be such a difference?

Interviewer: There are many factors involved. Just to mention one — dividends. The Mutual Life has consistently returned high dividends over the years. What's more, interest earned on dividends left to accumulate is now 5.1%!

Mr. Picard: Say! It might be worth my while to get more information. Where can I get the whole story?

Traffic Specialists of CNR Battle Reservations Problem

By BEN WARD

MONTREAL (CP) — Traffic specialists of the CNR, armed with a young, sized computer, are reported hot on the trail of a solution to the biggest headache for the railway passenger business—reservations.

Their aim is an instant system for confirming train reservations of all types.

Some of the biggest railways on the continent have tackled the problem and failed. It has been said the solution just doesn't exist.

But reliable informants at the CNR are predicting the publicly-owned railway will have a computer-run reservations system in operation by the end of the year.

Although the big airlines have used computerized reservations for years, their problem was relatively simple. Airliners have mostly two types of seats, first class and economy. Most of their busy routes are non-stop and few have more than four touchdown points.

Train reservations ranged through coach and parlor car seats, upper and lower berths, compartments, roomettes, bedrooms and drawing rooms. The schedules often run to more than a dozen stops.

ERROR DOUBLE

Reservations now are handled manually at central offices. Often it takes hours, sometimes a day, to get confirmations. Errors, such as selling the same space twice, are frequent enough to cause concern at top levels.

A replacement for this decades-old system is a priority item in the CNR campaign to revitalize the rail passenger business. The railway expects its biggest passenger traffic increase since the war will occur this year. Prospects for the 1967 centennial year are even greater.

No details have leaked out about the CNR's proposed system, but its specialists are basking on their earlier successes with computerized techniques to beat the problems.

One of the programs now being copied by other railroads is the Train Performance Calculator (TPC) in which computers can figure out minimum running times for trains in any given traffic load on a specific line. It can study 100,000 miles of train operation in an hour.

Another, the Simple Track Capacity Analyser (STCA), simulates dispatching operations over a subdivision.

The latest, a more sophisticated version of STCA, can simulate train operations over a string of subdivisions equipped with different signals systems and traffic control devices.

All three are designed to speed up freight train movements and increase the handling capacity of busy lines. No new schedules are introduced by the CNR until they have been tested and proved by the computer programs at a saving of weeks or months in testing time.

J. W. Demcoe, vice-president for transportation and maintenance, explained the system this way:

"In many cases, field tests of certain projected operations would be quite impractical. However, with the computer, we can 'play train' in a matter somewhat similar to the military with their war games.

"In these computer simulations we can introduce additional sidings and signals, we can add trains, speed them up, slow them down, and assess the penalty of certain speed restrictions and a host of other factors. . . ."

Mr. Demcoe said the computer has opened a whole new frontier in railroading that will greatly increase rail efficiency.

"Instead of the spiral of inflation with which we are so familiar, we have the prospect of a reducing spiral of lowered transportation costs."

Control Fire In Hold of British Ship

NEW YORK (AP)—The U.S. Coast Guard reported today that the British freighter Manchester Merchant, whose crew had controlled a fire in a hold, was heading unassisted toward Halifax. Tentative arrival time was given as 7 a.m. EST Tuesday.

The coast guard had reported Sunday that the fire was controlled and there was no injury to any of the 46 crew members or 12 passengers.

The ship was 400 miles east-southeast of Cape Race, Nfld., when it reported a fire in a hold containing nylon fibre, adjacent to a load of fuel oil. The U.S. tanker Firebright Savannah went to the British ship's aid but left when the fire was controlled.

W. V. Riley, general traffic manager for Canadian Pacific Airlines at Vancouver, will speak Tuesday to the Belleville Kiwanis Club in the Kiwanis Centre. His topic will be the present significance and future of air transportation.

China Demoted In Russia's New Slogans

MOSCOW (AP) — The West gets friendlier greetings that China is demoted in Russia's new May Day slogans, which are watched each year for signs of policy change.

Britain, France and the United States, formerly lumped together in a single slogan, got separate greetings this year. And a new slogan was added urging the strengthening of peace and security in Europe.

The slogan on China was dropped from the top of those for Communist countries to No. 5. Last May Day's reference to "eternal, unbreakable friendship" with Peking was omitted from this year's greeting.

The greeting to China was reduced to "long live the unity of the great peoples of the Soviet Union and China".

"Wow—now I know what they mean when they say most accidents happen in the kitchen!"

Think of how much less the CLASSIC or AMERICAN model would cost you with HIGHEST TRADE ALLOWANCE

Why wait for 1967,'68,'69?

SINGLE UNIT CONSTRUCTION NOW FROM AMERICAN MOTORS!

When Rolls-Royce announced that it would build its new Silver Shadow model with monocoque construction we blushed —with pride. We've used the same technique for years— except that we call it Single Unit Construction. The body and frame on all our cars are welded together into one, single, solid unit for tremendous strength and safety. It's only one of the advanced engineering features you get from American Motors today— features others won't offer you for years to come.

Engineering leadership is the extra value you get from American Motors. Years-ahead features. Built-in quality from drawing board to finished car. For example:

Double Safety Brakes. Not just one braking system, but two. If one set ever fails, the other stops you safely. (Double Safety Brakes have been an exclusive feature, at no extra cost, on all our models since 1962. Some other manufacturers have now announced that they will adopt this feature—but not until their 1967 models.)

Ceramic-Armoured Exhaust System. Not just cheet metal alone, but a ceramic-armoured coating exactly like the nose cone of a space rocket. Resists heat, corrosion, wear—season after season.

World's best rustproofing. All our cars get a "bath." They're deep-dipped up to their rooflines in rustproofing compound six separate times. Then they're dipped again in primer and given a separate spray coat of primer. Then come three gleaming coats of Lustre-Gard super enamel. You get a beautiful finish and long-lasting protection from the ravages of rust.

Most powerful standard engines in their classes. Swift, smooth, seven-main-bearing sixes. Powerful, virile V8's. Take your choice.

Widest range of seating options in the industry. Luxurious reclining seats (buckets, if you want). Armrests and adjustable headrests. And fine-furniture coil springs in all our seats in all our models. (Only one other North American car offers this—and it's in the luxury class.)

Fibreglass rooflines and double door seals. A far cry from flimsy fabric rooliners and single door seals. Noise stays out. Drafts, winds, chills can't get in.

Attention to detail. American Motors offers the durability of plastic kick panels, all-metal rear-deck shelves, even ashtrays that roll out on ball bearings. Small details, yes—but they add up to overall quality.

Beautiful luxury fittings. A big, big selection! All the power equipment and features you want. And floor consoles. Thick-cut pile carpeting. Wire wheel discs. Walnut interior paneling. Houndstooth Check fabric. New vinyl patterns. Exciting styling in top-of-the-line Ambassador DPL, Rambler Rogue and Rambler Rebel.

New car quality. We believe that quality is what you build in—not what you add on. We build quality into all our cars from the beginning. We take the time. We take the trouble. We always have. We always will.

Used car quality. The exclusive quality and features that we build into our full line of cars mean that an American Motors used car is a better value and a better buy.

Giants Win Five In Six

Koufax Has "Florida" Arm; Lifted In 6th

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Sandy Koufax has only one problem: He's in California, but his arm's still in Florida.

Making his second start at Los Angeles Sunday, Koufax struggled through six shutout innings in the Dodgers' 5-0 victory over Chicago Cubs and then admitted that his arm still was at the Florida exhibition stage of the season.

"Right now I'm about that stage in spring training where we would just be beginning to play games," said the Dodger Dandy, who held out for 32 days of the exhibition season. "Normally I would be trying for three innings at this stage."

But Koufax, who received the Cy Young Award before the game for being baseball's best pitcher last year, indicated he was satisfied with his progress.

"My intention was to go nine innings and I'd be dumb enough to try it if they let me," he said. "I thought I had pretty good stuff at times. At least I could throw this time."

SCATTERS FIVE HITS

Last time was his first start, against Houston Astros, and the $130,000 pitcher didn't survive the fourth inning. Against the Cubs he seemed to have difficulty getting loose at the start of each inning but kept five hits scattered while striking out six and allowing one walk.

After the sixth inning, manager Walt Alston lifted his tiring ace and Bob Miller finished up.

Elsewhere, San Francisco Giants won their fifth game in six starts by defeating Houston 5-1, New York Mets went over .500 for the first time in history by edging Atlanta Braves 5-4, Pittsburgh Pirates nipped St. Louis Cardinals 6-5 and Philadelphia Phillies whipped Cincinnati Reds 3-1.

In Saturday's games the Giants hammered Houston 7-1, the Reds blanked the Phillies 4-0, Pittsburgh defeated the Cardinals 5-3, the Mets downed the Braves 3-1 and the Dodgers whipped the Cubs 4-2.

The Dodgers put their Sunday game out of reach against Cubs' starter Larry Jackson with a four-run first inning uprising built on Jim Lefebvre's run - producing single and a three-run homer by Lou Johnson. Ron Fairly singled home the final run in the third inning.

SNAP 1-1 TIE

The Giants snapped a 1-1 tie against the Astros in the seventh on singles by Tom Haller, Tito Fuentes and winning pitcher Bob Bolin. Jim Davenport provided an eighth-inning homer.

Felipe Alou and Lee Thomas homered for the Braves but the Mets came out on top by scoring in the ninth without a hit. That brought their record to 9-1, the first time in their five-year history they have had a winning record at any point in the season.

Bill Murphy walked to open the ninth for the Mets and raced to third when Thomas picked up Larry Bearnarth's bunt and threw it into centre field. Reliever Billy O'Dell then walked Ed Bressoud and Ron Swoboda, forcing in the tie breaking run.

The Pirates, who had lost 18 in a row to the Cardinals at Pittsburgh's Forbes Field, made it two in a row over St. Louis when Bill Mazeroski lofted a sacrifice fly with the bases loaded in the ninth.

Rich Allen's two-run homer in the first inning gave the Phillies' all the runs they needed as Chris Short kept 10 Cincinnati hits well scattered.

Softball Registration Successful

No figures were announced but the Belleville Minor Softball Association's player registration day on Saturday was termed "most successful" by publicity director Keith MacDonald.

Any boys who were unable to register on Saturday have been asked to do so at the Recreation Centre some day this week.

Due to the heavy registration, there is once again an urgent need for coaches in all divisions. Any person interested in helping the youngsters in coaching or as an assistant coach is asked to contact either Ted Spracklett, president of the B.M.S.A., vice-president Don Bronson or Keith MacDonald.

All interested persons are asked to also attend a general meeting scheduled for the Recreation Centre on Wednesday, April 27, at 7:00 p.m.

Playoff Today

Brewer, Palmer Deadlocked

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—There's one thing about golfer Gay Brewer. He doesn't pick on any soft touches in a playoff.

Brewer's opponent in an 18-hole playoff today was a fellow named Arnold Palmer, with whom he tied after the regulation 72 holes Sunday in the $100,000 Tournament of Champions.

One week ago, he faced Jack Nicklaus and Tommy Jacobs over 18 holes after they deadlocked in the Masters.

Nicklaus won that one with a two-under par 70, Jacobs had 72 and Gay 78.

Palmer and Brewer met once before under the same conditions and Arnie won in a sudden-death test in the West Palm Beach Open in 1958.

Brewer went into Sunday's final 18 holes leading Palmer by five strokes.

Palmer, with an eagle three on the fifth hole, cut the margin by three strokes in five holes, caught Gay on the 13th hole with a birdie three and went ahead for the first time on the 17th, again with a birdie three.

Came the 72nd and final hole. All Arnie needed to win was a par four.

He booked his drive into deep rough and was 70 yards short of the green with his second shot. A wedge shot ran 12 feet past the pin and he missed the putt.

Nicklaus, starting with a disastrous 76, finished at 288 and Gary Player was even higher at 294.

QUALITY HOMES AT LOWEST PRICES IN EASTERN ONTARIO

OVER 1,000 IN EASTERN ONTARIO

Maurice H. Rollins Construction Ltd., one of Ontario's largest home builders and land developers, has built over 1,000 new homes in the past 10 years. Originating in Belleville, Ontario, Rollins Const. Ltd. has expanded through volume selling to many major cities in the province. This rapid growth was primarily due to lower selling prices.

RIGID INSPECTIONS ENSURE BETTER CRAFTSMANSHIP AND QUALITY CONTROL

In spite of lower selling prices, Rollins Const. Ltd. have been able to sustain an exceptionally high standard of workmanship and quality control. This is accomplished by rigid inspections conducted by Rollins Construction Ltd. from the first stages of construction right through to one full year after the buyer has taken occupancy. Another reason is that all skilled labor men have a minimum of 10 years experience in their particular trade. Rollins Const. Ltd. has adopted the Rollins Modern technique in home building, a technique that has been adopted in England and the Netherlands upon invitation from the Roland Government.

THE SECRET IS MERCHANDISING

USES ONLY TOP BRAND MATERIALS

SPORTS SLICES

By Geo. H. Carver
Sports Editor

"If just once to show that when you're right you can beat anybody," mused Tex Blaha the memory of the massacre of the Maple Leaf tenderfeet still fresh in his memory.

"Seven wins in a row in the final games of the schedule gave some people the impression the Habs had worked too hard and would fall apart in the semi-finals. They should have finished second and met Detroit in the other series."

But the Flying Habitants took everything in their stride with nobody but a believer in miracles thinking they would scuttle the highly-touted Maple Leafs twice in their own harbor.

Perhaps the Leafs, frustrated and beaten before they took the ice for the fourth game helped scuttle their own ship by opening the seacocks of back-alley brawling. The only semblance to sportsmanship they showed came after the game when the saner majority shook hands with their conquerors.

Right now — and this is being written before yesterday's game — it looks like the big bash will come between the Canadiens and the Red Wings and —I'll go all out— with the Habs grabbing the Stanley Cup gold and glory for the second year in a row.

That puts me in line for a membership in the Peever-Mahoney-McGee Pea Soup Pioneers Club to which I'll contribute the buck I won off Scotty Johnstone, the Queen's Irish-Anglican Scotsman, for Scotty's loyalty to the Leafs was unsurpassed. He dog deeply beneath the wee kilty to pay off his faith in lmlach and company in Scottish shekels.

Bobby Hull, again the victim of injury circumstances, and I understand is in some controversy over the publishing of a book of his hockey life, could author another "Mr and My Shadows" with an all-Hastings county cast.

The records have it that Ed. Westfall of the Bruins was born in Belleville, Bob Dillabough in Mc-Arthur's Mills, "fifty six miles northwest of Kingston" and directly north of this city while Bryan Watkin, his latest shadow Nemesis, first saw the light o' day in Bancroft.

Detroit Red Wings coach Sid Abel, the Motor City's Sherlock Holmes has lately been calling "Quick Watkin, the needle" and the big boy from the deer-hunting haunts of D'Amelia has responded.

They call him Brash Bryan down around Detroit way and especially in the vicinity of Olympia. He is the people's choice down thataway and if he continues to 307 Bobby Hull in whatever games remain he'll probably be the hero of a new television series.

During the first three games of the series Watkin shadowed Hull so closely they could have been wearing the same suit of underwear. In the four game he attached himself to Marse Robert so much they looked like Siamese twins on skates.

Limiting Hull to two shots on goal he furnished the leing to his own cake by fixing Detroit's fourth goal. Watson, I'm told, taunts Hull on the ice but the Point Anne star brushes that off. He's too smart a hockey player to let any Canuks Clay verbal tactics daunt him.

He was asked if Watson's persistent checking and hooking irritates him. Bobby smiled. "When he scores goals it irritates me" he said. "Let it go at that".

There is little doubt the Red Wings are geared to put the clamps on Hull. They took three sentences in the fourth game when Watson went off for holding; Gadsby for interference and Bergman for holding.

But yesterday Billy Reay started Hull in centre while Watkin didn't see much action in the first period. Hull flattened him in the first move — but Reay thinks maintaining that Stanley Cup form were on to take the game goalies behind superb Ullman and Howe.

Here and now it looks like the Wings in six — but don't sell the Hawks short. Tor can bounce back and win two straight — it has been done before — but they'll have to do a lot better target shooting than they've shown so far in this series.

Wins Women's Golf Tourney

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—Carol Mann, shouting "who, me!" won the Raleigh Ladies Invitational golf tournament Sunday when Kathy Whitworth took a two-stroke penalty and a crushing eight at the last hole.

Miss Mann of Towson, Md., posted a closing 74 for an even-par 216, one shot ahead of Miss Whitworth and fast finishing Ann Prentice. She won $1,500 of the $10,000 prize money.

Margie Masters of Ottawa and Jeannette Rector won $50 each when they ended in a tie at 222.

Wings' Big Guns Best Hawk Rifles

By STERLING TAYLOR

CHICAGO (CP)—Three times in two consecutive Stanley Cup playoff years Normie Ullman had three-goal games against Chicago Black Hawks. This time it was beginning to look as though the Hawks had the slifty Detroit Red Wing under control.

But Sunday the tireless centre made a bid to turn the trick again. He fired the first goal of the game in the first period. In the second period he had a clean breakaway on Chicago goaltender Glenn Hall but failed to score. In the third he took the puck all the way down the ice and beat Hall on a neat backhander.

It wasn't a three-goal game, but it was enough for a 5-3 victory that brought the Red Wings back to Detroit with a 3-2 lead in their best-of-seven semi-final.

"You see, there it is," said Chicago coach Billy Reay. "Ullman never got a goal against us all season and in four playoff games until today."

The 30-year-old native of Provost, Alta., who led the National Hockey League with 42 goals in the 1965-66 season, didn't exactly starve in the current campaign despite his drought against Chicago. He picked up 35 goals against the other four clubs.

OUTSCORE THE HAWKS

"Their big guns are outplaying our big guns," Reay said. "That's the story in a nutshell."

The Red Wings, fourth in the regular schedule, have outscored the second-place Hawks 19-8 in the current series. Besides Ullman's two goals, three have come from Gordie Howe and four from Andy Bathgate, a big gun by past reputation but a scoring disappointment since he joined Detroit this season.

Bobby Hull, who put 10 of his record-breaking 54 goals into the Detroit net in 8 regular-season meetings, has beaten the Red Wings only twice in this series. Stan Mikita and Ken Wharram, the other Chicago scoring aces, have one goal apiece.

Bathgate, Howe and defensive expert Val Fonteyne joined Ullman on the score sheet for Detroit Sunday. For the Hawks it was Hull, left - winger Doug Mohns and defenceman Pat Stapleton.

"I guess we were just going for too much during the season," Reay said. "We had Hull going for a scoring record and a goals record and the team was going for the NHL championship."

The league title eluded the Hawks but Hull got his two records, 54 goals and 97 points. Reay was asked if the effort might have slowed down the Golden Jet for the playoffs.

"I'll take the 54 goals and 97 points anytime instead of the Stanley Cup," the Chicago coach replied. "This is what hockey is sold on. When the fans come to see Bobby, they see him give his best." But Reay wasn't ready to write off the cup yet.

"Actually, I didn't think we played too badly today," he said. "There's still two games to go and we'll be playing for the Stanley Cup."

Ullman opened the scoring at the 8:14 mark of the opening period after the Hawks had kept the Detroit club in its own end for most of the first eight minutes.

The hard - working centre scooped up a rebound and scored from close in. Hall was still off balance from stopping Bruce MacGregor's shot.

Fonteyne made it 2-0 just after the 15-minute mark. The Detroit forward went over the Chicago blue line, battled Stapleton for the puck and beat Hall from about 30 feet out.

Bathgate put it out of the Hawks' reach at 1:19 of the second period, batting Dean Prentice's pass past Hall.

Stapleton was a standout for the Hawks, assisting on both Hull's and Mohns' goals as well as scoring one of his own.

The Hawks outshot the Wings 31-27 but many of their shots were from well out.

Bathgate's goal was the ninth power-play marker of the series for the Wings, who scored once against the Hawks during their 14 regular season meetings.

Both clubs left for Detroit after the contest for the sixth game Tuesday. A seventh game, if necessary, will be played here Thursday.

Riteway Wins Brampton "B" Championship

Whoever coined the phrase "Good things come in small packages" might well have been talking about the Belleville Riteways hockey team.

The smallest but winningest club in Belleville, the Ritewaye rode triumphantly into the city yesterday after capturing the week-long Brampton Novice Hockey tournament's "B" championship.

Riteways compiled an outstanding record on their way to the "B" crown and came within a matter of seconds of adding the grand championship before losing a heart-breaking 6-5 overtime decision to Kitchener.

The loss was the only one for Belleville in the tournament compared with seven victories and one tie.

Riteways were met at the entrances to the city yesterday afternoon by Taxs, roisitves and city police and fire officials. A twin motorcycle escort cleared the parade route.

The boys led the parade, riding in the cruisers, with their proud coach and manager, Moe Hunter and Don Whelan, close behind.

Horns blowing, the 35-car parade wound up at City Hall where Alderman Ken Soden welcomed the team home on behalf of the city.

"We are all very proud of you boys and once again you have proven that Belleville does not take a back seat to anyone," Soden told the boys.

"I can speak on behalf of Mayor Ellis, myself and in fact all of the city when I assure you that the team will be recognized in a tangible way at the next council meeting," he added.

The team posed for pictures, sporting their hard-won crests and holding individual trophies, as well as the big one received for their come-from-behind 3-3 "B" titular win over Barrie.

In that game, Saturday morning, Barrie jumped ahead 2-0 in the first nine minutes. Tim Whelan from Wally Dainard cut the lead in half in period's end.

Mark Coates tied it from Grant Goegan and Dainard early in the third and Goegan triggered the winning goal at 13:33, aided by Mike Watt and Peter Crawford. Terry Marek played the game in goal with one of his many fine performances. Marek and Brian Duffy shared goal-tending duties during the tournament.

Following the "B" championship, Riteways met Woodbridge, the "D" champions, for the right to meet the "A" champs for the grand championship.

Riteways blanked Woodbridge 5-0. Tim Whelan scored in the first period, Mike Watt in the second, team captain Mark Coates and Martin Thistle in the third.

Kitchener had won the "A" crown and the final game was a thriller. Kitchener led 3-1 after one heat and Riteways moved ahead 4-3 after two.

Riteways appeared to have the title wrapped up when leading 5-3 with only one minute and 56 seconds remaining to play. Kitchener battled back to tie it with 15 seconds left in regulation time. D. Wallace scored the winner at 5:10 of overtime, his third goal of the game, forcing the Riteways to settle for over-all runners-up honors.

Andy Ricketts and Grant Goegan scored two goals each for Belleville with Wally Dainard notching the other. Peter Semrke, David Flesch, Martin Thistle, Richard Barrett and Dainard had assists.

Goegan was chosen second star of the game, behind Kitchener's Wallace. Tim Whelan and Peter Smrke were also great in a losing effort.

On Friday, Riteways reached the "B" finals by cutting Oak Ridges 4-3 and 3-1. Grant Goegan had two goals and an assist, Mark Coates one of each and Andy Ricketta a goal in the first game. They trailed in the second until Coats, Crawford and Coates again scored in that order. Whelan earned two assists, Ricketts, Flesch and Goegan one each.

Earlier in the week, Belleville eliminated Simcoe and Galt.

Coach Hunter paid tribute to his players and said the teams had compiled a record of only eight losses in 50 games this year, "but it sure was heartbreaking for the kids to lose that 6-5 overtime game."

PROUD CHAMPIONS smiling from the City Hall entrance here are the Belleville Riteway's "B" champions of the Brampton Novice Hockey Tournament. Everton Springs Big Upset

LONDON (Reuters) — Everton, the English First Division side, sprang the biggest surprise of Saturday's soccer program when it announced it changes for its game against Leeds United. Everton lost 4-1.

The club said all its regular first team players were injured or ill. None of Saturday's team had been a regular member of the team which had been so successful in recent weeks.

Everton meets Manchester United in the Football Association Cup semi-final next Saturday.

Unless Everton can satisfy the football league management committee that its team was the strongest they could possibly field, they face a heavy fine. In 1961, Burnley was fined £1,000 ($3,000) for not fielding its strongest side against Chelsea.

Liverpool, with a 2-0 win over Stoke City, now needs only one point from its three remaining games to clinch the championship and a place in the European cup next season.

CHALLENGERS LOSE

Liverpool's nearest challengers, with the exception of Leeds all lost. Burnley went down 2-1 against Aston Villa; Chelsea was beaten 3-0 by Sunderland, and Manchester United fell 3-1 to Sheffield United.

Fulham, by winning its seventh game in eight outings, still has a fighting chance of avoiding relegation to the Second Division. With Blackburn certain to go down, the remaining place is between Fulham, Northampton—which had a 1-1 tie with Hotspurs in London — and Aston Villa.

Fulham twice trailed in his match against Sheffield Wednesday, but finally won 4-2. Sheffield meets Chelsea in next Saturday's other FA Cup semi-final.

Manchester City, scoring a 4-1 win against Bolton Wanderers, took over the lead in the Second Division from Huddersfield Town, beaten 4-1 by Derby County.

Riteway Wins Brampton "B" Championship

Whoever coined the phrase "Good things come in small packages" might well have been talking about the Belleville Riteways hockey team.

The smallest but winningest club in Belleville, the Ritewaye rode triumphantly into the city yesterday after capturing the week-long Brampton Novice Hockey tournament's "B" championship.

Riteways compiled an outstanding record on their way to the "B" crown and came within a matter of seconds of adding the grand championship before losing a heart-breaking 6-5 overtime decision to Kitchener.

The loss was the only one for Belleville in the tournament compared with seven victories and one tie.

Riteways were met at the entrances to the city yesterday afternoon by Taxs, roisitves and city police and fire officials. A twin motorcycle escort cleared the parade route.

The boys led the parade, riding in the cruisers, with their proud coach and manager, Moe Hunter and Don Whelan, close behind.

Horns blowing, the 35-car parade wound up at City Hall where Alderman Ken Soden welcomed the team home on behalf of the city.

"We are all very proud of you boys and once again you have proven that Belleville does not take a back seat to anyone," Soden told the boys.

"I can speak on behalf of Mayor Ellis, myself and in fact all of the city when I assure you that the team will be recognized in a tangible way at the next council meeting," he added.

The team posed for pictures, sporting their hard-won crests and holding individual trophies, as well as the big one received for their come-from-behind 3-3 "B" titular win over Barrie.

In that game, Saturday morning, Barrie jumped ahead 2-0 in the first nine minutes. Tim Whelan from Wally Dainard cut the lead in half in period's end.

Mark Coates tied it from Grant Goegan and Dainard early in the third and Goegan triggered the winning goal at 13:33, aided by Mike Watt and Peter Crawford. Terry Marek played the game in goal with one of his many fine performances. Marek and Brian Duffy shared goal-tending duties during the tournament.

Following the "B" championship, Riteways met Woodbridge, the "D" champions, for the right to meet the "A" champs for the grand championship.

Riteways blanked Woodbridge 5-0. Tim Whelan scored in the first period, Mike Watt in the second, team captain Mark Coates and Martin Thistle in the third.

Kitchener had won the "A" crown and the final game was a thriller. Kitchener led 3-1 after one heat and Riteways moved ahead 4-3 after two.

Riteways appeared to have the title wrapped up when leading 5-3 with only one minute and 56 seconds remaining to play. Kitchener battled back to tie it with 15 seconds left in regulation time. D. Wallace scored the winner at 5:10 of overtime, his third goal of the game, forcing the Riteways to settle for over-all runners-up honors.

Andy Ricketts and Grant Goegan scored two goals each for Belleville with Wally Dainard notching the other. Peter Semrke, David Flesch, Martin Thistle, Richard Barrett and Dainard had assists.

Goegan was chosen second star of the game, behind Kitchener's Wallace. Tim Whelan and Peter Smrke were also great in a losing effort.

On Friday, Riteways reached the "B" finals by cutting Oak Ridges 4-3 and 3-1. Grant Goegan had two goals and an assist, Mark Coates one of each and Andy Ricketta a goal in the first game. They trailed in the second until Coats, Crawford and Coates again scored in that order. Whelan earned two assists, Ricketts, Flesch and Goegan one each.

Earlier in the week, Belleville eliminated Simcoe and Galt.

Coach Hunter paid tribute to his players and said the teams had compiled a record of only eight losses in 50 games this year, "but it sure was heartbreaking for the kids to lose that 6-5 overtime game."

Tribe Still Unbeaten; Tigers Lose 1st

Liant Hero

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A new and hungrier Luis Tiant promises to be a bigger help to Cleveland Indians than the well-grounded 1963 model.

The Cuban right hander scattered seven hits Sunday as he beat Boston Red Sox 6-0, posting the first shutout of the American League season and preserving the Tribe's status as the only unbeaten team in the majors.

A top-notch rookie in 1964, Tiant reported to the Cleveland training camp the following spring weighing 201 pounds and posted an 11-11 record at the end of the season, disappointing after the 10-6 he had turned in the year before.

Last winter, the 25-year-old pitcher told reporters he stopped eating greasy foods, starch, chocolate and other waist-expanding fare. He turned up this spring weighing 182, to the delighted surprise of manager Birdie Tebbetts.

In junior American League games, Washington Senators handed Detroit Tigers their first defeat, 10-4, Baltimore Orioles edged New York Yankees 5-4 and Chicago White Sox won the first game of a scheduled doubleheader 5-0 over Kansas City Athletics. Rain caused the late nightcap and also a scheduled game between California Angels and Minnesota Twins.

Saturday, Baltimore thrashed the Yankees 7-2, Detroit topped the Senators 7-5, the Angels edged the Twins 3-2, the White Sox nipped the Athletics 3-1 in 11 innings and Cleveland outlasted Boston 3-2 in 10 innings.

Tiant, who struck out nine, received home run support Sunday from Rocky Colavito and Duke Sims as the Indians sent the winless Red Sox to their fifth defeat. The Indians are 4-0.

A grand-slam homer by Washington pinch-hitter Bob Chance highlighted a six-run outburst in the seventh inning that stopped the Tigers' five-game winning streak. Ken McMullen contributed another homer to the rally. The victory was the first for the Senators, who had lost three.

Shortstop Bobby Murcer made his third error of the game in the eighth inning, a miscue that helped Baltimore score two runs and down New York. Chairman Lau brought in the tying run with a sacrifice fly, and Curt Blefary's single drove in the winner.

John Buzhardt picked up the Baltimore's second victim a couple of hours after Tiant got his, stopping Kansas City on three hits in a rain-delayed game. Floyd Robinson led the White Sox attack with two singles and a home run.

Edge SACO 2-1

Daubers Quinte Champs

Trailing 1-0 at the end of the first period, Ter-Haar Daubers eked out a 2-1 victory over SACO before a good crowd Saturday night to win the Quinte Hockey League playoff championship.

Ter-Haar won the evenly-contested best-of-seven titular series three games to two, with two ties.

It was a matter of history repeating itself for both clubs. Last season, SACO finished in first place and lost to Ter-Haar in the finals. It was the same this season.

The game, and in fact the whole series, was as close as the score indicates.

SACO moved in front at 3:26 of the first heat when Gary Little scored from the side of the net. Jack Lucas and Larry Potter assisted on the goal.

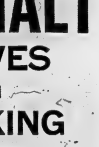
From there on, Dauber goalie Gerry Genereaux slammed the door. He got stiff opposition from French in the opposing net. Both goalies had a half dozen close calls.

Jack Calnan tied it for Ter-Haar at 6.12 of the second. Knocked to the ice, he scored while on his knees as French slid out to block the attempt. Dennis Money and Ron Pointer drew assists on the play.

Ron Urch proved the hero of the piece at 5.36 of the third. Calnan's pass sent Urch in on the right wing and his close-in shot beat French for the winning marker.

Both sides went all out over the remainder and SACO shoved six attackers into the battle in the dying seconds to no avail.

SACO drew two minor penalties and a misconduct, to Gary Genereaux while Ter-Haar had only one minor over the route.



Referees for the game were J. P. Lamirande and Eddie Marineau

The Quinte League banquet will be held at Club Cedars this coming Friday night.

Northern Goalies Hurt

Generals Clobber Trappers 11-2

OSHAWA (CP) — North Bay Trappers need a goaltender for the balance of their Eastern Canada Memorial Cup semi-final hockey series, with good reason.

Both their regular netminders are injured after having 118 shots laced at them, in two games by Oshawa Generals.

North Bay coach Howie Farher said he may ask permission from the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association to pick up another goalie for the remainder of the best-of-seven series which Oshawa leads 2-0 after an 11-2 victory Saturday night.

The Generals, with scoring while Bobby Orr leading the way, have pumped 22 goals past regular netminders Andre Lalande and Matt Thorpe and emergency replacemenp Dave Harcourt so far in the series.

Orr, who had three goals and four assists in Friday night's opener, added another marker and four assists Saturday. It was just too much for Lalande and Thorpe, who hobbled into the fray despite assorted leg injuries that finally forced them to the sidelines.

Lalande, crippled in the first game, failed to last beyond the first 55 seconds Saturday because of a muscle seizure in the calf of his right leg.

LEG WENT NUMB

Thorpe stepped in and carried on until late in the second period when his leg went numb from a muscle injury. Lalande went back in but had to retire with 5½ minutes to go.

Harcourt, a six-foot-two goalie weighing more than 200 pounds, replaced Lalande and finished the game. He normally plays in the midget division.

"I'm not sure what the procedure is now," said Parker. "We might continue with Harcourt or we might ask for a replacement."

The Trappers, who play the third and fourth games of the series in North Bay tonight and Wednesday, have already been allowed to bolster their squad with six players from other clubs in the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series.

Chris Hayes, Wayne Cashman and Billy Heindl each scored twice for the Generals, who won the playoffs in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series after finishing fourth, while Orr, Ron Duxsiaume, Bill White, Danny Sandford and Danny O'Shea picked up one goal each.

Bob Cosie scored North Bay's opening goal and Marty Reynolds got the other.

The Generals outshot the Trappers 37-18. Oshawa's margin was 61-25 Friday night.

Trenton Teams Drop Finals At North Bay

NORTH BAY (CP)—Toronto Faustina peewees and minor bantams won two titles each Saturday at the Little National Hockey League tournament.

Faustina peewees defeated Trenton 9-0 for the AA division championship and then defeated St. Catharines A division champions 4-3 for the over-all peewee title.

In the minor bantam clash, Faustina edged Trenton 2-1 for the division AA title and squeaked past Barrie by the same score in the over-all championship game.

Orillia defeated Trenton 6-2 in the AA bantam series title game, but lost to Barrie, A division bantam winners, 7-3 in the battle for the over-all title.

Indians, Barons Win Series

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Springfield Indians and Cleveland Barons swept through their Calder Cup quarter-finals in apiece-pole order on the weekend, but Rochester Americans and Quebec Aces showed signs of dragging out their semi-final to the limit.

The Indians polished off Hershey Bears 2-1 Saturday and 7-4 Sunday to sweep their best-of-five series in three games.

The Barons also completed a three-game sweep, winning 4-2 over Pittsburgh Hornets Saturday to wrap up their best-of-five set.

But the Aces, playing at home, downed the Americans 5-2 to square the best-of-seven semi-final at a game each.

The Indians, who meet Cleveland in a best-of-seven semi-final opening this week, finished third in the American Hockey League Eastern Division during the schedule, 14 points behind Hershey. They eliminated the Bears in a free-wheeling game Sunday in which the lead changed hands three times.

Howie Menard was the big hero for Springfield, scoring two goals including the winner. Brian Kilrea also potted a pair while Gerry Foley, Roger Cote and Barclay Plager added one each. Roger DeJordy, with two goals, Myron Stankiewicz and Gene Ubriaco scored for Hershey.

Estevan Ousts Forts 5-4

ESTEVAN, Sask. (CP)—Terry Kerr's goal in sudden-death overtime Saturday night gave Estevan Bruins a 5-4 victory over Fort William Canadiens and a ticket to the Western Canada junior hockey final against Edmonton Oil Kings.

The win gave the Saskatchewan Junior Hockey League champions a 4-3 triumph in their best-of-seven series with the Canadiens.

Kerr's goal, before 3,200 fans in a 2,100-seat arena, came at 7:33 of the second overtime period after the teams had fought scoreless through a first 10-minute extra session.

It was the first time in 41 games this season that Fort William, the Thunder Bay League champions, have lost two games in a row. Bruins had forced the seventh game with a 4-3 win Friday night in a game that was called at 19:43 of the third period because of a brawl.

The western final between Bruins and the Oil Kings, perennial western champs, opens here Wednesday and the second game will be here Friday.

Hauls In 29-Pound Brown Trout

PIERRE FORKS, Mont. (AP) — A 29-pound brown trout, one of the largest ever caught in Montana and perhaps the United States, was taken in a southwest Montana mountain lake, it was reported Saturday.

E. H. Peck Bacon of Three Forks caught the fish Wednesday from Hebgen Lake boat dock at Wade Lake, near the Montana-Idaho border.

The fish was 39½ inches long and 28 inches in girth. The tail was 10 inches across. The span between the eyes was 5½ inches.

Montana fish and game people were unable to tell of any larger brown trout ever caught in the state.

Biologists figured the fish to be at least 15 years old, but information about fish that old is rare.

Bacon, a tale plant supervisor, said he made his catch on a metal lure with a four-pound test line on conventional gear.

Wade Lake, still three-quarters frozen over, is open to fishing the year round.

Cassius Signs Contract

CHICAGO—(AP) — World heavyweight champion Cassius Clay signed a contract Saturday night to defend his title May 23 in London against Henry Cooper, the only boxer who has ever knocked him down.

"He's got a punch, a good punch," Clay said of his British opponent, whom he fought in 1963. "It'll have to be a very fine one."

Clay's lawyer, Edward W. Jacko, said the agreement gives the champ 50 per cent of the live gate, with a $250,000 guarantee.

Clay indicated that after the Cooper fight, he'd like to take on West Germany's Karl Mildenberger, ranked fourth among heavyweight contenders by Ring magazine.

BRIDE KILLED

CAVARZERE, Italy (AP)—A 16-year-old bride was killed Sunday, two hours after her marriage, when a car with the wedding party collided on a wet road and plunged down a ravine. Four others, including her 19-year-old husband, were injured in the accident near this town in northern Italy's Po Valley.

Paul Anka, F. Fontaine At O'Keefe

Making his first Toronto appearance since he became an international star, Paul Anka will be seen at O'Keefe Centre in a variety show for one week, commencing April 25, sharing the stage with the popular television comedian, Frank Fontaine, the "Crazy Guggenhaim" of the Jackie Gleason Show.

The bill will also include a new vocal and instrumental group. The Starlights' Six — four men and two girls who specialize in Broadway show tunes.

Ottawa's Paul Anka was only 13 when he wrote and recorded his first hit, "Diana," which subsequently sold in the millions and launched him explosively as one of the youngest— and biggest—stars of the popular music field. Since then, his travels have taken him all over the world. From the Philippines and Japan to Chile, Argentina, Sweden, Spain and Italy. One of his more recent highlights of his career was a six city tour of Poland at the special invitation of the Polish government. He is one of the few popular North American entertainers to perform behind the Iron Curtain.

As a composer, Paul has written 300 songs and no fewer than 15 of his records have sold more than 1,000,000 copies. He has also composed music for the shows at New York's Copacabana, the theme for Johnny Carson's "Tonight" show, and the title song for the movie "The Longest Day" in which he also played a featured role.

Frank Fontaine was another young starter in the entertainment world. At 17 he created a radio and night club character named Crazy Guggenheim —Sweepstakes Winner—which had Hollywood knocking at his door. On the west coast, he made twelve motion pictures, including "Scared Stiff" with Jerry Lewis and "Here Comes the Groom" with Bing Crosby.

It was with an invitation to appear on the very first Ed Sullivan show, however, that his future in television was assured. Later on he was to be joined Jackie Gleason's company and become a regular comic character in the weekly Gleason TV series, creating the now famous Crazy Guggenheim character which he soon often acts as straight man. It was during this series that he discovered a new facet to his talents — a fine singing voice — which is now used as counter - balance to his comedy.

Bob Hope Will Preside Over Oscar Awards

By GENE HANDSAKER

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) Ending two months' suspense for nominees and fans, the movie academy presents its 32th annual Oscar awards tonight before an auditorium audience of 2,800. Bob Hope will preside over the ceremonies for the 12th time.

The two-hour show starts at 7 p.m. (10 p.m. EST) over the CBC and ABC radio and television networks.

The stage setting at the Santa Monica Civic Auditorium is described as one of the most lavish yet. It features two dozen fountains and pools.

An aide says the academy has taken out $5,000,000 insurance, at a cost of $6,000, against the possibility of the temporary plumbing bringing a slippery leak.

After the ceremonies, 1,500 will attend the Oscar ball at the Beverly Hilton Hotel.

The Academy of Motion Pictures Arts and Sciences expects a big turnout of movie celebrities for the Oscar show although as always some won't make it.

Seven acting nominees won't appear. Most are Britons making films in Europe, Richard Burton and Laurence Olivier among them.

REX WILL ATTEND

Rex Harrison, after flying here from his home near Rome, presents the best - actress award. He was last year's acting winner for My Fair Lady.

Since the nominations were announced Feb. 21, the academy's voting membership of some 2,800 has picked winners in every ballot. Results are announced by accounting firm's closely-guarded secret.

Who's favorites? A veteran, close observer of the Hollywood scene says speculation runs like this:

"The Sound of Music as best picture and Julie Andrews (The Pawnbroker) as best actor.

"On the women's side it's between two 21-year-olds, Andrews (Sound of Music) won last year (Mary Poppins), which I suppose hurts her chances a little. And there's a lot of sentiment for Christie (Darling).

"Bob Wise (director of Music) would win for directing. Among supporting actors, the academy event seems to be for Ruth Gordon (Inside Daisy Clover), and Tom Courtenay (Dr. Zhivago)."

TRAIN TUNNEL AID MEN

REGINA (CP)—The provincial civil defence department proposes to train a total of 200 potash miners for underground rescue operations. Similar programs, training teams of six to eight men, are in operation in other mines in other provinces.

At the Belle

BUETON, BLOOM AND "THE SPY"

A winning combination of talent sets the dynamic pace for Paramount Pictures' "The Spy Who Came In From The Cold" opening Wednesday at the Belle Theatre. Martin Ritt, famed producer-director brought the very sensational and provocative Richard Burton together with the very sensitive and poignant Claire Bloom. Mixed in this volatile situation is one of Europe's finest and most brilliant actors, Oskar Werner. Based on Ian Fleming's novel, the film deals with the very blunt and shocking story of modern espionage, in which tactics, sometimes harsh and cruel, are critically and excitingly revealed.

The Paramount production, from a screen play by Paul Dehn, features Peter Van Eyck, Cyril Cusack and Sam Wanamaker.

A funny colorfun Cartoon "Hip Hip Ole", and a Color Novelette precede the exhibition of the Feature Creation.

Young U.C. Minister Dismissed From Charge Over Sermons on Sex

TORONTO (CP)—The Globe and Mail says a United Church minister who told his congregation there are instances where sex outside marriage is permissible has been dismissed from his charge.

The newspaper quotes Rev. Harry MacKay, 29, associate minister of Richmond Hill United Church, as saying Friday he believes that two sermons he preached in October on the commitment of young couples were largely responsible for his dismissal.

Mr. MacKay came to the community 12 miles north of Toronto from North Bay where he was New Democratic Party candidate for Nipissing in a federal byelection.

The newspaper said this morning he will be detached from the Richmond Hill church as of June 30.

"Mr. MacKay said the board of Richmond Hill United Church passed a motion of stricture against him after criticism was voiced on his October sermons on the subject of sex for younger persons," the Globe continued. "He said he was told at that time, however, that a committee was studying the matter.

"He said he pointed out in the sermons that the admonition Thou Shalt Not was never so effective as the fear of pregnancy in preventing extra-marital sexual intercourse. With the coming of the birth-control pill, many persons were being forced to change their thinking and abandon old ideas. This meant to him that the clergy had to come up with a more meaningful ministry.

NO VIOLATION

"He said he told the congregation that there were rare instances where unmarried couples could, without violating the finer ethics, indulge in sexual intercourse without being considered promiscuous," the newspaper said.

"He was not preaching that couples going steady should be promiscuous, but that where they two had deep love and feeling for each other there might be instances in which intercourse was justifiable."

The Globe quoted Rev. Alhson Wright of Markham, Ont., chairman of a March presbytery meeting, as saying he did not think the sex sermons were the main reason for the dismissal.

"Internal problems had developed over a period of months and many meetings were held over them. The sermons were among the subjects discussed at the meetings, he said. The new morality which Mr. MacKay preached received a sympathetic hearing. 'As far as I am concerned, that matter was settled,' the newspaper quoted him.

Rev. Norman Pick of Newmarket, Ont., who presented the dismissal motion to the meeting, said it was acting on a request from the presbytery's pastoral committee.

The presbytery is made up of 30 United Churches serving the area from Richmond Hill to Lake Simcoe.

Mansfield Asks Asian Peace Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., the Senate Democratic Leader said Mansfield presided the state department today to put out diplomatic feelers for an Asian peace conference on Viet Nam.

Mansfield offered what he called a new approach to possible negotiations.

He proposed in the Senate that Hanoi, Peking and "such elements in South Viet Nam as may be essential to the making and keeping of a peaceful settlement" be invited to meet in Burma or Japan.

In a subsequent interview he said: "I would hope that our state department representatives would consult with Burmese and Japanese officials and suggest such action."

In Greensboro, N.C., Senator Wayne Morse predicted a further expansion of the war "so as to justify a total takeover of the government of South Viet Nam by the hundreds of officials there coaching South Vietnamese on how to run affairs."

CRITICIZES LBJ

The Oregon Democrat, a persistent critic of the administration's Asian policies, said President Johnson should have stressed efforts to get South Viet Nam issue before the United Nations.

Senator J. W. Fulbright (Dem. Ark.), the chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee, told a news magazine the Viet Nam struggle would have long since been settled "if we had never stuck our nose in this business.

"It just cannot bring myself to believe that how the Vietnamese work out their internal problems is worth a major war or even gives us the right to intervene."

Mansfield's proposal for increased diplomatic feelers drew praise from some Senators, but it was criticized by the Congress believe any such solution to the war is in the offing.

State Secretary Dean Rusk told the Senate foreign relations committee Monday and admitted division in glad free elections are coming in Viet Nam.

RUSK EFFORT

Rusk's position that a civilian government would be as interested as the present military junta in continuing the fight against the Viet Cong got some support from Senate Democrats.

Buddhist leader Thich Tri Quang.

Quang said in interviews published by Time and Newsweek he wants U.S. troops out of the country to fight the Viet Cong. He said rumors that a civilian government would ask the Americans to leave "are sheer libel."

Maxine Cole Rusk in his Newsweek interview that he opposes participation of the National Liberation Front, political arm of the Viet Cong, in any government established after a settlement.

Rusk said "I have no doubt that South Viet Nam will work out elections in an orderly manner."

Board Decision Is Final

By TOM MITCHELL

OTTAWA (CP) — This Hour Has Seven Days, a television program that has thrived on controversy, paraded its own private one before the public Monday in two separate press conferences.

The three stars of the program, executive producer Doug Ian Leiterman and co - hosts Patrick Watson and Laurier LaPierre, staged one press conference to elaborate on the firing of the two hosts.

J. Alphonse Ouimet, CBC president, staged another to maintain that the replacement of the two hosts was final and irrevocable.

These public statements took place against the background of a series of meetings—of the CBC board of directors in Halifax, of the Association of Television Producers and Directors in Toronto and of the Ottawa public affairs department of the CBC.

The Ottawa meeting was held Monday night, to put Ottawa people in the picture as far as the Leiterman - Watson - LaPierre side of the row is concerned. The other two meetings open today.

According to Mr. Leiterman, the CBC directors' meeting was a determining factor in "lining up the troops and in getting them in such a way that generation of a public hue and cry seemed inevitable."

ONLY ONE RELEASED

While the CBC has said Mr. LaPierre's contract will not be renewed, Mr. Watson has been offered another job, producing a series exploring the Canadian image and Canadian problems in centennial year.

Mr. Watson points emerged in the squabble from the production standpoint.

—Messers Leiterman, Watson and LaPierre have touched on controversial subjects because they feel this is their job.

—They are convinced they have done this well.

—If the CBC was dissatisfied with the program it should have proceeded through normal channels in giving out the word that two of Seven Days' key personalities were being fired.

—There have been complaints about the program but up to a certain point these difficulties were resolved through the normal channels without artificial announcements.

From the management side:

—The program staff tended to limit candid controversial subjects.

—The program sometimes had shown a slanted view of a subject.

—There had been resistance to directives from the management level.

—There had been a lack of "all significant opinions" in handling certain topics.

The Seven Days employees, all on contract and not tenure, resign anytime they felt their principles were being contravened, were miffed because they felt management an-

Gap In Drape Breaks Down Secrecy In Munsinger Probe

By KEN KELLY

OTTAWA (CP) — Secrecy at the Gerda Munsinger inquiry broke down Monday when a gap in a courtroom drape revealed former trade minister Hees addressing the royal commission.

Mr. Hees apparently began to testify after Mr. Justice Wishart Spence rejected for the present an application for public hearings into the Munsinger affair, involving allegations of sex and security.

Reporters were ushered out of the courtroom after a 45-minute open session and the inquiry went into secret session. Photographers shot pictures of Mr. Hees through a two-inch gap in the drape covering a street-level window.

At the open session, Mr. Justice Spence said there is no evidence Mrs. Munsinger, 36-yearold German blonde, was active in espionage work while living in Canada between 1955 and 1961.

The only evidence of such activity, as distinguished from suspicion, related to a period from before 1955 and outside Canada, he said.

SAW NO JUSTIFICATION

The Supreme Court justice made the statement in response to C. F. H. Carson of Toronto, counsel for Opposition Leader Diefenbaker and former justice minister Fulton. The lawyer maintained there is no justification for suggesting the inquiry is into spying.

Mr. Carson said it would be difficult to overstate the degree of public interest and concern that was aroused by charges made by Justice Minister Cardin and the high positions of persons affected.

Mr. Cardin said at a press conference March 10 two or three Conservative cabinet ministers were involved with Mrs. Munsinger and the matter was a bona fide security case.

He said Mr. Diefenbaker misunderstood service to this minister by not referring it to the justice department's legal officers for their opinion.

Mr. Carson argued testimony could be taken in secret about police techniques, sources of information and knowledge of the underworld.

But only through public hearings could people be sure that such serious charges made in public were fully explored.

SUPPORTS PLEA

E. A. Goodman, counsel for Mr. Hees, supported the plea for open hearings. He said he "outrageous untruths and scandalous rumors" about Mr. Hees

Viet Cong Avoiding Battles

SAIGON (AP)—The hardest job facing allied forces in Viet Nam these days is to scrape up a battlefield acquaintance with the Viet Cong.

Some U.S. officers think the Viet Cong guerrillas are short of supplies. Others think they are waiting for the monsoons.

The U.S. command chart shows nine operations — U.S. troops in units from battalion to multi-brigade size—roaming the country during the insurgents to fight.

By refusing to make such contact and by their ability to fade away, the Viet Cong meet the rules, anyway.

Intelligence has come up with a variety of conclusions about the Viet Cong's reluctance to show themselves.

Some officers say they are waiting out the Saigon government's political crisis, widening the unrest as a means of enabling their forces to regroup and watch other South Vietnamese undermine the government.

Some military informants say, however, that in recent weeks patrols have come across squads of Viet Cong who were unarmed except for their leaders' sidearms.

"I'm convinced a lot of North Vietnamese are coming south and there is some Viet Cong recruiting going on," said one authority. "But they are not getting the supplies."

"They are being choked off by the bombing and we have found, raided and destroyed a lot of their caches, tunnels and supply dumps. Every day air power is hitting more and more of them in the country and it stands to reason they are having considerable problem.

Laing Advocates Establishing Areas Solely for Recreation

OTTAWA (CP) — Establishment of new recreation areas by government may be the answer to growing pressure on national parks and the debate raging over the new park policy, Resources Minister Laing said today.

The new areas must be put up soon by all levels of government with the emphasis on recreation, not preservation as it is in the parks. They should provide a wide range of outdoor activities along shorelines, waterways and other recreational areas.

"If these other areas existed, many of the stresses and strains and misunderstandings that have developed around our national parks would be eased," Mr. Laing told the Canadian Forestry Association.

The minister and his department have been severely criticized, especially in Western Canada, for what has been called rigid adherence to the wilderness aspect of the parks.

National parks could continue to cater to outdoor recreation, said Mr. Laing. But the new recreation areas would be devoted to that end only.

"In this way, the great scenic treasures of the nation could be preserved for all time and be available for all people while the heavy recreational pressures would be diverted towards other areas that will cater specifically to this type of use."

Half of the existing park space is in Wood Buffalo Park in the province of Alberta and the Northwest Territories is an area that is relatively inaccessible and undeveloped for tourists.

Of the remaining space, 60 per cent was in the western provinces which account for only 23 per cent of the Canadian population.

Mr. Laing said the federal government will continue to cooperate with the provinces to provide more parks and Ottawa must increase its scientific knowledge in the field of outdoor recreation.

The time to develop new recreation areas was "not in a few years but now."

House Resumes Sitting

By RONALD LEBEL

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons resumes sittings today to debate Opposition supercharged non-confidence motions, a legislative logjam and government threats to use the new guillotine rule.

Political tension appears to have risen instead of subsided during the 12-day Easter recess. Prime Minister Pearson and Opposition Leader Diefenbaker traded bitter words, fresh controversies crupted and an election was called in Quebec.

Mr. Diefenbaker charged last week that the Gerda Munsinger inquiry resembles a "star chamber" set up by the Liberals to punish him.

Mr. Pearson replied that the Conservative leader had poisoned the atmosphere. He said the government may have to keep Parliament in session through July and cut off debate with the time-allocation rule to push through its massive legislative program.

This program was left largely untouched in the 37 sittings before Easter and the parliamentary timetable likely will prevent action for another two weeks.

This week has been set aside for the budget debate and close votes are shaping up on two

Govt. Will Talk to Teachers Only After They End Strike

QUEBEC (CP)—The strike of 2,300 technical teachers in Quebec entered its second week today.

Premier Lesage said after a cabinet meeting Monday night the Quebec government is still "disposed to negotiate" but not until the teachers obey an interim court injunction and return to work.

Two executives of the teachers' union, Jean Roux, vice-president, and Andre Lamontagne, treasurer, appeared before Chief Justice Frederic Dorion of Quebec Superior Court Monday.

Chief Justice Dorion ordered them to return Friday to show cause why they should not be found guilty of disobeying the injunction.

The injunction was issued last Wednesday by Superior Court Justice William Morin, a day after the strike began.

In Montreal, Claude Sabourin, president of the union, Le Syndical des Professeurs de l'Etat du Quebec, protested that his group invited government negotiators to a meeting which was to have taken place Monday.

'SUMMON TWO MEMBERS'

Instead of attending the meeting, "the government preferred to summon two union members, both on the negotiating team, to appear in Quebec Superior Court . . ."

Mr. Sabourin said in a statement the government "has just proved once more that it is not interested in negotiating with the teachers."

Mr. Roux and Mr. Lamontagne were the first executives of the union to appear in court.

New Tolls Proposed For Seaway

By BEN WARD

OTTAWA (CP) — Increased tolls on the St. Lawrence Seaway and a new lockage charge at the Welland Canal were proposed Monday in joint announcements by the Canadian and United States seaway agencies.

The plan, to be debated at public hearings starting here next month, calls for a 10-per-cent toll increase on bulk cargo which makes up almost 90 per cent of seaway traffic. It would raise the rate to 44 cents a ton from 40, applicable to such key items as iron ore, grain, coal and other commodities.

Tolls for general cargo, mainly packaged manufactured goods, would rise to $1 a ton from 90 cents. For the ships themselves the charge would go to 4½ cents per gross registered ton in place of the present four-cent rate, a boost of 12½ per cent.

Biggest surprise, however, was the proposal for a lockage charge at the Welland Canal starting at $20 a lock and increasing by $20 a year to reach $100 a lock in 1971. The eight-lock canal, linking Lake Ontario and Lake Erie, now is a free waterway.

If approved by the Canadian and U.S. governments following the public hearings, all charges would take effect in the 1967 shipping season and remain for five years.

The St. Lawrence Seaway Authority, which operates the Canadian side of the system, will open its hearings in Ottawa May 25. Its American counterparts

Russian Luxury Liner Starts On Maiden Voyage to Montreal

TILBURY, England (CP)— The Soviet liner Alexander Pushkin, new flagship of the Baltic Steamship Line, sailed from here Monday night on her maiden voyage to Quebec City and Montreal.

The Pushkin, inaugurating the first Russian transatlantic service since the 1917 revolution, is scheduled to arrive at Quebec April 26 and Montreal April 28.

The 19,500-ton liner, which sailed from Leningrad April 13, anchored for a few hours in the mouth of the Thames estuary Monday. There are two classes of accommodation—1st and tourist—and the tourist class is divided into 4 subclasses according to standard of comfort, number of berths and position in the ship.

Most public rooms on the liner are open to both classes, but there is a select veranda saloon on the bridge deck reserved for first-class passengers only. A cultural touch: The book-box here plays Beethoven and Grieg as well as Soviet records.

Russia's decision to join the Atlantic passenger steamship conference, which it once denounced as the had to accept the principle of a two-class ship although communism is theoretically a classless society. The Alexandr Pushkin is the first Russian ship in the Soviet merchant fleet.

The Daily Telegraph shipping newspaper commented Monday it will make a £350,000 ($1,050,000) profit on the liner's first year of operation.

The Soviet liner, scheduled to make six round trips this summer between Leningrad and Montreal, will be competing on the British-Canadian part of the Montreal - London Pacific's Empress liners and the smaller Canadiens.

Since Soviet fares are virtually identical with those charged by Western ship operators, the Russians hope to attract Canadian passengers by the distinctively Russian flavor of the vessel.

"We hope also to attract Canadian tourists to the Soviet Union," said an official of Intourist, the Soviet tourist agency, at a press conference on board. He added that special celebrations are being planned on voyages next year—the 30th anniversary of Soviet power in Russia and also Canada's centenary year."

Before the First World War, the Imperial Russian state line of Czarist Russia had several crack passenger liners on the transatlantic run.

The Alexandr Pushkin, named for the 19th-century poet, can accommodate 662 passengers. She was cleryly only on her first voyage to Montreal, mostly Russians, with some Danes and Britons.

Sound of Music Win Oscars

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) Britain's Julie Christie, rugged Lee Marvin and The Sound of Music won the top Oscars for best actress, actor and picture respectively.

The blonde Miss Christie was honored at Monday night's 38th annual academy awards as an English model who sleeps her way to success with a succession of high and low society figures in Darling.

Marvin played the roaringly drunk gunfighter at Cat Ballou.

Julie Andrews, who didn't win for The Sound of Music, did accept an Oscar for its director, Robert Wise, now at work on another picture in Hong Kong.

As a governess for the famed Trapp Family Singers, Miss Andrews had been nominated for best actress. She won the award last year for her governess role in Walt Disney's Mary Poppins.

The award for best performance by an actor in a supporting role went to Martin Balsam in A Thousand Clowns. He played a "square" character. Success, the older brother of Comedian Jason Robards Jr.

Best performance by an actress in a supporting role: Shelley Winters as the hospital mother of a blind girl in A Patch of Blue.

It was Miss Winters' second supporting-actress Oscar — the first such twin victory for any actress. She won in 1959 as Dowdy Dutch housewife in The Diary of Anne Frank.

Hollywood's annual big night went off with all the traditional glitter and glamor. Klieg lights and stands full of shrieking fans outside Santa Monica Civic Auditorium.

One of the loudest ovations was for President Johnson's daughter, Lynda Bird, 22, escorted by actor George Hamilton, 26. Hamilton, with Patty Duke, presented the Oscar for the best achievement in sound to The Sound of Music.

That film and Doctor Zhivago each won five awards. The Sound of Music is the sixth mu-

Gap In Drape Breaks Down Secrecy In Munsinger Probe

By KEN KELLY

OTTAWA (CP) — Secrecy at the Gerda Munsinger inquiry broke down Monday when a gap in a courtroom drape revealed former trade minister Hees addressing the royal commission.

Mr. Hees apparently began to testify after Mr. Justice Wishart Spence rejected for the present an application for public hearings into the Munsinger affair, involving allegations of sex and security.

Reporters were ushered out of the courtroom after a 45-minute open session and the inquiry went into secret session. Photographers shot pictures of Mr. Hees through a two-inch gap in the drape covering a street-level window.

At the open session, Mr. Justice Spence said there is no evidence Mrs. Munsinger, 36-yearold German blonde, was active in espionage work while living in Canada between 1955 and 1961.

The only evidence of such activity, as distinguished from suspicion, related to a period from before 1955 and outside Canada, he said.

SAW NO JUSTIFICATION

The Supreme Court justice made the statement in response to C. F. H. Carson of Toronto, counsel for Opposition Leader Diefenbaker and former justice minister Fulton. The lawyer maintained there is no justification for suggesting the inquiry is into spying.

Mr. Carson said it would be difficult to overstate the degree of public interest and concern that was aroused by charges made by Justice Minister Cardin and the high positions of persons affected.

Mr. Cardin said at a press conference March 10 two or three Conservative cabinet ministers were involved with Mrs. Munsinger and the matter was a bona fide security case.

He said Mr. Diefenbaker misunderstood service to this minister by not referring it to the justice department's legal officers for their opinion.

Mr. Carson argued testimony could be taken in secret about police techniques, sources of information and knowledge of the underworld.

But only through public hearings could people be sure that such serious charges made in public were fully explored.

SUPPORTS PLEA

E. A. Goodman, counsel for Mr. Hees, supported the plea for open hearings. He said he "outrageous untruths and scandalous rumors" about Mr. Hees made him most anxious for public hearings.

Mr. Hees' testimony would relate to the commission-prepared summary of evidence by RCMP officers at the April 4 initial secret opening of the inquiry. He agreed with Mr. Carson that nothing in that document related to national security.

J. L. O'Brien, commission counsel, said the secret hearing was held on his application because it involved documents of a classified character.

The commission had to consider security from two standpoints—disloyalty of a person to Canada and unreliability of persons due to defects in character who may have access to classified information.

He said where there is doubt about the reliability and character of a person the public "must be resolved in favor of the state."

Mr. O'Brien said a certain witness was available but if his testimony was to be freely and fully given it would relate to certain security matters. He did not indicate who the witness was.

He said it would be unfair to have part of the evidence in public and part in camera as he was formally requesting a secret session.

DISCUSSES FUTURE

As to future hearings, a full hearing of each witness could not take place without reference to security matters. Therefore, he planned similar applications for secret sessions for the other witnesses.

Mr. Justice Spence said he has concluded that it would be very difficult to carry out efficiently the task assigned him by the Liberal cabinet unless practically all hearings were in camera.

Those who were cleared by the evidence need have no fear that they will not be publicly cleared. A secret report would be a public document.

The commission would have before it considerable important and confidential information, including cabinet directives. He did not see how cross-examination on these could be carried out without revealing their contents.

He said his "interim decision" is that the inquiry will proceed behind closed doors but he would consider applications from counsel at any time in the future to be present at certain testimony public.

The subsequent secret session lasted about an hour.

Talk on Sales Tax Given Rotary Club

What he termed "delinquency" in the collection of provincial sales tax was minimal, Ross Fraser, director of the district office of the sales tax division of the Ontario government, told Belleville Rotarians yesterday.

"We feel we are obtaining almost 100 per cent of the tax due," said Mr. Fraser. He pointed out that a computer was being brought into use at division headquarters, although it was not to be utilized at full capacity. Administrative costs, he said, were also low.

Rotarians were given a classification talk on the operation of the sales tax division by Don Thrush, auditor in the district office in Belleville, and Mr. Fraser answered members' questions.

Among points made by Mr. Fraser was one explaining that of the title to goods had passed to a purchaser before the introduction of the five per cent tax April 1, the tax paid would have been at the old rate of three per cent, even though delivery might have been made after April 1.

"This is not a tax on 'tangible personal property,'" said Mr. Fraser, but on the "conversion of tangible personal property." Live bait or, worms, he said, were regarded as tangible personal property and were subject to tax.

If customers so request, it is in order for restaurants to furnish separate cheques in order to avoid sales tax on a bill over a certain amount.

"We have a booklet for the construction business and others dealing with it, which sets out many examples of sales tax provisions."

Mr. Fraser said it was the responsibility of the vendor, having the vendor's permit, to collect tax from the purchaser. However, if the tax were not collected, there was an onus on the purchaser to pay it.

Hees Critical Of 'Seven Days' Dismissals

BRIGHTON — Strong criticism of what he termed the federal government's "negative" budget, of lack of business know-how in the Cabinet, and of firing of professors Pat Watson and Laurier Lapierre, was expressed by Northumberland M.P., Hon. George Hees at a "meet your members of Parliament" meeting in Brighton Monday night.

Both Mr. Hees and Provincial M.P.P. Russell Rowe addressed a crowd of some 100, that included a sprinkling of their constituents from all parts of the county. Later, they fielded questions from the audience that covered water pollution in Lake Ontario, use of parks and tourism, Canada's participation in support of U.S. policy in Viet Nam, and federal assistance for amateur athletes.

Mr. Hees's announcement that funds are now available through the Ontario Educational Capital Corporation for loans required to build new schools, at interest rates ranging from 5.4 per cent to 5.4 per cent was favorably received by the audience. "It will result in repaid interest savings" to municipalities, as compared with advertising for revenue on the open market, Mr. Rowe said. Several schools in the Campbellford area are planning additions or new construction this year.

The CBC/TV program "This Hour Has Seven Days" was an escape from silliness", Mr. Hees said. Although the hosts' questions were "tough, I found them objective and fair" Mr. Hees who appeared on the program recently.

"It is shocking that these brilliant men are being taken off a program that makes us look sophisticated in the eyes of some three and a half million Canadians and the U.S. audience the program has attracted," Mr. Hees said.

"It is shocking and shameful for a country to be hamstrung in production when it should be producing more goods," he said in reference to the current budget. He said the positive way to meet inflation was to permit money to expand, to diversification and increase production and efficiency. "Except for Bob Winters, there is not anyone in the present Cabinet who knows what business is all 'bout, he elared. The government had decided it can't handle a booming economy and is taking a disgracefully negative attitude toward a very real problem, the former Progressive Conservative Minister of Trade and Commerce said.

He said the establishment of a department of industry, "the wonder department," has cost the country "millions while productivity has dropped by one-third."

Commenting on the decision by MP's in the recent free vote in Parliament to retain the death penalty for murder, he said a government bill introduced in the Commons that would provide for a certainty of imprisonment for life of persons convicted of capital murder until they were certified safe to again be free in society by a qualified Board of psychiatrists would win support from other MP's, including himself.

On Vietnam, he answered a question from the audience inquiring if Canada should make a more active role in support of U.S. action there with a flat "No," because he said, "I don't think any contribution we might make there would be effective. It would be too small. There has been no request by the U.S. for Canadian military support such as a brigade," Mr. Hees said.

Home Owners Protest Ruling Of Inspector

TRENTON — A. Hepperle of 39 Bay Street, who describes himself as "an energetic citizen," working for the public interest, came before town council last night to protest a ruling by building inspector Wm. Anderson that work on a second storey addition to his home must be stopped until the Committee of Adjustment approves an unauthorized addition of ten feet to the original planned length of the new part.

Mr. Hepperle said the committee had approved a second storey addition 38 feet wide by 24 feet long. Once the work was underway, he said he realized it would be better to extend the length to 34 feet. However, Mr. Anderson would not issue a permit for this until the committee has a ruling.

Mayor James MacDonald explained the committee must first contact neighbors to see there is no objection to the new length named and will discuss the proposal at next Monday night's meeting after sufficient time has elapsed to permit objectors, if any, to come forward.

Mr. Hepperle said he couldn't see how neighbors could possibly object to having a more symmetrical profile presented to their view . . . . in fact, he said, two neighbors had come forward to cheer him on in his efforts to "give them a better view." (This, Mr. Hepperle said, was his sole object in rearing the addition.)

Council felt however, it could do little to assist and the committee of adjustment will be left to cope with the problem in its own way.

Council Briefs

TRENTON — The members of Trenton council fell in with an idea of Councillor Paul Tripp's last night that all available pictures of Trenton's past mayors be got together and made into one large memorial as a centennial year project. The finished product would be hung in the municipal office.

Trenton's 1966 taxes on a $18,425,670 assessment will be collected in four equal payments this year, starting May 24. Other due dates are July, September and November 15.

Council went along with a proposal from the City of Ottawa that the federal, provincial and municipal governments in Canada get together to try to work out a review of the municipal tax structures. The council of the capital city feels the municipal taxpayer is bearing too great a load of welfare and educational costs.

The city of Paris, Ont., wants to add newspaper and magazine hawkers to the list of sales' persons who must procure licences. Trenton council will signify that it too thinks this is a good idea.

Trenton council voted last night to accept the tender of A. Hadley for the supply of a Jeep for the public work's department. The six cylinder, four-wheel-drive vehicle will cost the town $2,500 after a trade-in allowance on a pwd truck is considered.

Councillor Douglas Kinney, a member of the recreation committee and the community parents' committee, has been named by council to sit with ex-mayor Kenneth Couch on the Centennial Project Committee, which is concerned with completing Phase One of the waterfront park project by 1967.

George Ellsworth was named by council last night to complete the unexpired term of Jack Bone on the Community Gardens' Commission. Mr. Bone resigned the post when his business took him to Western Canada.

Council voted to enter into a two-year agreement with David Scott for work at the sanitary landfill area, at a cost of $600 a month to the corporation. Garbage must be spread and covered with earth.

Textile Workers Sign Contract With Company

TRENTON — At a meeting in Trenton this week, the members of Local 1832, AFL, CIO, CLC, of the Textile Workers' Union of America voted to renew their contract with the Downs-Coulter Company on a one year basis, to expire Jan 31, 1967. The local has 226 members.

Men will receive a five cent across the board increase, retroactive to Feb. 1, of this year and a further three cent increase on Aug. 1.

Women will receive a three cent an hour increase, retroactive to Feb. 1 and a further two cent increase Aug. 1.

Workers will receive one added statutory holiday, Boxing Day, bringing to nine the statuary holidays. Illness, or permission from the company will be sufficient reason for a worker to be paid for the holidays without qualifying by being at work on the day preceding and the day following. Unreasonable lateness on the qualifying days will not be a legitimate reason for withholding of pay for the holiday.

Noise of Cars 'Disturbing' Council Told

TRENTON — "Cars, roaring their guts out at wide open speeds . . . which sound like jet aeroplanes," are disturbing and "frustrating," Mr. Jack Goodwin of 301 Dundas Street East.

Mr. Goodwin, a caretaker at St. Peter's church, told town council last night his nearest neighbor is using his premises to repair old cars. The work on the "wrecks" said Mr. Goodwin, goes on far into the night and into the early morning hours, preventing him sleeping. Moreover, when the cars "take off in a cloud of dust," he must either keep his doors and windows closed or "eat dust." The gunning of the cars also interferes with Mr. Goodwin's TV, he said.

Mr. Goodwin said he had had a lawyer write a letter to his neighbor to no avail. Police too, seemingly have failed to correct the situation.

Town solicitor Roderick Campbell will examine existing by-laws and provincial laws to see if something can be done.

No Increase In Mill Rate Says Mayor

TRENTON — The members of Trenton council have reached tentative agreement not to increase the mill rates this year, (except a rise of .01 mills in the commercial rate. Residential rates remain at 90.61 mills; commercial shows a rise from 90.58 to 99.50 mills.

At last night's meeting of council, decisions arrived at during Friday's budget meeting were not discussed, but Mayor MacDonald said after the meeting that there were "a few things to be ironed out."

Figures to come out of Friday's meeting were: an overall budget of $2,060,858 as compared with 1965's $1,972, 917; education budget of $613,543; public works', $202,855, (down $15,000 from last year); police, $142,070 (up $10,000 from last year).

Councillor D. R. Fraser, chairman of finance, was commended by his fellows for his budget presentations.

Maple Leaf Flag Wins Support at Legion Meet

By FRED HAMILTON

MONTREAL (CP)—A Royal Canadian Legion public relations man summed it up for most of 2,300 delegates to the legion's 21st annual convention Monday, as a resolution on the Canadian Flag won delegate support.

"Thank God that's over, and with no more trouble than that," he said.

The "trouble" was an hour-long debate that included interruptions, heckling and heated tempers as the resolutions committee fought to soften the impact of a flag ruling made at the convention in Winnipeg two years ago.

Wednesday was the scene of bitter debate after Prime Minister Pearson told the legion his government would propose a new maple leaf flag. That convention approved a resolution that called for the Red Ensign to continue to be flown over the buildings of legion branches.

This year, the convention was offered a resolution which said the maple leaf flag "shall be honored and flown by legion branches and commands as the national flag of our country."

It called for retention of the royal union flag—the Union Jack; continued use of the legion standard to identify branches and commands; and the use of national and provincial flags on appropriate occasions.

There was no mention of the Red Ensign.

A spokesman for the resolutions committee said the decision had been made because "the danger in prolonging the issue" of a national flag. And President Fred O'Brecht of Dunlap, Ont., said he had received hundreds of letters asked that the decision made at Winnipeg be changed to allow legion branches to fly the maple leaf flag.

A British Columbia resolution moved that the Red Ensign "continue to be one of the official flags of the Royal Canadian Legion." It was rejected.

In other resolutions approved Monday the legion renewed a request for an immediate increase in the basic rate of disability pension to $3,800 a year. The present rate for a single person on 100 per cent pension is just under $2,600.

Veterans Affairs Minister Roger Teillet, in a speech, said pension increases are difficult to determine because of the absence of "an equitable yardstick for adjusting pension rates."

The government is willing to consider a cyclical review of pension rates, but cannot do so until it has "a barometer to use in gauging the need for an increase in pensions, and how much that increase should be," he said.

Both the minister and the resolutions committee touched on the matter of veterans' affairs hospitals to civilian operating control for use as active treatment hospitals, another subject that caused a stir at Winnipeg in 1964.

Mr. Teillet said transfers had been effected or are being negotiated in Alberta, New Brunswick, Ontario, Nova Scotia, British Columbia and Quebec.

"I want to repeat the assurance I gave you previously," he said, "that wherever veterans need active treatment for acute conditions, treatment for chronic diseases or consequential disabilities or domiciliary care, it must be available to them on a first priority basis; and that our objective will be to ensure the highest possible at-standard care at all times."

Made in Canada

Belleville, for all its Anglo-Saxon background, is becoming more and more a veritable United Nations — all merged into the common bond of Canadian citizenship.

Last week's Citizenship Court was a reminder of the many national strains which are still going into the forging of a young nation soon to celebrate its Centennial.

It may seem churlish in this context to mention a slight deviation from the Canadian image of the ceremony, as manifested by the United States origin of at least some of the maple leaf badges presented to the new citizens.

But the fact remains that Canada could be so much more Canadian if more of its products originated at home, particularly those concerned most intimately with presentation of a Canadian image.

We were surprised, but not unduly upset, to notice "Made in France" at the bottom of a plastic glass we had been drinking from at lunch the other day. After all it could be just a concession to Quebec that such articles are being imported.

But it does not look well to see Japanese interests capitalizing on the Maple Leaf flag. We are thinking of the cigarette lighters, ash trays and the like, all bearing Maple Leaf flags, which have been produced in Japan.

And of course, there are those miniature Mounties in the stores, also hailing from Japan and looking peculiarly Oriental.

Picture postcards are another example. Many are printed or lithographed in the United States. So are those colmpetitive slips handed out with grocery or gas purchases, and which if matched up can earn the purchaser a new car, a sum of money or even a trip overseas.

Surely we could be more self-supporting in respect of these articles. Sometimes one has to read the fine print to find their place of origin, and the average citizen may not care much where they come from. However, there is no reason why they should not be produced from making business for Canadians and employing Canadians.

Must Sign Letters

This newspaper has received a number of unsigned letters recently, and we would remind readers that no letter will be published that does not carry the signature and address of the sender. A pseudonym or pen-name may be used for publication purposes, if preferred, but the letter must also be signed.

One such letter refers to a reader's recent suggestion that, with the possible exception of police and seeing-eye animals, should be banned from our towns and cities. The writer complained of dogs which bark and spoil neighbors' lawns.

Through unsigned, the letter one of many replying to this suggestion, makes the point that dogs have saved people from fires and break-ins and are particular friends of children. The writer suggests that "for every person who hates dogs there are three who love them," and goes on to say, "Let's keep the dogs and ban a few people."

The latter idea, though voiced with tongue-in-cheek, is a reminder that man, though animal himself still retains much of the four-footed variety by his supposed intelligence, is in reality a pretty exasperating species (as witness some of the unsigned letters we receive).

As we pointed out recently people have no business owning dogs if they do not take care for them, which incidentally involves exercising as well as feeding and grooming them.

Since our references to this matter last week it is satisfying to observe apparently increase in the number of dogs being walked by their owners. Nevertheless this country is still a long way behind countries like England in the care and attention that is lavished on our four-footed friends.

The remedy is in the hands of owners. All that is needed is a display of simple humanity where animals are concerned.

Restless Youths

Russian youngsters seem to be as restless as their contemporaries in other countries, judging by recurring reports of "hooliganism" that part of the world.

Whatever measures have been taken thus far to halt this trend of lawlessness have apparently been inadequate! A Moscow report says law enforcement officials from throughout the country have been meeting to chart "a long term crackdown" on such activities.

There were calls for terms of hard labor for those convicted of drunkenness, swearing and bawling in public.

The Russians of course are not alone in having large numbers of disaffected young people. Hundreds of British teenagers are reported to have gone underground near Matlock, in the Derbyshire hill country. They are said to include vagrants, drug addicts and prostitutes, among them girls of 12 and 13.

High-Gear Hees Goes Into Quiet Slow Motion

By RICHARD JACKSON

From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Whatever's got into former Conservative Trade Minister George Hees . . . apart from the small and hopefully passing embarrassment of German playgirl Gerda Munsinger?

George Hees, in his six years in the Diefenbaker Cabinet, first as Transport Minister, and then as boss of Trade and Commerce, was such a swinger.

Remember those tie-pins and lapel insignias carrying the strange device YCDBSOWC—which, translated, broadly means "You Can't Do Business Sitting on Your Buttend!"

And those go-go sessions he held with his Trade and Commerce agents when he recalled them from their posts around the world and gave them a week-long pep and sales talk, and a quick refresher course on how to go out and drum up business?

And those dances he used to host at the Country Club for the MPs, Senators and Parliamentary press, with the best buffet, bar and band in the thriving Capital trade of entertainment?

Even in his Opposition days when he and Davie Fulton helped former Conservative Leader Dave and his lieutenant John Diefenbaker tear down the St. Laurent Government, he was a high-energy, as he himself used to call such types.

THE QUIET MAN

Then, after those nearly three years he took out in the Montreal Stock Exchange presidency after the Diefenbaker decline and fall, he was coming back to the Commons, and it would be like old times with everything rocking.

He and Davie Fulton would be the old Wrecking Team again, taking the Pearson Government apart, Minister by Minister.

But it isn't at all like that.

For it just isn't the Old Gray Mare that ain't whatit used to be.

And here now is the George Hees you never knew, The Quiet Man.

Not only quiet, but not very sure.

Sometimes even mumbling and fumbling.

Missing the signals and askew the wrong questions.

Wrong questions? Such as?

Well, remember the minority Parliament between 1962 and '63 when the Liberals, still in Opposition as they had been since '57, mounted the attack that was to so weaken the Diefenbaker Government that it fell with the Palace Revolt within the Cabinet and the Hees-Gevsy-Harkness resignations?

That Liberal attack was led by Paul Martin and Lionel Chevrier, veterans of the Mackenzie King and St. Laurent Cabinets, and was launched every sitting day of Parliament, when the calling of the Orders of the Day signalled the free-for-all of the Question Period.

Day after day after day, Paul Martin hammered away with questions on unemployment — he didn't know much about labor problems, National Health and Welfare had been his specialty — but he was effectively destructive.

And when he had to, he blithely ignored Mr. Speaker's frantic efforts to call him to order.

SHARP LOOKS GOOD

Then Lionel Chevrier would take his turn — the Liberal warded him with the appointment as High Commissioner in London — and the slick old "Silver Fox." as they called him, pounded away at the Conservatives on other strictly broad and-butter issues: prices, jobs, public works, pensions, Family Allowances.

And the Opposition "quarterbacking" during the Question Period was Big League.

Paul Martin and "Chev" never changed the subject, nor were they diverted by other Liberals asking different questions and breaking the running attack.

George Hees, who saw it all happen, obviously learned few lessons from it.

For now, back in the Commons, what's his specialty in the Question Period? Trade, of which he knows something? Exports? Jobs in industry? Pay raises in commerce? Wages, costs, profits in business?

Uh uh. Finance. The complicated variety such as Balance of Payments and the multi-billion-dollar operations of the Bank of Canada and the Finance Department.

And what's he doing ?Little more than, through his lack of knowledge of all the facts, making Finance Minister Sharp look good. Look better than he should.

Worse, when the Conservatives have a running attack going — like in the Munsinger mess or on national unity, or bilingualism or even other live issues — George Hees jumps in and with an outrageously speculated question, breaks the continuity and the assault dies.

But worst of all, it's the very quietness of the man, the lack of the old political joie de vivre, the loss of the zest for the cut and thrust of the sharp question that wounds.

And this George Hees is hard to imagine, but here he is, in the scarcely living, barely breathing flesh.

Piano Less Popular Now

Bangor (Maine) Daily News

Dr. George E. Rogers, headmaster of a private school at Monson, Mass., is unhappy. He says the school has only one piano among its 225 students who can play a piano. An amateur piano player himself, he wonders what ever happened to the piano lessons that used to keep busy indoors when they wanted to be out playing baseball.

Oh, those childhood piano lessons! They bring back nostalgic but not particularly pleasant memories. They were an ordeal for the untalented, which meant most boys. Still, they did contribute to discipline — something that many of today's young people need more of.

We suspect the piano lesson days, except for youngsters who really want to play, have gone for good. There is music in the air these days as never before, but most of it is canned.

Once Again Dogs Take it on "Chin"

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

I have just read disgusted citizen's letter re dogs running at large. If we only had a dog by-law like Trenton we would not be bothered with them like we are. I don't think we have a dog by-law. I love animals, but the city is no place for them especially big dogs without collars or tags. I caught one the other night dragging my garbage pail by the handle down the street. He could not get the lid off and when I took after him he stopped and showed his teeth. There is only one salvation for a critter like that and that is a shot-gun loaded with salt. Only this is against the law. Another thing that burns me up is people who live two or three streets away walk their dogs on leases mind you and then stop in front of your house and proceed to let their dogs use your lawn for a lavatory. I could go on for pages but what good would it do. I see there will never pass a by-law like Trenton unless people get up in arms.

Let's hear some more complaints and then maybe we can get some action.

Another disgusted taxpayer.

Editor's Note: City Clerk Adam Stalker points out that Belleville has had a by-law in force for many years. It says that dogs are not allowed to run around in public places or on public property. They must be tied or kept in a fenced area. When being exercised the animals must be held on a leash.

TV Serves Childish Tastes

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Down with the flu for four days last month, I decided to give myself another close look. It has been several years since I last watched it with any degree of regularity.

After four afternoons and evenings, I decided that the impossible had happened: television had got worse. There was virtually nothing to be found on any of the channels that would interest an adult mind.

Nor was I judging by any intellectual or high-brow standards: it would be ridiculous to expect a mass medium like television to try to appeal to the cultivated minority. All I wanted was something reasonably adult.

In the so-called "prime time" segment of the evening, nearly every program seemed designed for the average child. From 7:30 until 10 p.m. I found absolutely nothing but trash of one sort or another. It was a relief when the news finally came on — superficial and scrappy as that even was.

Is this what the America public desires and responds to? If such programming genuinely represents the mental and emotional level of our people, then God help us in the years ahead. How can we possibly help shape the difficult and complex decisions of coping with the modern world?

Not long ago, Arnold Toynbee spoke out on the subject, warning us that "television . . . our marvelous modern means of communication . . . is being largely wasted on frivolities." He drew the contrast between the extraordinary use of the marvel of creative intellectual power and ingenuity, and "a prostitution of this product of mankind's human genius to serve childish tastes."

The pessimist looking into the future, Toynbee went on, "might predict that this overwhelming combination of incongruous means and ends will condition mankind into becoming a race of technician-morons — creatures that will be lower than our human ancestors in terms of truly human values."

It is hard for me to see how a communication that relishes such idiotic entertainment can intelligently evaluate our foreign policy, our domestic program, our urban needs, our physical deficiencies, our educational lacks, our crises in identity and status and stability.

Never before has the ordinary man been called upon to make such difficult and delicate decisions in so many areas. It is not that we are any stupider or more ignorant than past generations; it is that the times demand so much more of us, if we are to live up to our immense technological developments. For if we do not live up to them we shall end up in them, sitting around, half-stunned, watching "Hooligan's Navy."

Parents Want Girls To Eat 'Balanced Diet'

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: We are two girls, aged 15, who weigh 140 pounds and we know it is too much. We have cut carbohydrates and fats completely out of our menus, but our parents force us to eat them for a "balanced diet." If we keep on eating potatoes, bread and cake, how can we lose weight? — Trying

Overweight is not entirely a matter of what you eat, it's also a matter of how much you eat. Your parents evidently do not realize that almost all foods contain some carbohydrate, and that's another point to consider.

If you girls get plenty of protein (lean meat, eggs, fish, dairy products) and dutifully eat your vegetables and fruit and juice, and drink a couple of glasses of milk a day, you have a balanced diet. (You will get enough fat that way, too. Americans use the average eat twice as much fat as they really need.)

Can't you make a bargain with your parents? Have cereal for breakfast every day, skip cake or other desserts entirely, eat some potato, which is a good nutritious food and it won't be fattening provided it isn't fried, slathered with butter, or eaten with gravy. Buy a baked potato with very little butter or margarine.

You can be perfectly healthy and still control your weight, and your parents ought to be happy. The only point that worries me is this: Some people, without any good reason, are fuse plumpness with health. Maybe your parents do. Actually, you girls are on the right track.

Dear Doctor: I am taking diet pills and avoiding all foods like bread, cookies potatoes, etc.

However, I have been constipated, and have been taking laxatives. Do you think the problem is from the pills or the diet? Should I continue the laxatives? — Mrs. M.S.

This is a matter of what you consider constipation.

This is a rather common complaint among dieters, until the facts become clear to them. If you eat less, and have less food residue to dispose of, obviously your bowels will not (and cannot) move as plentifully as they did before. Thus what some people regard as constipation, isn't really that at all. It's just that there is no need for the amount of bowel activity to which you had become accustomed.

One easy answer is to eat considerably more volume of low-calorie foods: Raw or cooked vegetables, with special emphasis on leafy ones, celery and carrot sticks, which will provide a good deal of bulk in the form of cellulose but which will give your intestinal tract some fibres to keep it busy. Or you can use one of the bulk-producers, such as agar, for your laxative.

No, don't continue laxatives. There's no point in irritati n a sluggish colon into acting unnecessarily. Either give it something to do — a greater supply of bulk — or leave it alone.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is the cause of cancer known in people past 50? — M. M.

Commonest is so-called "senile cancer," which develops as part of the aging process in some individuals. Other causes are heredity; eye injuries; exposure to great heat; systemic disease such as diabetes, pernicious anemia, and disorders which directly affect the eyes.

Note to P. O. F.: Vitamin B 12 is not likely to be the whole answer to "anemic conditions." My suggestion is that you let your doctor decide whether you have an anemia and what type. In some. B 12 is the treatment. Others just require iron. An adequate diet with adequate protein may correct the whole situation.

Money Is-The Spur

St. Catharines Standard

There are still some who subscribe to the theory that what you can get all-out effort and maximum efficiency in industry and business are conflicts and money incentives. The Russians used to work on that premise but they've changed their tune. They changed their mind. An interesting comment on the point was made the other day by George E. Odlorne of the University of Michigan: Some psychologists maintain that people seek other rewards besides money. However, I haven't been able to get those same psychologists to expound their theories at a management conference for less than a $200 fee."

Lajos Kossuth and his associates proclaimed the independence of Hungary from Austrian rule 117 years ago — in 1849 — after a year of political successes. But the movement ended abruptly on the retreat from the Austrian army, led by Windischgraetz and Jellachich. Kossuth was thought by some Hungarians to be aiming to make himself king in increase Russian influence. Although elected dictator, he abdicated and fled, mainly in favor of General Gorgei. When the revolution was crushed, Kossuth fled to Seville, first in England and later in Italy, where he died in 1894.

During the chase Bigger's car brushed a woman pedestrian, made a high speed turn on Cannifton Rd., then bounced off a city police car that had been trailing him at high speed off.

The vehicle was finally abandoned in a private driveway on Ridley St. Bigger was apprehended later near the Belleville Creameries on Station St.

non-confidence motions. A new Democratic motion censuring the new minority government for not boosting income tax basic deductions comes to a vote tonight.

Next week, the House is expected to debate proposed changes in the electoral map. More than half the 265 MPs—128 to be exact—have signed petitions objecting to various changes and the debate could turn into a marathon affair.

The budget debate, which opened before the recess and can run another five days, will give the opposition an opportunity to discuss a series of controversial "cases."

First, there is the Munsinger case. Justice Minister Cardin's sensational allegations against Mr. Diefenbaker and several former Conservative ministers are the subject of a closed inquiry, with the Conservatives objecting strongly to the manner in which the probe is being conducted.

The Steven Truscott case is expected to reach a new stage today. Opposition MPs have expressed doubt about Truscott's guilt in a 1959 sex slaying and demanded a new trial, a pardon or a review by senior judges. The cabinet was expected to choose one of these alternatives at a meeting today.

Some MPs undoubtedly will bring up the sacking of Patrick Watson and Laurier LaPierre as hosts of This Hour Has Seven Days, the CBC television show that specialises in political controversy.

Then there is the case of George Spencer, the accused Ottawa spy ring and alleged "perpetual surveillance" by the RCMP and whose death was not discovered for at least three days.

Meanwhile, major legislation lingers in limbo.

DRAFTING BANK ACT

The government is drafting a revised Bank Act, new railway legislation, the Canada Assistance Plan, lighter bankruptcy controls, a creative bargaining system for the civil service and new immigration laws.

Other proposals include a $500,000,000 fund for health grants during the next 15 years, $500,000,000 for urban grants, a $500,000,000 fund for rural development, a new agency to distribute federal grants in Western Canada and British Columbia, and a science council.

Mr. Pearson urged Friday night in a speech to a young Liberal convention here that the five parties allocate debating time to fit priority bills.

NDP whip Stanley Knowles complained Monday that few of the major government bills have been introduced. He accused the prime minister of threatening to cut off debates without prior consultation with the opposition.

The guillotine rule, approved last June over strenuous Conservative protests, permits a minister to impose a time limit for a debate on a particular bill if an all-party committee fails to agree on one.

The government has made no effort to use the rule so far.

DBS also reported birth registrations fell in March to 36,273 from 37,151 a year earlier. The number of marriages fell in March this year to 6,793 from 7,156 a year earlier.

Car Strikes Utility Pole, Damage Heavy

A Belleville couple escaped possible serious injury at 2 a.m. today when the car in which they were driving struck a utility pole on Dundas St. E. in front of Deacon Brothers.

Mrs. Mary Stella Price, 43, 150 Farley Ave., driver of the car, told police she blacked out momentarily and the car left the road, striking the pole.

She was treated at the Belleville General Hospital for a bruised right arm and cut lower lip and later released.

Her husband, Francis Carl Price, 33, suffered a cut near his left eye and bruises to the forehead and left knee. He was also treated and released.

Damage in the accident was $1,400, $700 to the car and $700 to the Belleville Utilities Commission.

Has Licence Suspended

Dennis Clarke Bain, 28, 52A North Front St., was fined $100 and had his license suspended for three months by Magistrate T. Y. Wills today on a charge of careless driving.

The charges resulted from an accident February 12 on Pinnacle St. Witnesses testified that Bain struck a parked car on Pinnacle just after Victoria about 10 p.m. His car was the object of a police pursuit up North Front St., along College and finally on Sidney St.

Police testified that while Bain's car was being pursued north on Sidney, he almost hit a southbound car, forcing it off to the side of the road.

Acting crown attorney Ralph Graham called for a heavy fine and strong suspension. "As fine in my opinion is not sufficient here," he said. "There should be a suspension."

In announcing the sentence, Magistrate Wills said, "If you persist in this type of driving, it's going to get worse."

CENTENNIAL PROGRAM EVENTS are discussed at Monday's regional workshop in Belleville sponsored by the Ontario Centennial Planning Branch. From the left are J. A. Brooks, Ontario director, with local committee member Mrs. Dorothy Howell and Chamber of Commerce manager "Brad" Bradley.

Struck by Car Boy, 5, Injured

A five-year-old boy was injured yesterday and admitted to Belleville General Hospital for treatment when struck by a car on Ann St.

James Robertson Boyle, son of Belleville lawyer and alderman, Douglas P. Boyle, 52 Queen St., suffered abrasions to the forehead when hit by a car driven by Helen Ida Rose, R.R. 2, Picton.

Police say the Rose car was proceeding north on Ann St. and had just passed a large group of children when the accident occurred.

COLOR TOUCH UP

Dear Susanna: There brothers, the woman with soul so dead who doesn't want to take paint brush in hand and touch up the chips in her painted woodwork.

Almost the exact shade required can often be arrived at, by experimenting with a small amount of paint and a bit of food coloring! — Mrs. J. Laklaw

P.S. Try to remember to invert that can of paint for an hour or two before you start a job of decorating. This, of course helps to diffuse the oil and cuts down on the mixing time required. — J. L.

FRAMED

Hi Sue: Small shrub and new rosh bush growers will be interested in this ready-made protection cage for their. young plants.

The wire frame from old lamp shades is a natural for netting over tender shrubs to ward off intruders.

For greater security, string extra wire through the original sturdy frame. — Ed. King

DISAPPEARING SPOONS

Dear Sue: A common complaint amongst homemakers is the way teaspoons disappear.

The quantity of knives and forks remains fairly constant, but where do the good stainless steel or plated kitchen teaspoons go? I've never disovered how to track them down, but I have learned how to stem their flow out of the kitchen and dining area.

Add half a dozen or more shiny, colored, plastic ones from the picnic basket to the spoon holder. The children prefer them, and you'll notice these are the ones they reach for to take outside or to the playroom with their drinks and treats.

The colorful plastic ones are also the spoons that get left in the bathroom and sick room for taking cough medicine and other potions. — Mrs. B. Fairweather

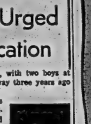
Local Artist Displays Work At Library

An exhibition of paintings by Dolly E. Brown, 221 George Street, is now on display at the Corby Library. Majority of the oils are landscapes of eastern Ontario scenes, showing traces of Group of Seven influence.

Tints and shades of violet, turquoise and blue predominate in many of the canvases.

Mrs. Brown, a newcomer to Belleville, is the wife of Rev. Elmsie G. Brown, rector of the parishes of Shannonville and Point Anne and hospital chaplain. She lived in Peterborough, Milford and Lansdowne before coming to this city, and many of the 21 paintings in the exhibition depict scenes of those areas.

Mrs. Brown's painting will be on display until Saturday.



Successful Living

Listless Widow Urged To Further Education

DEAR DORIS: I am a mother of eight, with two boys at home ages 10 and 13. My husband passed away three years ago after a long illness.

My only income is the government's allowance for mothers who are raising families alone and, living in a village, life is hard and lonely; more so when your living depends on the mercy of the public and leaves little future. This is my reason for writing you.

Are there any home courses in geriatrics? What qualifications would I need? I am 52 and in good health. — JUST DESPONDENT.

DORIS CLARE

DEAR JUST: Geriatrics is "the subdivision of medicine which is concerned with old age and Ms diseases." You'd have to start with a college course in medicine!

But preparing for a future, at 52, is good thinking. Do you want to do nursing in a home for the aged? Or be a nursing assistant in a hospital? Such work calls for practical training.

Just the same, you could do some studying on your own. Start with the new book "Retired Care in the Home," a textbook of home nursing published by St. John Ambulance. (Available through their National Headquarters, Box 88, Terminal "A", Ottawa 2, Ontario.)

Working your way through this book can give you some basic principles for dealing with any illness; and a chapter on "Special Needs of Aged and Patients with Long-Term Illness" is packed with wisdom for the would-be geriatric practical nurse.

Then, while you are watching your last little boy grow tall, you can pursue your training towards a new career with something of a head start. Your provincial Department of Education can guide you into selection of the course that is right for you.

DEAR DORIS: Two weeks ago my husband come upon my young daughter (14) doing some heavy petting with a boy 19. He threw the boy out, called the girl all kinds of filthy names and spanked her.

Now she tells me she hates her father; wishes he was dead; and that she loves the boy. Somehow this all seems to be my fault, although I didn't have the slightest idea what was going on. — END OF MY ROPE.

DEAR END: Soothing tells me Pappy should at least take part of the blame — for a lack of omission. Certainly his name-calling only besmirches his own family pride.

The sins? (1) Expecting a growing girl to know all about love without telling her, and (2) insulting her with a spanking at 14.

Start over. Encourage your girl to have her friends over in bunches — and keep her in the 14 and 15-year-old range. Stock the refrigerator with snacks. Talk with her privately about the Old Demon Sex at the same time as you help her to grow some good techniques for associating with the boys.

Give her as much growing-up responsibility as she can take, and let her see you as her pal. And for heaven's sake call off the un-loving name-calling.

Confidential to CITIZEN: There's a handy folder which lists 25 booklets, on everything from "Our History" to "Cultural Contributions of Newcomers to Canada" — marvelous program helps for discussion groups. The folder "Tools for Citizens" — as well as any of the booklets, once you have chosen what you want — is to be had through your religious office of the Canadian Citizenship Branch.

For Belleville, the address is 35 St. Clair Ave. East, Toronto, Ontario.

Birth Control Support Official U. S. Policy

By ARCH MacKENZIE

WASHINGTON (CP)—Quietly but firmly, support of birth control has become official United States policy—abroad and at home.

It is cushioned to avoid as much as possible conflict with the Roman Catholic Church.

In the space of less than three years there has been a revolution from the White House down on a topic once politically taboo.

The policies are three-fold:

—Abroad, to stem surging population growth. This could, the underworld constitutes a better chance to help themselves meet their urgent food needs.

—At home, to reduce the population growth rate among the poor, where growth is fastest.

—At home, to publicize the fact that while the U.S. birth rate is comparatively low, U.S. space and resources are far from limited.

PUSHED BY LBJ

President Johnson made four public references to birth control in 1965 and so far in 1966 has mentioned it 16 times.

On March 3 in a health message to Congress, he said: "It is essential that all families have access to information and services that will allow freedom to choose the number and spacing of their children within the dictates of individual conscience."

More than 30 states now provide birth control information and devices, compared with fewer than 15 two years ago.

The federal department of health, education and welfare is spending about $3,000,000 on research affecting human fertility controls — double the 1965 amount. The spending for family planning services this year is more than $2,000,000, against $2,000,000 last year. These services will be available for the need and unwed who ask for them.

The anti-poverty program has stepped up its spending for birth-control devices and the pill.

The issue, under the title The Population Challenge, is the subject of the conservation yearbook just put out by the interior department. A glossy publication stuffed with pictures of the American outdoors heritage and man-made blight, it contains this foreword by Interior Secretary Stewart Udall:

"The challenge is that of a soaring population, a shrinking allotment of space per person, and the gathering storm of conflict over how to apportion available space, how to stretch natural resources, how to preserve the quality of our environment.

"The greatest threat to quality living in this country is overpopulation and we need a lot more public education on this subject."

FACE STERN CHALLENGE

The U.S. census bureau has projected an American population by the year 2010 of 438,000,000 — it now is 195,000,000.

Johnson told the United Nations in June, 1965:

"Let us in all our lands . . . including this land . . . face forthrightly the multiplying problems of our multiplying populations and seek the answers to this most profound challenge to the future of all the world. Let us act on the fact that $5 invested in population control is worth $100 invested in economic growth."

Pope Paul, still wrestling with the Roman Catholic Church's study of the question, told the UN later the world must produce more food and "not rather favor an artificial control of birth, which would be irrational, in order to diminish the number of guests at the banquet of life."

Recently a public opinion poll here showed more than 60 per cent of the Catholics interviewed thought the federal government, if requested, should provide aid for birth control projects to states and cities.

A touther stand was signalled by Msgr. John Knott, director of the Family Life Bureau of the National Catholic Welfare Conference, who said the federal government has formally embarked on a "contraceptive, antilife program," with legal abortions the next step.

Centennial Project Is Hooked Rug

MONTREAL (CP) — handhooked rug showing Canadian floral emblems, maple leaves and a large Expo 67 symbol is Mrs. Thomas Gard's personal centennial project.

Measuring 53 inches by 31, the rug carries the 10 provincial flowers in their natural colors as well as those from the North west Territories and Labrador.

They are surrounded by a black Expo symbol. Colorful autumn maple leaves are scattered throughout the white background.

"As private project . . . just something I wanted to do for 1967," is the way the suburban Senneville housewife describes it. "Craftsmen like to remember special events in their work."

One of her first rugs won top prize in the Calgary Stampede in 1958. It also bore a maple leaf design.

The original centennial design was conceived two years ago in Calgary, before she moved to Montreal in 1964.

"Once you start hooking, you become very aware of how flowers grow and of the many shades in each bloom," Mrs. Gard says. It will take more than 60 or 70 different shades to portray the 12 flowers.

She usually hooks with strips of coating bought at rummage sales and new, white wool sewn finely into the jute or hessian backing. She advises shampooing hooked rugs like broadloom to clean, but never washing in a machine.

Mrs. Gard says she is developing more and more time in hooking. Her rugs are scattered through many rooms of her grey stone house among pine furniture and colonial decor. "I like to think of them as heirlooms," she says.

And the centennial rug is already spoken for. Her 17-year-old daughter wants it in her room.

T. J. Corrigan, Read, Marks 90th Birthday

Members of his immediate family and close relatives joined in a birthday party at the home of Thomas J. Corrigan at Read, on April 12th to mark the occasion of his 90th birthday.

Mr. Corrigan, of Carlaw, was born and has lived all his life in the area. Four of his seven children were able to be with him for the day, along with all his surviving brothers and sisters. They include Thomas Corrigan of Frankford, Mrs. Joseph (Lucy) Egan of Napanee, Mrs. Hugh (Johanna) Killoran of Enterprise and John Corrigan of Read.

Mr. Corrigan is in excellent health and save for being a bit hard of hearing and needing glasses for reading, he appears many years younger than his actual age.

During the evening cards were played with the guest of honor enjoying and winning several rounds of old-fashioned euchre. A delightful lunch brought a most pleasant occasion to a close. Mr. Corrigan thanked all present for coming and joined with him in the celebration of his 90th year.

SENATE BEAN SOUP

A voluminous amount of mail arrived shortly after I asked our readers on March 25 for the recipe for Senate Bean Soup which Mrs. K. A. requested. But the recipes for Senate Bean Soup which were enclosed differed widely. Some were copied from the back of the United States Senate Restaurant menu. One reader had eaten there and asked permission to take the menu card with her. Some of the recipes called for potatoes, celery and garlic.

So when I tested the soup I had to steer a middle course, but following the recipe below, which I tested and approved, I will give some suggested variations.

SENATE BEAN SOUP (Courtesy dozens of readers — thank you all for your contributions.)

1 lb. white navy beans
20 cups cold water
1 medium onion chopped fine
4 oz. raw smoked ham chopped or 1½ lbs. smoked ham hock (see note below)
6¼ teaspoons salt
6½ teaspoon pepper
¼4 teaspoon garlic salt,
2 teaspoons sugar

Wash the beans and soak overnight or all morning in the cold water. Add the onion and the chopped ham or smoked ham hock and bring to boil, then simmer, covered, for 4 hours. Add remaining ingredients and simmer ¼ hr. longer. Taste to see if this soup has enough salt for you if not add some.

Notes: 1) Two or three readers told me they had difficulty buying smoked ham hocks. I did too. I had to settle for sliced smoked ham. If you can order and buy smoked ham hocks in your vicinity they would be more economical and would have to be removed from the soup when they are tender, bone discarded and meat cut up and returned to soup. 2) If you have a leftover ham bone from a roast smoked ham leave some meat on it and use it instead of the smoked ham or ham hocks listed in the recipe. 3) In our version of the Senate Bean Soup recipe 1 large potato chopped was added. 4) In another I cup diced celery and 2 minced garlic cloves were included.

You are a dandy bunch of friends to me.

MENU Magic from the Test KITCHEN

Devilish Topper

Dany Sour cream tops a chocolate Devil's Food Cake straight from the oven in a matter of minutes. For a 9 by 13-inch cake combine 1¼ cups sour cream, 1 cup granulated sugar and ¼ cup coarsely chopped pecans. Spread over hot cake and return to the oven for 5 minutes or until set. Cool thoroughly and serve garnished with maraschino cherries or sliced bananas.

Cloud Nine Torte

Wedding showers in the offing? Take two light tender meringues, add tangy peach slices, crunchy slivered almonds and the special magic of fluffy whipped cream for a dessert to be desired. For two 9-inch round meringues count on using a pint of whipping cream, 2 (15-ounce) packages frozen sliced peaches and ¾ cup slivered almonds. Shortly before serving, thaw the peaches, and drain well. Whip the cream until nearly stiff, sweetening slightly, and layer the ingredients on your prettiest cake plate.

Perfect Potatoes

Yesterday's left over roast takes on new life when served with hot Potatoes Anna. To make this easy dish, slice 6 medium-sized potatoes thinly and melt 5 tablespoons butter. Arrange the potato slices in concentric circles in a buttered 1-quart casserole, brushing each layer with melted butter and seasoning with a sprinkle of salt, pepper and chopped green onion. Top with 3 tablespoons shredded Canadian cheddar cheese and a few grains cayenne. Bake in a 400°F oven until crisp and brown.

Salad Forecast

Spring salad bowls will be the going fashion when teamed with our new hot and cheese dressing. To 1 cup dairy sour cream, add ¾ cup shredded Cheddar cheese, ¼ cup drained crushed pineapple and 1 tablespoon lemon juice. Chill well and serve over tossed salad greens and julienne strips of cooked meat or chicken.

India's Problem Insolvable Colonel Tells B-P Women

No one seems to have a solution for India's problems, most of which stem from overpopulation, a retired Canadian army officer told members of Belleville's Business and Professional Women's Club last evening at their meeting in the Belmont Chateaurama.

Col. Robert Graham D.S.O., C.D., a native of Belleville, served from 1937 until 1965 as a Navy and Air Force Attache in New Delhi, India. He showed color slides he had taken in India of customs, ceremonies and festivals, and commented on each.

Col. Graham said India has 220 million people and the population increases by about 20 million each year. There is no life insurance in the country, and the average person's only hope for security in his old age is to have his son support him.

Another problem for India is the Hindu religion. According to Col. Graham, there is no comfort or leadership from this religion. The people actually relax and die or just go hungry. Everyday things that we take for granted are just not to be had in India.

Miss Dorothy Grant introduced the guest speaker and Mrs. Shirley Woodcox thanked the President Marie Huffman conducted the business meeting.

These two teams played off for first prize and after an exciting 20 hands Mrs. May and Mrs. Pugh emerged the winners by a mere 50 points. The teams playing off for the low score were Mrs. Flossie Coleman and Mrs. Nora McDonald against Mrs. Nellie Cooper and Mrs. Cecelia Belsey. The team of Coleman and McDonald won this prize.

Prize winners for the day's play were 1st, Mrs. Edith Hackett; 2nd, Mrs. Kay Varley; low, Mrs. Kate Cook.

This bridge marathon was well organized by Mrs. Cora Mott with Mrs. Ella Trepanier looking after the scores. Mrs. Mott introduced the auxiliary vice-president, Mrs. Barbara Lambers who made the first draw. Mrs. Mott also expressed delight at the keen interest among the ladies of Belleville for this annual marathon and expressed the hope that everyone will be back next year.

Winners of the lucky draws were Mrs. Kay Cousins, Mrs. Harriet Loynes, Mrs. Dora Elvidge, Mrs. June Dunsmore, Mrs. Ella Trepanier and Mrs. Mary Smith of Trenton.

Name Dates For Festival Of Praise

STIRLING — Adelmo Meloccc, prominent composer, teacher and principal of Wilfrid Laurier Conservatory of Music will be the adjudicator at the forthcoming Festival of Sacred Praise which is to be held in Stirling on May 2, 3, and 4. The festival committee realized its good fortune in obtaining a man with Mr. Melocci's wide experience to adjudicate the festival since his judgements should be of great help to the young contestants.

Rev. R. J. Nichol of Norwood is to be adjudicator in the Scripture division. The standard for this section was prepared by Rev. D. A. Wilson of Trenton.

Wide interest is being shown this year, and at the recent meeting of the sub executive, Mrs. T. W. Spear, president, announced that 40 entries had been received in accordion classes. This is in accordance with the decision to expand the scope of the festival to include band and other instruments. Entries have also been accepted for coronet, violin and piano solos in addition to the usual classes of piano, vocal and Scripture.

Each night of the festival will perform on the evening of May 4 at St. Paul's United Church, Stirling, where the festival takes place. The public may attend by obtaining either season tickets — which includes all sessions or by special ticket to the Stars of Festival concert alone.

Much interest is being shown this year and entries have been received from areas which in the past have not participated. Mrs. Bruce Gilmore, the secretary announced that programs will be in the hands of the contestants by next week.

Gaspe Woman Selected as Mother of Year

OTTAWA (CP)—Mrs. Jeanne-Pauline Beaulieu of the Gaspe Peninsula community of Rivière-Madeleine, Que. Monday was named Mother of the Year by a panel of judges which included State Secretary Judy LaMarsh.

Mother of three children, Mrs. Beaulieu, 52, also has cared for more than 32 orphans, children of divorced parents, and handicapped children.

A nightschool teacher, Mrs. Beaulieu was among 200 Canadian mothers nominated for the honor.

She goes to Ottawa May 3 for a round of special functions.

WIVES MAY SAVE LIVES

BRAMPTON, Ont. (CP) — Mothers are often in charge of family water safety, so Etobicoke Township is offering lifeguard training to local housewives this year. The course will tell mothers what is safe as well as train them how to act in emergencies.

Nature Giving Weaker Sex in Greece a Hand

ATHENS (Reuters) — Greece is still a man's world, although nature is giving the weaker sex a helping hand.

The national statistical service's latest estimate is that the sexes are now in a total near relation of 8,500,000 Greeks now to 250,000. Mainly because of the longevity, the surplus in increasing at the rate of 3,000 a year.

With so wide a choice before him, the Greek man of today is not apt to relate the value of a woman he might choose as his wife to the size of her dowry. The accepted minimum for a dowry nowadays has become an apartment or a plot of land.

Since 1956, a dowry fund, run under the auspices of the Greek sovereigns, has been distributing "dowry savings deposit books" to needy girls. The minimum deposit of 1,000 drachmas (about $33) increases through interest to 7,040 drachmas (about $235) in 20 years. This sum provides the girls with the means of helping their husbands to set up a home and found a family.

MARRIAGE RATE DROPS

Each year about 71,000 Greek men, mostly between the ages of 25 and 34, get married. Greek girls marry mainly between the ages of 20 and 29. At the last census, in 1961, 4,360,964 Greeks were married, widowed or divorced out of a population of 8,388,321.

Subsequent figures indicated that the men are becoming less inclined to get married, and divorce is on the increase. Both factors are attributed by sociologists to changing moral values and attitudes.

With the loosening of morals, the illegitimacy rate in Greece has reached a figure of one in 50 live births, considered high in a country where old-fashioned ancestral traditions largely persist.

Mrs. Lena Coutsochera, president of the Greek Women's Union, says the chief single obstacle to raising the standards of the Greek woman has been illiteracy.

Greek villagers with meagre means have always favored boys having an education and the girls staying at home to help with the household chores.

Women won the right to vote in 1952 and female voters in Greece now total 2,500,000.

Proposed Eatons Centre Subject Of Attack

TORONTO (CP) — The proposed Eaton Centre beside the new Toronto city hall is a "collection of massive phallic symbols," Kenneth Bryden (NDP—Toronto Woodbine) said in the legislature Monday.

Mr. Bryden said its aim is to "assert the dominance of the Eaton dynasty" over the city of Toronto.

He said private developers are putting up sterile buildings in Toronto and the Ontario government is putting up buildings even uglier than those by developers.

The legislature was sitting for the first time since April 4, when it rose for Easter recess.

The criticism came during the introduction by Ray Connell, minister of public works, of his department's estimates.

HITS AID

Donald C. MacDonald, leader of the New Democratic Party, criticized the assistance given by works department appraisers in assisting conservation authorities in expropriating land.

He quoted a brief from one conservation authority to the legislature's standing committee on conservation which complained that a department appraiser had appraised a piece of property from a distance of four miles.

Mr. Connell said he would check the incident if Mr. MacDonald would give him details.

Mr. MacDonald said the minister should find out the details for himself.

CRACKING THE LANGUAGE BARRIER — Robert Williamson, a University of Saskatchewan professor, tapes a conversation with an Eskimo woman as part of his studies of the language. Williamson has become so fluent in Eskimo that he was chosen to act as an interpreter for the government commission in the Eastern Arctic. (CP Photo)

Suggest Civil Servants Learn Eskimo Language

By STUART LAKE

POND INLET, N.W.T. (CP)—Area administrator Gordon Rogers is a lonely-come-lately compared with other whites living in this community in the northeast corner of Baffin Island.

But Eskimos here made it clear to a travelling government commission in March that they rank him head and shoulders over other civil servants because of his efforts to speak their language.

The respect and friendship Mr. Rogers won so quickly in trying to master the Eskimo tongue strengthen the belief of many that government employee who plan extended stays in the North and who have everyday dealings with the natives should be taught to speak Eskimo.

Russ Peyton, a former Hudson's Bay trader and now running his own business at Pangnirtung, speaks for many when he says numerous civil servants are wasting their time in the Arctic because they can't communicate with the very people they are trying to help.

"No matter how well-intentioned they are, they can't get to understand the Eskimo until they speak to him in his own language."

One of the whites who commands great respect among the Eskimos is British-born Robert Williamson, a University of Saskatchewan professor, who makes his home in Rankin Inlet along the west coast of Hudson Bay.

ACTED AS INTERPRETER

So fluent is he in the Eskimo language that the advisory commission on the development of government in the Northwest Territories selected him over a number of Eskimos to act as its interpreter during its March tour of the Eastern Arctic.

Eskimos call him "the-man-who-speaks - like - the-people" and he was a welcome visitor to countless homes during the two-week commission tour. He carried letters to his hosts from their friends in other settlements and now and again recorded conversations for use later in his Eskimo - language broadcasts carried by the CBC's northern service.

A former civil servant in the North, Prof. Williamson understands what the government is trying to do for the Eskimo people. But he's a harsh critic of some of its methods and a pet peeve is its way the Eskimo language is being "downgraded."

"In the schools, the children are given the impression their language is a barrier."

Govern m e n t administrators are too busy as a rule to learn the Eskimo tongue. "But a more effective use of the language would be a more effective way of accomplishing healthy social and economic development."

LANGUAGE BANNED

Prof. Williamson feels Ottawa is ignoring a bridge which could help bring the Eskimo from the stone age to the modern world. Instead, Eskimos feel their language—and thus their whole culture—is being ridiculed.

The commission was told at one community that the use of the Eskimo language is banned in the federal schools.

Thus the Eskimo child, who probably hasn't heard a word of English at home, is saddled with the terrible handicap of learning of the brand - new world of the white man in a language he is not familiar with.

Critics say Canada should adopt the Greenland school system's practice of teaching Eskimo children in their own language in the first few years of school. English could be taught as a subject and, once mastered by the children, could then become the teaching language.

Schools opened last fall in Arctic Quebec by the province's Eskimo and Northern Affairs Minister Laing said the system appears to have worked out well.

With rare exceptions, government employees in the Arctic rely on Eskimo interpreters to pass along and gather information. The exchange often gets garbled, the commission has learned, and this leads to misunderstandings and, at times, ill-will.

Ann Landers

Cross-Continent By Horse Is Feasible

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Every now and again you print a phony letter and let the writer know you didn't fall for it. Not content to put one over on us, the other day, Ann, so wipe the egg off your face and admit it. I'm referring to the 26-year-old woman who asked if she should ride a horse from Kentucky to California.

She presented herself as an expert horsewoman and said she had dreamed of making the trip since childhood.

Don't you know that in this day and age it would be utterly impossible to ride a horse from Kentucky to California? The highways are ANN LANDERS choked with cars. The young woman and her horse would surely be hit the first week of the trip.

She said she wanted to leave in May. The desert heat that time of year is unbearable. And what about the crazy characters a woman would have to fight off on such a trip.

The person who made up that letter had a wild imagination but a telephone call to your local saddle club could have saved you from being duped. Next time you get a fan-cutter, check it, Baby. — NO PIDGE.

DEAR NO PIDGE: Thank you for your letter. Please read the next one. You may find it interesting.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: If that young woman who hopes to ride from Kentucky to California wants some first-hand advice we would be glad to help her. When I say "we" I mean myself, Mary Jo Alfieri O'Brien, Mrs. Thora Gauthier and Miss Naomi Scully.

On July 23, 1962, we mounted our horses in Erie, Pennsylvania and for six and a half months we rode. On February 15, 1963, we arrived in Pasadena, California.

Thora, Naomi and I met through the Erie County Sheriff's Rangerettes, a mounted drill team in Erie. We liked each other and together we planned a trip that proved to be a positively fascinating experience.

We carried our clothing, cooking utensils and water in saddle bags, tied the bedrolls on to the backs of the saddles, and camped out.

Newspapers, TV and radio interview us in dozens of cities and we received many invitations for meals and housing. Among our hosts were an Air Force captain, a junior high school principal, Bob Hope's aunt, an Amish family, and the owner of the Indianapolis Speedway. We averaged 25 to 30 miles a day and spent many nights with warm-hearted folks who offered us a barn for the horses and soft beds for ourselves.

The only mishap came on the 46th day of the trip when my horse broke his leg 30 miles east of El Paso. Cowpoke, my new steed, held up admirably for the duration. He got along well with Tango and Tiny Tim.

Our biggest problem: Drivers who tossed firecrackers or blasted their automobile horns as they passed us on the road. Other than that we had a ball.

I hope the gal from Kentucky makes the trip but for heaven's sake Ann, not alone. She'll have some fabulous stories to tell her grandchildren. — MARY JO — Now of Royal Oak, Michigan.

Viet Cong Forces Now Using Mortars With 3-Mile Range

By COLIN GIBSON

SAIGON (Reuters) — Viet Cong forces in Viet Nam have begun to use much heavier weapons than previously — including 120 millimetre mortars with a range of more than three miles.

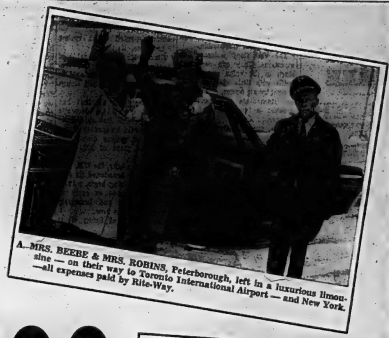
This is a mile more than any other heavy weapon in their regular armory. It may well lead to some hasty rethinking of U.S. strategy for the defence of large bases.

The mortars, biggest yet employed by the Viet Cong in the war, can hurl a 35-pound shell up to 4,236 yards. They were used recently in bombardments of two American military installations in northern provinces.

Hitherto, the South Vietnamese and Americans had to face nothing larger than 81 and 82 millimetre mortars and 75mm. recoilless rifles with a range of under two miles.

RANGE INCREASES

As a result, commanders worked on the principle that a security belt of up to three miles would protect a base from a mortar attack.



But no base in Viet Nam at present has a defence perimeter deep enough to prevent bombardment by the 120mm. mortar.

Weighing a quarter of a ton, the new mortar can be broken down into three pieces for transport with four men carrying each one.

for the worst, are considering another reason: This is the dry season when the highly mobile airborne U.S. forces have every advantage, can leap around in good weather and stage lightning helicopter drops where and when they choose.

In five or six weeks the monsoons will come. The rains are incessant, the fog settles over the canopied jungles and the rice paddies and flying, always tricky, is often impossible.

The Viet Cong welcome the monsoons. They can dart and slash in the rains and hit an outfit with little risk of being caught by air power, or artillery or immediate reinforcements brought in by swarms of helicopters.

Thus, the Viet Cong may be keeping their powder dry for the rainy season when the odds soar in their favor.

Rusk Underlines Unyielding Nature of U.S. to China

By ARCH MacKENZIE

WASHINGTON (CP) — The unyielding nature of the United States governments basic attitude to China has been underlined in congressional testimony by State Secretary Dean Rusk.

Every time the U.S. makes a proposal for better relations—exchanges of journalists, students, scientific or whatever—communist-ruled China rushes to broadcast its scorn.

Time alone seems capable of creating any marked improvement in relations, Rusk said in his testimony, published Saturday.

Observers feel all that has changed, despite domestic claims the U.S. has shifted its line, is public awareness of the problem of getting along with the Asian giant of 700,000,000 people.

In recent weeks, the U.S. government has broadened its proposals for helping begin a thaw —proposals made as early as 1957 to China and brusquely rejected then as now.

The essence of Rusks views run this way:

"It is just as essential to contain Communist aggression 'contain' communist aggression in Europe.

"At the same time, we must continue to make it plain that if Peking abandons its beliefs that force is the best way to resolve disputes and gives up its violent strategy of world revolution, we would welcome an era of good relations.

NO EASY WAY

But Rusk could not predict quick changes in China.

"Pekings present state of mind is a combination of aggressive arrogance and obsessions of its own making.

His points emphasized the heart of the bitter mutual isolation between the U.S. and China: Formosa, home of the Chinese-Nationalists and holder of a United Nations Security Council permanent seat.

The U.S. will continue to help defend Formosa, Rusk said, and attempt to make sure Formosa remains in the UN.

"When it can be done without jeopardizing other U.S. interests, we should continue to enlarge the possibilities for unofficial contact (with China), Rusk said.

But that is an academic exercise now, he suggested, in saying that the present Chinese leaders "seem immune to agreement or persuasion by anyone, including their own allies.

New Tolls

the Saint Lawrence Seaway Development Corp., plans to start hearings at Chicago June 1.

Shipping interests have already indicated that they will fight strenuously against any increase in tolls.

Main Canadian criticism is expected to be against the proposal for charges on the Welland Canal, from which tolls were removed in 1962.

A revision of seaway tolls had been due this year under the Canada - U.S. agreement by which the seaway project was undertaken. The revision originally was to have been made by July 1, 1964, but was postponed for two years to allow further studies.

The seaway cost $475,000,000 and under the construction agreement was to pay for itself out of toll revenue over 50 years.

Present tolls have been in effect since the seaway opened in 1959. They were set on the basis of traffic forecasts which did not materialize, plunging the waterway into debt in each of its first seven years of operation.

Moodys announcement said the new tolls, which apply to the seaway section between Montreal and Lake Ontario, were studied by the two agencies with the help of independent consultants.

"These studies have taken into account traffic forecasts and the obligation of the (agencies) to relate the tolls proposals as realistically as possible to the financial requirements," it said. "The studies indicate that seaway traffic should not be sensitive to moderate changes in seaway tolls. "Anticipated traffic development and the moderate toll increases proposed by the seaway entities should enable them to meet their financial obligations."

Referring to the new Welland charges, the statement said they will eventually cover the costs of operation and maintenance at the canal, which is an entirely Canadian venture. A $180,000,000 modernization program is now under way to improve it.

Board

nounced arbitrary firings without entering into discussion about what was wrong with the program.

WEREN'T OBEYED

The CBC was miffed because it had been unable through its usual channels to convince Seven Days personnel that its directives weren't being obeyed.

"There were times," Mr. Lefcourtan said, "when material we believed should have gone on the air didn't get on the air."

Mr. Ouimet said the program sometimes had been slanted and included "sleazy things."

He denied suggestions the program would be made less controversial and outspoken and said the long run it could "be a better program with new hosts."

Mr. Lefcourtan said the CBC seemed fairest on "emasculating" the program, removing "the program's teeth" and taking away men "who stand for what has been done."

Calling restoration of the hosts, it was a "reasonable assumption" he would resign.

Neither Mr. Lefcourtan nor Mr. LaPierre were available for comment on Mr. Ouimet's remarks. Mr. Watson said he had no comment.

SPORTS SLICES

By Geo. H. Carver
Sports Editor

The late Jim Norris may have offered a million silver dollars and the Leafs for Mahovlich, but a nickel gets you four passes to Belleville's first bullfight that the Detroit brass wouldn't take twice that much for a former public-school goaltender from Florel, Saskatchewan.

Today in his 32th year and his 20th in the National Hockey League, Gordie Howe has every hockey fan north of the Rio Grande and south of the North Pole marvelling at his amazing versatility and continuing success.

Playing superbly, Howe has been one of the chief factors in the success of the Red Wings in the current Stanley Cup semi-finals. He scored his third goal of the series against the Hawks on Sunday with the nonchalance of an exhibition player — and the expertise of the veteran he is.

Oldtime sportsmen will tell you it is a toss-up as to who has the most records tucked away in their storehouses of scrapbooks etc., Howe or the late Ty Cobb.

Cobb, after a seven-million dollar man he made in some early sensational investments in a soft-drink company, Howe may or may not reach the seven-figure bracket but you won't find him waiting in line every Saturday for his social security cheque after he swaps his skates for crutches.

He once quipped that he would like to stay in hockey until he is 46. Howe, the master of the fast mot, didn't mean it but he did add "I'm going to stick with hockey as long as I can breathe. It's the only business I'd be lost in. I'm a hopeless clan."

Howe is the third Methuselah of the hockey jar set to reach the twenty-year plateau — and this is it. The others are Dit Clapper of the Bruins and the late Hooley Smith.

If the dressing room of the Red Wings after Sunday's game is a criterion, Howe will lead a cup-hungry ready-for-the kill flock of Wings into action tonight.

Flushed with cramming a 5-3 defeat down the Hawks throat and the satisfaction of seeing Billy Reay's "switch-Hull" strategy backfire, the Wings will skate on the ice fully confident they will deliver the coup-de-grace and the last rites to Hawk aspirations.

That could be. But Reay, Hull and company do not agree. "Don't forget there are two games to go" is their defiant cry "and we'll be ready for them. Sunday's game was a good one but it was the score that was all wrong."

The Wings, we observer says, have been belting the Hawks and softening them up as part of the overall strategy. They played without Chico Maki and Elmer Vasky Sunday but the Wings feel if they can stop Hull, the Hawks can't get anywhere.

Give Crozier all the credit you like, and he deserves a tremendous lot, but when sharpshooters like Hull, Mikita et al fail to score more than they did in the first four games there is definitely something wrong with the attacking divisions.

Hull was hopeful that the Hawks will get going tonight in the do-or-die battle. "I like to think we'll start scoring but I suppose we're not doing it because of a combination of things. Most of all it's been a long season."

Billy Reay refused to alibi. "Our production guys are not producing. Not because they are not playing well enough but because they are closely checked. We have been outhustled."

Tonight could wind it up. But remember the Hawks have always played better on Detroit ice. That could make a difference.

Boston Marathon

Rate Japanese Favorites

BOSTON (CP)—Cloudy skies and temperatures in the 50s were predicted for today's 70th running of the Boston marathon, increasing the odds for another Japanese triumph in the event they dominated last year.

Two Canadians are considered strong contenders.

A Japanese team headed by Toru Terasawa looks hard to beat in the 26-mile, 385-yard event over a hilly course.

Last year, the Japanese overcame overcast, 40-degree conditions and ended up 1-2-3-5-6, winner Morio Shigematsu setting a course record of two hours, 16 minutes and 33 seconds.

The strength of this year's Japanese team can be shown by the fact that none of those five have qualified for this year's contingent. Shigematsu finished ninth in the Japanese qualifying race at Beppu, although he ran the course 17 seconds faster than his record time here.

Belgian Aurele Vandendriessche, who finished fourth last year and won in 1964, had looked like the best bet to beat the Japanese, but he missed his plane in Brussels Monday and won't be here.

At least nine Canadians are entered but the only ones given a chance to give Canada its first victory since 1942 are Ron Wallingford, 32, a physical education teacher at McMaster University in Hamilton, and Dave Ellis, 28, an English-born Torontonian.

Bathgate Brilliance Talk Of Wings

By JERRY GLADMAN

DETROIT (CP) — Two years ago, when Andy Bathgate moved from New York Rangers to Toronto Maple Leafs in a seven-player deal, it turned out that he had the Stanley Cup concealed in his luggage.

Now Detroit fans are wondering whether the cup again was hidden among one of the eight-player trade that brought Bathgate from Toronto to the Red Wings last summer.

It was an unlikely prospect through most of the regular National Hockey League season. The onetime New York scoring ace floundered through 37 games at one stage without a goal and the Wings, who had finished first a year earlier, without him, staggered home in fourth place.

But in the current Cup semi-final against Chicago Black Hawks, the 33-year-old right winger has suddenly started to live up to his advance billing.

With four goals in five games, all on the power play, Bathgate is the leading Cup scorer of both Stanley Cup semi-finals and a prime reason for Detroit's 3-2 lead in the best - of - seven series that resumes here tonight.

INTERESTED IMLACH

It was Bathgate's power-play potential that interested Toronto coach Punch Imlach when he got him from the Rangers along with veteran Don McKenney for five players headed by Leaf standbys Dick Duff and Bob Nevin.

It paid off handsomely. Arriving 15 games before the end of the 1963-4 season, Bathgate and McKenney scored 12 goals over the remainder of the schedule and nine more in the playoffs as the Leafs captured their third consecutive Stanley Cup.

Then, while McKenney drifted into the minors, Bathgate went through a miserable 16-goal season with Toronto, ending it with a blast at Imlach for working his players too hard in practice. No one was surprised when the Leafs shipped him to Detroit.

This time the principals were Bathgate and veteran defenceman Marcel Pronovost, who moved from the Wings to Toronto. None of the other six players involved stuck with the parent clubs.

Despite coach Sid Abel's more relaxed training methods, Bathgate had difficulty adjusting to his Detroit team-mates. He failed to fit in with Gordie Howe and Alex Delvecchio and what figured to be one of the most potent lines in the NHL never was shuffled from one combination to another.

SHIFT STRATEGY

Howe credits a shift in strategy for Andy's sudden emergence as a power-play threat.

"It could be because he and I swapped positions," Howe said. "I'm back on the point now and Andy was moved up to the wing."

"I don't know really what it is," said Abel. "I just hope it keeps up."

The Wings, with no injuries outside of assorted bruises and bumps, are favored to wrap up the series tonight and go on to meet Montreal Canadiens in the semi-finals, which get under way in Montreal Sunday.

Injuries are still a problem with the Hawks. Right-winger Chico Maki is out for the rest of the series with a bad leg and defencemen Elmer (Moose) Vasko is a question mark for tonight's game.

Then there's scoring ace Bobby Hull, who has been on the limp with a sore left knee since the series opened and has been held to two goals.

Softball Getting Underway

And a-a-a-way we go!

They are taking the ice out of Memorial Arena this week but the city softball people are making sure there is no gap between seasons.

Softball practices are beginning to pop up.

Belvedere Hotel, of the City Commercial League, have two slated for this week, both at Prince Charles School, at 5:45. The first is tonight and the second is on Thursday.

Coach Roy Fralick, of the Belleville and District League Bobcats, s'so has called two open workouts. They are scheduled for the CNRA Park, at 5.30 tomorrow (Wednesday) and 1.30 Sunday afternoon. Fralick says, "all welcome."

And with the district switching to daylight saving time this Saturday, here will be plenty more chubs swinging into action next week.

Meanwhile, the B. and D. League's entry deadline meeting is called for his Sunday, April 25.

There is a switch in time, however, from 2.00 in the afternoon to 7.30 in the evening, according to secretary Doug "Chip" Reid.

The meeting will be held at Richard Ellis' home, 564 Sidney Street, and all clubs are asked to have representation. Don't forget the time change.

Canada Favorite For Games

ROME (CP-AP)—Canada and West Germany are rated the favorites for the 1972 Winter and Summer Olympic Games, respectively, on the eve of a crucial meeting of the International Olympic Committee here.

As IOC members began arriving in the Italian capital Monday for their spring meeting, the betting favored Banff, Alta., for the Winter Games and Munich for the Summer Games.

Montreal has also applied for the Summer Games but, rather surprisingly, the current campaign of opinion favors Munich in the lead. Other applications have come from Detroit and Madrid.

Sapporo, Japan, is regarded as Banff's hottest rival for the 1972 celebration of the Winter Games. But Banff has years of planning and preparation behind its application, and is trying for the third time to get this biggest of all winter sports festivals. Other applications have been placed by Lahti, Finland, and Salt Lake City, Utah.

The IOC is scheduled to announce its decisions about the 1972 Summer and Winter Games next Tuesday, April 26.

Color Doesn't Impress Habs

By AL MCNEIL

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Canadiens will be making their debut in living color next Sunday afternoon, but several members of this year's National Hockey League champions are less than impressed.

Canadiens are scheduled to meet the winner of the Detroit Red Wings - Chicago Black Hawks series Sunday. The opening game will be carried in color by the National Broadcasting Co. in the United States, with regular black - and - white coverage planned by the Canadian Broadcasting Corp.

Detroit currently leads Chicago three games to two in that series, while Montreal knocked off Toronto Maple Leafs in four straight games to advance to the Stanley Cup finals.

Asked if he will wear shadow under his eyes to cut the glare from the extra lights and tinted ice required for color telecasts, Lorne (Gump) Worsley, Canadiens' veteran netminder, just grunted.

"I'm against it," (playing Sunday) Worsley said. "Never mind what anyone says, I'd sooner play Saturday night."

KEEPS CANADIENS BUSY

Coach Toe Blake, keeping his team busy with workouts, said he didn't think the change will upset the club's routine.

Blake was the subject of some gentle needling from Worsley as the goalie skilfully coach needs for color television.

"Don't forget your blue shirt," Worsley said with a grin.

"Listen, I'll wear the same suit I wore for the last four games against Detroit if you want them and I'm not changing now," Blake retorted.

Blake said that Henri Richard will start in the opener. Richard has been sidelined with a knee injury since the second game of the Toronto series when he was boarded heavily by defenceman Larry Hillman of the Leafs.

"Henri's fine now and he's improved over our Saturday practice," the coach said. "Everybody's healthy and we're just waiting to see who comes here."

Baseball Minors Must Register Sat.

Belleville boys wishing to play minor baseball this summer have just a few more days left to register.

The B.M.B.A. passes along a reminder that Saturday, April 22, is the final day for players' registration, and adds, "all players must be registered in order to play."

Forms were distributed in city schools some time ago but any boys who did not get one there are asked to obtain a form at the Recreation Centre, fill it out and return it, to the same place.

And don't forget, Saturday is the final day.

Down Montreal Way "JC" Is Toast

Could Be His Year

By AL McNEIL

MONTREAL (CP) — Jean Claude Tremblay's name hasn't appeared as a selectee to the first or second all-star teams, nor has it been engraved on the trophy awarded annually to the National Hockey League's top defenceman, but if he continues his heads - up play this could be his year of recognition.

J. C. TREMBLAY

Tremblay, a 27-year-old native of Bagotville, Que., known to his Montreal Canadiens team-mates simply as "J.C.", was one of the key players as Montreal advanced to the final round of Stanley Cup play by eliminating Toronto Maple Leafs in four straight games.

Montreal now must await the outcome of the Chicago Black Hawks-Detroit Red Wings series before learning who they will meet in the opening game of the final round here Sunday afternoon. Detroit currently holds a 3-2 edge in games in the best-of-seven round.

Praise of Tremblay's steady play has come not only from his coach, team - mates and the Montreal management, but from the opposition and a former all-star defender.

Before the second game of the semi-final round with Toronto, Leafs' assistant general-manager King Clancy admitted that Tremblay had "killed" his club in Canadiens' 4-3 opening win.

WAS GAME STAR

In that game the Montreal defenceman not only scored a goal, but was the defensive star of the game.

Doug Harvey, seven - time winner of the Norris Trophy as the league's top defenceman, watched Tremblay in action at Canadiens' 90-minute workout here Monday.

"He always seems to know what he is doing with the puck," Harvey said. "If he's caught in his corner, he gets it right up the side of the boards forward."

Tremblay says the knack of precision passing to his forwards is instinctive. "I don't have to think about it," he said. "I seem to anticipate their moves now after six years and I just get the puck there."

Perhaps some of his success can be attributed to the fact he started his hockey career as a left winger, though now in his seventh year as a defenceman. Tremblay came to Canadiens during the 1960-61 season from Hull-Ottawa Canadiens of the now - dormant Eastern Professional League.

STAYS IN GAME

During the regular 70-game schedule this year, Tremblay was sidelined for 10 games by a fractured cheekbone, but still scored six goals and assisted on 29 others. In the Toronto series he has one goal and three assists and spent only two minutes in the penalty box in four rough, brawling contests. He picked up only eight minutes in his 60 regular-season games.

Tremblay, who stands five feet 11 inches and weighs 175 pounds, admits he tries to play with his head and stick rather than attempt to bodycheck an opposing attacker into the ice.

"I prefer not to use my body because if I miss him he's gone and I'm caught out of position," he said.

He attributes his improved play when the money is at stake to being "less nervous" than the preceding years.

BLOOPER NO SURPRISE

He said he thinks NHL sadminders are all aware of his blooper shot fired from distances of more than 60 feet, a shot he fooled several goalies with as it bounced and skipped by into the net.

"It works good on chippy ice and it's hard for him (the goalie) to judge, but I think most of them know how to play it now."

Tremblay rates Detroit's Bill Gadsby and Toronto's Allan Stanley as the toughest opposing defencemen of the league. Both are seasoned veterans, the 40-year-old Stanley with 18 years in NHL service and Gadsby in his 20th season at 38 years of age.

The opposing forwards who give him the most trouble are Chicago's Bobby Hull and Toronto's Bob Pulford and Eddie Shack.

"Hull hits hard, but he doesn't throw his body much," Tremblay said. "Pulford and Shack hit more often."

Saved By Face

Buc's Rally Nips Reds, Dodgers Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Roy Face, 38, seems destined to become one of the most effective pitchers in the majors this season, his 12th with Pittsburgh Pirates.

Face made his fourth appearance of the season Monday night and saved Pittsburgh's 6 - 2 victory over Cincinnati Reds. It was the Pirates' fifth triumph in the first six games.

His performance was similar to his first three.

A poor 1964 season and a knee ailment last year gave indications that Face might be finished. But he is as old hand at coming back.

"In high school I developed a strep throat," Face recalled. "They gave me too many sulfa drugs and it weakened my heart.

"The doctor said absolutely no exercise. A few months later, though, I was playing football and not long after that I was accepted for army service.

"I also had fitkets when I was five. The disease left my knees soft and bent and I ran a high fever. They said I looked more dead than alive. I wasn't expected to live through the night but I made it."

GIVES BATTERS TROUBLE

Now Face is a nightmare for National League batters.

In his first game on opening day last Tuesday, the right-hander came on in the ninth inning with the contest tied 1-1, two out and three Atlanta Braves on base. He retired Frank Bolling on a fly ball and the Pirates eventually won in 13 innings.

Last Saturday he rejoiced in the ninth inning, with the Pirates leading St. Louis Cardinals 8-3, one on, one out and a count of two balls, no strikes on Julian Javier. Javier hit into a game - ending double play.

The next day he ended a rally after the Cardinals had scored five runs and still had two on with only one out. The Pirates eventually won that one, too.

Finally, against the Reds Monday night, he appeared in the ninth inning to hold a one-run lead. Cincinnati had runners at first and third with two out. Face struck out Art Shamsky and the Pirates had another victory.

A three-run rally in the sixth inning gave the Pirates the victory, the last two runs scoring on Jose Pagan's pinch double.

In the only other game, Los Angeles Dodgers defeated Houston Astros 6-5 as Don Sutton scattered eight hits in eight innings and won his first major league game. Lou Johnson rapped two singles and a double, driving in two runs and scoring one.

Rain washed out Atlanta at Philadelphia.

The Trots

CAMPBELLVILLE, Ont. (CP)—Jacob Geleit took three of the nine races Monday night at Mohawk Raceway to open the 36-night spring meeting.

Fresh from two consecutive driver championships, his latest at Greenwood Raceway's fall meeting, the 35-year-old driver from Hanover won the third, fourth and sixth races.

The sixth race behind Brother Noble was for the $3,340 Burlington Stakes and returned a $14.40 exactor.

It was the first stakes win for Brother Noble, owned by Lou Churchill of Bar River, Ont.

Roberts Top Rookie Of CPHL

DETROIT (CP) — Doug Roberts, Detroit-born right winger with Memphis Wings, has been voted Rookie of the Year in the Central Professional Hockey League.

Roberts, 22-year-old graduate of physical education at Michigan State University in Lansing, scored 20 goals and drew 40 assists for 60 points while playing in all 70 of his team's games.

He signed a professional contract with Detroit Red Wings, Memphis' parent club in the National Hockey League, after graduating last June. He was captain of Michigan State's hockey team in 1964-65.

Catholic Bowling Tourney

Quinte district bowling teams are expected to be among a record number of entries at the Kingston Archdiocesan Catholic Bowling Tournament May 15, 17, 18. The tourney will be held at the Plaza lanes.

St. teams took part last year and more are expected for the '66 tournament. The top five, in order, last year were: St. Joseph's, Tweed, Marmora, Kingston and Belleville.

Teams will be competing for three trophies and cash prizes determined by the number of entries. $72 is guaranteed for first place, $48 for second and $30 for third. Prize money went to the top six teams last year. The Wright Bezall Trophy goes to the tournament winners with second place getting the Canadian Register Trophy and third place the McGinnis Trophy.

The John McKay Fuss Trophy plus $16 is awarded for the women's high triple and the Cliff Elmer Trophy and $15 for men's high triple. There are also $10 awards for women's and men's high single.

John McGovern, of Kingston, is the tournament director.

Score Was 12-2

Generals Scuttle Trappers

NORTH BAY (CP)—It doesn't seem to matter where Oshawa Generals play North Bay Trappers in their Eastern Canada Memorial Cup semi-finals. It'll be going to be a rout anyway.

The teams moved to North Bay for the third game of the best-of-seven series Monday night and the Generals won 12-2, their widest margin of the three games played so far.

But despite the drubbing, which follows 11-4 and 11-2 losses in Oshawa last weekend, the Trappers plan to finish the series which means there will be a fourth game here Wednesday night.

The winner meets Shawinigan, Que., Bruins in the Eastern Canada finals.

A crowd of 2,600 turned out many to see Bobby Orr, Oshawa's scoring ace. But forward Billy Hicks stole the show by scoring four goals, including the first three in the first period. Hicks, from Winnipeg, also scored the last goal of the game.

Orr didn't disappoint the onlookers, however. He fired two goals and assisted on four others and brought a loud round of applause in the third period with a dazzling display of rag-ging the puck. The points brought Orr's series total to 18 —six goals and 12 assists.

GETS SIX ASSISTS

Other Oshawa goals went to Wayne Cashman, Barry Wilkins, Nick Beverley, Bob Black, Bill White and Danny Sandford. Cashman added six assists for a seven-point performance.

Marty Reynolds got both of North Bay goals.

The clubs found time to generate a spirited fight in the third period when White banged Roger Wilson of the Trappers behind the ear, opening a cut. Wilson, a 200-pounder, laced White and scored a convincing decision before officials could separate them.

Jim Fuller of North Bay and Bill Little of Oshawa staged a crowd-pleasing battle of their own as a sidelight. All four players drew majors. Fuller and Little also got minors.

Oshawa coach Bep Guidolin added to the fireworks by drawing three bench penalties in the final period for unsportsmanlary remarks at the officials.

Oshawa ended up with 13 of the 25 penalties called.

The Trappers, unsuccessful in getting permission to bolster their goaltending despite injuries, sent Matt Thorpe into the nets. Thorpe played the entire game despite an injured right leg.

The Generals took 36 shots at him. The Trappers had 22 shots on goal.

He is one of two Canadian Anglican delegates to the meeting called to prepare for the 1968 conference at Lambeth Palace, London. The other is Archbishop H. Clark of Winnipeg, Primate of the Anglican Church of Canada.

Top Bowlers Eye Title "Mr. Bowling"

The Eastern Ontario 5-pin singles championship, better known as the "Mr. Bowling" tournament, is scheduled at the Belleville Bowl-O-Drome on Friday and Saturday, April 29 and 30.

Entry deadline for this 15th annual affair is the Sunday, April 24, and a maximum of 112 entries will be accepted.

Cash awards are numerous and "Mr. Bowling" also receives a wrist watch, compliments of O'Connor's Jewel Box. There is a special $250 pot open to the first man to bowl a perfect game and other cash prizes go for high singles. All prize monies are based on the number of entries.

Ron Snyder won the crown last year with his 10-game score of 2,588, followed by Joe Allen at 2,582, Jim McKenzie with 2,564 Glenn Hamilton at 2,537 and Jack Canning at 2,522.

One of the top challengers expected this year will be Leo Labelle, who recently topped the city's five-pin bowlers with a season average of 250.8, but the competition will be tough all the way down the line.

Once again, entries should be in by this Sunday and post entries will be accepted only if space permits.

Legion topped the second division with 13 points. Don's Delivery and Gamesbots took 10 points each.

There are only two teams in the third division, in which Adam's Furniture took 14 points and the ANAF Warriors 5.

Pickerel Run Almost Over In This Area

NAPANEE — The pickerel run is almost over, and the men on the staff of the Napanee division of the Department are not sorry, Mr. K. W. Ferguson, head of the division here, reports.

Pike spawn early in the marshes, as soon as the ice goes out. Pickerel, however, do not spawn until the water temperature is 43 degrees, and the fish go out again when it is 10 or 12 degrees higher. The run has been poor at Belleville, he says, and poorer than usual in Napanee. There were only three fair nights here.

Meanwhile men of this division have seized 50 spears, which are in the office here, and 43 charges have been laid.

The fish were taken to the county homes when there was enough to warrant a trip to Belleville, Kingston or Picton.

The spots to watch were the three rivers at Trenton, Belleville, and Napanee, Mairliff Creek in Prince Edward, Hay Bay, and north of Verona.

Around Town

HOLD TURKEY SHOOT

NAPANEE — Marksmen from Gananoque, Kingston, Belleville and Picton joined those from this area for the Napanee Rod and Gun Club chicken and turkey shoot recently. There was keen competition, with shooting going on all day. The club has a good range, which is becoming increasingly popular. Proceeds for the shoot will go to the hospital fund to which the club has committed itself to contribute $1,000. Bob Wilson, Sam Markle, Bill Markle, Jack Cook and Bill Hanna were among the members in charge of preparing. Winners took 20 chickens or turkeys home with them.

TWO GRASS FIRES

The Napanee Volunteer Fire Department considers itself fortunate, so far only two grass fires have been reported, one on the Camden Road near the overhead bridge, and the other in North Fredericksburgh on Sarah St. In both cases there was no damage and the fire was soon controlled. Firemen have been assisting in cleaning up the streets by going out with the water tank to wash them down. They have also been swept once.

FIND STOLEN CAR

A car reported stolen in Metro Toronto was found in Napanee Saturday evening. It was located by a Napanee constable abandoned on Dundas Street.

MINOR ACCIDENTS

After an accident-free weekend over the holiday, the Napanee detachment of the O.P.P. had a busy time after 8 a.m. on Monday. Fortunately there were no serious injuries.

In a three-car accident at the Floating Bridge on Highway No. 33 there was an estimated total damage of $1,000. A car owned and driven by Joseph Paul Holland of Deseronto, received $300 damage and one driven by Frank Seeton of Kingston was damaged to the tune of $400, and Bettesia Zanette also of Kingston, received $450 damage in his automobile. One driver was slightly cut but was not hospitalized. The accident was reported at 1.45 p.m.

Robert Baker, 17, of Tamworth was charged with careless driving in a minor accident at Tamworth at 4.05. His car received an estimated damage of $50.

In the evening an O.P.P. constable picked up Harold Martin of Enterprise and charged him with impaired driving. There was no accident.

Cardiff Woman Sees Musical For 500th Time

CARDIFF, Wales (AP)—If Oscars went to movie fans, Mrs. Myra Franklin would be a certain winner. Today she sees The Sound of Music for the 500th time.

The 47-year-old widow attended the Cardiff opening of the film nearly a year ago. Since then her routine never has varied.

At 8 p.m. she takes a bus from her home to the Capitol Cinema. After lunch in the cinema cafe, she watches the movie's first showing.

She takes tea in the cafe, then a walk. By 7 p.m. she's back in her seat for the second performance.

After her first 55 visits, the management gave her a present.

She knows the script by heart but says: "I'm never bored. I see something new in it each time." Her ambition is to see it a thousand times."

"LIFE AT THE TOP"

"Life At The Top," now at the Park Theatre for showings Wednesday only with Laurence Harvey, Jean Simmons, Honor Blackman, Michael Craig and Donald Wolfit, is based on the best-selling novel by John Braine, who also wrote "Room at the Top." It was in the latter film that Harvey won world fame as an office clerk determined to push his way into the upper brackets now. "Room at the Top" presents him ten years after his marriage for money, with Miss Simmons as his unfaithful wife and Miss Blackman as the girl to whom he turns for assurance. "Life at the Top" is a dramatic new sequel Films International release.

Braine has frequently been heard of good things much see into his stories, but he has a stock answer for complaints: "I write books for money, me. You won't be able to find it because you put it in yourself. If anything, I conceive of myself as a romantic. On the other hand, I hope I've made it perfectly plain what's been happening to whom."

The screenplay based on the new Braine novel was written by Mordecai Richler, and Ted Kotcheff directed the Romulus

Sophia Loren Again Weds Carlo Ponti

PARIS (Reuters) — Actress Sophia Loren and producer Carlo Ponti were secretly married 10 days ago in the Paris suburb of Sevres, the mayor of Sevres disclosed today.

The mayor made his statement after a Paris newspaper earlier today arrived a reporter that the pair had married here.

Mayor Charles Odic said the marriage ceremony took place Saturday, April 9, at the local town hall.

Ponti, 51, and Miss Loren, 30, were first married in 1957 by proxy in Mexico, but their marriage was not recognized in their native Italy. Ponti had been married previously and there is no divorce in Italy.

The proxy marriage led to bigamy charges against the star and the pair appeared in court after eight years of legal formalities their trial opened in Rome last July. Neither appeared in court but their testimony from a pretrial investigation was read and the proceedings were adjourned.

Last year, both Ponti and his first wife, Giuliana Fiastri, became French citizens. Presumably they obtained a divorce in France before Ponti's second marriage.

Ponti married Miss Fiastri in 1946. They had 2 children and eventually got a legal separation. Soon after, close to the producer said last year Miss Fiastri also wished to remarry.

BARBRA EXPECTS

LONDON (AP) — New York singing star Barbra Streisand, 24, will have a baby in December, her physicists said Monday. Miss Streisand's appearance here is the stage musical Funny Girl ends July 16, and will not be affected. She is married to Elliott Gould, 27.

Had to Stick to Finale To Find Out Who Won

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Television producers seem to be able to compress almost anything into 30 or 60 minutes with time out for commercials. But when it comes to handing out movie Oscars and television Emmies, the programs run on and on.

But Monday night's annual motion picture Academy Awards show occupied 2¾ hours, ending well past midnight EST and you had to stick with it to the end to find out that The Sound of Music was voted the best picture of the year and that Julie Christie of Darling and Lee Marvin of Cat Ballou were the best actress and actor.

The long show, however, was the most attractive in its TV history because it lessened somewhat the usual tedium of the presentation ceremonies, was his usual irreverent self from his opening crack about the "television" telling out there are the stars of today and the senators of tomorrow"—to the presentation of a special gold medal by the academy which caught him unprepared. "I'm flattered and my idiot cards down," was the best he could muster.

The long parade of men and women making speeches, which were really kept down, is the most stimulating entertainment in the world.

But dragging out the proceedings unnecessarily with elaborately staged solos of the nominated songs—highly unsuitable solo songs, too—did not help much. There was not even an excuse for a long dance number injected in the middle of things.

Most popular program in the new national Nielsen report is Carol Plus Two, Carol Burnett's special on CBS last month that co-starred Lucille Ball and Zero Mostel. But the most interesting item in the report is the note that Red Skelton's CBS show passed the perennial champion, NBC's Bonanza.

Top 10 shows during the two-week period ending April 3 were, in order, Carol Plus Two, The Red Skelton Hour, Bonanza, CBS' Lucy Show and Jomer Pyle, ABC's Ady Grif fith Show, ABC's Batman Thursday night episode—CBS' Hogan's Heroes and Thursday Night Movie.

PICTON — About 125 4-H Homemaking Club members from Prince Edward County will complete "The Supper Club" project on Saturday, April 23rd at Prince Edward Collegiate Institute, Picton. All interested friends are invited to attend the afternoon program to enjoy the exhibits, skits and demonstrations involving some phase of the project.

CORN CROP CONTEST

Again this year the Prince Edward Soil and Crop Improvement Association has made plans to sponsor a High Yield Corn Competition. The winner in the County competition will be entered in the 1966 Ontario Grain Corn Competition which is being sponsored by the Ontario Soil and Crop Improvement Association and the Plant Food Council of Ontario. In order to qualify, local competitors will be required to follow the regulations which have been established for the Ontario Competition.

For the purpose of this competition the Province has been divided into five Crop Regions based primarily on Heat Units available for corn production with the divisions coinciding to the nearest township or county boundaries. On this basis the Prince Edward County winner will compete with the County winners in Region 3.

Some excellent cash prizes and specials are available for the local competition and in addition the winner of each region, will receive an all expense trip for two to "Expo 67", Montreal plus $100 cash. Additional prizes and awards will be provided to the second and third place winner in each of the 5 regions.

In 1965 there were 18 competitors in the Prince Edward County Grain Corn Competition with an average yield of 97.6 bushels of shelled corn per acre at 15 per cent moisture. This was an increase of 14.6 bushels over the previous year. A high of 134 bushels was achieved by the top contestant, an increase of 44 bushels over the high in 1964. Based on last years experience it is hoped that there will be a further increase in the number of competitors and average yields produced in 1966.

Growers interested in entering this competition are reminded that entries should be forwarded to the Ontario Department of Agriculture, Box 470, Picton on or before May 1st. Regulations and Entry forms have been mailed to corn growers in the area, however any growers who did not receive a copy can obtain one at their local Department of Agriculture Office.

Proctor-Silex Merged With U.S. Company

PICTON (Staff) — The Proctor-Silex plant in Picton may soon merge with a new organization according to plant manager Gary Harris. An agreement in principle to join the SCM Corporation of New York City and the Proctor-Silex Corporation, Philadelphia, Pa., has been announced by presidents of the two firms. The merger proposal has been agreed to by the boards of each company, subject to the execution of a detailed agreement and to the approval of stock holders.

Proctor-Silex would continue to be operated after the merger as a separate subsidiary of the SCM (Smith Corona Marchant) and will continue to be directed by the present management and personnel.

Under the proposed terms, SCM would issue one share of its common stock for each three shares of Proctor-Silex common stock. Mr. Harris sees no change in the plants production or function here if and when the merger takes place. Major products at the Picton plant are electric toasters and other small appliances. The plant is presently undertaking an increase in its production of present lines.

A major problem at the present time is lack of personnel. Mr. Harris — "female workers badly," said Mr. Harris, "with or without experience".

Credit Buying Subject of Talk To Kiwanians

PICTON (Staff) — An informative address was presented to Picton Kiwanis Club last night by George Hume, President and General Manager of the Credit Bureau of Belleville. Mr. Hume, introduced to the Picton club by Gordon Giroux, illustrated his talk with slides. His subject dealt with the role Credit bureaus are playing in their respective communities.

The role of credit bureaus is not generally known by the public he said. The service offered to industry, commerce and business men was most enlightening. Mr. Hume said that out of every 100 consumers 70 will not over buy. Basically, Mr. Hume says, people are honest. The slide show prepared by Mr. Hume entitled "A Credit To You" was well enjoyed by members of the club and some of the members said they thought that it should be shown to high school children to teach them the proper approach to credit buying and also to enlighten them on the information service on consumers that the bureau retains in its 120 offices across Canada. The speaker was thanked by Kiwanian Jack Lethbup, and presented with a county cheese by President of Kiwanis, Picton, Ray Lennox.

Bethel Zion

BETHEL ZION — Mr. and Mrs. Don Reid of Belleville visited with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Chambers at Easter.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Marvin spent the holiday with relatives in Toronto.

Mrs. Howard Parliament, Jeff and Jane of Petrolia were guests this week of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Ketchbaw, while Mr. Parliament is attending a convention in Toronto.

Mr. Arthur Casey and Mr. Wellington Phillips are patients in Belleville General Hospital.

Legion Must Expand Beyond Matters Concerning Veterans

-- Earl Mountbatten

MONTREAL (CP) — The Royal Canadian Legion must continue to expand beyond matters concerning only with veterans if it is to escape becoming "some kind of an aging watchdog", Earl Mountbatten of Burma told the legion's 21st national convention Monday.

"For the legion it is either 10 minutes to midnight or the dawn of a new era," he said.

"If as a veterans organization you are content to confine your activities to matters of concern only to your own veterans then it is getting very close to midnight. The purpose of your organization is to provide assistance to veterans and dependents. This assistance is still required for quite a long time and certainly should remain the legion's prime concern.

"Nevertheless, with increasing social legislation which invariably must come to Canada, the need for such assistance will gradually decline," Lord Mountbatten said.

He complimented the legion on its work in education but said there are broad areas in the Commonwealth where additional help is urgently necessary.

POINTS TO POVERTY

Many of the 17,000,000 ex-servicemen throughout the Commonwealth are living in extreme poverty, he said.

"The needs of an emerging nation are many and urgent. These needs and many more must be given priority.

The British Commonwealth Ex-services League—of which Lord Mountbatten is grand president — believes that more money must be spent in the Commonwealth on education as a safeguard against the inroads of communism, he said.

Lord Mountbatten had told legion executives earlier that the league hopes to establish a mutual aid fund for Commonwealth veterans. It is trying to raise $150,000 a year for each of the next seven years.

The legion is to vote later this week on a proposal to raise $200,000 towards the fund.

Business Briefs

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

TAX AFFECTS SALES

Department stores sales in Ontario during the week ended March 26 were 12 per cent higher than a year earlier, the bureau of statistics reported Monday. The rush to beat the April 1 increase in the provincial retail sales tax to five per cent from three was believed responsible.

FARMERS GET MORE

Higher prices for livestock and potatoes pushed the bureau of statistics index of farm prices up 5.8 points to 283.2 in February, the bureau said Monday.

Letter Carriers Want Right To Strike

MONTREAL (CP) — Roger Decarie, president of the Montreal branch of the Letter Carriers Association of Letter Carriers (CLC), said Monday night that postmen would definitely walk off their jobs if legislation were introduced forbidding them from striking.

"There is no other way out," he said. "We must fight for our rights. I would rather go to prison than give in."

He was speaking at a meeting, attended by some 500 civil servants at which employees of various federal government departments criticized salaries, working conditions, and other conditions.

He said letter carriers in Quebec and across Canada may strike if not given collective bargaining rights by next Christmas. At present they cannot legally strike.

The letter carriers will meet in a national convention in Montreal at the end of May and will poll out of the Civil Service Federation, said Mr. Decarie. The federation has been asking civil servants to accept a government contract with compulsory arbitration and no right to strike, he said.

Children Suffer

Woman in Labor Forced to Wait To Sign Forms

TORONTO (CP)—Many children are also learners or trouble makers in school because their brains were damaged just before birth, a division of the Council for Exceptional Children was told Tuesday.

Robert Shannon, former president of the Ontario Association for Children with Learning Disabilities, said he saw a bleeding pregnant woman, in immediate need of surgical delivery, begin waiting 20 minutes in a hospital admitting room while forms were filled.

"An infant brain is damaged after eight minutes without oxygen. he said. "That child is damaged for life.

"I have another letter from one mother in which she describes the ordeal of having her legs held together to arrest the birth as the doctor was not on hand.

"I have talked to a woman who had this happen twice, for two children, neither of which finished public school but were a tremendous burden on the school system while they were in it.

Truscott Case to Be Reviewed

By RONALD LEBEL

OTTAWA (CP)—Steven Truscott, convicted of murder at the age of 14 in a sex strangling, will have his case reviewed after spending the last seven years in prison.

MPs banged their desks in approval when Solicitor - General Pennell announced the review in the Commons Tuesday. He said the exact form of the review will be announced later, after his meeting Friday with Ontario Attorney - General Arthur Wishart.

The Truscott case was raised in the House almost daily before the Easter recess, when MPs of all parties requested an inquiry, a pardon or a new trial. A new book by Mrs. Isabel LeBourdais argues that Truscott was the victim of a miscarriage of justice.

There have been reports the cabinet will ask the Supreme Court of Canada for a special review of the case and an opinion on Truscott's guilt or innocence.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said the reaction to Mr. Pennell's statement would be generally favorable and renewed his call for a new trial. The cabinet has "the power to order a new trial where additional evidence could be introduced.

Mr. Pennell said he could not go beyond his announcement of a review because the administration of justice in Ontario was

Too Many Classes for Disturbed

TORONTO (CP) — An Ottawa school psychologist warned Tuesday it is dangerous to label all the large classes for disturbed children before their usefulness has been proved.

June Pinsa told a section of the Council for Children with Behavioral Disorders that the increasing fashion for such special classes could lead to an absurd situation in which there would be no average child.

"If schools do not intelligently lead public opinion they will be forced into ill-considered programs and the public will become disillusioned when the magic does not work."

Liberals Easily Win Vote

By STUART LAKE

OTTAWA (CP)—Fresh from a 12-day Easter holiday, MPs divided their time Tuesday between the Commons and their television sets.

Inside the Commons the Liberal government easily withstood the first of two non-confidence motions inspired by Finance Minister Sharp's March 29 budget speech.

TV sets were installed in both government and Opposition lobbies so that members could follow both the debate and the Stanley Cup semi-final game between Chicago Black Hawks and Detroit Red Wings.

While the hockey game was a close one—3-2 Detroit—the vote in the Commons was not. Only five Creditistes and two independent MPs joined with 12 New Democrats in voting for the NDP motion which said the budget speech should have raised personal income tax exemptions.

Voting against the motion were 165 Liberals, 21 Conservatives and four Social Credit MPs.

Standing in the 265-seat Commons: Liberals 131, Conservatives 97, New Democrats 21, Creditistes nine, Social Credit five and independent two.

DEBATE ALL WEEK

The Commons today goes into the third day of the budget debate — expected to continue the rest of the week.

A second non-confidence motion moved by the Conservatives comes to a vote Thursday. It scores the government for not coming to grips with major problems in the economy.

NDP deputy leader David Lewis carried the ball for his party in attacking the budget. It had done nothing for the poor on the grounds that more social legislation would contribute to inflation.

Toronto lawyer said the budget should have started to build a guaranteed income floor for every Canadian. That was why his party wanted personal exemptions raised to $1,300 from $1,000 for single persons and to $3,000 from $2,000 for married couples.

Welfare officials have said $3,000 is the floor "for a half-decent standard of living for a family with children," said Mr. Lewis.

About one-quarter of Canadian families came in this category and they shouldn't pay any income tax.

NO BOOM TO DELAY

Thomas M. Bell (PC—Saint John-Albert) took issue with the "slow-the-boom" theme of the budget. The Atlantic provinces had no boom to delay.

To further his political ambitions, Mr. Sharp was taking a

Republican Leaders Split On Viet Nam War Policies

READY TO FACE DEMONSTRATORS — Vietnamese soldiers wear fencing masks along with flak vests as they stand ready with fixed bayonets to hold back anti-government demonstrators at Phan Thiet last week. WASHINGTON (AP) — Defence Secretary Robert McNamara testifies today on the heels of a clash between Republican leaders over a charge of "shocking mismanagement" of the Viet Nam war.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen said Tuesday that Gerald Ford of Michigan, Republican leader in the House of Representatives, "went pretty far" in charging shocking mismanagement.

"I don't think respect is it shocking?" Dirksen asked at a press conference. Who are the shockers?".

Ford had no comment on Dirksen's statements, but told reporters he thinks "we've got McNamara on the run."

Ford was not expected to be questioned when McNamara goes before the Senate foreign relations committee to testify in behalf of a $17,000,000 military aid authorization.

Questioning by committee members was likely to turn to Ford's charge as well as the Pentagon's acknowledgement that 30,000 army men may be withdrawn from Europe to help form new combat units.

The defence chief also was expected to be asked his opinion on charges of an Asian peace offensive promoted by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and endorsed by the administration.

Ford stepped up his attack Tuesday with a statement calling on the government "to level with the American people."

"I demand that the American people be allowed to know what is happening in Viet Nam," Ford said.

Although he obviously was trying to avoid the appearance of an open break with Ford, Dirksen said he could not subscribe to the mismanagement charge "unless I have hard evidence of it, and I don't."

Say Dying Girl's Cries Recorded

CHESTER, England (Reuters)—A 12-man jury today examined pornographic pictures of a naked 10-year-old schoolgirl, allegedly taken by two young lovers jointly accused of three bizarre slayings.

Jury members also were told that they would hear tape recordings of the dying girl's screams and protests.

The recordings were said to have been made by Ian Brady, a 27-year-old clerk, and his blonde mistress, Myra Hindley, 23, both standing trial for murdering the girl, Lesley Ann Downey.

Brady also also accused of the murder of John Kilbride, 12, and Hindley has become known as the "murders on the moors" case.

The graves of the girl and Kilbride were found by police in shallow peat graves on the bleak Pennine moors 10 miles from here.

Sir Elwyn Jones, Britain's attorney-general who is leading the prosecution, said a scarf had been tied tightly around the little girl's mouth, so she could only breathe through her nose, "in that way it would be a simple matter to smother her," he told the jury.

DEFENDANTS IMPASSIVE

Brady and Miss Hindley sat impassively in the court guarded by a thick glass screen and several policemen as the attorney-general briefly described the tape recording. It has never

U.S. Pacifists Are Pelted In Saigon

SAIGON (CP) — A press conference called by six American pacifists wound up in pandemonium today as angry South Vietnamese youths hurled tomatoes and eggs at the American visitors.

"Go home, go to North Viet Nam!"

The six pacifists, members of the U.S. Committee for Non-violent Action, had expressed their opposition to the war in Viet Nam.

After agreeing to let the group meet the press at the city hall, the government-controlled council ended their seven-day stay in South Viet Nam and ordered them to leave the country "as soon as possible."

Opposition Fails to Win 'Seven Days' House Debate

TORONTO (CP) — Debate, both within and outside the CBC, continued Tuesday over the dismissal of the two heads of the television program This Hour Has Seven Days.

The program will return next season but, unless there is a complete reversal by CBC management, it will not have co-hosts Patrick Watson and Laurier LaPierre, and maybe even executive producer Douglas Leiterman.

"Seven Days will be back," CBC President J. Alphonse Ouimet said on the TV program News Magazine Tuesday night.

Mr. Ouimet stood firm in management's decision to take Mr. Watson and Mr. LaPierre off the program. It did not constitute a change in policy" but could be interpreted as "the Canadian Press," at a reception prior to CP's annual dinner in Toronto Tuesday. Mr. Harriman addressed the TORONTO (CP)—The end of the Viet Nam struggle is "not near but we are moving in the right direction," Averell Harriman, American ambassador at large, said Tuesday night.

NATO without France in its military framework will be "less effective but we can always hope for change," he said.

World communism including the Soviet brand still supports worldwide subversion and aggression and President de Gaulle of France may "find out something about it" in his forthcoming visit to Moscow, he predicted.

Mr. Harriman, a seasoned first-hand observer of the world scene from pre-war days, spoke to the annual-meeting dinner of the Canadian Press.

Viet Nam—"the most difficult problem today"—and the NATO crisis dominated his address.

Kansas City Heavily Hit By Tornado

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—A tornado dropped out of a rainstorm Tuesday, brushed by an elementary school, then destroyed or damaged at least 28 homes in a three-block area of a southwest Kansas City suburb.

Four persons were reported injured, none seriously. An emergency alert that sounded just before the twister struck sent many others to safety.

Some students had left the school and others were preparing to leave. When teachers heard a tornado had been sighted, they took their pupils into a centre hallway and had them lie down with their heads over their heads.

The tornado flicked by the school, causing only minor damage, but ripped into neighboring houses.

SEAL UP JAIL

ORONVILLE, Calif. (AP) — Workmen welded bars over a foot-wide opening in Butte County's new jail Monday, ending eight-time visits of young prisoners with girls. Deputies, walking outside the window in the minimum security dormitory, watched as four youths climbed out and arrested them. Just what charges they plan to bring remains a question.

Leiterman Responsible For Content

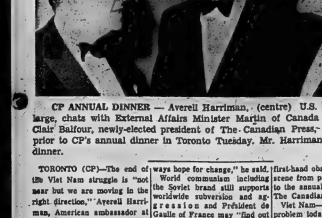
OTTAWA (CP) — Laurier LaPierre said Tuesday night executive producer Douglas Leiterman should have been fired if the CBC did not approve of material on the TV program This Hour Has Seven Days.

Mr. LaPierre, whose contract as co-host will not be renewed next season, told 500 members of the Ottawa Valley Graduates' Society of McGill University that Mr. Leiterman was responsible for choice of material on the program.

"I cannot be held responsible and punished for what goes on Seven Days," he said.

OMB Will be Requested to Conduct Probe

GANANOQUE, Ont. (CP) — A town council meeting packed with angry citizens was told Tuesday night by Mayor John D. Gilbert that the Ontario Municipal Board will be asked to conduct a public investigation into the administration of Gananoque's business.



Mr. Gilbert said he would send a letter to the board calling for an immediate inquiry, have a property re-assessment this year and a further scrutiny of the budget to see whether it could be reduced in an effort to reduce the record 102 residential mill rate and the 111 commercial rate.

William Nelon, the town's finance chairman, told the meeting the original mill increase had been set at six mills but was increased to 18 when an error of $70,000 was discovered in the school debentures.

Mr. Gilbert said no tenders were called for a fireball and police station building project whose cost had been estimated at $94,000 but wound up costing $84,000.

Mr. Gilbert, who was not in office at the time the project was planned, said: "The contractor presented the bill and council approved it."

New 1967 Coins Will Depict Canadian Wildlife Scenes

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's 1967 centennial coinage will bear images by a Canadian artist of wildlife depicting various aspects of the country.

Finance Minister Sharp today announced that designs submitted by Alex Colville, 45, of Sackville, N.B., an artist with an international reputation for realism and flair, were selected by an 11 - member board of judges in a competition opened two years ago.

The six coins, bearing the likeness of the Queen on their face, will have their designs on the back, explained by Mr. Colville:

1 cent, bronze—A dove in flight, symbolic of peace and associated with spiritual values, common to city, farm and woods.

5 cent, nickel—A running rabbit, symbolic of alertness and speed, fertility, new life and promise, and of vulnerability.

10 cent, silver—A mackerel, "one of the most beautiful and streamlined fish, common on both coasts."

25 cent, silver — A wildcat, stalking, "expressive of a certain intelligent independence and capacity for formidable action."

50 cent, silver—A wolf, howling, "symbolic of the vastness and loneliness of the north, yet not a pathetic creature."

$1, silver—A Canada goose in flight . . . travelling over great spaces."

Mr. Colville was awarded $9,000 for the designs. He said is a statement accompanying Mr. Sharp's announcement he chose wildlife to symbolize the centennial of Confederation because of its enduring and beautiful role through all the years. Canada's present coins depict maple leaves, the beaver, the Nova Scotia schooner Bluenose, a woodland caribou, the Canadian coat of arms, and an Indian and a voyageur in a fur-trader canoe.

For the centennial, Canada also is minting a $20 gold coin, with the Queen's likeness on the face and the coat of arms of Canada on the back.

The Colville designs are the first complete set of new designs since 1937, although special commemorative nickels and silver dollars have been minted on occasion.

Other artists received honorable mention by the judges and awards of $3,000 each for their designs: Robin D Gulbault of Jonquiere, Que., Eric Aldwigkirk of Toronto, Arthur Price of Cyrville, Ont., and the late Elizabeth Wyn Wood of Willowdale, Ont. Their designs will not be made public.

The new coins will be in circulation in 1967. Whether they will continue to be used for 1868 coins and in later years will depend on public acceptance, Mr. Sharp said.

Two Bloomfield Boys Sure They Saw UFO

It sat alone in a field one-half mile southwest of Bloomfield Monday night.

It was silvery in color and football shaped.

It made a hooting sound, like an owl.

It had a green light on the top and a green light on the bottom.

It hat something on the side that whirled around at a great speed periodically covering up the flashing red, green and yellow lights on the side.

What was it?

It was an "it" — a UFO.

Two 15-year-old West Lake boys, Bill Barrett and Pat Mundell, saw "it" in a field near Bloomfield about 9 p.m. Monday night as they were walking to a home.

"We saw it sitting there when we were about two fields away" Pat said. "We watched it for a while and didn't know what it was.

"It wasn't a helicopter or an airplane. I thought it was a flying saucer or something because we have been so many accounted lately.

"It was scary. We turned around and ran as fast as we could back to Bloomfield to my relative's house.

"We went by the same spot with my relatives about half an hour later and it was gone."

What was "it"?

Only the shadow knows . . . heh, heh, heh.

Will Fly Faster Than Sun

Speaker Tells Kiwanians

General Traffic Manager for Canadian Pacific Airlines, W. V. Riley told members of the Belleville Kiwanis Club yesterday that "in the not-to-distant future we'll be flying faster than the sun. Looking behind us, we'll see the sun sinking in the east as we head into the night before."

Mr. Riley, a Canadian Airlines sales and traffic official for 30 years, has been a CPA employee since 1942. He spoke on the present significance and future prospects of air transportation.

Right now, CPA is busy telling its story, at home and abroad. The importance of this changing of the air transportation business was brought home to officials of the airline when a survey revealed that one out of four Canadians knew nothing about CPA. In spite of the fact that the company has been in operation for almost 25 years.

One of the major tasks of the airline is creating a market and in line with this, the attractions of Canada are being brought to the attention of the other countries of the world.

Commenting that his company makes good use of "cheese-cake" in its promotion schemes, Mr. Riley said that each year, CPA shows off the reigning Miss Canada in overseas countries.

MANY PROMOTIONS

He said that the airlines and Canada received a great deal of publicity overseas when CPA arranged for a Squamish Indian Chief to visit Europe. Another promotional stunt was a 1967 two Royal Canadian Mounted Police constables, who went to him in Holland, visit the Netherlands.

"They made a fantastic impression on television viewers over there," said Mr. Riley.

He explained that CPA works closely with government travel bureaus and provincial tourist departments in the bid to attract visitors to Canada.

Mr. Riley stated that bigger and faster jets are on the way. He told the Kiwanians to expect supersonic jets to be in operation about 1972.

Rod Hendry was the winner of a CPA world globe. E. D. Goff, CPA sales representative, made the draw.

Ald. Don Boyle New President Sales, Ad Club

"A great deal of moral courage is going to be required by business and industry in this new, changing world, and modified thinking about equality and serious shortcomings in the scope and purpose of our education is making it difficult to produce a new breed of versatile men in whom we can see potential leaders."

Speaking to the last regular spring meeting of Belleville's Sales and Ad Club at the Knights of Columbus Hall tuesday evening J. A. "Tony" Gaumley, a division manager for the Rothman's Company, offered his thoughts on the personality, character and virtues that will help man keep up with the relentless pace of the age of the Computer."

"The courage of your own convictions in business and p u blic affairs is, perhaps, the first step on the way to moral courage," Mr. Gaumley said, "but if you have opinions formed by the headlines in the morning papers and refreshed by the headlines in the evening papers, no courage will be needed to express them. To commend that which you believe to be right — and to condemn that which you believe to be wrong — that is moral courage."

Decrying what he called the affluence of our society, Mr. Gaumley also criticized a widespread misconception of what is entailed in the word "equality." "The mark of the machine is 'sameness', the mark of nature is difference — we are in danger of saddling ourselves with a fear of sameness in men."

Noting the importance of the role being played by education in our rapidly changing world, he continued: "It would seem true that the graduates of colleges in the Western Hemisphere are disseminating not wisdom a s it formerly, but perhaps nothing more than an intellectual arrogance based on too little but still-digested information. The graduate of today presumes to judge everything, narrow in the splendor of his degree."

"Perhaps it is important in this new world to remember that the aim of education is not to make every man like the other, but to give the highest possibilities in the best among us."

Last evening's meeting also saw the election of club officers for the coming year. Don Boyle was elected club president, with Ed McBride chosen first vice-president and Stan Wiggins elected second vice-president. Ed Slade will be the club's immediate past president. Elected to the board were Ernie Fisher, Jim Allan, Terry McCabe, Graham Beeby, Mike McCauley and Phil Liagier.

The last club event until fall will be the annual Ladies' Night which is planned for May.

Wayne Langabeer, 17, 105 Cedar St., was remanded one week by Magistrate T. Y. Wills yesterday on a charge of common assault.

The charges arose out of an incident at the Belleville General Hospital Monday night.

Police say Langabeer was involved in a scuffle with a hospital security guard on the main floor of the hospital. A staff doctor attempted to intervene in the struggle and suffered a broken nose.

Langabeer was apprehended later in a downtown poolroom and subsequently charged.

Izaak Mathews Found Dead In Rat-Infested Shack

COLBORNE — A retired Colborne businessman, Izaak Mathews, was found dead Thursday soon in what police described as a "debris-filled and rat-infested" one-storey frame shack where he lived with George Puffer, 66.

Coroner Dr. W. O. Elliott of Brighton, was called by Colborne Police Chief George Blyth. Dr. Elliott ordered the body removed to Trenton Memorial Hospital where an autopsy is being conducted to determine the cause of death. Mr. Mathews was about 74 years of age.

From the condition of the body as reported by those at the scene, and reports of Colborne residents who knew Mr. Mathews and had not seen him outside the house since early last week, it is believed he had been dead for several days.

The body was discovered by Mr. Puffer. Mrs. Dorothy Walker, a neighbor, called at the place where she was to see him and to borrow a shovel Tuesday morning. At 11.55 a.m., she reported to Chief Blyth that Mr. Puffer had told her Mr. Mathews was dead.

Late Tuesday afternoon, Chief Blyth took Mr. Puffer to the Cobourg Police Station where he was questioned. He was held until Friday when he will appear in Magistrate's Court there under the Mental Health Act.

The partially clothed body was found by Mr. Puffer. It was covered in a kneeling position beside a bed. Puffer's bed-room is on the opposite end of the shack.

Police Chief Blyth said Puffer at night he has contacted public health authorities of the United Counties Health Unit in Cobourg in respect to the conditions in the shack where the men were living. Officials of the health unit assured Chief Blyth that "appropriate action will be taken as soon as possible," he said.

Mr. Mathews who operated a junk business in Colborne for several years in association with his late brother, Lorne Mathews, was a member of a family long prominent in the apple export and shipping business in Colborne.

Both men were separated from their wives. The wife of the late Mr. Mathews lives still in the United States for several years.

Chief Blyth is being assisted in the investigation by Constable James Graham and Cadet Woodward of Brighton OPP Detachment.

Creery, CBE, DSO and M. le Baron Charles de Pampelonne, who was aide-de-camp to General de Gaulle during the Second World War.

The Governor-General's career is traced through the voices of his eldest child and only daughter, Dr. Therese Vanier; veterans of the First World War who remember him in those days at Valcartier Camp in 1914; colleagues with whom he was associated with him during postings throughout the world, including a time in Algiers with de Gaulle.

Major-General Vanier returned from semi-retirement at the age of 71 in 1959 when he was appointed Queen Elizabeth's personal representative in Canada. Large Congregation Hears Bermuda Salvationist Band

By EUGENE LANG

A large congregation was in attendance at Centenary United Church last evening to hear the Hamilton, Bermuda, Citadel Band of the Salvation Army in their first appearance in this city. That group of about two dozen young musicians is touring its first Canadian tour under the leadership of Bandmaster Bernard Jones Sr., its permanent conductor

The program was one of varied appeal, featuring the Band in several selections. Vocal offerings were given by Captain Bruce Robertson (three spirituals), accompanying himself on the accordion, and Leon Jones (two religious numbers), like-wise being his own accompanist, this time on the guitar. Both were well received as witnessed by the applause following their solos. From the band proper was selected a small rhythm group which presented two numbers in the more modern vein of religious music. The male chorus from the band pleased with their four well-harmonized songs both sacred and secular.

The Belleville Citadel Band under the direction of Bandmaster Jack Green, added to the evening's enjoyment by playing two selections, with a like number of vocal opt being given by the Belleville Citadel Songsters under the direction of Songster Leader Gordon Grainger, Bernard Dorn Jr., son of the visiting Bandmaster, gave a fine showing of his accomplishment on the unwieldy yet tenor-throated euphonium, instrument seldom heard in solo these days. The program was rounded off with the trombone duet that featured P. McIninsh and N. Smith. Piano accompaniments, when needed, were played by S/L David Knight. Both Messrs. Doars and Green took turns at leading the combined bands.

The opening prayer was by Rev. M. C. Rowsome, pastor of Tabernacle Church, this being followed with the presentation of guests by Brigadier B. Bernat. Official greetings from the City of Belleville were tendered to the visiting bandsmen by Mayor Jack Ellis, who also spoke briefly on the coming Red Shield Campaign and its meaning. Brigadier W. T. Hawkes introduced the chairman of the evening, Brigadier C. Sim of Bermuda. The Scripture reading was given by Bandsmaster Willie Smith, with the closing benediction being said by Brigadier Sim.

The Hamilton Citadel Band shows a lot of promise in both its playing and singing and gave an enjoyable musical evening for all in attendance at the "Festival of Praise".

40 Years of CNR Service Ended for Harold Quibell

BRIGHTON — Harold Quibell worked his last full day for the CNR Tuesday. He retired as station agent at Colborne after 40 years continuous service with the railroad.

Mr. Quibell's dog "Wimpy" retired the same day, although "Wimpy" has been retired a year. "Wimpy" is the constant companion of Mr. Quibell, and accompanies him to work each day. He sleeps at the rear of the office until a train approaches, then leaves to the desk in front of the window, watches the train pass, then listens while Mr. Quibell notifies the next station the train has passed through Colborne. He often detects the approach of a freight long before anyone else at the station.

"Wimpy" is about 15 months old. Mr. Quibell will be 65 May 30, the day he officially retires. From now until that time, he will be on vacation.

Mr. Quibell actually started with the CNR May 3, 1920, when he became temporary assistant agent at Markham. He worked as relief and assistant agent at 37 different stations before being employed on a permanent basis and posted to McMillan, where he spent a year. He also spent seven years at Midland, nine at Trenton and has been in Colborne nearly two years.

Pressure on Young People

It has been said before, but it bears repeating that the pressure on young people to succeed — the exams, the harrying of the youngsters from pillar to post as to what they should or should not do, the advice from parents and others who themselves, are no longer certain of their principles — represent a cumulative strain that is driving many to breaking point.

And if it is bad here, it is worse in the United States. In New Jersey for example, excessive classroom pressures in the 1960-61 school year drove 14 students to commit suicide.

Citing these figures in a recent address to the Ontario Separate School Trustees' Association, Vernon Trott, a Toronto school psychologist, said the students were under pressure by the time they reached Grade 7. He said "Thou shalt not fail" is the 11th commandment in school.

Mr. Trott said children welcome stress if they have a reasonable chance of success. However, a youngster pressed to achieve a form of maturity in childhood may end up an adult failure. Pressure being applied by many parents and schools towards children is beyond a reasonable limit.

What is the solution to this trend? Less emphasis on success for its own sake and a conscious effort to help youngsters grow up at a less breakneck speed. Would the good of being young if one's youth is gone in a flash compounded of the kind of pressures we have mentioned, and from which many of the leisurely ways of an earlier time were absent.

A Grade 13 in this page today is eloquent of how far removed we are from quieter times. The pioneer days imposed their own peculiar hardships, but there were compensations which helped to make that young life and achieve manhood all in good time.

The pressure then was more physical than mental, and it is the latter which is causing so much trouble today. "One of my ancestors, who was born in 1833," the Sitting Reader points out, "used to say: 'When a boy was big enough to pick up an axe he had to stay home from school and help clear land . . .'

Perhaps that is what some young people need — a day on the land say once a week, fresh air, a look at the rural scene, a little bit of work around the farm, restoration for mind and body, then back to school ready for anything.

A common emphasis in any education involving a proper understanding of human psyché, realizing that it is a many-faceted machine which can run down when driven beyond endurance, is essential to the proper upbringing of children these days.

Mr. Trott said the youngster who is given love and understanding without undue pressure gains the kind of emotional security that will help make him a successful adult.

"In short, a child will grow up in reverse ratio to the amount of pressure exerted upon him to do so."

These ideas are worth pondering if we do not want to end up with a generation which at best are mere automatons in a dehumanized society, and at worst end up in psychiatric wards.

Centennial Appointment

Belleville's Centennial program has been placed on a firmer basis with the appointment of an executive director whose job is to co-ordinate the various events scheduled in the city in 1967.

Les Shore is eminently suited to this task. A former mayor of the Northern Ontario paper mill town of Smooth Rock Falls, he has had long experience of municipal affairs and has served on hospital and labor conciliation boards. He was also a member of the Children Aid Society in Kapuskasing.

With 1967 only nine months away, the appointment is timely. Much of the groundwork has already been laid by the centennial committee under Jack Wills. However, as the mayor has pointed out, the work has reached such proportions that a full time co-ordinator for the program was found to be necessary.

Belleville may be certain that the centennial celebrations will be worthy of the community. The important thing at this point is that the planning for 1967 is being treated with a new urgency which matches the significance of the occasion locally and throughout Canada.

TV Hassle

The crisis over the CBC television program This Hour Has Seven Days is a complicated one involving differences between the CBC administration and its staff.

Meanwhile, hosts Patrick Watson and Laurier LaPierre are reported to have been told their contracts will not be renewed when they expire at the end of this television season — a move which seems to reflect a growing discontent between the CBC establishment and its "creative people."

One thing is certain, This Hour, while it raises many shackles, is one of the most successful and stimulating public affairs programs in television today.

Its fault maybe is that it is too unbridled, too free-wheeling, lacking in depth and good taste. Yet it has established a rapport with the viewing public that is unmatched by few other programs dealing with public affairs.

Old Cemeteries Need Attention

Editor,
The Intelligencer

With regard to neglected cemeteries, this is a matter that more people are taking an interest in, apparently, and those who do not have anyone in these old time last resting places are to be highly commended for their co-operation in some cases giving material and donating labor.

In some of these neglected cemeteries records show the names of United Empire Loyalists — as well as many others who pioneered this country in those far off days — when this good land was covered with trees and there was not even a place to plant a garden. The endless hard work these early settlers did in clear enough land to get a place to plant a garden and grow some wheat! No roads — or any of these modern conveniences we now have and consider necessities. One of my ancestors, who was born in 1825 used to say "When a boy was big enough to pick up an axe, he had to stay home from school and help clear land." In this case about 1835 might apply. His ancestors settled in this area in 1797, coming from the New York State.

There used to be several small cemeteries on farms — which have disappeared without a trace during the last few years. It is very noticeable how well cemeteries are kept in cities and towns, even in small villages. Why are there so many neglected ones in the country?

A good centennial project is to get busy now and fix them up so the rising generation will have something to see and be proud of the work of their people. On a trip through one part of Ontario, there were many of these neglected cemeteries and fields all close to busy highways. A few rods of farm wire fence keep these areas in the country-side intact to allow it. In some cases if the township councils will give a donation — and likely many individuals would if asked to — a few evergreen trees at the rear make a good background. Some of the easiest to grow is the commonored cedar, at set in with plenty of moisture. Trees about 2 feet high are best size, we believe, and in a few years there is a fine background. These seem to need very little attention — dismally grow on land good for little else but rocky hills, also on very sandy land — usually very hardy. Also the spruce or pine are very useful to set between the red cedars. It only needs some one or others interested and see that there is a good addition to the landscape — same as re-forestation — on a small scale. Any one who has lived for years on the bare open prairie can appreciate the great difference trees make. Let us keep our countryside beautiful, and not forget those who made this one of the finest countries in the world. Lest we forget!

Garbage Pick-Up Raises Question

Editor,
The Intelligencer

Recently your newspaper I would like to express my feelings about the manner in which the garbage collection firm of this city is being operated.

They have dictated to the residents of Belleville, on what type of containers will be acceptable and which kind will not be acceptable.

Like thousands of other citizens, I have purchased a regulation garbage containers, in order to please this company.

My first problem was, the first time I placed my new garbage can out for collection, it was returned in such a damaged condition that the lid will no longer fit, and am therefore violating one of their rules which states the containers must have snug fitting lids.

Secondly, I purchased another garbage can, equipped with a lid. When I placed my two containers out for collection, I discovered they emptied the one which had no lid and left the one (with a lid) full of garbage.

Thirdly, they stated, that unsightly containers would be tagged with a bright sticker which should be signed by the occupant if he did not desire it, and it would then be taken away.

Having found two tags on one of my containers, I signed both, hoping this would authorize the removal of this undesirable. This was over one month ago, and since then the weather has disposed of the tags but this unfortunate container still sits forlornly in front of my house.

Now, I ask you, who is at fault?

Sudden Infant Deaths Due Lung Conditions

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: My 7-month-old grandson, perfectly healthy except for a runny nose, died in the night of interstitial pneumonia. Please explain how this could happen. — M. H.

I can only speculate, but it is no more than fair to point out that there occasional and tragic cases without warning suddenly prove to be from lung complications.

Interstitial pneumonitis is another way of saying widespread pneumonia, developed, obviously by unknown virus, has happen to children when they encounter a particularly virulent virus against which they have as yet not developed any immunity.

Such overwhelming and frightfully rapid lung infections have proved to be the real cause of deaths once ascribed to smothering under the bedclothes. A child will thrash around if bedclothes cover his face. Even if he does not struggle free immediately, enough air will be under the covers, or filter through them. Haven't you ever buried your head under covers and found that you could breathe?

Most of the crib deaths or supposed "smotherings" have turned out to be unexpected onslaughts of germs or viruses attacking little lungs or respiratory systems not yet ready to cope with them. There is no way to tell in advance, and it is brutally shocking to families when it happens, that they should be informed that it is not because of anything they did or did not do for the child.

Dear Dr. Molner: When someone drinks about five two-ounce bottles of paregoric a day can he break away from it, and what effect will it have on his health? He is in his middle 50's and refuses to go to a doctor because he says he can stop any time he chooses. We are worried about him. — Mrs. C. B.

Paregoric is a drug derived from opium, and when anyone takes that amount, you can reasonably assume that he is thoroughly "hooked," or addicted. Someone is breaking the law by providing him with any such amount of this drug. You may be very, very late in asking help, and the source of supply should be reported.

Dear Dr. Molner: In an article you said that penicillin was the only way to get a child safe from further attacks of rheumatic fever. What if a person is allergic to penicillin? My little boy is allergic, but the doctor says that other drugs would do just as well. — Mrs. V. L.

If you read the article again you will find the statement that such treatment "involves antibiotics to suppress the strep germs."

A long-lasting form of penicillin is the most antibiotic in most cases, but if a patient is sensitive to it — as some are — cillin and derivatives, or drugs of the tetracycline or various mycin groups, are used and work excellently.

The vital fact is this: Once a person has had rheumatic fever a strep infection can cause another attack. Each succeeding attack carries the threat of cumulative damage to the heart.

Therefore precautions must be taken to see that another strep infection does not occur. The only sure way is the use of a suitable antibacterial agent — penicillin or some equivalent drug.

Second World War

Twenty-five years ago today—in 1941—15 RAF fighters attacked 100 Axis aircraft over Piraeus, Greece, and shot down 14 for the loss of five; the RAF began evacuating Greece for Crete; MacKenzie King and President Roosevelt signed the Hyde Park agreement on continental defence and British aid.

Initials Are Handy Things

Portland Oregonian

Americans pride themselves on their irreverent attitude toward "sacred cows" or what they think they have dignity. In silent movies a rich man getting his big but knocked off was good for a laugh. Will Rogers expressed the attitude of Americans when he was introduced to European royalty and said in his big-hearted, friendly manner, "Howdy, King."

Newspaper headline writers do nothing to retard this tendency. From FDR to LBJ, presidents have been known by their initials, except for Ike, whose nickname was shorter than his initials and so fit better. Before JFK caught on, some headlines identified him as Jack, but soon no one used anything but the initials.

Strictly Personal

Gangs Breed Delinquents

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

The most important aspect of what we call "juvenile delinquency" is usually forgotten or ignored by those who are most distressed by it. The JD does not act as an individual, but as part of a group.

There is very little delinquency activity on an individual basis; 90 percent of it is collective. Indeed, the "loner" is looked upon by delinquent gangs as mentally aberrant.

All persons, of whatever age beyond infancy, have a desperate need for association and identification. When a teen-age boy joins a gang, and gives it his basic loyalty (even unto death), he is expressing a primitive need that is not otherwise satisfied in the society he has grown up in.

And it is important to understand that the juvenile gang is often the only means a boy has to demonstrate his latent virtues. For the gang requires courage, fidelity, comradeship, self sacrifice, and trust. These are all good and positive qualities, although directed toward an anti-social end.

In the same way, the early Communist and Nazi movements in Russia and Germany were able to attract the youth, who had become alienated from the traditional social order. It took their virtues and utilized them in the service of political vices.

The rise of juvenile gangs in our urban society is more an indictment of the society than of the boys who constitute them. It is often the most creative and brightest boys who join in and lead these groups—in line with the old Latin tag that "the worst is a corruption of the best."

Boys who grow up bored, discouraged and alienated from their community do not feel like persons in their own right, but like cogs in some impersonal machine that is grinding them down. Since they have a fundamental need to associate, and to identify, with something larger than themselves, the gang becomes the basic unit of loyalty — displacing the family, the community, and even the nation.

We are doing almost nothing about this growing problem. Detention homes and reform schools are futile, [illegible] Social welfare programs are understaffed, underfinanced, and with no clear [illegible] poor direction. The community does not know how to communicate with these boys, and would not know what to say to them if it could communicate, for the value systems of the bourgeoisie are meaningless to the boys.

Juvenile crime in the last decade has risen four times as fast as the population growth; and, in the next few decades, there will be more and more younger people under 25. Our greatest threat as a nation may come not from external enemies but from the millions of disaffected youths who live among us, and off us, but not truly with us.

Nova Scotia Sees Changes

Halifax Chronicle-Herald

If a person who had been absent from Nova Scotia this past 25 or 30 years were to return to this land of his boyhood, he would discover that there had been many changes.

If it should happen that his home had been by the sea, it is probable that one of the things which he would notice most would be the little ships which, a generation ago, plied along the coast and in and out of the myriad ports.

That is not to suggest that all the ships have been taken over bodily from their site as a row in regular service.

Many years have been many since the stout little "Velinda" rode the rising tide up the Annapolis River to Bridgetown after crossing the Bay of Fundy from Saint John. Many years, too, since she was the centre of many a village There, men and boys gathered to watch the weekly arrival of the freight boat. The women, of course, were aloof from such an activity, although the movement of window curtains betrayed that they, too, were interested in the scene.

The wharves at Wolfville have long since decayed, and the vessels that still submerge the little basin which Robert Ripley once presented to his readers as the "world's smallest commercially used harbor." No ships now sail that way where, a century ago, they came ashore in winter — connected the university town with Cumberland County.

Not for years have passenger craft borne travellers along the Eastern Shore to Sheet Harbor, Moser River, Sherbrooke, and Isaac's Harbor.

Well-sign forgotten are the ships which plunged into the swell off Chebucto Head outward bound for Chester Mahone Bay and Lahave River ports.

He who would come home after years would find great changes. Among other things, he would wait long and vainly for the toot of the throaty whistle of the "Aristocrat" sounding beyond the water-covered bendlands of the Eastern Shore.

P.M. Lashes Anti-U.S. Talk

Halifax Chronicle-Herald

Prime Minister Pearson's rebuke of Canadians who, in his words, make criticism of the United States a "parlor sport," is timely.

Informed criticism of American "guidlines" policies and their effect on American-owned Canadian subsidiaries, and indeed on the extent of American participation in the Canadian economy, among Canadian economists, writers and politicians, is one thing. Very different is the recent crop of crude denunciation by professional Canadian propagandists who share the Kimberly-Clark "America-phobia, although not the erudition, of Bertrand Russell, and by persons without politically immature Canadian students.

Mr. Pearson was correct when he said one of Canada's problems was that Canadians did not take enough pride in their own national achievements. But pride in Canada must not be made an alibi for senseless anti-Americanism.

He drew on personal experience with Josef Stalin, Soviet party Chairman Kosygin and other world leaders to support his conviction that communism still believes itself to be the "inevitable course of history."

Soviet Russia faces great pressures from a variety of directions, and the split with Peking "to some extent is driving them to other endeavors," but only failure will convince them to end aggression, said Mr. Harriman.

Canada and the U.S. had worked together closely in the past "and I feel deeply that we are destined to continue to do so with increasing understanding over he years to come."

He said that the U.S. fully agrees with the words of External Affairs Minister Paul Martin, who attended the dinner, expressing regret at France's decision to quit NATO's military apparatus but at the same time leaving the door open for an eventual return.

Mr. Harriman acknowledged current political upheaval in South Viet Nam is a worry but "none of the leaders or any groups have failed to express antagonism to North Viet Nam or the Viet Cong."

The U.S. in its early days—and Greece and France in the post-war period — had experienced similar problems before settling down to stability and Mr. Harriman said he sees value in the civilian elections now promised by the military regime in Saigon.

"It is not easy to see how it (the war) will end," he said. But before the end of the year the Viet Cong insurgents would be in even greater difficulty. So far, North Viet Nam had demanded the surrender of the south as a precondition on peace talks.

Mr. Harriman was introduced by St. Clair Balfour, newly-elected president of The Canadian Press.

As was the custom of the day, Wilmot displayed his' skill as a penman with a pretty scrollpoint and an elaborate scale indication. However, despite the great number of irregular lots in the town, only three measurements appear on the plan.

involved and courtesy required that he discuss the review with Mr. Wishart before making a detailed announcement.

Truscott, now 18 and serving a life sentence at Collins Bay near Kingston, has always insisted he had nothing to do with the strangling of 13-year-old Lynne Harper near Clinton, Ont., June 9, 1959.

His mother commented Tuesday she was "quite pleased" with the announcement of the review. She hoped a final decision would be made Friday and a royal commission set up.

Truscott was sentenced to be hanged in 1959 after being tried as an adult in a criminal court. But the sentence was commuted to life imprisonment by the Diefenbaker cabinet.

In 1961, the Criminal Code was amended to wipe out the death penalty for youths under 18.

FIRST MOTOR COACH on the Belleville-Tweed stage coach run went into service 50 years ago. The driver was Ed. Wright. Many early motor coaches were merely horse drawn stage chassis mounted on a truck frame

First Tweed-Belleville Bus Replaced Stage 50 Years Ago

PRESENT OWNER of the Belleville-Tweed bus line, Harold Emerson of Tweed, has been driving the route for the past 46 years.

At least there is one local service that modern day inflationary prices haven't hit.

It is the twice-daily 25-mile bus run between Belleville and Tweed—which still costs essentially the same as it did half a century ago.

And incidentally it is just half a century ago this week that the daily horse drawn Tweed-Belleville stage bowed out in favor of the then new-fangled motor coach. The fare then was $1.75 return. Today it is $2 — unchanged in more than 30 years.

The daily Belleville - Tweed stage run was established before the turn of the century, in 1897, by the late Adelbert Asseltine of Belleville, who 61 years previously had started the Belleville-Trenton run.

Mr. Asseltine and his two sons Walter and Howard, also operated the hotel buses in Belleville and later a bus run to Madoc.

Back in the days of the horse-drawn stage, the return trip from Tweed to Belleville was an all-day affair.

The stage left at eight in the morning and after three changes of horses arrived back in Tweed at six in the evening.

That was when the roads were good. In winter when the roads were heavy with drifts, the trip took much longer.

Howard Asseltine, the younger of the two Asseltine brothers, vividly recalls having to get the horses out to rescue the motor coach after it became stuck in the snow drifts.

The man who possibly knows the Tweed-Belleville run best is Harold Emerson of Tweed who has driven the route daily for the past 46 years.

Mr. Emerson started as a driver for the Asseltines back in 1919 and a short time later was placed on the Tweed run. He purchased the bus line in 1943 and since has operated the route.

"There have been a lot of changes since I started driving the Tweed run," commented Mr. Emerson. "The roads were different then."

Today Mr. Emerson runs a 12-passenger bus which has made the Tweed trip twice daily for the past ten years. And despite the popularity of the automobile, the number of passengers carried remains constant.

Mr. Emerson carries 12 to 15 passengers daily and in addition hauls the mail between Belleville and Tweed.

With fares essentially the same as half a century ago, he feels his bus line is probably the only one in Ontario which hasn't increased its rates.

yet been played in open court.

The attorney-general alleged that Brady and Miss Hindley had lured the girl to their home in Hyde, south of Manchester, from a fairground where she disappeared on the day after Christmas, 1964.

After killing her the couple buried her body on the moors near their home, from where it was later dug up by police, Jones said.

In all three killings as abnormal, perverted, sexual element had been present, the court was told.

The clothing of Edward Evans, allegedly hacked and strangled to death by Brady, had been disarranged, Jones said.

SEE MURDER PLAN

Investigating this murder, police found in Miss Hindley's car a set of notes in Brady's handwriting which was clearly a plan for murder, Jones said.

As the court sat today, squads of detectives searched the Manchester area for the killer of Brady's defence lawyer, Godfrey Heilpern.

His brother's wife, Mrs. Rose Heilpern, was found stabbed through the heart Tuesday night in a dress shop she operated in Salford.

The scene of the stabbing was only a few miles from the home of Brady, but police said there was nothing to connect the crime with the trial here.

Area Highways May Be Blocked By Farmers

The local executive was authorized to call the action at its discretion, Mr. Bieber said.

Sudden Upsurge In Volume Due to Leaks

PICTON (Staff) — Picton is losing water. Leaks in the underground water lines are considered partly responsible for a sudden upsurge in water volume flowing through the system. Figures released by the Public Utilities Commission show that March water consumption was up more than five million gallons over the same month last year.

If some of the leaks could be plugged, according to Jack Ward, a saving could be made on Picton's water rates. He said the setting of new rates must also await final figures on the cost of the proposed new reservoir system. Gore and Storrie, consulting engineers for the project have estimated the cost at $250,000 up $35,000 from the original estimate. However, it is not known yet how much the PUC will have to raise after possible grants from senior governments.

The Ontario Water Resources Commission has approved construction of the PUC's proposed one-million gallon high level reservoir and 500,000 gallon clear water reservoir at the estimated cost of $250,000.

Kente Chorus Will Not Present Play

PICTON (Staff)—Last year, the "Kente Chorus," a local group of singers who have become quite popular in the area, made a hit with their presentation "The Pirates of Penzance." They had planned to present Gilbert and Sullivans "Mikado" this year but recent developments have necessitated cancelation of these plans. Illness and lack of male voices were the principal important factors causing this decision. Many people will be disappointed in the absence of this production in Picton this year.

Laying of New Sidewalk On Pinnacle St. Started

It's sidewalk laying time on Pinnacle Street.

After a winter's work of street widening and construction of new retaining wall in the Victoria Ave. area, the Belleville Construction Company this week commenced the laying of new sidewalk.

New walk in front of the county courthouse has been completed and yesterday removal of the old walk on the east side of Pinnacle Street north of Dundas Street commenced.

City Engineer Wilbur Purcell says the McFarland contract calls for completely new sidewalk on both sides of Pinnacle between Dundas and Station streets.

All of this, of course, is leading up to the completion of the entire street re - building project started by McFarland's last fall.

SOME WORK COMPLETED

Before the freeze-up last December new curbs and base paving were completed from Dundas to Campbell street.

Still to do is the base coat of asphalt for the remainder of the distance to Station Street.

When the work is finally complete Pinnacle street will have an entirely new face from Dundas street to Station.

The new traffic lights are currently being installed at Bridge and Victoria Ave., while the public utilities commission will install new light poles and street lamps on the east side of the street.

THE MUSTARD GAME

Dear Susanna: What are cold cuts to mad men without mustard? . . . and since some like it hot and some like it cold, the wise hostess will provide a dish of each, side by side, on the table or buffet.

But then who can tell these two look-alikes apart if the hostess doesn't happen to be right there to explain?

A red party toothpick is a fair indication. However, a red birthday candle tucked in the side of the pot of hot mustard tells the whole story, because a candle implies heat even"if it isn't lit.

Well, doesn't it? — Bebe

And just think how wise it makes the busy feel when they figure out which is which, all by themselves! — SUSANNA

President Is Confident Of Future of I.O.D.E.

HAMILTON (CP)—The provincial president of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire said today the IODE doesn't intend "to go the way of the dinosaur and become extinct."

Mrs. W. R. Morrison of Hamilton said she is confident in the organization's future despite charges that women's volunteer groups are no longer useful.

The provincial president was speaking at opening session of the annual meeting of the IODE's Ontario chapter.

"Woman's role outside the home has become an accepted and necessary part of community life," she said.

"They have invaded the once all-male sanctuaries of golf and curling clubs in great numbers, auxiliaries to service groups . . . women's active support of the arts is . . . the 'in' thing today. . . ."

NEEDS GOOD PROGRAM

She said in order to attract women in the home as well as the 2,000,000 women in the labor force, a volunteer organization must have an up-to-date and worthwhile program.

In later sessions, reports showed $160,000 was given last year in scholarships, bursaries and equipment for school projects.

The value of overseas shipments of toys, clothing and bedding was listed at $44,000.

One chapter provided Christmas toys and candy for 66 children in an Eskimo settlement, with names and ages being provided by an RCMP constable who played Santa Claus.

Mrs. H. R. Clark of Burlington, treasurer, reported total receipts last year of $416,000. Next year's budget allows 30 per cent of expenditures for education and 30 per cent for services at home and abroad.

The meeting ends Friday.

Physical Activity Helps Reduce Tensions

DEAR DORIE: We think you are just great. Keep up the good work.

Doris, I would like to give a line of encouragement for mothers who have had a nervous breakdown. There is hope, believe me.

After I came home with my fourth baby my husband was away on a job. First thing I knew I was always crying. I thought it was the blues and I would soon get over it. But unfortunately I didn't and I ended up in hospital with a nervous breakdown. My husband encouraged me and said he was 200 percent for me to get well. The doctor said it was very common for women between 35 and 50. I accepted that it was a sickness and I had to lick it.

DORIS CLARK

It is now two years. I feel I have gone a long, long way. I am looking forward to rearranging my whole life. I understand myself better. I think physical exercise is a very good way to help you through.

Doris, I only went grade eight. I would like to catch up on some serious studying. Would I have to take a correspondence course? They must be quite a change in school. — WELLER THAN WELL

DEAR WELLER: Orchids to you — and to that husband who caused you back to health! It does seem that tensed-up nerves can be helped to relax with physical activities.

Your urge to study is one earmark of a healthy going concern. Write or call on the education authority for your area (a local or provincial office of education). You may either study by correspondence, or at night school, or through private tutoring. Many, many mothers and fathers of families are catching up now on what they didn't learn before.

The new educational programs do indeed take some catching up!

DEAR DORIE: Would your readers like to have the little poem "Mother's Apron"? It was written and read by Mr. Jane Scott (Cheerful Jane) at a club meeting I attended. We were all touched by the thought expressed. — MRS. I.B.

* * *

DEAR MRS. I.B.: They might, indeed. Since there are eight verses of eight lines, there's not room in the column for it. The first verse (which is reproduced by permission of Cheerful Jane herself) reads:

I used to say to Mother
When friends dropped in for tea:
"Oh, Mother, look your apron off
And don't embarrass me."
But Mother simply smiled and said:
"I will when I get through
But I have need of it just now,
There's work for me to do."

It goes on to tell, eloquently, just how busy that apron was over the years until it was finally folded away. I'll be glad to send anyone a complete copy for the asking — and a stamped envelope.

Queen Observes 40th Birthday Thursday in Brightest Glare of Publicity Woman Can Experience

By CAROL KENNEDY

LONDON (CP) — The Queen celebrates her 40th birthday Thursday in the brightest glare of publicity any woman can experience as she crosses this watershed into middle age.

Her birthday will have celebrations with the state opening of Parliament.

A minister of British writers, meanwhile, have been looking afresh at the monarchy in 40th-birthday assessments.

Two commentators chose the same theme: Is the still, slow-changing routine of royalty too big a burden for one woman's shoulders in a fast-evolving society?

'MODERNIZE JOB'

Novelist Gabriel Fielding, writing in Nova magazine, suggests the monarchy should emulate the Roman Catholic Church and initiate a process of modernization. He says a royal commission should be appointed to examine the Queen's functions and "pare away all those which now are meaningless."

But as one court expert commented, without the ceremonial functions much of the mystique of monarchy—perhaps much of the reason for its existence—would disappear.

Another commentator says many things in the Queen's 16 years on the throne could have shaken a less serene sovereign — the gradual weakening of Commonwealth ties, Britain's recurring economic crises and dwindling power in world affairs.

Writes Douglas Brown in The Sunday Telegraph:

"To ride through Accra with the tyrant Nkrumah and to brave the angry silence of Quebec were unpleasant experiences which the nation wished upon its queen almost in the spirit of vicarious sacrifice; even the visit to Germany and bitter undercurrents which only she could neutralize."

NOTES FRUSTRATIONS

The Sunday Telegraph article notes the frustrations involved for an intelligent woman trained to think nationally—and superbly well-informed — being deprived of any real power to communicate.

Only when the prime minister seeks her advice can the Queen wield any influence on affairs.

On the personal level, where much criticism of the Queen is aimed, Douglas Brown says royal protocol is restrictive.

"On the Queen we impose a discipline that is worse than Trappist. We insist that she should speak, but only in platitudes."

He also points out that while the Queen is the most photographed and most written-about woman in Britain—possibly the world—her true personality and character remain virtually unknown to the public.

Bringing Up Baby

HINTS COLLECTED BY MRS. DAN MORGAN, MOTHER OF 3

Do you know of anything more enchanting than a baby trying to figure out what the world is all about? But the wonderment of a baby is more than a chuckle to delight your eye and unlock your smiles. It's an important part of his (or her) mental development. For what is wonderment but curiosity? And curiosity is one of the great teachers. It leads to learning through looking, listening, touching, tasting, etc., unfolding untold mysteries for your baby.

Speaking of a pleasant taste experience, your baby will enjoy the toasted, lovable flavour of Gerber Protein Cereal Cookies. He'll also get this nutritional boost: (1) It has a 35% protein content to aid your baby's growth. (2) Like all Gerber Cereals, it has added iron, known for its blood building quality . . . and the B-vitamins, thiamine (B-1), riboflavin (B-2) and niacin. P.S. The other four cereals are equally nourishing.

All Gerber Cereals are good-tasting. And each and every one has the smooth texture babies like. They stir with milk or formula to a dreamy creaminess in seconds . . . stay that way throughout the serving.

Curiosity saver. Your baby's curiosity should be encouraged. And it's so easy! Use might for these simple tests on your darling:

A salty-coloured cookie over the crib, or a bright balloon tied to the playpen help eye movement.

- Sweet mother-talk and soft music are fine for ear training.
- Various toys, in different textures and colors, are good for teaching through touch.

New, refreshing also for sweet little lips, Gerber Strained Apple-Banana Dessert.

Now, refreshing also for sweet little lips, Gerber Strained Apple-Banana Dessert is fortified with delicious tropical banana flavour and has added vitamin C (ascorbic acid)...

a contributing factor for sound gums and other body tissues. Don't forget those other Gerber Juice delectables: Orange Juice, Apple Juice and Orange-Banana. Orange-Apple and Orange - Pineapple Juice Drinks. Gerber Baby Foods, Niagara Falls, Canada.

ROAST LOAF OF PORK

Everybody was meat-bargain-hunting, including my relatives, staff and me. All finished up up taking home pork loins. To add to the monotony I was invited out to the meals where they were served. So I ate roast loin of pork three dinners in a row! But it was all good and I liked it.

In our area the price of pork dropped in one week from 59c per pound to 39c per pound. This was explained on the read livestock report. Growers were advised not to deliver hogs to the packing houses until the present surplus had been moved out, as the consuming public got the advantage.

WEDNESDAY

Dinner Menu

by Mary Moore

Meat Balls in Tomato Sauce on Wide Noodles; Tossed Greens with Italian French Dressing; Plum Cobbler with Ice Cream; Tea.

ROAST LOIN OF PORK:

Notes: 1) Be sure the butcher has chopped through the backbone at regular intervals to make carving easy.

2) If you have a meat thermometer insert it at the centre top of the roast.

If desired rub the top flat surface of the pork loin with a mixture of ½ teaspoon each salt, paprika, rosemary and ¼ teaspoon black pepper. Place on rack in roasting pan.

These times and temperatures are for a 4½-lb. pork loin.

Roast at 1) 325 deg. Fahr. for 40 to 45 minutes per lb. or until internal temperature registers 185 deg. Fahr. "well done," or 2) 300 deg. Fahr. for 5 hours or until internal temperature registers 185 deg. Fahr., "well done". (This is the temperature at which roasted ribs and ham will deliciously tender.) As you know pork should always be well done.

Notes: 1) To Make Gravy transfer roast to preheated serving platter and tip 6 tablespoons fat from pan into saucepan including the sediment. Discard surplus fat. Stir 5½ tablespoons flour into it and add 1 beef bouillon cube, otherwise this gravy is pale in color. Stir in 3 cups hot water until thick. (Liquid from cooking mild-flavored vegetables such as potatoes or carrots or beans may be used as some of the liquid.) Taste the gravy and add salt and pepper as desired. 2) Pan roasted potatoes ("Parsecrolla") are ideal with roast pork, if you are roasting it at 325 deg. Fahr. Cut potatoes in halves crosswise and parboil in salted water for 10 minutes. Drain. Add to roasting pan 1½ hours before roast is due to be done, turning them over once and sprinkling them with salt and a little paprika when they are turned over.

Roast pork should always be "well done." Mary Moore recommends using a meat thermometer and gives methods of roasting pork loin today.

First Sewing Machine Now in London Museum

Broadcasting in the BBC's World Service "Women and the World" program about the history of the domestic sewing machine, Hilary Haywood referred to one of the first British models which can be seen at the Science Museum in London's South Kensington district.

"It was invented for glove-making and leatherwork in 1790 by a cabinet-maker called Thomas Saint," she said. "But the first all-purpose model was made in France, in 1830, by Barthelemey Thimonier, who subsequently sold about eight for making French army uniforms. But poor Thimonier was unlucky. In the French revolution of 1848, his works were wrecked and he himself was nearly killed by an angry mob who feared that his machine would put post-tailors out of a job. He lived on to exhibit a machine in the Great Exhibition of 1851 in London, but he finally died in 1857, obscure and unsuccessful.

OTHER INVENTORS

"Meantime, two American inventors were working, quite independently of each other, on the same principles and one of them, Elias Howe, brings the story back to England again. He sold his machine for £250 to a William Thomas, a corset-manufacturer of Cheapside, London. And early in the eighteen-fifties, a brilliant and ambitious young engineer-businessman, William Jones, improved on the Elias Howe prototype until his Manchester sewing machine business rapidly established itself and began to expand.

"His original firm is still flourishing and his 100-year-old model is kept in full working order in pride of place in the factory - still near Manchester. The modern models are as streamlined as aircraft, but the elegant original has a period charm of its own, and is decorated with real gold leaf. It must have been quite a bargain for four guineas, its original price in 1860 according to the catalogue of the time, although clever William Jones realized that that was quite a tidy sum then and pioneered what seems to be the first hire-purchase scheme — at two-and-six a time!"

French Speaking Doctors Against Control Device

OTTAWA (CP)—The Association of French Speaking Doctors of Canada said Wednesday distribution of intra-uterine birth control devices should be halted because they may produce abortions.

A brief to Parliament's health and welfare committee read by Dr. Jacques Baillargeon of Montreal said abortion can be condemned on both moral and legal grounds.

Therefore the distribution of the devices—for insertion in the woman's uterus—"should be forbidden or, at least, postponed until the way they work has been explained precisely enough to exclude any possibility of abortion."

"Every new technique which is said to be contraceptive should first be submitted to competent medical authorities for approval so as to make sure that techniques, which may at first sight seem contraceptive, will not prove to be, to fact, disguised abortion," the brief said.

NOT FOOL-PROOF

It is far from certain the devices invariably prevent conception, Dr. Baillargeon said.

"On the contrary, according to several competent authors, what we do know about these devices suggests that it is highly probable that they bring about abortions," he said.

The association's case was built on the question of the point at which the device halts the birth process.

If the device prevents the fertilization of the female egg by the male sperm, this is acceptable contraception.

However, if the device prevents the growth of the fertilized egg in the uterus, then this could be construed as abortion, which means arrested development of human life.

Couple Marks 40th Wedding Anniversary

WELLINGTON — Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Bryant recently celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary. They were very much surprised when arriving at Milford, where they expected to be dinner guests of their daughter and her family, Mr. and Mrs. George Ackerman, to be taken to the Milford town hall, where eight of their ten children and their families had gathered to welcome them.

Guests at the dinner besides their children and 24 grandchildren were Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Kirkley, Mr. Bryant's sister of Gananoque; two cousins, Miss Audrey Brickman and Miss Erma Bonter of Amelisburg; Mrs. Rowena Macdonald and Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Young. Mrs. Young was Mrs. Bryant's bridesmaid 40 years ago. After dinner everyone drove to the Bryant home on Gilead Road where the couple were "at home" to their many relatives and friends, 135 of whom called during the afternoon and evening.

An anniversary cake, made by their daughter, Mrs. Ackerman, was the centre of attraction.

Mrs. Ackerman received the guests at the door and Miss Mary Ackerman, eldest granddaughter of the Bryants, was in charge of the guest book which was a gift from Mr. and Mrs. James Dick. Mrs. Rowena MacDonald poured tea in the afternoon, and Mrs. Barton Cronk poured in the evening. Mrs. Clarence Hicks, Mrs. James Dick, Mrs. Grant Vader and Mrs. Gerald Kemp were in charge of the kitchen and the Misses Marie and Joanne Vader served the guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Bryant were presented with gifts from their Gilead and Frost Road friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Bryant's daughter, Mrs. Milton Cronk, unable to be present on Sunday arrived on Monday with her husband to spend a few days with her parents. The couple's son, Mr. Leon Bryant of Concord, New Hampshire, conveyed his congratulations by telephone.

At a double ring ceremony, performed at St. Basil's Catholic Church in Ottawa by Rev. Father G. E. Silvester on Saturday, April 16, 1966 at 11 a.m., Elizabeth Anne Driscoll, daughter of Lt.-Col C. Edward Driscoll and Mrs. Driscoll of Ottawa, was united in marriage to Robert Walter Brown, son of Lt.-Col. and Mrs. Herbert Brown of R. R. 1, Belleville. The church organist, Mr. John Stewart, played the wedding music and the soloist was Miss Pamela Darragh.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full-length gown of white peau de charme, fashioned in Empire style and highlighted with a chapel train flowing from the shoulders. The bodice and train were overlaid with Chantilly lace and the skirt was appliqued with a scalloped lace hemline. Her elbow length two-tier veil was caught by a flower-covered pillbox, and she carried a colonial bouquet of white spider carnations with yellow centres.

Miss Margo Jane Driscoll of Ottawa, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She was dressed in an Empire gown, similar to that of the bride, of apricot organza over taffeta, with headdress of apricot, yellow and white carnations. Her bouquet was yellow, centred with white mums.

Miss Kathleen McMahon of Ottawa and Miss Lorraine Brown of Belleville, sister of the bridegroom, were bridesmaids. They were attired identically to the maid of honor and carried yellow colonial bouquets centred with white mums.

Miss Janet Lynne Driscoll, sister of the bride, as flower girl, was dressed in a full-length frock of yellow organza over taffeta with a crown of yellow daisies as a headdress. She carried a tiny colonial bouquet similar to those of the bridesmaids.

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. Madelyn Barot, a director of the World Council of Churches in Geneva, says women in Protestant churches around the world are trying to adapt their service work to the needs of society.

In an interview Tuesday, Dr. Barot said women's groups in the Central Europe are discussing family planning and sex education for non-Christians.

In Asia, Protestant women are investigating the need for day nurseries and part-time work for women. Dr. Barot, here at the invitation of the Board of Women of the United Church, said Protestant groups in Central America are looking for service work not being done by the state.

"In Europe, family planning and the population explosion is a moral and spiritual issue because the position of the Roman Catholic Church is clear and the Protestant churches uncertain."

WAIVE FREE CHOICE

"If you go to Africa they are discussing what Christian marriage means. They know they must think deeper about what it means to lead a Christian life. Young people want freedom of choice, but that is not yet possible.

"Family planning is impossible in Africa because the status of women is still related to children. But they must have some way to contribute to society, so they contribute children."

In Russia, Dr. Barot said women's organizations have been "effectively destroyed." She credited the women with keeping religion alive in the families and said Christians are deliberately choosing to work in such fields as medicine and social work.

Counsel for Munsinger Probe Tries to Shun Sensationalism

By KEN KELLY

OTTAWA (CP) — J. L. O'Brien, counsel for the royal commission on the Gerda Munsinger affair, is adopting a no-nonsense approach to the inquiry, aiming at keeping it strictly to the point and away from public sensationalism.

The 47-year-old Montreal lawyer is the key man in bringing evidence before Mr. Justice Wishart Spence who is a one-man commission of inquiry into sex-and-security charges by Justice Minister Cardin.

Mr. Cardin said at a press conference March 18 that two or more Conservative cabinet ministers were involved with the 36-year-old German blonde who "had been engaged in espionage work" before coming to Canada in 1955.

Mr. O'Brien, now working on preparations for commission hearings, says Mr. Cardin's statement "would have to be established by him from information he has—if he has it."

"My concept of what was being said (by Mr. Cardin) was what had been reported to the cabinet of the day or members of that cabinet."

Mr. O'Brien is every inch the lawyer - businessman - neat grey suit, carefully groomed silver hair, healthy complexion and even-tempered manner. He also expresses bluntly his personal views on some aspects of the inquiry.

"There's no one more interested in getting rid of the thing and getting home. It costs me a lot."

HOPES FOR BREVITY

On the chances of the inquiry exceeding four months as did the 1964-65 Dorion inquiry into bribery and coercion:

"Over my dead body, I guess. They wanted someone with no party connections and someone old enough not to expect rewards."

Furthermore, he says he doesn't know any of the ministers or former ministers who may appear. He once appeared before the Diefenbaker cabinet in an appeal for the Bell Telephone Co. He probably did the same before the St. Laurent cabinet when Prime Minister Pearson was external affairs minister.

"I've never met Cardin. I think I met (former justice minister) Fulton once socially. I met (former trade minister) Hees at a dinner when he was president of the Montreal Sleek Exchange.

"Sevigny (former associate defence minister Pierre Sevigny) I met once in my life when I was president of a Montreal hospital and he acted on a committee."

Whether any of them men appear before the inquiry is uncertain. Mr. Sevigny has said he knew Gerda socially and Mr. Hees has said the woman may have been right when she said he lunched twice with her.

MORALITY NOT INVOLVED

A central issue of the inquiry is Mr. Cardin's charge that Mr. Diefenbaker was aware of the Munsinger case but mishandled it by not sending it to the legal officers of the justice department for an opinion.

Mr. O'Brien has firm views about keeping the inquiry to the point.

"If this is an investigation into security, it is not an investigation into morality."

On publicity about the commission hearings, he says:

"Personally, to the extent possible, m a t t e r s involving possible reflections on the names and reputations of persons who may not themselves involved in matters of security should be kept from the public.

"I have no wish to feed the public desire to read sensational news."

He says he wouldn't of his own volition introduce evidence that might damage reputations of persons who might "unwittingly have got into the area being investigated."

"To the extent it is necessary to bring in (such) evidence I would be party to making it public without their consent."

NEW CHANGE TACTICS

The bilingual lawyer says he foresees no problems with the commission's terms of reference. One criticism has been that Mr. Cardin said there was a security risk while the commission was asked by the Liberal cabinet with no party members and someone old enough not to expect rewards."

"If you're talking about this extradition in Jamaica, I don't think that's going to be a problem. . . .

"If someone said there was something or there may have been something, the investigation would proceed in the same in either case."

He's equally certain there will be no limitations about the commission's powers' in the wake of reports that Mr. Diefenbaker and some of his former colleagues may not appear, partly on the ground their oaths wouldn't permit them to testify.

"This is not a gun battle we're going into. We're dealing with responsible members of a government or a former government and responsible members of the bar and I don't see any of these pitched battles coming up. . . .

"I don't think we are going to get into the issue of the secrecy imposed by a n y oath. . . .

"I don't think it's a matter of concern; I wouldn't think it would require any decisions by the commissioner."

Mr. O'Brien says he's never served on an inquiry "on the commissioner's side."

EXPERIENCE AN HELP

I'm acted for the railways before the transport board and for Reader's Digest in the royal commission on publications inquiry.

"I'm what you might call a private practice lawyer. I've never taked a government retainer in my life nor has my office.

"I would hope that my experiences before many boards and commissions would be in good stead. I feel the burns in many parts of my body and I try to protect 'against them."

22 Men Will Be Added To Commission

TORONTO (CP) — Attorney-General Arthur Wishart said Tuesday that 22 men will be added to the Ontario Securities Commission to strengthen it in the job of enforcing new securities legislation.

He said the commission expenditures will also be raised to $342,000 a year from $463,000.

The additional staff will bring the total commission personnel to 70.

The attorney-general is acting on a report from Price, Waterhouse and Co., a firm of professional management consultants hired to study how commission operations should be changed.

Mr. Wishart said there will be a new senior counsel for the commission and other staff divisions will concentrate on insider trading, registration and complaints as well as investigation.

Santa Claus Was Real Figure in Hist

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I read with inte... an older sister who was unhappy becau... grade teacher told her little brother there was no Santa Claus. The same thing happened to our little boy, only it was the third grade teacher who robbed our youngster of his fantasy.

Our son was terribly unhappy when he came home from school. I turned to the World Book Encyclopedia for help and found it.

Santa Claus was a real person. He was the Bishop of Myra, who lived in an ancient town in Turkey around 300 A.D. His name was Saint Nicholas. Saint Nicholas was the kindest and most generous Bishop known to the world. He started the practice of giving presents to the needy.

Your book called him Sister Klaus and the settlers brought the custom to the new world. The English picked it up from them. So you see, it isn't a lie after all. — MOTHER OF THREE.

DEAR MOTHER: Thanks for your lovely letter. I'll tell Virginia when she comes to.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The woman whose husband is driving her nuts with his self-taught cello screeching has a couple of things going for her. She only has to put up with the racket when he is awake and at home. Otherwise, there's a chance he might get tired of the cello and quit. I should have it so good.

My husband has been collecting clocks for over 20 years. We have 60 clocks in our house and I can't describe what it is like to live amidst this collection of timepieces. I hear chimes, bells, cuckoo, cuckoo and ticking sounds day and night until I think I'll lose my mind.

I never know if the telephone is ringing or if someone is at the door because we have clocks that sound like the door and the phone. I can't use a timer on my stove because we have clocks that sound like that, too.

I'm not writing for advice because I know I must live with my problem and nobody can help me. Thanks for letting me have my say. — HIS WIFE.

DEAR WIFE: Nobody can say you don't have time on your hands. Sorry about that pun, Hon.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My mom and dad bought a new house. The house is costing more money than they had planned on spending. Mom and Dad let my aunt and her boy friend move in because they help with expenses. My aunt's boy friend says his wife won't give him a divorce.

The kids at school know my aunt and this man are not married and it is very embarrassing. I told mom how I felt and she said the main reason she and Dad bought the house was to improve my social standing and that I am ungrateful.

I was happier when we lived in the old house and I would gladly move back if it meant getting rid of this pair. Am I wrong to feel this way? — HEADY DOWN.

DEAR HEAD: You are not wrong but I doubt that griping about it will help any.

Make no apologies to your friends. Anyone who has sense knows full well you are not responsible for that shameful set-up.

History of Agriculture Outlined At Lions Club Farmers' Banquet

NAPANEE — "If we are to keep the farmer, and especially the farmer's son, on the farm, agriculture as a way of life must continue to grow in public esteem," Dr. J. (Mack) McLean of Kemptville told a Napanee audience Monday evening.

Dr. McLean is the president of the Eastern Ontario Association of Animal Breeders, and he was speaking to at least 175 members of the Lions Club and their guests at their annual Farmers' Night banquet in the Memorial building.

Using charts to clarify his statements, Dr. McLean outlined the history of agriculture in Canada from the pioneer days when it was simple—for sole industry, until the present, when only eight per cent of the population is on the farm. He gave reasons for this decline, one of which is the fact that a smaller per cent of income is now spent on food, which the farmer produces. Yet his production costs are climbing.

"The decline of agriculture must be halted," the speaker said, "and it is to the interest of every man on the street to assist in halting that decline. He must recognize agriculture as a business, and a vital one, the equal of any other industry in the country."

MUST BE SALESMAN

The farmer himself must be a salesman for agriculture, the speaker continued, and then proceeded to give the necessary qualifications of a successful salesman. He must be industrious and persistent, a man of courage who will not give up when his first attempt fails. Enthusiasm and true respect for his work are a necessity, the speaker affirmed. Lastly, he should be an approachable man, a man whom people will respect and like. A winning personality, however, must be based on the characteristics he had given previously.

Dr. McLean was introduced by vice - president Ray Parker, chairman of the evening, and was thanked by Donald Aylsworth.

Those at the head table included: Director Kenneth Klock, head of the department of agriculture at the N.D.S.S., and Mrs. Klinck; secretary Murvey Dean, Mrs. Dean and their guest, Miss Patricia Kay; Director Frank Fraser, who introduced the guests and guests at the other tables and Mrs. Fraser; president Glen Clark and Mrs. Clark; Barton MacLean, president of L. & A. Federation of Agriculture, vice-president and Mrs. Lasher; agricultural representative, Garnet Mills and Mrs. Mills, and zone chairman William Raycraft and Mrs. Raycraft.

Three N.D.S.S. students, the ABC's, Noreen Alger, Bill Hinch, and Ken Clark entertained with vocal and instrumental music. Walter Blakely led a sing-song and a musical skit "This is Your Life" in honor of Lieut. Ward Wartman and Mrs. Wartman, who celebrate their golden wedding anniversary this month.

Mrs. Bert Seymour was accompanist for the evening and the Morven U.C.W. prepared and served the turkey dinner.

Heifer Sells For $168 at Calf Club Sale

NAPANEE — Barton MacLean of Morven paid top price at the annual calf sale held on the Walter Lennon farm last week. It cost him $168 for a purebred Holstein heifer calf, carefully selected by four men who have all been presidents of the Lennox and Addington Holstein Club, which sponsored the sale. Average sale price for the ten calves was $153.25. Seven farmers had consigned calves for the sale.

Rockwell Parks, Harold McCaul, Walter Lennon and Percy Hudgins had driven many miles and had given up two days of their time before they finally rounded up enough calves, suitable for boys in 4-H Club work. Sales were not limited to members, or even to Lennox and Addington residents. One calf was purchased by John Curtis of Joyceville in Frontenac.

The job of selecting calves was difficult this year, Mr. Parks says, as there are hardly any heifer calves.

Auctioneer was Tom Harrison of Newburgh.

Hold Hunters' Safety Course

NAPANEE — A hunters' safety training course is being given in the Memorial building this week with members of the Rod and Gun Club as instructors. The course was formerly given by the Department of Lands and Forests, but recently the club has taken over the work.

Instructors are Robert Wilson, Barry Sandford and Donald Wagar. The classes began Monday night, and will continue for three evenings. At least one of the three chief instructors is present at each session, with other members assisting in the demonstrations.

Pupils are taught not only how to load a gun and handle and clean it, but also the different types of firearms. They learn, also, useful facts to make them better and safer hunters when in the woods, such things as a map and compass reading and how to avoid harming wild life habitat. Fire safety is also impressed.

Special instructions are being given in handling a gun under dangerous conditions, such as when on the trail, when crossing streams, or when climbing fences.

No boy can secure a gun licence unless he has passed such tests as will be given at the close of this course.

Two-Mile Journey by Dog-Sled Is 'Unforgettable' Experience

COLDEST METHOD OF TRAVEL — A. W. R. Carrothers, dean of law at the University of Western Ontario, called it an "unforgettable" two-mile trip by dogsled from the airstrip to the Baffin Island community of Pond Inlet, N.W.T. But the six men travelling with the Carrothers commission, studying the development of government in the North, agreed it was the coldest method of travel they had ever encountered. (CP Photo)

By STUART LAKE

POND INLET, N.W.T. (CP)— A. W. R. Carrothers, dean of law at the University of Western Ontario, called it "an unforgettable experience."

But bundled up as they were in several layers of clothing, all six softies from southern Canada travelling with the Carrothers commission in March agreed their two-mile dogteam trip to this Baffin Island community was the coldest method of travel they had ever encountered.

It was a crackling 30 below zero when advisory commission looking into the development of government in the North arrived here for a public hearing.

Instead of the usual trip from the airstrip into the village in government - owned vehicles, the commission was told the Eskimos wanted to transport visitors by dogteam.

To add spice to the ride, the Eskimos decided to make it a race.

CONSUMPTION DROPS

OTTAWA (CP) — Per-capita consumption of red meats in 1957 declined to 146.3 pounds in the previous year, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported Monday. On average, the individual Canadian consumed 78.7 pounds of beef, 49.2 pounds of pork, eight pounds of veal, 4.2 pounds of canned meats, 3.4 pounds of offal, and 2.8 pounds of mutton and lamb.

French - language course, Mr. Bell noted.

"I suggest he go out and get a good Berlitz course on the Maritimes."

Creditiste Leader Thomas Lacroix said the budget did nothing to help the working man or the farmer. Since British Columbia was cutting taxes, he suggested Mr. Sharp take a trip there to see how it's done.

James E. Walker, parliamentary assistant to Revenue Minister Benson, called for public discussion on the extent of foreign ownership and control of Canadian industry.

"If ever a question of the greatest public concern cried out for the broadest public discussion right now, it is this one," the York Centre MP said.

Labor Minister Nicholson said he didn't see how any well-informed person could fail to see how the budget would curb the threat of inflation.

Earlier, the Commons heard an announcement by Solicitor-General Pennell that the case of Steven Truscott, convicted at 14 in the strangling murder of a Clinton, Ont., girl, will be reviewed. Mr. Pennell did not say what form the review would take. There would have to be consultation with Ontario authorities.

Truscott, now 21, was the object of a recent book that alleges a miscarriage of justice in the case.

The budget debate came only after Speaker Lucien Lamoureux ruled out of order a bid by Opposition Leader Diefenbaker to stage an emergency debate on the question of relationships between personnel on the television program This Hour Has Seven Days and CBC management.

Mr. Lamoureux said there would be opportunity later in the budget debate to cover the question of the firing by the CBC of Seven Days hosts Patrick Watson and Laurier LaPierre.

The whole question also is to go before the Commons broadcasting committee for a review of complaints by the hosts that they were fired arbitrarily without management proceeding to didn't see how any well- through proper channels.

America indicates that subtle damage arising at birth with repeated current delivery and medical practices is an important cause of later learning disabilities. We have been aware that birth injury is a cause of retardation, cerebral palsy and epilepsy, but these are gross and obvious brain damage.

"I submit that there are many more injuries of a more subtle nature which result in learning disabilities."

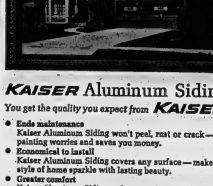
He said the community is too apathetic about "the terrible penalties associated with an illegitimate, induced, arrested or otherwise crude or careless birth."

Dr. W. M. Paul, professor of obstetrics and gynecology at the University of Toronto medical school and head of the department of obstetrics and gynecology at Toronto General Hospital, said later he doubts mothers now ever have their legs held to delay birth.

"This is away out of date," he said. "I would be ridiculed —Just bad obstetrics. I can't speak for other hospitals, but I don't deal in my unit and I doubt if it is done anywhere."

Asked if such treatment could cause brain injuries, he said:

"We regard it as negligible, completely insignificant as a cause of brain injury."



He said Mr. Shannon should provide names of hospitals and patients.

"Anybody who gets up and makes statements of this kind should back them up," he said.

Labor Minister Sounds Out Management and Unions on Freedman Automation Report

By BEN WARD

OTTAWA (CP) — Labor Minister Nicholson has been sounding out labor and management groups on the possibility of a new inquiry into the controversial proposals advanced last December in the Freedman report on CNR crew run-throughs.

Mr. Justice Samuel Freedman of Winnipeg, who investigated the CNR dispute as a one-man federal conciliator, recommended that the law be amended to force employers to negotiate the introduction of automated techniques that affect working conditions.

As the law now stands, unions are legally powerless to protest the dislocations caused by work changes introduced while a collective agreement is in force.

Since taking over the labor portfolio last January, Mr. Nicholson has been under heavy pressure from labor and management groups on the Freedman issue. Labor organizations have been unanimous in demanding action on lines laid down in the report. Management spokesmen are vigorously opposed to it.

The labor minister's public statements on the issue so far have been noncommittal, arousing criticism from some union leaders.

BECOMES KEY DEMAND

Adding to his dilemma, the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen (CLC) has made the Freedman principle one of the key demands in its current contract dispute with the CNR. Negotiations have broken down and a conciliation board is being set up to seek a settlement. If this fails, the trainmen are prepared for a strike that could force the minister to make a decision.

Informants say Mr. Nicholson is of the view that a fuller investigation should be made in order to hear views from other industries that would be affected by such a change in federal labor law. He has advanced the idea in private talks, suggesting either a parliamentary committee or a royal commission.

Those who have been involved in the conversations say he appears to favor a royal commission that would hear from all industries under federal jurisdiction — railways, airlines, banking, interprovincial trucking, grain mills, shipping, broadcasting, pipelines, telephone systems and the like.

The Freedman inquiry was set up in the fall of 1964 after 2,800 CNR workers staged a brief wildcat strike over the railway's decision to run train crews through Wainwright, Alta., and Nakina, Ont., points where crews normally were changed.

SEE HUMAN PROBLEMS

It found that the CNR had a legal right to introduce the run-throughs but should not have done so without negotiating with its unions on the human problems involved.

Mr. Justice Freedman's terms of reference, prepared by former Labor Minister Allan MacEachen who has since been switched to the health portfolio, invited him to extend the run-through proposals to "similar situations arising in future."

This was taken by the judge to mean industry in general and he made this clear in his report. He said the present federal labor law, denying unions a voice in automation, "is a remediable inequity which clamors for attention and correction."

Management groups have argued that the judge looked only at the railway situation and did not consider the problems of other industries.

OPPOSE NEW INQUIRY

Union leaders, however, contend that the judge's report contains a full and factual study of the situation in general and that an expanded inquiry would be meaningless.

It would, in effect, be an inquiry into an inquiry.

Spokesmen for the Railway Brotherhood say they will protest to the government if another inquiry is ordered. The Brotherhood spent $20,000 putting their arguments before the Freedman commission and are unwilling to face a similar outlay before another tribunal.

The trainmen's union says the only result of a new inquiry would be to get the labor minister off the hook should the CNR dispute be dumped in his lap.

As an alternative, the union may demand that Mr. Nicholson introduce legislation based on the Freedman report and let both sides fight the issue at hearings before the Commons labor committee.

Has Been Sharp Expansion of World Reporting by CP

TORONTO (CP) — Sharp expansion of its independent world reporting was a major development in the last year for The Canadian Press.

Stuart Keate, publisher of Vancouver Sun and retiring president of the country's news co-operative, said in his report to CP's annual meeting:

"We have had our own man in Moscow for two years now and have sharply expanded our independent world reporting in the last year.

"Your evidence is CP bylines from faraway places whose strange-sounding names hold increasing significance for Canada and Canadians.

"The result is that Canadian readers are getting an informed assessment of complex situations popping up everywhere.

"And, more than that, these assessments are appearing under the bylines of Canadians who write with authority."

Mr. Keate noted that in the last two years CP member dailies, now numbering 108, had agreed to a 15-per-cent increase in their payments to the co-operative—the largest increase over in such a period.

The extra cost went primarily to strengthen the news staff and improve the news service at home and abroad, including the 1964 appointment of staff correspondent John Best to the Soviet capital.

"I think this is striking recognition by our members of their responsibility to the public," Mr. Keate said.

He reported that CP's Service in French, providing a full French-language newsreport to 15 French-language dailies in New Brunswick, Quebec and Ontario, had been strengthened during his two years in office and that studies for improving it further are continuing.

He said he feels that French- and English-language members of CP understand each other and "agree on their common and respective aims."

"It is reassuring that to a major extent their principal aim is mutual understanding and its extension across Canada. In [illegible] possible."

In the transmission of its news report in words and pictures, Mr. Keate said, CP is more than keeping pace with technical progress.

"We are watching developments closely in the production field so that our news service can be delivered in the most convenient and efficient form any case, each of the two groups of CP members recognizes the concerns, as well as the goodwill, of the other."

African Members Expected To Press for End of Secrecy on Rhodesian Talks

LONDON (CP) — African members of the Commonwealth sanctions committee are expected to press British Thursday to strip the secrecy from British-South African talks on oil for Rhodesia.

Lionel Cherrier, Canadian high commissioner, will preside at the meeting—on the day Parliament recesses here.

The Labor government may find itself in a squeeze, with Africans continuing to demand swifter action to topple the breakaway Ian Smith regime of Rhodesia while the Conservative opposition in Parliament accuses Prime Minister Wilson of breaking promises not to take the Rhodesian issue to the United Nations Security Council.

Following the last sanctions committee meeting April 6, Britain sought and obtained Security Council authority to take any action necessary to block two tankers, Joanna V and Manuela, from delivering oil for Rhodesia at Beira, the Portuguese Mozambique pipeline pumping point. Ian Smith's acknowledgement that this cently embargo - breaking exercise failed has cheered many of the African countries.

SEEKING CO-OPERATION

But South African oil still is getting into Rhodesia by truck. Secret British - South African talks have been under way in an apparent British attempt to get greater South African cooperation for its embargo. The sanctions committee may be told Thursday how successful these talks have been.

Smith's white-minority government seized independence from Britain last November after the British refused to grant Rhodesia independence without guarantees for eventual Negro rule.

Meanwhile more moves are afoot to strengthen the Commonwealth secretariat under Canada's Arnold Smith and to build up the Commonwealth's economic strength.

A high-staffing review body was established Tuesday under Lord Shepherd, former British ambassador to Washington, to decide what Commonwealth bodies are to be integrated in the secretariat.

The first non-confidence motion of the budget debate went down to defeat in the Commons 170 votes to 30.

The issue was a New Democrat motion saying the government should have increased income tax exemption levels in the budget.

A Conservative attempt to hold a special debate on a squabble between the CBC and program employees was ruled out.

The motion was to be held a discussion on the firing of two hosts of This Hour Has Seven Days.

Solicitor - General Pennell announced some 60% of review would be held into the murder conviction of Steven Truscott.

WEDNESDAY, April 20

The Commons meets at 2:30 p.m. to continue the budget debate. The Senate is adjourned until May 3.

ANNOUNCES CASE WILL BE REVIEWED — Solicitor-General Pennell is seen talking to reporters following his announcement in the House of Commons Tuesday that the case of Steven Truscott will be reopened. He said the review will take will be announced Friday following Mr. Pennell's meeting with Ontario Attorney General Arthur Wishart. Producer of Show Convinced Television Has Immense Value

TORONTO (CP) — Douglas Leiterman, 30, lean, quiet executive producer of This Hour Has Seven Days, got into television partly because of an interview between the late Senator Joseph McCarthy and the late Edward R. Murrow.

"In 1953, McCarthy just about had the country by the neck," he said in an interview.

"Then Murrow, in one 30-minute television program, finished McCarthy, showed he could be laughed at and refuted. This convinced me of the immense value and strength of the television medium. Nobody else has been able to do the job."

Son of a South Porcupine, Ont., accountant and an economics graduate of the University of British Columbia, Mr. Leiterman found journalism in the Vancouver Province while attending college.

BEHIND IRON CURTAIN

In 1954, after his fellowship year at Harvard University, he joined the Province. He produced a series on the Iron Curtain countries and another from behind the Curtain.

Mr. Leiterman spent three years with Southam News Services in the Ottawa Press Gallery. He was working part-time for Time magazine when, in 1957, he received an offer from the CBC.

"There was a memorable two-hour lunch day, first with the Time people and then the CBC," He said in an effort to join Close-Up, a public affairs television program developed by Allan Maclean.

During his first year, he concentrated on producing documentaries. Then he went off to Louis St. Laurent, Mackenzie King, Richard Nixon and Anthony Eden.

Later he conceived and developed Document and produced documentaries on India, Europe and the southern United States. He won the CBC's Wilderness award for TV journalism in 1964 with a documentary on racial conflict—Deep Moo River.

WANTED NO CHANGE

In 1964, he and Patrick Watson developed Seven Days. insisting he is not a social activist wanting to change the established order, Mr. Leiterman says:

"It hurts deeply when people talk about our 'sensationalism'. Seven Days is a responsible show. I can make it. It deals with things some people would rather not have on the air. But they are things people are interested in all over the world.

"I'm a liberal, I guess, in terms of human rights, conservative in financial matters. Personally I favor voluntary health insurance rather than a compulsory government plan.

EXAMINATION NEEDED

"But as a journalist, I want things to be examined. That's what Seven Days is all about."

Mr. Leiterman says it is not necessary to be the remover of Mr. Watson and Laurier LaPierre, co-hosts of Seven Days, because "this is what the program stands for."

Mr. Leiterman said he will quit Seven Days if the CBC management "emasculates it."

"A program like this has to deal with the social problems of our times, which include problems of religion and morality.

"They're as sensitive as politicians perhaps, but if we stop doing that we should be off the air. We should be out of business."

DECLARES DIVIDENDS

Directors of Chrysler Corp. Tuesday declared a 50-cent quarterly dividend payable June 1 to stockholders of record May 3. The firm paid a 25-cent quarterly dividend in the first three quarters last year and raised it to 30 cents in the final quarter and the first quarter of this year.

PROFIT DROPS

Crown Zellerbach Canada Ltd. announced Tuesday that profit during the first three months of 1966 dropped nine per cent from the level recorded for the same period last year, despite an increase in sales. Robert G. Rogers, company president, reported to shareholders that sales reached $29,600,000, an increase of 18 per cent over the year, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported Tuesday. The bureau noted that a strike at some 30 trucking companies in Ontario probably affected the earnings figure, which normally is a key indicator of the pace of activity in primary and secondary industries.

FREIGHT LOADINGS UP

Revenue freight was loaded on 79,815 railway cars in Canada during the first week of April, an increase of 13.3 per cent over the same week last year, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported Tuesday. The bureau noted that a strike at some 30 trucking companies in Ontario probably affected the earnings figure, which normally is a key indicator of the pace of activity in primary and secondary industries.

MONTREAL (CP)—Debits to Canadian bank accounts in March totalled $45,241,700,000, an increase from February and an substantial increase over March, 1965, says the Canadian Bankers' Association.

The figure for February was $39,741,300,000 and in March of last year was $41,704,800,000.

Debits represent money withdrawn from deposit accounts other than federal government and chartered banks.

National Gathering Place For Indians Donated by Powerful Indian Reserve

BY GERARD McNEIL

OTTAWA (CP)—An island in the St. Lawrence is being donated by the powerful Caughnawaga Reserve as a national gathering place for Indians, it was announced Tuesday.

The project was hailed by Micmacs, Crees, Haidas and Hurons as a significant step in historic step towards unity among Canada's diverse tribes.

It was announced after a two-day meeting of the Indian Centennial Consultant Committee. The idea was generated by Indian delegates, a cross-section of Canada's major tribes.

WILL CHOOSE DIRECTORS

Spokesman said a board of directors representing four Eskimo and western plateau Indians, the Prairie tribes, the woodland Indians and those of the Maritimes will be asked to administer the 80-acre island.

Chief Andrew Delisle said Tekawitha Island, within the Montreal metropolitan area and just upstream from Expo 67, would conservatively $10,000 acre.

Indians from across the country will come and stay on the island in tepees or trailers. Some thought was being given a modern Indian village would be built.

Delegates said enthusiasm for the idea dispelled traditional fears and suspicions.

"In this conference, many windows have been opened," said Rev. Andrew Cuthand, a Cree and an Anglican minister from Selkirk, Man.

"We go with a feeling of being united in purpose.

"All of us, I think, were afraid of the Iroquois.

"And we find them to be gentlemen."

ECHOED SPEECH

The speech was echoed by other delegates.

We have so separated ourselves as the 'Indians,' said Max Gros-Louis of the Huron reserve at Loretteville, Que.

"All French-speaking Indians are going with the Caughnawaga plan."

The Micmacs and the Iroquois were historic enemies. The Mohawks of Caughnawaga are part of the Iroquois Six-Nation Confederacy.

Micmac Chief Charlie Francis of the Eskasoni, N.S., reserve threw in support and Guy Williams, influential Indian editor, said the project is "fine."

"This is an historic moment for Indians in Canada."

Members Vote Legion Spiel To Continue

MONTREAL (CP) — Proposals for an increase in the fees paid by members to the Dominion Command and for dropping the annual Legion banquet threw the national convention of the Royal Canadian Legion into a turmoil of debate Tuesday.

The proposal to eliminate the banquet was rejected overwhelmingly after an hour-long debate that saw Ontario delegates standing in line to reach microphones. Opposition from other provinces was just as strong.

The suggestion for a 50-cent increase in the per capita tax, now $1.50 a year, was still being debated when the convention recessed until today.

Both proposals were part of a 13 - recommendation report from the ways and means committee which pointed to a budget deficit in 1966 and urged stringent economies on the legion.

Committee Chairman Robert Kobaly of Estevan, Sask., offered a report showing revenues of $994,326 and expenditures of $1,045,902 for a deficit of $51,576

CAUSES CONCERN

Delegates expressed great concern over falling advertising revenues of the Legion magazine, The Legionary. The magazine is expected to produce a profit this year of $17,656, and other profits of $51,451 are expected from building revenues, but these are not enough to offset predicted losses in service, administration and sports training plan accounts.

Financial portions of the report were booed by the 1,500 voting delegates at what may be the largest convention in re-cent Legion history. There are several hundred fraternal delegates also present.

In other business Tuesday, delegates waded quickly through most of more than 200 resolutions, many of them annual votes on pension, services and welfare matters the Legion wants to put before the federal department of veterans affairs.

The convention continues until Friday, with election of officers scheduled for Thursday.

Expo 67 to Be Much Bigger Than Originally Envisaged

MONTREAL (CP) — Andrew Kniewasser, general manager of the Canadian Corporation for the 1967 World Exhibition, said Tuesday the net cost of the Montreal exhibition now is estimated at $70,700,000.

The new estimate is 75 per cent higher than the original estimate of $47,284,000 made in 1963.

The corporation's general manager said the main reason for the increased estimate is that Expo will be much bigger than originally envisaged.

Mr. Kniewasser made the announcement at a press conference following approval by the federal government, the government of Quebec, the city of Montreal and the board of directors of the exhibition corporation, of a new "master plan" for Expo 67.

Under the terms of the 1967 World Exhibition Act, the net cost is shared 50 per cent by the federal government, 37½ per cent by the provincial government and 12½ per cent by the city of Montreal.

The new estimate will mean a cost to the federal government of $41,400,000, to the provincial government of $31,050,000, and to the city of Montreal $10,300,000.

This makes a total of $82,700,000 which provides for a $9,000,000 contingency reserve in addition to the net cost of $73,700,000.

Mr. Kniewasser said he believes this will be the "last master plan" for Expo, as there is too little time left for the corporation to go back to the various levels of government concerned for approval for new schemes and financial outlays.

He said that under the new master plan capital expenditures are authorized at a total of $202,100,000 with administrative, operating and promotional expenses of $121,200,000.

ESTIMATES REVENUES

Mr. Kniewasser said estimated total revenues from the world's fair would be $250,300,000.

A 12-per-cent increase in the capital construction program and a 17-per-cent increase in the administrative, operating and promotional program are due largely to increased international and Canadian participation, he said.

"Expo is bigger than envisaged in the original master plan, when it was designed for 50 countries and largely based on what happened at the Brussels world's fair" where less than 30 countries took part.

"Over 70 countries have now announced participation in Expo, and every time more countries are added we have to create more services and naturally costs go up."

Ont. Farmers To Get Loans Interest Free

TORONTO (CP) — Interest-free loans up to $1,000 will be made available to Ontario farmers who lost 50 per cent or more of their crop last year because of poor weather.

Agriculture Minister William Stewart told the legislature Tuesday the loans will be made through the chartered banks at the going bank interest rate, which would be paid by the provincial government.

He said the loans, applicable to all areas, will become privy to Jan. 1 and will be interest free to March 31 next year.

"In order to receive a loan from the bank a farmer seeking assistance will be obliged to present a sworn affidavit declaring that the money obtained will be used for the purchase of seed, fertilizer and because of crop losses due to adverse weather," Mr. Stewart said.

Loan application forms, the minister said, will be available from May 2 at the office of agricultural representatives or the banks.

"The loans will be available for the purchase of all types of seed, tobacco and tomato plants and fertilizer," Mr. Stewart said.

He said also that the provincial government has ready representation to Ottawa to take part in the program on a dollar-for-dollar basis.

CONSTABLE DISMISSED

QUEBEC (CP) — Constable Arthur Vachon, president of the Quebec Provincial Police Association, has been dismissed from his job with the force, Justice Minister Claude Wagner announced Tuesday. Constable Vachon had been suspended indefinitely April 6.

Four Ready-mix Companies Accused of Fixing Prices

OTTAWA (CP)—Four companies have been accused by the restrictive trade practices commission of agreeing to lessen competition in sale of ready-mix concrete in Windsor, Ont., and vicinity.

A report of the commission issued today also said two chartered accountants were privy to the scheme and wilfully blinded themselves to the implications of the acts of their clients and of themselves.

It said the arrangement eliminated special discounts as of Jan. 1, 1964, and was contrary to the Combines Investigation Act.

The companies named were Ryan Builders Supplies (Windsor) Ltd., Sterling Building Materials Ltd., Cross Supplies and Paving Ltd., and Woollatt Industries Ltd.

NAME TWO

The accountants named were M. E. Roberts of the firm of Brokenshire Scarff and Co., Windsor, and R. S. Austen of the firm of Arthur S. Fitzgerald and Co.

The effect of the agreement was to enhance the cost of ready-mix concrete in the area after Jan. 1, 1964, the commission said. The four companies accounted for 94.15 per cent of total 1963 sales by mixing plants in the area.

The commission said the accountants did not participate in price - cutting discussions but prepared and distributed, on instructions of the companies, composite lists of special discounts granted by each company.

Privy Council President Pearson, minister in charge of combines investigations, indicated "the usual consideration" will be given to what further steps ought to be taken.

SECOND TRIAL POSSIBLE

QUEBEC (CP) — A Quebec Justice department official said Tuesday it is "within the realm of possibility" that Leopold Dion may face a second trial for capital murder. Dion, 44, has been serving a life prison term since his death sentence was commuted last December. He was convicted of the slaying of one of four young boys whose bodies were found in the spring of 1965.

Tragedy, lurking in the wings of sport and usually unnoticed in the thunderous acclaim to the victors, has been part of the price paid by not a few of the world's outstanding athletes.

What boring fan will ever forget the almost pitiful sight of a once proud world champion draped through the ropes trying to regain his feet when Rocky Marciano knocked out Joe Louis?

Jim Thorpe, one of the greatest, if not the greatest Indian athlete, won a fistful of gold medals at the Olympic Games only to have them taken away when officials decided he had accepted some token which took away his amateur status.

Or Primo Carnera, the Italian giant who once held the world heavyweight title, and could lead a truck with horses by lifting them, slinking back to Italy, broke and broken after being "robbed" of $300,000 and his title by racketeers.

Perhaps the cruellest blow deal by a fickle fate to an outstanding athlete, one of America's greatest golfers happened in the recent Masters Tournament.

In the final round on the final green, three of golfdom's greats, Jack Nicklaus, Tommy Jacobs and Gay Brewer missed $28,000 putts in a row. But the tragedy of the tournament struck with the destruction of Ben Hogan on the same green.

Hogan, 53, has been semi-retired for ten years, because tournament play takes too heavy a toll from a body that was terribly broken in a car accident in 1949.

But an indomitable spirit was not to be denied so he decided to take a run at the Masters. He had a 74-71 and 72 in the first three rounds.

Hogan in his heyday was four U.S. Opens, two Masters, the British Open and the PGA. He drove his body that was recalling the pain of the years to a position where he could challenge the youthful leaders.

He was paired with Nicklaus and on his second shot playfully familiar fans shower the pin for a downhill putt. He missed badly but, the story goes Nicklaus asked him to putt first. Did Nicklaus feel sorry for Hogan's aching body? Or was he one writer puts it — did he want him out o fthe way?

There was a strange look on Hogan's face. Perhaps he misconstrued the action. Perhaps he was experiencing the last bout of one of the games former greats "chattering up the green." He missed and finished with three putts for a 77. This the man who a year ago had the whole people cheer his every step.

Hogan, a natural lefthander, switched to the knifeside" and jig-sawed his swing piece-by-piece into an effective whole. Perhaps no other golfer has a great more heart or a practice less than Hogan. He has been known to play a tournament, post his score and head for practice until dark.

Hogan tied off in a sudden death playoff with the Grim Reaper some years ago. Texas when a huge bus crashed into his car. His wife was with him. Hogan lunged to the right to protect his wife and swung his car. The steering wheel missed him and went through the driver's seat.

He suffered a double fracture of the pelvis, a broken collarbone, a broken ankle and internal injuries. Previously he was in the money in 100 of 107 tournaments.

Sheer guts, blanketing pain sent him to the U.S. Open in 1950 at Merion where he played 36 holes to tie for first place.

He stayed in a hot bath all night to ease the pain of his legs and the next day went out to beat Lloyd Mangrum and George Fazio to win the Open.

A magnificent career may have ended in the Masters this year when one of golf's greatest figures, an outstanding figure in one of sport's most tragic moments, was lost in the crowd after a three-putt finish.

Meets Griffith Monday

No Tank In This Tiger

GROSSINGER, N.Y. (AP)— Boxing can be a rewarding business, but not many youngsters want to go into it because it requires hard work, dedication and, sacrifice, middleweight champion Dick Tiger said today.

"Boxing has been very good to me," said the 36-year-old Nigerian at his Grossinger Country Club training camp. "I like to fight and it has helped me become a successful business man.

"I'm looking forward to staying in it a few more years. If I am successful—and I expect to be — in my title defence against Emile Griffith next Monday, then I will try for the light heavyweight title."

Will any of his three sons become fighters?

"I doubt it very much," he said. "Not that I wouldn't want them to fight. It's just that the kids are different today. Kids today like fancy clothes, good times and money in their pockets. None of them seems to want to work hard for anything anymore."

"Training is the toughest part of my work. You have to give up everything. The fight is the easiest part. It's one night and then it's all over."

For his defence against Griffith, the welterweight champion, at Madison Square Garden, Tiger has been guaranteed a minimum of $75,000. He has grossed about $300,000 in his career and has invested most of his share of the money.

He owns seven apartment houses and a recently completed 7,000-seat outdoor movie in Nigeria and travels in a chauffeured limousine to collect his rents.

Retain Imlach, Smythe

TORONTO (CP) — Stafford Smythe says he isn't interested in Punch Imlach's job as general manager of Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League.

"It's not worth mentioning," he said Tuesday. "It's asinine. I've said a million times. I'm not interested in the manager's job.

Smythe said that Imlach, who also serves as coach of the Leafs, will continue as general manager.

Imlach has another season to go on his contract and rumors here are that he may go to Los Angeles' new entry in the NHL in 1967.

Jack Kent Cooke, owner of the Los Angeles franchise, has denied meeting or talking about it with Imlach and Imlach simply refuses to comment on the subject.

Prentice, Bathgate Toast Of Detroit

"Biggest In Life" Prentice

DETROIT (CP)—Dean Prentice, the man who broke the backs of Chicago Black Hawks in the Stanley Cup semi-finals, once broke his own back playing against the Hawks.

Prentice scored the tying and winning goals late in the third period and set up his team's first goal by Andy Bathgate in the leading Detroit Red Wings to a 3-2 victory over Chicago Tuesday night.

"It was the biggest goal I have ever scored in my life," he said of his winning effort. "What made it more important was the fact that it puts me in the finals for the first time in my 14-year career. I don't have to tell you what a thrill it is."

Prentice broke the 12th vertebra of his spinal column when he played for Boston Bruins in a game in Chicago Dec. 27, 1964. He was cruising in on goal when Stan Mikita knocked him down from behind.

Awarded a penalty shot, Prentice got up and scored, then collapsed on the Boston bench. He spent the rest of the season in a body cast, unable to play.

The 33 - year - old native of Schumacher, Ont., spent his first 10 seasons in the National Hockey League with New York Rangers and late in his 11th season for Don Simmons. He went to Detroit in a six-player deal late in the current season.

Prentice got into the playoffs four times with the Rangers but never made it beyond the semi-finals. His two-goal performance Tuesday night matched his entire output of 15 playoffs games prior to this year.

By STERLING TAYLOR

DETROIT (CP) — After Detroit Red Wings won the National Hockey League championship and then lost the Stanley Cup semi-finals to Chicago Black Hawks last season, soon coach Sid Abel decided the club needed more scoring punch.

So Detroit picked up veterans Andy Bathgate and Dean Prentice.

Bathgate scored his fifth goal of the Stanley Cup semi-finals and Prentice scored his third and fourth—the tying goal and the winner—as the Wings defeated the Black Hawks 3-2 Tuesday night and moved into the final against Montreal Canadiens.

Phil Esposito and Pat Stapleton scored for Chicago.

Bathgate's and Prentice's combined goal total was one less than the 14 goals scored by the entire Chicago club before the Hawks were eliminated in the best-of-seven set.

The Wings move into Montreal for the opener of the best-of-seven final Sunday afternoon. The second game is scheduled for Montreal next Tuesday night and the series shifts back here for the third and fourth games Thursday and Sunday.

Bathgate, 34, the former New York Ranger star who went to Toronto Maple Leafs late in the 1963-64 season, was traded to Detroit after the 1964-65 campaign. He scored 11 goals for the Red Wings in the first 70 games and slumped to four in the final half of the regular schedule.

ALL ON POWER PLAY

All Bathgate's playoff goals came on the Detroit power play, which accounted for 10 goals in the six games against the Hawks.

Prentice played 50 games with Boston Bruins this season and scored seven goals before going to Detroit. In 19 regular-season games with the Red Wings the 33-year-old forward scored six.

Abel also got some unexpected mileage from Bryan Watson, a former utility man with Montreal. Watson, first given the assignment of shadowing Chicago scoring ace Bobby Hull in the second game of the series, kept the golden jet scoreless while he was on the ice.

Hull did get two goals, but Watson was on the bench in both cases.

In addition, Watson matched Hull's scoring output with two goals of his own.

In Tuesday's game, Hull got an assist—his second of the series—while Watson was on the bench.

Watson was given three minor penalties during the game and in all three cases he took Hull to the penalty box with him.

TO FIGHT BACK

"Bobby is a very strong guy," Watson said when asked if he had been afraid at any time while chasing Hull. "If he tackled me I'd fight right back. I want to win and if I have to show my first through a guy to do it, then that's what I'll do."

During the first five games of the series, both coaches indulged in a game of second guessing. Both swapped lines, made up new lines and switched players from forward to defence. Tuesday's game was no different.

Abel took Watson off Hull in the first period and used his regular three lines.

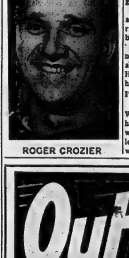
"If Bobby scored that would have been too bad, but the main thing was to get goals."

Once the Wings took a 1-0 lead, Abel reverted to his shadow game with Watson chasing Hull, but late in the contest, with the Hawks ahead 2-1, Abel again went on the offensive and finished the game with his regular lines.

The Wings went out to score early in Tuesday's game and Bathgate beat goaltender Glenn Hall at 2:31 with Chicago defencemen Pierre Pilote sitting out a minor penalty. Bathgate and team-mates Prentice and Norm Ullman were surrounding the Chicago net when the veteran right winger batted in a loose puck from the scramble.

Esposito tied the score in the second period, beating Detroit netminder Roger Crozier from in a scramble after the diminutive goalie failed to smother a rebound.

Stapleton's second goal of the series gave the Hawks a 2-1 lead. The defenceman's shot from 15 feet outside the Detroit blue line took a bad bounce and slipped under Crozier's arm.



Prentice scored his pair at 16:25 and 17:2[illegible] flight pe[illegible]riod, both goa[illegible]re Alex Delvecchio, 14-year veteran of the Detroit[illegible] dug the puck out of a scramble along the boards and fed it to Prentice who beat Hall from 10 feet out.

Sixty - three seconds later Delvecchio relayed defenceman Bill Gadsby's pass to Prentice, who went in alone to beat Hall. The Hawks applied tremendous pressure during the final two minutes; but Crozier shut the door.

In the last few seconds the Red Wings kept the puck in the Chicago end and ruined Hall's chances of leaving his nets in favor of a sixth attacker.

Second "Hickok" For Hull

NEW YORK (AP) — Bobby Hull, left winger with Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League, is repeat winner of the monthly poll for the Hickok professional Athlete-of-the-Year award.

Winner in February, Hull also won the March nomination by one point over Doug Sanders, the pro golfer. Hull got 170 points in the poll of sports writers and broadcasters.

It is the first time a hockey player has been nominated twice in a single year.

Blake Hones Habs For Cup Battles

Stiff Workouts

By AL McNEIL

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Canadiens are one step farther ahead today.

Until Detroit Red Wings beat Chicago Black Hawks 3-2 Tuesday night to win their best-of-seven Stanley Cup semi-final series 4-2, Canadiens had been forced to hide their time and prepare for an unknown opponent.

The Montrealers, this year's National Hockey League champions, advanced to the final round last Thursday when they eliminated Toronto Maple Leafs in four straight games.

Coach Toe Blake has confined workouts for his team to keep the fine edge his players achieved in their nine - game winning streak which also saw them win their last five season games.

Last year's Stanley Cup champions ran through another stiff workout Monday with Blake shaking up his lines and giving extra work to utility forwards Dave Balon, Orvin Cournoyer and Jim Roberts. He had the title working on the wings of his regular lines.

Henri Richard, sidelined by a knee injury when bodychecked by Toronto defenceman Larry Hillman in the second game of the semi-final round, was a regular shift and appeared ready for the Sunday afternoon opener here against the Wings.

The final series opener, which gets under way at 2:30 p.m. EST, will be televised throughout the United States over the National Broadcasting Co's facilities in color as well as the regular black-and-white Canadian Broadcasting Corporation coverage.

The Canadiens skated Tuesday, welders were busy installing larger and stronger benches to handle the heavier load of color cameras. The Forum ice took on a blue shape as painters worked to dull the normal glare from the ice surface for the color television presentation.

Detroit and Montreal last met in a Stanley Cup final in 1956 when Canadiens won the best-of-seven series four games to one and captured Detroit 5-4.

The same teams met in the final round in 1952, 1954 and 1955, when Detroit whipped all three. In 1952 the Wings blanked the Canadiens in four straight games, won 6-3 in 1954 and again 4-3 in 1955.

The last time the teams met in Stanley Cup play was in 1956 in the semi-final round, with Canadiens winning four straight games and outscoring Detroit 18-5.

Over the last season Montreal had a 7-4-3 record against Detroit.

Japanese Sweep Boston Classic

By MORRIS BROWN

BOSTON (CP)—Kenji Kimihara of Japan today won with a present for his new bride—the laurel wreath he won for finishing first in Tuesday's 70th running of the Boston marathon.

The Japanese took the first four places, followed by an American and Canadian Dave Ellis. Last year, the Japanese were 1-2-3-5-6.

Kimihara, 25, the steel mill clerk, ran the 26-mile, 385-yard course in two hours, 17 minutes and 11 seconds, well off last year's record time of 2:16:33 by Morio Shegematsu, also of Japan. Shigematsu did not qualify this year.

Kimihara, who finished eighth in the 1964 Olympics marathon and he didn't really watch the leaders, two other Japanese; "They fell back on me."

Seiichiro Sasaki, 30, a newcomer to marathon racing, was second in 2:17:24 and Toora Yamanishi, 24, third in 2:17:46 the Japanese team and pre-race favorite, was third in 2:17:46.

Norman Higgins of Santa Monica, Calif., overtook Ellis to finish fifth in 2:18:36.

ELLIS CHALLENGES

Ellis, 28, English-born Toronto resident who challenged the Japanese for more than half the race, finished sixth in 2:19:47.

Andy Bertelsen of Toronto finished 13th in 2:27:20; Ron Wallingford of Hamilton, Ont., was 16th in 2:30:06; Paul Heffman of Toronto was 19th in 2:32:27 and Trevor Frail of Toronto 34th in 2:33:52.

Ellis, running in his third Boston marathon, blamed lack of training time due to enlistment weather for stiffness in his legs.

Wallingford, 32, assistant professor of physical education at McMaster University, was still suffering from the after-effects of a bout of flu.

Among those cheering on the Canadian contestants was Gerard Cote of St. Hyacinthe, Que., the last Canadian to post a victory here. He turned the trick in 1942 for his fourth victory. The silver - haired Cote now is director of advertising for a weekly newspaper in St. Hyacinthe.

Riteways, Conquerors True Champs

When Belleville Riteways lost the grand - championship game of the Brampton Novice hockey tournament to Kitchener by a 5-3 overtime score, the local boys were travelling in pretty fast company.

According to a Kitchener paper, the Kitchener Krauts have compiled a tremendous record over the past two years, led by the boy who scored the tying and winning goals against Riteways.

Dave Wallace, the Kitchener captain, scored three goals in the final game, ten during the tournament and a grand total of 130 over the season.

The Kitchener story continues: "The game was by far the most thrilling in the seven - year history of the tournament. It attracted more than 1,500 fans.

"It was the final game of the season for the Krauts and they amazed one of the best seasons ever experienced by a KMHA team.

"All told, the Krauts played 110 games in the past two seasons, losing only nine. They won five tournaments this year and four last season."

Riteways came close to making it ten loses for the Kitchener team, erasing a 3-1 deficit with four unanswered goals in the second period to beat 5-3 with less than two minutes left in regulation time.

Kitchener had won the "A" crown with a 2-1 come-from-behind win over Winnipeg, then ousted the "C" champions from Milton 3-1. Riteways topped the favored Barrie squad 3-2 for the "B" title and whipped the "D" champs from Woodbridge 7-0. There were 50 teams in the tournament.

Completes Boston Course

First Gal Marathoner

BOSTON (AP) — A petite, blue-eyed blonde, who got lost trying to find the starting point, became the first female in the 70-year history of the Boston marathon to complete the 26-mile, 385-yard course Tuesday.

Mrs. Roberta Bingay, 23, of San Diego, Calif., was an illicit starter and finisher in the annual patriot's day run from Hopkington, Mass., to Boston. The Boston Athletic Association, which sponsors the race, does not accept women entries.

Mrs. Bingay, a bride of two months, arrived here by bus from San Diego Monday and spent the night with her parents. She got to the starting line just before the gun was fired at noon.

"I have never been over the course before," she said later. "I even got lost going to Hopkington. There I was, dressed in a black bathing suit, shorts and leather track shoes. Nobody gave me a number, because I wasn't supposed to be running, but at the same time the officials were very decent—they just ignored me."

Because Mrs. Bingay was not an official starter neither her time nor the order of her finish was recorded, but she crossed the finish after the field in a respectable three hours; 30 minutes.

She said she never had run competitively before, "but has been practicing cross-country running for about three years with her husband.

100 Hurt In Wild Fan Riot

LIVERPOOL, England (CP) Flying bottles, hurled by disillusioned fans after a goal had been disallowed, injured more than 100 persons during a fracas Tuesday night at Liverpool, leader of the English League's first division, defeated Glasgow Celtic 2-0 in the European Cup Winners Cup, and entered the final.

Eleven persons remained in hospital today, one with a fractured skull and broken legs.

The riot broke out 11 minutes from the end of the game when a Glasgow goal that would have tied the aggregate score was ruled offside. Glasgow won the first game in a series 1-0 in Scotland last week.

A hail of empty whisky and beer bottles rained down from the crowded stands and fires spilled onto the field to escape them.

Police said 21 persons were treated at hospitals and about a dozen were arrested.

'Jeep' Wagoneer competes in Canada's roughest rally

Starting April 30, the 'Jeep' rally team of Peter Lerch and Blair Bunch will drive this V-8 'Jeep' Wagoneer in the longest, toughest International Championship Rally held in Canada: the Shell 4000. It's 4000 miles of rugged driving, from Vancouver to Quebec City. It attracts some of the world's most experienced rally drivers.

Why is KAISER Jeep OF CANADA in this gruelling competition? To prove the toughness of 'Jeep' vehicles on some of Canada's worst roads. And to show that the 'Jeep' Wagoneer with 2-wheel drive and its big new V-8 engine compares with any car on the highway.

- Only the best made cars will finish this rugged course. Over 1500 miles of it runs on dirt roads. And the rules forbid any major repairs after the starting line-up in Banff. Last year only 27 out of 64 cars made it.

The 'Jeep' Wagoneer looks like a "natural" for this year's rally. Why not? Combining 'Jeep' toughness with station wagon utility, it was made for our rough and tumble driving and Canadian weather conditions! And it's good enough for this Shell 4000 . . . shouldn't you give it a test drive?

Four Hits, Third Homer

Willie Lowering Boom On "The Lip"

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Willie Mays is closing the gap on Mel Ott and lowering the boom on Leo Durocher.

Wondrous Willie crashed four hits—including his third home run of the season—as San Francisco Giants outlasted Durocher's Chicago Cubs' 11-10 Tuesday for their sixth victory in seven games.

The home-run 509th of Mays' 10-year career—left him three short of Ott, the late Giants slugger and National League record-holder. Mays, who batted 37 homers last year, should pass Ott, as well as Ted Williams, 521, and Jimmy Foxx, 534, this season. That would put him in the No. 2 spot on the all-time list behind Babe Ruth's 714 total.

All three of Willie's 1955 blasts have come off Chicago pitchers and two have helped beat Durocher, his former manager and biggest booster. The Cubs have dropped three of four to San Francisco and six of seven over-all.

Pittsburgh Pirates remained tied with the Giants for the National League lead by whipping Cincinnati Reds 7-3 for their fourth straight. Houston Astros knocked out Don Drysdale and whipped Los Angeles Dodgers 6-5; Atlanta Braves edged Philadelphia Phillies 4-3, and St. Louis Cardinals trimmed New York Mets 5-2.

The Giants paraded eight pitchers against the Cubs, tying a league record, before Bob Rolls got the last out with the bases loaded in the ninth.

Orlando Cepeda, Hal Lanier and Jim Hart also homered for the Giants. Three-run homers by rookies Randy Hundley and Byron Browne paced the losers.

The Pirates rocked Sammy Ellis and two successors for 17 hits. Don Cardwell fanned the way with four singles. Winner was Vince Blaza, seven-hitter, who allowed seven. Cincinnati hits, including rookie Tommy Helms' first major league homer.

Drysdale, making his second start for the Dodgers, departed in the middle of Houston's four-run fifth inning uprising that erased a 5-2 Los Angeles lead. Jim Wynn spoiled the pitcher's bid with a two-run homer off reliever Bob Miller in the eighth.

Atlanta starter Wade Blasingame bested a two-run rally in the third inning with a bent single and reliever Clay Carroll checked Philadelphia on one hit over the last five innings.

Tim McCarver's bases-loaded triple in a four-run fifth inning shot the Cardinals past the Mets as rookie Larry Jaster outpitched New York's Jack Fisher, who has lost 19 straight.

Tigers Split

Unbeaten Tribe Scalps Yankees 3-1

By MURRAY CHASE
Associated Press Sports Writer

Tommie Agee, making his fifth attempt at gaining a permanent spot in the majors, hit a home run and ignited the winning rally with a single Tuesday night as Chicago White Sox defeated California 3-1 and spoiled the Anaheim debut of the Angels.

The 23-year-old centre fielder, who managed only one big-league homer—in his first 10 at bats of the season, now has three hits in seven trips.

In other American League games, Cleveland Indians defeated New York Yankees 2-1, Boston Red Sox downed Detroit Tigers 7-0 before losing 6-4, Baltimore Orioles outslugged Washington Senators 14-8 and Kansas City Athletics edged Minnesota Twins 3-2.

Agee's sixth - inning homer was only the second hit off Angel starter Marcelino Lopez. It brought the White Sox even with the Angels, who had a second-inning homer from Rick Reichardt. Then in the eighth Agee singled, went to second on Reichardt's error and raced home with the winning run as Don Buford singled.

Fred Whitfield's three - run homer in the fourth gave Sam McDowell all the help he needed against New York. The Cleveland left-hander scattered seven hits and struck out 12 in winning his second game.

Boston finally won a game in the spooner of the doubleheader. The Red Sox, who had lost their first five games, got a two-run single from Bob Tillman and Ted Vastrezmski and George Scott.

In the second game, Detroit's Denny McLain held the Red Sox hitless for 2 2-3 innings and drove in two runs in the fifth with a single.

Frank Robinson collected three hits, including a two-run homer, as Brooks Robinson drove in three runs with two singles in Baltimore's victory. Gus Triandos added four RBI's three on an eighth - inning homer.

Rookie Chuck Dobson and Lew Krause stopped Minnesota on six hits while Kansas City took advantage of two dropped fly balls by right fielder Tony Oliva for unearned runs against Camilo Pascual.

Cooper Plans Strategy

LONDON (AP) — "I don't make predictions, but I'll go in there and try to end it fast," Henry Cooper, British heavyweight champion, said Tuesday.

Cooper was talking about his title fight with champion Cassius Clay in London May 21.

"Clay is a fast mover with a long reach," Cooper said. "My job will be to try and get inside and catch him with my short left hook."

Cooper demonstrated the effectiveness of that punch to Clay during their previous fight in London June 18, 1963.

The Briton dumped Clay in the fourth round of that scheduled 10-rounder.

Clay came back and cut Cooper so badly about the eyes in the next round that the referee stopped it and awarded the fight to Clay.

Fish and Game Enjoy "Lifting" Demonstration

The hockey game last night took some toll of the attendance of the Fish and Game Club.

President Fred Fisher chaired the meeting while director George Woodhouse in charge of "Operation Greenhead" gave a report on banded ducks.

Ducks banded in the club's operation have been shot in the faraway places. Some have been brought down in St. John's, Quebec.

Three fine fishing films were shown as was a tackle display.

Belleville Apollo Barbell Club's All-Canada coach Ken Carr-Brant had his Canadian weightlifting champions put on a finished display.

It was a good demonstration of three Olympic lifts, press, clean and jerk and [illegible]. Price Morris, [illegible] heavyweight champion, did the clean and jerk [illegible] below his best.

Also taking part in the demonstration were Bill Hayes, 132 pounds; Art. Wall, 148; Paul Barrett, 148; Bob Wall, 165; Steve Reynolds, 165 pounds.

The "lifters" received a fine ovation at the conclusion of their presentation.

The club is holding a "work bee" at its new Thurlow Township Conservation area on Saturday. Every member available is asked to turn out.

Details of the new conservation area will be published in George Carver's sports column tomorrow.

Chair Faulkner, Belleville, won the main award, a rubber raft.

Will Miss Run For The Roses

FORT ERIE, Ont. (CP)—Tilled Hero, Canadian two-year-old champion in 1965, will miss the May 7 running of the Kentucky Derby because he hasn't fully recovered from a virus caught at Toronto's Woodbine racetrack.

Owner Petar Marshall and trainer Pat MacMurchy said Tuesday, Tilled Hero's "blood count is still down."

The black colt has yet to run this year. Because of this inactivity, it was decided not to run him in the derby, first of the U.S. triple crown races which include the Belmont and Preakness.

Veterinarian dr. George Bedame said the colt is being groomed for the Queen's Plate in June.

Jose Iturbi Turning 70 Far From His Sunset

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Jose Iturbi's reflections at 70:

"How do I feel? No different. I'll be like looking at the sun. You see it in the sky, and it does not appear to be moving. But when if you go away and come back to look at it, you can see that it has moved. And then the sun sets, and you know for sure that it has moved."

Iturbi at 70 is far from the sunset of his years. Despite a flu attack that had prompted him to cancel several concerts, the pianist-conductor appeared for an interview in his Beverly Hills home with his usual vigor.

"It was rough, a very bad flu," he said. "But every day I am getting stronger and I am able to do more. Once more I am beginning to exercise, and that is important in my work.

"Physical condition means a great deal in piano playing; as much of it is muscular. That's why I have always prided myself in remaining in top shape."

STRENGTHENS POSITION

Such a philosophy has strengthened his position as one of the top attractions of the concert world for more than 40 years. His achievements will be saluted next month by a 70th birthday concert with the Los Angeles Music Festival.

In addition, Iturbi will be displaying his muscular style at the keyboard and on the podium in concert halls all over the world.

"I am a great believer in air travel," he remarked. "I have piloted my own plane, and I like nothing better than to be setting out in a jet for a far-off concert. My family, whom I love, is now 8½ years old, and he has accompanied me on 42 trips across the Atlantic, not to mention flights to South Africa, South America and wherever."

Both he and his dog have slowed down their pace. he admitted. From a one-time high of 132 concerts in one year, the Spanish - born musician has dropped to 30-40, and that's the way he would like to keep his schedule.

"I would like now to enjoy my home," said Iturbi, who for 20 years has lived in a Spanish-style house. "One year I was home only five days—five days! It was madness."

His life at home, as on the road, permits little leisure. His passion for condition dictates a rigorous schedule of exercise, particularly at the punching bag. Piano practice is a never-ending discipline.

"I work on technique for an hour and a half—two hours," he said. "Then I take up the work that is current. That can mean two-three hours — whatever is required." He is constantly adding new works to his repertoire.

"The Spy From The Cold"

"The Spy Who Came In From The Cold," a stunning new espionage thriller which combines contemporary drama, classical style and the talents of some of the world's top creative artists, opens today at the Belle Theatre.

Produced and directed by Martin Ritt for Paramount Pictures, the powerful film co-stars Richard Burton, Claire Bloom, and Oskar Werner. Based on the best-selling novel by John le Carre that was a literary sensation, the drama has become a gritty, intense screen portrait of the chilling hell that exists in a carefully planned duel between East and West.

At a time when the "spy craze," with its super-heroes and incredible villains, has wrung every last drop of wonder from its overworked plot, no matter how strange a place is, it loses its strangeness when lived in long enough — "The Spy Who Came In From The Cold" takes the spotlight with a fresh approach.

A low-style story exceedingly well done would seem to be enough of a challenge, but "The Spy" is good, not just because of freshness, but because it meets pretty hours — whatever is required." He is constantly adding new works to his repertoire.

"The Spy Who Came In From The Cold," with a color cartoon and a short subject, opens today at 2:00; 7:00 and 9:10 commencing today, at the Belle Theatre in Belleville.

Julie Christie Plays "Fabulous" Role in Texas "Darling"

A most unlikely candidate for motion picture stardom is a completely off-beat, kooky kind of girl who is anything but the film star "type" — is Julie Christie, a remarkable, young girl who plagued one of the longest, most demanding screen roles ever written for an actress.

The fabulous part is the starring role in Joseph E. Levine's newest Romulus feature release, "Darling," which opens at the Park Theatre. In this film, critics of life and loves among today's international "jet-set." Miss Christie portrays a moody, beautiful model who wants a great deal out of life, but seems always to wind up with the wrong things. Her co-stars are Dirk Bogarde and Laurence Harvey, and her director is John Schlesinger, the talented new English director. What girl could ask for anything more?

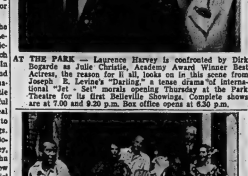
IN 'BELLY LIAR'

Schlesinger, who directed Julie in "Billy Liar," a major success for both of them, personally chose her for the meaty part in "Darling." He has explained his choice by stating, "I don't know any other film actress today who has anything like her qualities. Her face is a wonderful mirror. She reacts to everything. She's got more than any other actress I've seen in years."

And co-star Dirk Bogarde, has remarked, "When you play a scene with her it is everything acting should be. She's so different that it's sometimes difficult to imagine her being accepted as an actress, let alone a star."

This is the girl that is the subject of so many glowing adjectives and accolades? She is the Cockney-born girl with straight blonde hair, blue eyes and wears the ultra-short "mini" clothes of today's young.

The daughter of a tea planter in India! Julie was sent to England to school, and got her early drama training at the Central School of Speech Training Dramatic Art. After that, she refused her parent's help, and existed, basically, on her own resources. She was always confident she'd make out alright, which she managed to do in record time with a career that has blossomed with remarkable speed and ease.



Thus, unlikely as it one day seemed to many people, this truly individual girl has made it in London, proving the strength of her talent and personal appeal alone. She may not be the usual type of starlet of stardom, but she is dedicated to the business of acting with unlimited enthusiasm.

"Darling," written by Frederic Raphael, also features Jose Ferrer, Roland Culver and Curran and Helen Lindsay.

Complete shows are at 7.00 and 9.20 p.m. Doors open 6.30 p.m.

AT THE PARK — Laurence Harvey is confronted by Dirk Bogarde as Julie Christie, Academy Award Winner Best Actress, the reason for it all, looks on in this scene from Joseph E. Producers Saving Money By Viewing Pilot Films

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—It may save money for the producers, it may postpone summer reruns for a week. But there is a question about whether it really is wise to broadcast pilot shows that were made only to convince network executives and advertising agencies that they should buy the series.

One of those samples, Assault, was shown Tuesday night during the hour that ABC normally devotes to Combat. It was hard to tell the difference between the established show and the pilot film. Combat tells about the U.S. infantry's bitter battle across France two decades ago. Assault proposed to tell the same story about U.S. marines in the South Pacific.

It did not find a sponsor, however, and it is hard to understand why. It had everything that Combat has, including pretty much the same script. All that was necessary was to substitute Japanese for Germans and add a bit of fake Hollywood to the Hollywood's backlot underbrush to simulate tropical jungle — and hold the for final shootout on a beach instead of around a French cathedral.

The hour-long demonstration show came to a climax at the end of the first half and then went on with what was really a second episode. This apparently was done to show potential buyers that the show could be developed into half-hour or hour-long versions, but it was confusing to the viewer.

The president of NBC news, William Bradford, Tuesday offered both ABC and CBS the opportunity to broadcast its special program, Lyndon Johnson's Texas. The NBC special with the president acting as guide part of the time, is scheduled for NBC broadcast May 8. McAndrew said the other networks may broadcast the show simultaneously or at a later time.

It was a journalistic scoop for NBC, similar to the time CBS had Mrs. John F. Kennedy lead a television tour of the White House. Both NBC and ABC carried the program.

A WEAKNESS FOR BOTTLES — John M. (Jack) Gordon, 65, holds one of the prizes of his collection of about 1,500 bottles. He's been collecting them for 20 years. (CP Photo)

Ottawa Man Collects Bottles, Has 1,5000 in Assorted Sizes

OTTAWA (CP)—He is a self-confessed, longtime friend of the bottle, but enjoys "an occasional drink only."

John M. (Jack) Gordon collects bottles.

An estimated 1,500 of them, empty but in all shapes, sizes and colors, line the wall of his den and are stacked up ceiling-high in his basement.

They are the product of a 20-year hobby.

"It started with a few old bottles my mother gave me, and it just grew."

He guesses it might cost him $600 to replace the lot — if it's the last thing on his mind.

"I'd get to like them. I would even hate to part with my duplicates."

Jack Gordon's bottles are a far cry from the glass containers people handle daily at home, in the drug store and on Saturday nights.

To him these latter-day creations of the machine, produced in million - series, are hardly worth their nickel or two cents.

His bottles, he says while his eyes wander over a particularly voluptuous one, are works of art.

They are beautifully handblown with delicate hues of green, blue, aqua, amber and dark.

All but a few were made before 1905—the year the bottle industry adopted one of the world's oldest crafts.

They were blown into a shaped mould and the lip of the bottle was later formed and added by hand.

That's how one can separate them from the machine-made bottles. With these the seam passes through the lip, and if that doesn't betray them, the bubbles in the glass would, he scoffs.

Born 65 years ago in Cardigan, Ont., Mr. Gordon devotes most of his time to his bottle collection since he retired in 1964 as a senior clerk reader with an Ottawa newspaper.

He came to the capital in 1927 from Balgonie, Sask., where as taught school. His wife, the former Robyna McKenzie of Staughton, Sask., "isn't too interested in my hobby but she's pretty good about it."

Several of his bottles are worth $250 or more. The majority would go around $10 a piece.

"Some of them I found after years of searching: Demand has skyrocketed in recent years and the supply is drying up."

Most old bottles found in Canada were made in the United States. In olden days Canada had only four glass houses.

The products of the oldest, at Mallory, Ont., are so rare now that even a broken piece is a prize to the collector. The other houses were in Montreal, Hamilton and Napanee, Ont.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Excellent for, getting around, meeting people. There is nothing halfway. Discoveries featured. You are drawn in more in a one direction. Seek the new instead of the old.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): Aggressive friends may attempt to spur you toward c e r t a i n course. Listen with appreciation . . . but make your own ultimate decisions. Conditions at home serve as guide actions.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Be sure of plans, especially involving travel. If journey is not a necessity . . . better to postpone it. Fine for reflection . . . not so good for direct action. You have duties close at hand.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Stress on questions involving partnership, investment. Permit others to show their hand . . . then react in mature manner. Some concessions may be necessary if you gain solid footing.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Controversy may arise. Don't permit impulses to dom i n a t e. Take initiative . . . but remember promises, responsibilities. Friction occurs if you are n o t considerate. Hold back on decisions.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Romantic atmosphere marred if you insist on change. Best to apply light touch. Investigate before acting, don't argue with one who loves you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Express willingness to listen to avoid needless dispute.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Gossip could create confusion. See clearly — not through kaleidoscope of emotions. Friends may make unusual requests. Consider carefully. Be charitable.

U.S. Pacifists Put on Plane For Hong Kong

From AP-Reuters

SAIGON (CP) — The peace visit of six American pacifists to South Viet Nam came to a tumultuous end today when they were jailed kicking and protesting onto a plane for Hong Kong after police battled their march on the U.S. embassy.

In a final defiant gesture, the Americans scattered anti - war pamphlets that fluttered across the runway of Saigon's Tan Son Nhut Airport as police hauled them up the ramp of the Pan American jetliner.

Newspaper men were prevented from making contact with the pacifists and were barred from entering the airport, but a group of anti-Communist demonstrators were allowed to pelice inside the passenger terminal.

Some photographers who attempted to reach the plane by joining the line of passengers were stopped at gunpoint by police.

A Colombia Broadcasting System cameraman, Carl Rowan, of Reno, Nev., from Copenhagen, was jumped on and knocked down by six policemen as he continued to take pictures.

At least two cameras were pulled, but were later returned without the films.

STOP EMBASSY VIGIL

Five of the pacifists, led by a veteran peace crusader, Rev. A. J. Muste, 81, of New York, were brought to the airplie in a police van five hours earlier after police prevented their staging a one-hour anti - war vigil at the embassy.

Carrying placards and pamphlets, the Presbyterian minister and four other members of the U.S. Committee for Non-Violent Action tried to march in blocks through the streets of Saigon at 7 a.m. Around the embassy they broke away and ran into the line of policemen.

The pacifists slumped to the sidewalk. When police tried to get into the van, Bradford Lyttle, 26, of Voluntown, Conn., protested: "We five Americans want to go to the American embassy in Saigon. That is perfectly peaceful."

The police carried Mr. Muste, Lyttle, Robert David Martin, 30, a physics professor at Haverford (Pa.) College, and Barbara Dempsie, 24, of Wellfleet, Mass., to the van.

The fifth demonstrator, Charles Walker, 27, of Greenwich, Conn., walked of her own accord.

The sixth member of the group, Karl Meyer, 28, of Chicago, associate editor of the Catholic Worker, a pacifist publication, did not take part in the march but was spotted about two hours later 100 yards from the embassy. When he refused to walk to a police jeep, police grabbed him by the arms, put him into the vehicle and drove him to the airport.

Integration Works Well Legion Told

By FRED HAMILTON

MONTREAL (CP) — Armed forces integration is working well, the national convention of the Royal Canadian Legion was told Wednesday.

The first phase, headquarters reorganization, is almost complete, and the second phase, integrating of commands, is progressing satisfactorily, said Vice-Admiral K. L. Dyer, chief of personnel at Armed Forces Headquarters, Ottawa.

Canada has a clearly stated series of commitments for its forces, and a program has been started to "re-establish a proper balance between support costs and the procurement of new equipment," he said.

"To support these activities in an efficient and economical fashion, Canada will have reorganized, centrally managed, mission - oriented headquarters, commands and formations, integrated between the services as needed."

There was a continuing need for a steady intake of recruits. The forces require 111,000 men, and service strength now is about 4,000 below that level.

PREDICTS CLIMB

"It will not be long before the trend reverses and we start to build back to our required continuing strength ceiling of about 111,000 men," he said.

Admiral Dyer's speech was a break in what had been a long, monotonous day of arguing over committee reports and resolutions for the more than 1,000 convention delegates from across the country.

Delegates voted to increase the annual per capita tax charged each branch for Dominion Command support by 20 cents to $2.40. The increase becomes effective Jan. 1, 1967.

Legion branches are to have the discretionary right to use not more than 10 per cent of the money raised through future distribution of poppies for the relief of ex-servicemen in other countries.

A resolution that was first deferred and then carried without opposition said the money will be used to assist the British Commonwealth Ex-Service League welfare fund, established to help needy veterans and their dependents anywhere in the Commonwealth. Only

Liberals Expected To Win

By PAUL DUNN

OTTAWA (CP)—Despite Opposition criticism of Finance Minister Sharp's budget, the government is expected to defeat a Conservative non-confidence motion tonight in the Commons.

The motion castigates the government for having "failed to deal constructively and effectively with the major national problems." A vote is scheduled for 9:45 p.m. EST.

The Commons enters its fourth day of budget debate today.

The government already has survived one confidence test on an NDP motion. The Social Credit party is on record as opposing any motion that could force another election.

But Social Credit Leader Robert Thompson thumped Finance Minister Sharp Wednesday for "stepping on the brake" in the midst of the steering wheel."

'TACKLE WRONG END'

Eight Nielsen (PC — Yukon) said the budget "tackled inflation at the wrong end." It was resting down demand instead of helping production. Canadians were being "penalized in an era of plenty because the government has no confidence in the capacity of the economy to produce enough to meet demand."

Mr. Thompson said the cure for inflation "has not been made." Mr. Sharp's budget would have redirected Canadian capital into development of Canadian resources.

Borrowing in the U.S. by Canadian business in January and February had been 11 times higher than for the same period in 1965, while personal savings by Canadians had jumped $900,000,000 over the same period.

"I think an increase in productive capacity of 50 per cent in the next couple of years can be achieved without any difficulty, at all."

Tom Banford (L—Vancouver-Burrard) proposed a "comprehensive study and tax legislation equipment and facilities in the four western provinces.

He did not want "another full - dress royal commission" but a study by economists and market analysts. He also called for increased two - way trade with Japan and Southeast Asia generally.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: The cold air which has been making its way slowly eastward toward the Great Lakes will extend across the province today. Rain and snow will taper off in the north and scattered showers are likely throughout the south. Partly cloudy cooler conditions are expected for Friday.

AGREES TO MEETING — CBC President J. Alphonse Ouimet last night averted a possible walkout of TV producers by agreeing to meet them next Wednesday to discuss the dismissal of the hosts of the program "Seven Days."

Ouimet Agrees to Discuss 'Seven Days' With Producers

TORONTO (CP)—CBC President J. Alphonse Ouimet poured oil on the troubled waters of the corporation Wednesday night and averted a possible walkout of television producers following the dismissal of the hosts of a This Hour Has Seven Days.

In a telegram to Tom Koch, president of the Toronto Producers' Association, Mr. Ouimet agreed to meet producers in Toronto next week. Mr. Koch and other association executive members will also meet in Ottawa today with Guy Coderre, CBC vice-president of administration, and Robert McGall, assistant general manager for the English network.

The Commons standing committee on broadcasting will start hearings in Ottawa today on the situation in the Crown corporation.

Mr. Ouimet's telegram to Mr. Koch asserted a threatened walkout by 70 members of the producers' association and by producers in Ottawa, Winnipeg and Vancouver was not part the Toronto group.

In a further development, a CBC spokesman in Halifax said Reeves Haggan, supervisor of English-language public affairs programs, would meet with directors there Friday.

The storm originally blew up last Friday after it was learned Patrick Watson and Laurier LaPierre, co-hosts of Seven Days, a controversial public affairs program, were being dismissed.

What upset the producers was that the pair apparently had been fired by top management without consulting Mr. Haggan or Douglas Leiterman, who, as executive producer, is directly responsible for the show. It will appear twice more before the end of the season.

Mr. Ouimet has said the program will return under the same name in the fall but without Mr. Watson and Mr. LaPierre.

The CBC president's telegram to Mr. Koch said the CBC board "is actively considering the whole question and is studying your objections. . . ."

The Toronto Producers' Association will hold a general meeting tonight.

Firmer Control Is Asked

TORONTO (CP)—A Liberal member of the legislature Wednesday predicted socialization of the auto insurance industry if the government does not take steps for firmer control.

Vernon Singer (L — Downsview), said the Conservative government's failure to control the industry could lead to such a crisis in the near future.

Also in the house:

—Labor Minister Leslie Rowntree offered to conduct a government - supervised vote of striking Teamsters' Union members, if the union and the trucking industry request it.

—Attorney - General Arthur Wishart said that liquor, not a mysterious religious cult, was responsible for the deaths of 15 Indians hit by trains in the Kenora district since 1960.

—Fern Guindon (PC — Stormont) labelled opposition members of the legislature "filibustering cry - babies. He said the public is aware the opposition is "filibustering the business of this house."

Major Raid Is Aimed at Road South

From Reuters-AP

SAIGON (CP —U.S. bombers Wednesday launched a major attack on a large military installation in North Viet Nam, destroying 100 buildings and a communications centre, a U.S. spokesman announced today.

The installation was situated in jungle - covered mountains about 180 miles west of Hanoi and only a few miles from the Laos border.

One of the pilots who took part in the raid said the whole area was on fire after U.S. Air Force Thunderchiefs hit it with bombs and rockets.

The raid was seen by observers here as a continuation of the stepped - up pressure on North Viet Nam by American planes which started nine days ago.

In those nine days, U.S. aircraft have attacked to within a few miles of the two major cities of North Viet Nam, Hanoi and Haiphong, hitting missile sites and [illegible] principal

Air Force jets renewed attacks Saturday on the approach to North Viet Nam's strategic Mu Gia Pass after thousands of Vietnamese workers reopened the landslide-clogged tunnel to the Ho Chi Minh Trail, a U.S. spokesman said.

Says Brady Told of Murders

CHESTER, England (AP) — The leading witness for the prosecution in the moors murders trial testified today one of the defendants told him that he had killed three or four persons.

David Smith, 18, testified for the Crown in the trial of Ian Brady, 28, and his 23-year-old mistress, Myra Hindley, on charges of murder in sadistic sex slayings.

Brady and Hindley have pleaded not guilty to three murders.

Smith, the husband of Miss Hindley's sister, Maureen, testified Brady boasted of the murders during a wine-drinking session in his house.

Smith said Brady told him his victims were 10 to 12 years of age and added:

"He went on to say that he went out on the Moors and picked a spot, waited in the car until somebody came along and then shot them and did it.

'TOOK THEM HOME'

Asked whether Brady had never said what happened to the victims, Smith replied:

"He said they were buried on the moors."

Smith quoted Brady as telling him last October during a drinking session:

"I have killed three or four. I will do another but I am not ready for one for another three months but it will be done and it won't count."

Smith testified that Brady had mentioned that he had photographic proof of his killings.

Emotions ran high in this ancient Roman-walled city as the trial drew to its third day.

Smith told the court Brady introduced him to the works of the Marquis de Sade and had read to him from the books. Prosecuting Attorney William Mars-Jones read lengthy passages of de Sade to the court:

Suspend BOAC Toronto Flight Owing to Cracks in Boeings

LONDON (AP) — British Overseas Airways Corp. suspended four more of its long distance flights today because of suspected hairline cracks in its fleet of Boeing 707 jet liners.

The cracks in the tail assemblies were spotted last week and a full inspection of BOAC's fleet of 19 707s was ordered. Thirteen were cleared and six were grounded.

Flights from Toronto, New York and Hong Kong were withdrawn together with a flight from London Airport to the United States.

BOAC said engineers were hard at work repairing the damaged liners. They hope to have at least the six grounded planes airborne by Saturday and Sunday. The remaining four will be returned again by the end of the month, the airline said.

In Washington, the U.S. Federal Aviation Agency said some older 707 and 720 jet airliners may be grounded temporarily because of the U.S. government order for inspection of 190 of the planes for possible cracks in their tail fittings.

The FAA issued the inspection order Wednesday after finding hairline cracks in the tail fittings of 22 of 62 planes already examined. The planes inspected are older models of the four-engine 707-720 series, with more than 12,000 flying hours.

The FAA order calls for inspections within 30 hours of Wednesday's order after April 15. Planes with cracks must have the part repaired or replaced before being returned to service.

The Boeing Co. in Seattle said no shortage of spare parts was expected and "the spares have been going out within hours of request."

Hoffa Intervenes Seeking Resumed Talks on Strike

DETROIT (CP) — James R. Hoffa, president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters (Ind.), intervened in Ontario's 13 - week - old trucking strike Wednesday and paved the way for possible resumption of negotiations.

Mr. Hoffa met separately with representatives of the 55 Ontario trucking companies affected by the strike and with representatives of the five striking teamster locals.

I. M. Dodds, Canadian director of the Teamsters, said following the meetings he is confident there will be an early resumption of talks.

Teamster members had earlier rejected a settlement proposal backed by their negotiating committee to end the strike that started in mid-January.

The union is demanding increased pay and shorter working hours.

Representatives of shippers who use transport facilities met with Ontario Labor Minister Leslie Rowntree in Toronto Wednesday to discuss the strike and its effects.

Reports by B-and-B Inquiry Expected to Begin This Fall

OTTAWA (CP)—Every week, a small group of men and women from across the country meets to discuss the future of Canada. The group is compiling and analyzing mass of facts and figures about Canadians never published before.

A report suggesting ways of reducing language and ethnic tensions is scheduled for the fall.

The group—10 members of the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism and their research assistants — shocked many Canadians a year ago with a preliminary report paying confederation was experiencing its greatest crisis.

The current goal is to propose solutions to this so-called crisis in series of reports to the government, beginning some time in next fall, reliable informants say.

The first report will outline the commission's major conclusions and recommendations. These will deal with bilingualism in the public service, compulsory teaching of second language in public schools, minority rights and cultural affairs generally.

Subsequent reports will contain detailed findings and more specific recommendations relating to various aspects of cultural relations.

The "B-B" inquiry has turned out to be longer, costlier, more controversial and more complex than anyone connected with it imagined at first. The cost likely will exceed $5,000,000.

An informant said some commissioners would not have accepted their appointments July 19, 1963, had they known how

Robt. Horwood Recommended As Inspector

Subject to confirmation from the Ontario Minister of Education, Mr. Robert Horwood, now serving as principal at Avonmore and St. MacKenzie Bowell Public Schools, will be named as an additional public school inspector in Belleville.

The city public school board this week recommended the appointment of Mr. Horwood to the position and subject to confirmation by the minister will commence his new duties on September 1st.

Routine business occupied most of the time at this week's board meeting. Resignations were received from 15 teachers, most of whom have accepted positions in other Ontario centres while probationary contracts were approved for three teachers.

TEACHER'S SOUGHT

Belleville schools are still looking for numerous teachers to fill vacancies, particularly in the special departments.

Head of the school system's home economics teachers have tendered resignations and are moving to other locations. The school program also requires special teachers for slow learning children in the primary, junior and intermediate divisions for the speech correction program

Local principal, Leo McQuaid, has been named to the Research of the Ontario Educational Association. He has served actively on the elementary school department of the association as a member of the executive committee and later as vice-president and president. He will retain office this year in the elementary department as vice-president.

RATES INCREASED

Total enrolment was shown to be 5,064 recorded March 31, 3,027 for the same month in the previous year.

Two new maintenance staff employees were reported by the Administrative Assistant, J. L. Anderson.

The Board was advised that Mr. Anderson, at the request of the Association of School Business Officials, served as a member of an advisory panel at the Easter Convention of the Ontario School Trustees and Ratepayers' Association.

Acting on statistics supplied by the Superintendent, rates for non-resident children, children, except as may be indicated in the regular rate for Kindergarten children.

First approvals of the Provincial Government Department regarding the safety and health provisions for School No. 15 in West Belleville have been received and the School Board is now awaiting final plans and specifications from Architects Watson & Wright.

In response to a letter from His Worship Mayor J. R. Ellis, the Board named the Superintendent of Schools as representative for the Centennial Celebrations Committee. Local principals will be asked to submit ideas for recognition of Canada's Centennial in city public schools.

Michael Starr Speaks Liberal Govt. Disorganized And Lacking in Leadership

The Liberal government at Ottawa is disorganized and sadly lacks the right kind of leadership.

This was stated last night in Belleville by Hon. Michael Starr former minister of labor in the Diefenbaker government, as he spoke to about 300 South Hastings Conservatives attending a birthday party in honor of South Hastings member Lee Grills.

Mr. Starr said the Liberal Prime Minister Michael Pearson had failed dismally in attaining leadership.

Parliament looks to the prime minister for leadership, which in the case of the Liberal government has not been forthcoming," he said.

But despite the lack of leadership and claims of obstruction on the part of the opposition, the former labor minister said the present session of parliament has accomplished considerable.

TOO MUCH TALK

Referring to news media reports of too much talk and little action in the House of Commons Mr. Starr said Parliament was not as bad as it seems.

Despite time out for discussion on the Spencer spy case and the Munsinger security affair, Mr. Starr said all standing committees had been put up and a total of 18 resolutions and other bills passed.

The whole purpose of parliament was to pass supply and to scrutinize expenditures. Mr. Starr said this had not been done. There were 15 pieces of legislature yet to come before the house and the government was accused of not having brought forward anything of any great importance since parliament met.

Mr. Starr listed three important main matters which parliament has to deal with.

SHOULD GET RELIEF

One of these matters was taxation which at all levels of government kept rising and rising.

The Progressive Conservative government had encouraged home ownership but this is now being discouraged through high taxation. Homeowners should be given some relief by allowing deduction of municipal taxes for income tax purposes, it was stated.

Mr. Starr said the government also had to deal with the soaring cost of living which was causing extreme hardship on pensioners and other persons with fixed incomes.

The government was also to do something about Canada's trade imbalance, according to Mr. Starr.

"We (the Conservative government) left a favorable trade balance. We had a bad year the years it has gone the other way," he said.

PAYS TRIBUTE

In tribute to the 81-a ting South Hastings Mr. Starr said that Mr. Grills was held in high regard at Ottawa. He described Mr. Grills as a conscientious member who looks after the interests of his riding."

He said that Lee had the personality required of a successful politician. He warned that winning elections was a cooperative effort on the part of the candidate — and the party workers.

"The candidate can't do it alone," Mr. Starr said.

Hon. Michael Starr M.P. for Ontario Riding, was guest speaker at birthday party for Lee Grills, M.P. for Hastings South.

CP Locomotive Leaves Tracks

A Canadian Pacific Railway locomotive left the tracks yesterday afternoon near the freight office on George St. A CP police spokesman said this morning that the incident was not serious.

A crew was busy yesterday making preparations to return the locomotive to the tracks. The work continued today.

Careless Driving Charge Cost Driver $50

Marvin Clayton Reide, R. R. 1, Foxboro, was fined $50 and costs by Magistrate F. J. Wills today on a charge of careless driving.

Police testified that Reide was seen April 13, shortly after 3 p.m. driving north through Foxboro. A P.P.C. constable said he was in a Foxboro store when he saw a loud wrecking truck pass. He left the store and car proceeding north at a high rate of speed. The truck and others was a another loud screech.

A few minutes later the car came back south again and three to five minutes after that the truck went south, apparently the same pattern of periodically screeching.

Reide, a car salesman, said a potential car buyer complained about the car's poor shift and he was trying it out.

Magistrate Wills reprimanded O.P.P. for not having the wrecking record in court. "I presumed over a county court near Kingston yesterday and I very interested to find that every provincial constable had the second driver's record with him and brought it out as evidence."

The magistrate said it is impossible to weigh all the evidence properly without this record.

"There is no driving record before me here and I'm not going to bring this man back again while you obtain it."

Would Abandon 'Walkways' in Official Plan

TRENTON — At a public meeting in the town hall at Trenton Tuesday night, planning officers of Trenton explained proposed changes in Trenton's official plan and zoning by-laws. At the open meeting were Mrs. Wayne Simmons, chairman of the Trenton and Township Planning Board, and board members Dr. W. A. L. Thompson (past chairman) and Daniel Senik.

Around 15 changes in the plan are advocated. These are minor in one sense, but significant in others. When the town planners speak of "walkways" the official plan allowance had been made (particularly in new areas of Trenton) for "walkways," through various areas. These are in effect 20-foot open spaces which would wind from street to street. The proposal now is to do away with these as being impractical, hard to maintain and cutting into land which might be used for residential, commercial or industrial purposes.

A proposal that two acres at the north end of Charles Street park be set apart was also deemed impractical and the land will probably revert to residential category.

A two - acre commercial area in the new land assembly in the Reid Street area was "pinpointed" by the planners to be in the vicinity of the V. P. Carswell Elementary School. Shops in this area will serve accordingly a planned 400 homes in the land assembly.

EARLE PARK

Square Dance Caller Will Visit District

Earle Park one of Canada's foremost square dance callers is being featured at 6RD Recreation Centre during his current tour in the east.

With 16 years experience in this activity, Earle is the first one to advertise a balance with other community activities. He once stated that if as a leader of dancers, you here become so engrossed to the extent that all you do is square dance, if you cannot balance your socializing in other forms of recreation, you cannot really expect the square dance hobbiest to join you in square dancing. A proper balance in your life makes it more rewarding and complete. This is the kind of philosophy one would expect from Canada's greatest square dance caller.

It was "Lee Grills Night" last evening in Belleville.

Honoring the four times Progressive Conservative winner for Hastings South on his 62nd birthday, approximately 230 party supporters gave the popular riding member a testimonial dinner at the Club Canada.

High tribute was paid to Mr. Grills by many well wishing speakers; there were gifts all around, including a candle-lighted birthday cake, a plaque commemorating his four victories in South Hastings — and a purebred Holstein Calf to help offset future election expenses.

Guest speaker for the birthday dinner was Hon. Michael Starr, member for Ontario County and former minister of Labor in the Diefenbaker government.

Special guests at the banquet included district members of parliament, including one from a northern riding in far off Saskatchewan.

MANY PLEASANT SURPRISES

"I have never had so many pleasant surprises in one evening," said Mr. Grills in appreciation of the honor bestowed upon him. "It is with mixed feelings of pride and humility that I stand before you this evening."

The birthday party was arranged by the South Hastings Progressive Conservative Association and party supporters from all parts of the riding were in attendance. Association president Jack Ireland acted as chairman, officially welcoming the guests.

Head table guests were introduced by Association secretary Ray Gunsolus, who Mr. Ireland said, "had worked harder than anyone else in planning the dinner". Special guests were introduced by Harleigh Hamilton of Sidney township; Arthur McCarey of Tweed introduced the Conservative women's organizations. He also received a brief case, and — feature presentation of the night — a purebred Holstein calf from Picton Mayor Harvey McFarland.

SETS A RECORD

Mayor McFarland said he had heard that during one of his campaigns, Mr. Grills had been forced to sell some of his Holstein cows to help pay election expenses.

He hoped that by the time the next election came around, the calf would be grown and producing milk.

Final presentation of the night was a plaque from the Association commemorating Mr. Grills' four South Hastings victories.

Association president Jack Ireland said that as a four time winner, Mr. Grills had set a record for Hastings South.

Obviously touched as he spoke in appreciation of the many tributes received Mr. Grills said that "no one person is worthy of so many nice things."

"There are many in the riding more capable of that task as being a House of Commons member," said Mr. Grills, "and I wouldn't be the member except for your loyalty."

PROUD MOMENT

"I have had many wonderful experiences in parliament," he went on. "I have had both chills and spills."

Expressing his appreciation to party workers — especially the ladies who he said deserve an outstanding Job — Mr. Grills said he had been inspired by the people who had come forward in politics.

"This is the proudest moment of my life. It does my heart good."

In closing Mr. Grills had a word of advice for future political aspirants.

"The way to establish yourself in the community; spread a little human kindness wherever you can and try to do an honest job.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY — South Hastings riding member Lee Grills blows out candles on cake presented to him at birthday party tendered him by riding association. Watching happily are Mrs. Grills and daughter Betty.

FOUR TIMES WINNER — Plaque commemorating his four victories in Hastings South is read by Mr. Grills. Looking on are Jack Ireland, Association president and Mrs. Grills.

HOLSTEIN CALF is presented to Mr. Grills (left) by Picton Mayor Harvey McFarland. Mayor McFarland said calf would help replace cows sold by Mr. Grills to help pay election expenses.

Potato Growing Project In North Hastings May Have a Bright Future

A bright future as a commercial potato growing area could be in store for the north e r n townships of Hastings county.

Last year a pilot potato growing project aimed at determining whether the area could grow spuds on a paying commercial scale was carried out by approximately 20 growers.

Most farmers, especially those who went in for seed potatoes, have disposed of their last season's production and plans for this year call for a considerably expanded acreage.

The growers have organized themselves into a potato growers' association. They feel their light sandy soil is well adapted for potato growing.

Hastings county agricultural representative Douglas Tipper of Stirling, feels the success of the North Hastings potato growing venture will depend to a large extent on education.

Last year a series of educational meetings were held in the area through which farmers were told of soil requirements and correct growing techniques. A similar series of meetings will be carried out this year.

A big aid toward the educational program has been the North Hastings 4-H Potato Club which has operated in the area for several years.

Last year it is estimated that approximately 220 acres of potatoes, including 50 acres of seed spuds were grown. At least double this acreage is this year's target.

Marketing is expected to be one of the more knotty problems for the North Hastings growers but it is expected this will be successfully solved.

One grower reported he sold his potatoes to a potato chip firm, while another depended upon domestic sales.

Grading equipment was installed, the spuds were packaged for the retail trade and the, entire crop sold in the domestic trade in North Hastings.

Driver Fined $75 for Careless Driving

A high speed drive on Highway 2 March 22 cost Robert James Mortimer, R.R. 2, R. C. Belleville, $75 in magistrate's court today on a charge of careless driving.

Police testified that at 10.35 p.m. they observed two cars of Mortimer's and a third on Dundas Lane. They attempted to stopped or moving violation.

When the cruiser approached the two cars, they both accelerated at a high rate of speed. Police said the cruiser had to go between the two cars to keep up with the two cars.

The vehicle on the inside of the highway applied the brakes upon approaching a taxi, but the driver, Mrs. Mortimer's car, continued on, passing the taxi and another car before pulling to the right.

Mortimer pleaded not guilty, saying he was not driving any faster than 75 miles an hour.

Magistrate Wills said, "There is no question in my mind that going at that speed for that distance (about one mile) constitutes another conviction constitutes a lack of due care.

"It's more than foolhardiness, it's criminal and you've no rights of the public."

"If you want to indulge in this type of driving and you're brought before me again, I'm going to see that your record is produced and it will likely mean a suspension."

They Switched Cause

Former Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, who celebrated his 72nd birthday recently, in his younger days planned to earn his living as a shepherd. Instead he went into politics and rose to the top executive position in the Soviet hierarchy.

And although he was deposed two years or so ago, Khrushchev will be remembered as one of the most interesting, and even likeable, personalities of the Communist world.

It is intriguing to study the early aspirations of other personalities of our time. Former United States vice-president Richard Nixon wanted to become a sports writer, but he too went into politics and thus it came about that the Russian shepherd and the American sports writer who might have been, subsequently met at an American exhibition in Moscow and engaged in what came to be known as "the kitchen debate."

But politicians are not the only people who made such a career in one field, only to switch course later in life. Charles Rice gives some examples in "This Week Magazine," reports in turn have been quoted by the Ontario College of Education's journal, "The School Guidance Worker."

Dr. Albert Schweitzer planned to become an organ-builder, and Cardinal Spellman a baseball player. Greek shipping magnate Aristotle Onassis had ideas of becoming a telegraph operator, while Henry J. Kaiser, who also built up a vast shipping and industrial empire, once thought about photography as a career. Casey Stengel was interested in dentistry, and Florence Nightingale in becoming a violet dancer.

Here are some from the world of entertainment: Patrice Munsel (professional whistler), Gene Kelly (economist), Greer Garson (market researcher), James Stewart (magician) and James Mason (forest ranger).

These variations in choice of a career are not unusual. They merely reflect the vast range of talent of which people are capable. It is interesting that all too often fate takes a hand and enables a man, and occasionally a woman, to fulfill himself, even though the educational system itself may be militating against such a consummation of talent.

Dr. Lee, recently an American researcher, Joseph Rice, told a Council for Exceptional Children group that Einstein and Michelangelo, would have been intellectually suffocated in a modern school. Michelangelo, he said, would have been forced to sit at a desk when he could have been out modelling clay. Nor would he have been able to see great works of sculpture in school.

Einstein, he added, once said he could not have worked out one of his most important theories if he had studied the Newtonian physics, which are still being taught young people today.

Vacation Styles

As the spring season shows increasing signs of making way for sun and warmth and summer, we have visions of the distressing casualness which tends to characterize summer wear, particularly where tourists are concerned.

"Come As You Are" is the order of the day in the summer season and the results are often as sloppy and indifferent as the service in the tourist establishments. Fortunately some people are still on the side of decorum, realising that one needs to be neither bare nor "hung-out" to be comfortable, even on a hot summer day.

Magog, in Quebec's eastern townships, has an edict banning shorts; and while few people would object to shorts as such, the burden of the Magog by-law is aimed at those who belong to the beach and not to city streets.

For neatness and tidiness, it would be hard to beat the youngsters who attend our public schools. And when it comes to the uniforms the small fry and their teenage confreres resort to baton twirling displays at local parades there is no substitute for an immaculate appearance.

At the provincial championships in Peterborough the judge, Miss Dee Dee Gould said she looked for how the youngsters held their batons, the condition of their uniforms and how the competitors carried themselves. She summed up what she was looking for as "snap". One corps anticipated this emphasis on good appearance by wearing plastic bags over their spotless white shoes until their turn came for adjudication.

Miss deWild, a comely young American from Rockford, Illinois herself was very aware of good grooming as she moved among the 600 competitors.

Summer then is the time for parades and for vacations. And there is a generous tourists passing through the Quinte area. And many from here will be travelling far afield, on this continent and overseas. What appearance will this year's tourist present? Well, possibly as many differena styles as there are tourists. But there will be the usual trends and group patterns. It would be pleasant, though, to think that no matter which style is preferred the first consideration will always be good grooming.

Thanks to the generosity of the ratepayers of this city and district, many children will be able to enjoy a week's vacation this summer at the Kiwanis Club's Fresh Air Camp at Roblin's Mills. For the general public, on Saturday contributed, through the medium of the service club's Tag Day, the splendid sum of $326., all of which will be turned over to the Fresh Air Fund Committee.

The colors are the gift of the members of the Ketchesou family in Hastings County, in recognition of the fact that Lieut. Col. W. G. The ceremony took place on the parade ground in front of the armouries. After the Royal Salute had been given and the battalion of 1100 men inspected by Col. T. D. D. Cameras-They Do Not Lie

The Globe and Mail

So you still say you're not a subversive element in the community, eh? Well, isn't that proof in the pictures standing in the crowd in front of the United States Consulate-General on University Avenue? The camera doesn't lie, you know.

And I suppose you'd like us to believe you went into Allan Gardens just for a breath of fresh air. In Toronto! Come on now; my mom have a picture of you standing there so more than 100 feet away from William Beatlie. We notice don't take these mob shots for fun.

You might have got away with it except for the crowd shot when the Beatles arrived. There you are again, right in the thick of it — a treadle maker if ever I saw one. Now why not be sensible and tell us the whole story . . .?

To Your Good Health

Time for Recovery From Fracture Varies

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is the usual expectation of recovery from a fractured hip for a woman of 80? How long should it take? The doctor is otherwise healthy. Is it necessary to remove the pin for complete recovery? — A. K.

It used to be that a fractured hip in an older person was a virtual sentence of death. Long the odyssey of the elderly is bed led to general deterioration of health and the usual outcome was pneumonia or some similar illness.

Today the picture is entirely different, although it still can be a very serious condition. It depends on the nature of the fracture as well as the age and general condition of the patient. A feeble elderly person may not be able to tolerate the shock and pain.

For a healthy woman of 80 (that's not so old) prospects are good. Fractures can occur in various parts of the hip and the use of a pin depends on this.

No, such pins are not necessarily rejected, but in a few cases may be left permanently.

Once the fracture has been reduced and immobilized, the patient usually is made to sit up in two or three days. I say "made" because although the change in position may be painful and awkward, it is essential to maintain general health and avoid congestion in lungs and legs. This is an all-important element of recovery.

How long? I suppose you mean the ability to bear weight on the injured hip. Every case is different. Old bones don't heal as rapidly as young bones. However, X-ray shows the progress of the healing process. Use of crutches or a walker may permit the patient to get around before the leg can support any substantial weight. Sometimes the patient's reluctance to try to get around is that fashion is emotional rather than real — but be guided only by your doctor as to how much urging is warranted, and when.

Since hip fracture is a common bone accident, here are a couple of pointers to remember: Initial care to a fractured hip, besides pain in the hip, is that the foot is usually turned outward. The patient also is unable to raise his heel from the floor while lying on his back.

Leave the patient lying where he is until the doctor or ambulance arrives. The only first aid you can safely give is to keep the patient warm and as comfortable as possible.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am 75 and have a heart condition and hardening of the arteries. I have been told that eating eggs would shorten the years I have. Is this true? — Mrs. L. B.

My dear lady, arteries start to harden in childhood. The rate at which hardening progresses depends on heredity, diet, amount of exercise and blood pressure.

The poor nutritious egg has been unscientifically and unfairly accused. Egg happens to contain a lot of cholesterol, but to put all the blame on that is to ignore all those other important factors.

At your age, eat eggs as you choose. They are nourishing, and they aren't going to change the condition of your arteries.

Note to Mrs. J.W.J. and Mrs. A.B.: Birth control pills will not cause fibroids. But the pills should not be used if fibroids already exist.

Improved Salaries

Ottawa Journal

The new salary scales announced recently by the various school boards put to rest any fears of Brockville that teaching is an underpaid, down-trodden profession.

The minimum salary received under the new rates by a beginning high school teacher in the Ottawa collegiate system will be $5,400. Every teacher employed by the Collegiate Board received a raise in the basic scale as well as other benefits. Teachers not at the maximum level in their schedule get in addition to the $400 a built-in "annual increment" of $300, a raise guaranteed whether there is any change in the schedule or not.

Maximum salaries range from $8,000 for those with only the basic qualification of a university degree to $11,000 for teachers in higher categories.

Heads of departments, vice-principals and principals all receive substantial additional allowances. The high school principal in Ottawa begins at $14,500 a year and goes up automatically at the rate of $1,000 annually to a maximum of $17,000.

The high school rates are somewhat higher, but not significantly, than the schedule of Ottawa public school teachers.

It would not be fair to say that teachers are overpaid. There is demanding, important work. If the standard of teaching is to be raised, salaries should be high enough to attract the better university graduates.

But these wages compare favorably with those of other salaried persons. While a teacher's day may often be long, so are the days of many professional people. And others do not have long holidays at Christmas and Easter and two months free in the summer.

School boards should realize however, that education costs cannot continue to rise indefinitely. Boards could help the taxpayer by not trying to out-bid each other every year in soft-defending competition.

Multi-Lingual Sound System Paints Faces Red in Ottawa

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — About the only really entertaining feature of this unusually bitter and not-very-funny session of Parliament has been the new multi-lingual simultaneous translation sound system.

Basically it was installed — with a microphone and an earphone at every MP's desk — to provide the Commons with instant bilingualism.

English is translated into French and French into English as the MPs speak their set piece speeches or trade quips and insults.

But for international gatherings such as NATO or the Inter-Parliamentary Union, the system can carry up to six simultaneous translations.

It is controlled by a team of operators at a "console" built into the Diplomatic Gallery who "plays" it by flipping switches to turn on the microphones at the desk of whatever MP is happen to be sounding off, solo or in chorus.

A green light flashes on to signal a "live" mike.

And nothing can silence an MP — not even Mr. Speaker Lucien Lamoureux — so neatly and completely as the console operators when they slip a switch to turn off a mike.

The catch comes when an MP fails to notice the nearby green light signalling a "live" mike.

HE'S OFF

Like the other day when Agriculture Minister "Joe Joe" Green was trying to deal with an unnecessarily long question to a question of Conservative Leader Diefenbaker about rising meat prices.

And so he went, with a rundown of farm, wholesale and retail costs back for 15 years.

Finally his seat-mate, Minister Without Portfolio John Dren- [illegible] Lamoureux, whose [illegible] Conservative, who [illegible] of his hand, [illegible] thought — "for [illegible] Green to [illegible] something [illegible] cautioned his throat and the "whisper" came out as a sort of hoarse roar, picked up, of course, by Joe Green's "live" mike.

As it boomed through the gruelling Question Period, Agriculture Minister, unruffled, with a courtly bow to John Turner, smiled "I'm off", and promptly sat down.

The more macabre moment came during Conservative Leader Diefenbaker's speech on capital punishment.

Among murderers he had known, he told the House, had been a psychiatrist-fuelled group who used crime as a way of attracting attention by being "put on trial" in a courtroom drama.

And from behind him came the sharp whisper, picked up by his mike and echoed through the House: "Yeah, they want to be in the news."

YOU BET YOU

There was the off-guard moment when Reo Basford, liberal MP for Vancouver-Burrard, the co-chairman of the Commons Committee on Consumer Credit, was making a report to the House, recommending reduction of the group's quorum from 21 to whatever number of MPs dared to show up.

As he sat down, to await the procedure to obtain the concurrence of the House for his Committee proposal, a colleague slipped into the bench beside him, and not realizing that the green light was still on and the desk microphone very much alive, whispered "Does this get rid of the damned quorum?"

And this, together with Mr. Basford's "yes" quite audible to the Liberals in exchange for that Gatti gadfly Ralph Cowan, a shout which gave the House the best laugh.

"It's a deal," came the whisper from the Liberal side over the sound system, "and we'll keep it between ourselves, two secretaries and a bit of money."

Bernie Herridge beamed in modest pride that as a Parliamentary "player" he rated such a Freudian price.

Today in History

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

April 21, 1966 . . .

The United States Navy occupied the Mexican port of Vera Cruz 52 years ago today — in 1914 — after a quarrel over the arrest of some U.S. marines at Tampico. But a more important reason was President Wilson's decision, for the first time, to use force to protect U.S. Latin America government which had taken power by coup d'etat. Mexico refused the threat worked, and the two-year Huerta was compelled to flee the country. A second such venture was Pancho Villa's attempt to capture Pancho Villa, which failed but which kept United States troops on Mexican soil for eight months.

Strictly Personal

Success in Marriage

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Purely Personal Prejudices: Almost no one is foolish enough to imagine that he automatically deserves great success in any field of activity; yet almost everyone believes that he automatically deserves success in marriage.

The history of all institutions goes through three stages: they are created by need, then sanctified by law, then they try to become a law unto themselves, in order to prevent the rise of rival institutions.

Speaking of institutions, all the political cant about the military draft having a "democratic institution" is meaningless nonsense is a graveyard.

Sometimes a man best serves his party by standing against it; Lincoln, as a congressman, opposed the Mexican War, which the Mexican War, and was never again elected to Congress — but he was right. Similarly, a democracy is endurable only when it is widespread enough: it is intolerable when we seem specifically to have been picked out by fate; this is why whole communities bear great burdens more equably than individuals bear lighter ones.

Why do nine out of 10 persons [illegible] an extra "s" in "r i g m a role"?

Every person has its own deeper causes.

built-in defects, which those within the system should try to rectify, rather than merely comparing them with the defects of other systems; as Winston Churchill once observed, "The inherent vice of capitalism is the unequal sharing of blessings; the inherent vice of socialism is the equal sharing of miseries."

It is dangerous to take as synonyms words that seem to but are intrinsically different — as "pleasure" and "joy," which are very different kinds of things, as the pleasure-seeking hedonist has found the end of a joyless existence.

Antique mythology never plunged more deeply into the dynamics of human psychology than Greek myth, coupled the goddess of love with the god of war.

The new "God is dead" theolo gians are guilty of overdramatizing their theology; what they really mean is "Santa Claus is dead," but this lacks the concepts of the old man with the white beard sitting up in the celestial confirmation with the divinity (and the diabolism) within our own natures.

There are many kinds of [illegible] from responsibility to the most damaging — because the most delusive — is the flight into removing the symptoms of life, while ignoring the deeper causes.

Liquor Blamed In Death of 15 Indians

TORONTO (CP)—Liquor, and not some mysterious religious cult, was responsible for the deaths of 15 Indians killed by trains in the Kenora district since 1961, Attorney-General Arthur Wishart indicated in the legislature Wednesday.

In 13 deaths blood samples showed a high alcoholic content, he said, while in another case liquor was suspected although there was not enough blood left for a certain analysis. In the 15th case the person involved was over 80 years old and almost blind.

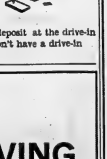
No Suspicion Of Foul Play In Man's Death

COLBORNE — Pneumonia, complicated by general debility and malnutrition was given in the pathologist's autopsy report into the cause of death of Ida Mathews, 67-year-old Colborne businessman in his 70's, found dead in a shack behind Tuesday.

Police chief George Blyth said today, "There is no suspicion of foul play in the death."

The elderly man is believed to have been dead for several days before his body was discovered Tuesday noon, following a report to police by a neighbor.

The body was discovered by George Fuller, 65, who also lived in the debris cluttered and rat infested one storey shack.



Wednesday, Chief Blyth took Fuller, who had spent the night in Cobourg United Counties Jail to the Ontario Hospital, Kingston, where he has been admitted for a 30-day observation period and report.

Fuller too, is believed to be suffering from malnutrition, in view of the living conditions police reported they found when conducting the investigation into Matthew's death. Fuller was taken into custody on a charge under the Mental Health Act Tuesday night.

Funeral services for Mr. Mathews are being held today from a Colborne funeral home.

Boy Drowns And Nobody Lends a Hand

TORONTO (CP)—A crowd of fishermen watched Jimmy Wilkinson drown Wednesday.

Jimmy borrowed a dime from his crippled father at a downtown newsstand, visited a pal's home then went small flshing from a harbor pier.

The nine-year-old boy was playing with a pail when he fell into Lake Ontario—and "all people could do was stand around," said Dianne Reid, 13. "They could have saved him."

About 20 men were fishing for smelt.

"They had nets and everything else," Dianne said. "A man had a pole and poked around for a while. Then he went back to his fishing."

Harbor police, who recovered the body six minutes after they arrived, said someone should have made the effort to help the boy.

"But no one did. They just stood around and looked."

Enrollment in OMSIP Lagging

TORONTO (CP)—Health Minister Matthew Dymond said Wednesday that enrolment in the Ontario Medical Services Insurance Plan is lagging, but is bound to pick up.

Dr. Dymond said in a statement that only a third of the anticipated enrolment has been received with less than two weeks to go before the first enrolment period ends April 30.

Prison Psychiatrist Gives Opinion on Truscott Case

KINGSTON (CP) — Prison psychiatrist George Scott says he knows whether or not Steven Truscott murdered 13-year-old Lynne Harper in 1959.

Dr. Scott, who has interviewed Truscott over a six-year period, said Tuesday night:

"What I know is between the patient, the parole board and me."

Truscott, now 21, is serving a life sentence at Collins Bay penitentiary here for the murder of Lynne Harper. He was 14 at the time of Lynne's death which occurred near the RCAF station in Clinton, Ont., where they both lived.

Solicitor - General Pennell Tuesday ordered a review of the Truscott case. Doubts have been raised recently as to Truscott's guilt, notably in the Trial of Steven Truscott, a book by Toronto author Isabel LeBourdais.

"I am not afraid of an inquiry," Dr. Scott said. "The important thing to me is that this fellow be well-equipped to come out of prison, whether he is innocent or guilty.

"I know whether he is innocent or guilty. But that's all I can say. If Steven wants to get up and make a statement of course he can."

OTTAWA (CP)—Prison psychiatrist George Scott feels her son Steven is guilty of murder, Mrs. Dan Truscott said Wednesday.

Her son has told her that Dr. Scott expressed this opinion, Mrs. Truscott said.

She was commenting on a statement earlier by Dr. Scott in an interview that he knows whether or not Steven Truscott was guilty of the murder of Lynne Harper.

Mrs. Truscott said in an interview she is annoyed that Dr. Scott made his statement when the case is destined for review.

"Mr. Pennell said he has not dealt with any reports by Dr. Scott. He declined any other comment on the doctor's statements.

Mrs. Truscott said prison psychiatrists begin their interviews with prisoners with the presumption that the patient is guilty. And patients sometimes were under influence of drugs.

She and her husband would not have consented to a psychiatric interview if they had been aware of the techniques used, she said.

Auto Insurance Is Attacked By Liberal

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's Conservative government was blamed Wednesday that its failure to control the auto insurance industry could lead to a crisis in such proportions that the government would be forced to socialize the industry.

"Time is running out," Vernon Singer, the Liberal member for downsview, told a Transport Minister Irwin Haskett.

Susanna's Family Fare

SLIM STEM SUPPORTS

Dear Susanna: Too bad nature endowed the carnation with such a heavy head and so slim a body.

I received a dozen of them over the weekend, and the poor lambs couldn't keep their heads up. They drooped and drooped until they were almost deadlier in two.

Would you know anything about wiring this type of flower, Sue? — Edda

Not really. But if this ever happens again to your lovely bouquet of slim flowers, insert each stem in a jumbo pastel plastic straw. (It may be necessary to trim the odd nubbin off the stem.) Draw the straw well up towards the neck of the flower, as carnations have practically no leaves anyway, and presto, there is a beautiful self-supporting, upright arrangement suitable for just about any container. — SUSANNA

FORBIDDEN FRUIT

Dear Susanna: Whenever a half finished basket of eating apples sitting in the pantry is being ignored, and is in danger of spoiling, just take the time to slice them up and place them in your prettiest bowl on the dining room table, as though for company.

Watch them disappear now! — Mrs. Robt. Robbins

The Experts Say

Group Should Plan Cook Book Before Production

By JEAN SHARP
Canadian Press Women's Editor

TORONTO (CP) — When your group decides to publish a cookbook, a commemorative pamphlet or a rule book, it will pay to have it planned almost to the last word before any production begins.

Start with a clear idea of what you want to publish and why — what you want your publication to achieve. Decide what it should look like to be most in keeping with its content and with your group's personality.

"The more clear - cut the decisions at the beginning, the fewer the hidden production costs," says Frances McNab, editor of the YWCA national publication The Journal.

You can get 35mm of type styles and layout and design from library books, from pamphlets available from major printing, paper and ink companies, from local printers and from similar publications put out by other associations.

BE REALISTIC!

If you are going to avoid waste of time, work and money, be sure you have time to get your publication ready for when you want it. Make sure you have enough money to distribute it when it is finished.

Money, of course, is the most important decision you will have to make.

"Decide exactly how much you are going to spend, what size you want your publication to be, how many copies you want and if you want any special effects."

Mrs. McNab says you may revise your ideas when you talk to a printer and find out what things cost. Get his advice, but remember he is a businessman in business to make money.

"When you are dealing with the printer remember he is the boss trader. He is on the other side of the fence, even though he can be a good friend to your group. Go to several printers. Make it clear you are still in the bargaining stage and want estimates and advice. Get cost figured out before you commit yourself."

UNDERSTAND BIDS

The next step is to ask for bids.

"Don't be embarrassed at talking to one firm and hiring another. That's the way business works.

"When you get bids, make sure the quotes cover precisely the same things and are on the same number of copies. Get an estimate on the cost of a second printing with the first.

"You will have discussed timing before you decide on a printer, so be sure to get a firm commitment as your publication won't be furnished too late to be of use to you.

"Try to get bids from large, small and medium-size printing firms. If your finding is good you may catch someone with slack time. He has to pay his men anyway, so wants to keep his machine busy. You might get a better price if he can run your work then. If your time is unlimited, let him know.

"If you are going to do a lot of mailing, discuss envelopes. It makes sense! the size of your publication.

"Stapling and folding should be included in the bid. Volunteer groups melt away when there is such uninteresting work to do.

"Be sure you know how much the printer takes responsibility for. Do you get artists or does he? Do you have pictures to engravers or does he?

"If you have read the bowels to yourself you'll know there are several ways to produce publications. You should look into those relative differences."

When you are putting the contents together, Mrs. McNab says the more you do and the more carefully you do it, the more you can lower costs. Have copy cleanly typed, double - spaced with wide margins. Have someone besides the author or typist proof read the typed copy and still another person proof-read the printer's copy.

Choose photos for clarity and interest. They and art work are expensive and should also be chosen with printing requirements in mind. Another additional step in processing them makes them more expensive.

Mrs. McNab says if you try shortcuts you'll get caught. Plan each page with care.

Engineers Name Woman As Committee Chairman

TORONTO (CP) — For the first time in its 44-year history, the 23,000 - member association of Professional Engineers of Ontario has appointed a woman chairman of one of its committees.

Mrs. John DeGroot, mother of three children, believes she is also one of only two women who are practising mechanical engineers in Ontario. The other is a Romanite, Madeleine Hoare of Orillia. Mrs. DeGroot estimates there are 35 women engineers in Canada.

The new public relations chairman says engineers are unappreciated by the public. She is going to do what she can to remedy the situation.

"People seem to forget granted the thousands of things around which our every brain - child of some forgotten engineer."

Lois DeGroot is a consultant in the heating and air-conditioning field. She works on a part-time basis for two architects and on a contract basis for consulting engineering firms. Before her marriage to an electrical engineer, she worked for a consulting firm.

She wants to go back to work full time when her children are 21 months, nine and six years, are older. In the meantime, she occasionally takes them with her to project sites.

"It's not always easy to get a sitter and anyway, the children enjoy it, are interested in what's going on around them, and I think it's good for them."

Mrs. DeGroot was born in Detroit of Newfoundland parents and came to Canada when she was two. She says her father encouraged her to be an engineer.

A.N.A.F. Ladies' Auxiliary Hears Talk on "Poppy"

The regular monthly meeting of the A.N. and A.F. Ladies' Auxiliary No. 49 was held in the auditorium of Unit 201 on Monday evening with president Comrade E. Ellis presiding. All the executive members were present.

Entertainment chairman comrade G. Fitzgerald, reported that quite a number of banquets are to be catered to in the next month, and asked the comrades to take note of the dates, as she will be needing lots of help. She also thanked the ones who worked on the last large banquet.

Sick and welfare chairman comrade M. Green, reported that she and her committee had made a visit to the Hastings Manor and delivered Easter gifts to the 39 veterans and widows of veterans there, for both Unit 201 and the ladies' Auxiliary No. 49. Gifts were also delivered to the sick and shut-ins. Comrade Green also sent a number of cards during the month.

Mrs. Wm. Means chairman comrade T. Fenton asked everyone to have their poppies ready by next meeting so the draw can be made at that time.

GUEST SPEAKER

The Sergeant-at-Arms, comrade R. Fitzgibbon ushered in, guest speaker, Comrade J. Liddle, chairman of the Belleville Poppy Fund. Comrade Liddle spoke on the subject of the poppy.

Comrade Liddle gave a brief history of the poppy and stated that the first campaign held in Belleville was in 1921. He was secretary, treasurer, at that time. The Popples were made in France then, and it was ten or twelve years later that they started to produce them at Vetcraft, at Sunnybrook Hospital in Toronto, made by disabled veterans. This is why it is so important to sell as many wreaths as possible as this makes work for people who are unable to do other types of labor.

Comrade Liddle has been connected with the Belleville Poppy Fund ever since 1921, except for four or five years when he could not continue due to illness, and during the last two years he has been the chairman. He has been honored with various medals for his efforts, and, asked the ladies to take an interest in the campaign this fall. He also gave a full financial report.

President Ellis thanked Comrade Liddle.

Comrade. R. Buckley announced that the long awaited cook book should be ready for sale in about six weeks.

The usual draw was made, and the winners were Comrades J. MacDonald, and, A. Storms, Jr.

There will be six or seven ladies attending the Provincial Command meeting on May the 28th., guests of the Hamilton Auxiliary.

A phone committee will be set up before the next meeting, May 19th, to get in touch with members to remind them of the meeting date.

It was reported that Comrade F. Fisher had fallen and fractured her arm.

Lunch was served after adjournment of the meeting.

HALIFAX (CP) — Jean Nelson's customers for millinery think she could make a good living at it, but it's only a hobby. Miss Nelson is director of nursing for a veterans' hospital with 414 beds and a staff of 200 and this takes up almost all her time.

War Bursary Fund of IODE Comes to End

HAMILTON (CP)—The second World War Bursary Fund, which provided university tuition fees for children of Second World War veterans over a 20-year period, now has ceased operations, members of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire were told Wednesday.

Mrs. Morley Keegan of Oakville, the IODE's Ontario educational secretary, said that the last of the four-year bursaries worth $1,800 each, were awarded last fall.

She told the opening sessions of the provincial chapter's annual meeting that in the last 20 years more than $500,000 was given out in university entrance bursaries.

The War Memorial Scholarship Fund will continue to provide scholarships for post graduate students to study in Commonwealth countries, Mrs. Keegan said.

RAISE FUNDS

Members were told that junior chapters in the province had raised close to $1,300 for charity during the year, and Commonwealth Relations Secretary Mrs. J. C. Stothers of London, Ont., reported that Ontario chapters had contributed more than $2,000 toward the department's work with overseas students.

Membership in the junior chapters of the organization increased during the year from 345 to 425 with the formation of seven new chapters, Mrs. R. B. Craik jr. of Dundas told the meeting. There are now 20 junior chapters in the province.

Delegates were also informed of the Ontario chapter's $5,000 allotment from the national centennial fund to be used to organize a week's tour of Northern and Northwestern Ontario for 35 Southern Ontario teen-age boys.

The youth travel project is scheduled for the first three weeks in July, 1967.

The meeting continues today and Friday.

So I am off and running using apples and applesauce in my cooking. I will concentrate on applesauce today.

CREAMY APPLESAUCE

(serves 5)

One 20-oz. can applesauce,
½ cup dairy sour cream,
1 tablespoon flour,
½ cup chopped blanched almonds,
½ cup light brown sugar.

In a saucepan mix together the applesauce, sour cream and flour and bring to boil stirring constantly. Remove from heat, cool to room temperature and spoon into stemmed glasses. Mix together the chopped almonds and brown sugar and sprinkle over top and chill. This is a lovely light dessert.

JELLIED APPLESAUCE MOULDS

Note: These could be served on individual fruit salad plates for dessert with cheese and crackers or as a salad, with meat such as ham or chicken in which case you may decide to set it in one large mould, one 20-oz. can applesauce,
1 teaspoon plain gelatine,
1 packaged lemon jello,
½ cup chopped blanched almonds or pecans,
½ cup finely chopped inner celery,

Drop halved and seeded Malaga grapes or light raisins.

Spring Tea Held by C.W.L.

Tall standards of Easter lilies and arrangements of artificial flowers decked the platform of St. Joseph's Parish Hall for the Spring Tea sponsored by the Catholic Women's League Wednesday afternoon.

Guests, received at the door by C.W.L. president, Mrs. D. Duminie, were served at quartet tables covered with white cloths and decorated with white candles encircled at the base with nosegays of flowers.

A bouquet of white and pink-tinted 'mums sprinkled with silver glitter centred the tea table. Pastel green and pink candles in silver candelabra flanked the centrepiece. Those pouring tea during the afternoon were Mrs. H. O'Neill, Mrs. C. Murphy and Mrs. H. Hanley.

Mrs. B. Hanley, Mrs. H. Barlow and Mrs. H. Bone were in charge of the bake table, decorated with an arrangement of fruit and leaves in a pedestalled bowl. They also sold tickets on a draw for a Swedish tea ring.

Mrs. J. Panting was in charge of the religious booth where statuettes, plaques, books and rosaries were on sale.

Mrs. W. Duminie sold tickets on a draw for a hat certificate.

Mrs. H. Carr-Brant was convenor of the tea, assisted by a committee comprised of Mrs. W. Lynch, Mrs. J. Keeley, Mrs. T. Clancy, Mrs. J. Herrington and Mrs. R. Jones.

Winners of the various draws were: Mrs. J. Kelly, a centrepiece; Mrs. E. Anderson, a cake; Mrs. J. Hanley, a hat certificate drawn by Miss R. Lane.

Ann Landers' It Is Normal for Man To Slow Down Sexually

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I want to thank you for printing that letter from the man who wondered if males slow down sexually when they get older. I am 68 years old now and your answer was the only sensible information I've ever read on the subject in a newspaper or anywhere else.

About three years ago I began to slow down and I got pretty worried about it. I was afraid something serious was wrong with me. I sent away for love potions, "sex" vitamins, plus a lot of other phony junk I saw advertised in magazines. I'm ashamed to tell you how much money I threw away on stuff that didn't work.

Now that I know I'm normal I've got a lot more pep. I can't thank you enough, Ann Landers, you've been a real friend. — GRATEFUL.

DEAR GRATE: Some men slow down from worrying about slowing down, which is probably what happened to you. I'm glad I could help.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a 17-year-old boy who is just average looking. I don't have anything special going for me, like being big in athletics or anything like that. But whenever I take a girl out a few times she goes nuts over me and I can't shake loose of her.

I hope I don't sound like some kind of an idiot, but honestly I need help. I have liked several girls but I don't want to get involved with anybody. When I date a chick three times she acts like we are engaged.

In the last eight months I have tried to break off with four different girls and I'm still getting letters and calls from all of them. What do you suggest? — BIG HEADACHE.

DEAR HEADACHE: The girls are getting encouragement from somewhere, Sonny Boy. Maybe you come on stronger than you mean to. My advice is to cool it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have two teen-age daughters (16 and 17) who feel that everything in this house is community property. They help themselves to my combs, hair brushes, hair rollers, stockings, panties and bras. It's always the same excuse — they can't find theirs or they didn't get around to doing the hand laundry.

When I raise the roof, my husband says, "Is a pair of stockings that important? The girls smirk and I wind up looking silly.

If I'm wrong, please tell me and I'll never complain again. If he is wrong, say so and maybe with you behind me I can hang on to what belongs to me. — NOTHING TO CALL MY OWN.

DEAR NOTHING TO CALL: Girls do not suddenly — at age 16 and 17 — confiscate mother's property. They have been helping themselves to your things since early childhood — and getting away with it.

The time to teach kids about mine and thine is when they learn to talk. If discipline had been administered from the start you would not be having the problem now. And must concede that dad hasn't helped much.

If you mean business tell your daughters that the next one who helps herself to your things loses all privileges for one full week. If you make it stick your problem is solved.

Belleville Policemen's Wives Aid Children's Aid and Salvation Army

The Women's Auxiliary of the Belleville Police Department last night donated two children's layettes to the Children's Aid Society and the Salvation Army.

Mrs. Pat Spencer, president of the auxiliary, presented the layettes to Mrs. B. de Groot, Children's Aid Society social worker and Mrs. Brigadier B. Bernat of the Salvation Army.

Each layette, gathered through the efforts of about 20 auxiliary workers, consisted of one and one-half dozen diapers, two blankets, three receiving blankets, three sweater sets, five pairs of booties, two pillow cases, a pillow, numerous nighties, a baby bath, rubber pants, baby face cloths, soap, powder, diaper pins and baby bottles.

Many of the items were hand-made by auxiliary members, and others were donated.

Mrs. Brig. Bernat expressed sincere thanks on behalf of the Salvation Army for the layette. "To each one of us," she said, "there comes to us at the end of the day a moment when we ask ourselves, 'I wonder if it was really worth the effort?'

"Yes, when we consider what we have done has helped someone, we experience a sense of inner joy.

"There are those people who come to our home, our office and our citadel and talk to us and give vent to their feelings and say I feel I've just come to the end of the line.

"To them, I explain this experience is a door through which they may enter and come out a better individual and a better citizen.

"Our work in the Salvation Army brings to us a great deal of satisfaction and enjoyment. Donations such as yours help considerably in achieving that sense of inner satisfaction.

"I accept this layette with sincere appreciation of this labor of love. It will help fulfill a need in the life of a child who will never be known to you.

"Your service of love will give you that feeling of satisfaction for the love and devotion you have given."

Mrs. de Groot thanked the auxiliary for the gift and outlined some of the work of the Children's Aid Society. She said the main purpose of the Society is "that no boy or girl should be neglected or abused, living without proper care and proper love and without the opportunity for the development of their minds and bodies."

LESS NEGLECT

She told the auxiliary ladies and their husbands that the extent of neglect of children is much less than it once was. "There is still a great deal of it though, especially children suffering emotional neglect.

"Many parents give their children all the material things they need but fail to provide the love, warmth and feeling of belonging which every child needs and deserves.

"We are now more and more concerned with the prevention of neglect than ever before. We feel now that even if a home is not ideal, the child is still better off in his real home. It is a tremendously upsetting experience for a child to be taken from his home. If he's young, he'll adjust, but it's extremely difficult for older children."

Mrs. de Groot said the work of the Children's Aid Society is divided into four major categories: protection from neglect and prevention of neglect; unmarried parents department; child care department; and the adoption department.

She said the families who get into difficulty are the ones where members who don't pull together in times of stress, but pull in different directions because "they're so overcome with their own problems they don't think of anyone else. This results in chaos and disorganization of the family."

Mrs. de Groot said this country has a moral obligation to eliminate poverty, "because poverty is the breeding ground for multi-problem behavior. Poverty doesn't necessarily lead to disorganized families, but it is an important factor.

"It's tragic that in poverty stricken families there is often so little hope for a better future that the children soon lose all their desire to even make an effort to better themselves."

Th presentation of the layettes took place following a buffet lunch. The auxiliary also provided the lunch.

Serious Drop In Membership Of WI Seen

OTTAWA (CP)—A "serious drop in membership" in the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada was reported by its national secretary, Mrs. H. C. Taylor of Ottawa, at the annual board meeting Wednesday.

Mrs. Taylor blamed the population drift to cities, working mothers, and uninteresting programming for the loss of about 2,200 members in 1965. Only British Columbia showed an increase, bringing national membership in the organization of rural women to 45,000 in 2,300 branches across Canada.

Agriculture convener Mrs. Wells Coates of East Angus, Que., urged members to support anti-pollution measures for air, water, and soil, by sending representatives to the council of resource ministers in Montreal next fall.

Successful Living

Common Law Widow Has No Legal Rights

DEAR DORIS: Due to our divorce laws I was unable to marry a man I deeply loved. We lived together for almost 20 years, very happily. No one knew we weren't married. We had a wonderful life; lived in the best part of town and had fine friends.

My man passed away a month ago suddenly, leaving me with a great problem. Does a woman in this position have any rights at all? He left property and a small business without signing it to me. My heart is broken over the loss of him; never did I realize I would be left this way, alone and almost penniless.

DORIS CLARK

My life is so completely inverted I don't know what to do; and afraid that my secret would be known. Is there any hope at all for people such as IT- ANONYMOUS.

DEAR ANONYMOUS: I'm truly sorry. Only a legal wife can make a claim on an estate, where there is no will. Your dear one doubtless had good intentions; and would be distressed about you.

Confide your secret to a skilled social worker and counsellor, who can help you consider suitable work and find it; and can work through the rest of your dilemma with you. Friends won't think it strange for a widow to move out of a big house; and many a lonely older woman has turned to work for satisfaction, even when she didn't need the money.

DEAR DORIS: Just where is a wife's place: in the home, or at a job that barely pays enough to buy hankerchiefs? About all I can see she stays there for is to listen to advice given her on what to do at home. She would never ask my advice on anything.

I probably am as bad as she but there is some reason in mal Any person who will tell people that they are always right and never wrong, must be sick themselves.

This woman is the mother of 12 children. I would think that her time could have well been used at home. If it had been we probably would be together now, instead of a broken home and family. — NOT ALL TO BLAME.

DEAR NOT: Of course you aren't to blame. And running a small institution (like your home) would seem to be a full-time job for any woman.

But many questions are left hanging in the air: Could your support have carried the home? Was there a housekeeper to be paid? When did you stop consulting together? Were my counselling help sought before the break-up?

Obviously you are nostalgic for what-might-have-been. I'm sorry.

DEAR DORIS: Ian 14, and I have reason to believe that my mother is running around with another married man. I am now wondering if I should tell my father of my beliefs.

I know that she will be reading this, and I now make a plea that all parents try and keep such things more secretly, because it is an awful stage for a young girl to go through. It certainly doesn't give a girl a chance to show much respect for her mother. — WORRIED TEEN.

DEAR TEEN: Mothers who run around believe, foolishly, that their teen-agers see nothing, hear nothing, say nothing. But this is a big load for you to carry!

Hasn't it occurred to you that if you have noticed something, Dad probably has too? Unless you greatly need his comfort, wait awhile.

Importance of Safety Goggles Stressed at CNIB Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Hastings County Advisory Board of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Wishart, 9 Dufferin Avenue, on Tuesday evening, April 19th, with 16 members present.

After the regular reports Mr. Preston Timmins, field secretary, spoke about the budget submitted for this year by the Belleville United Appeal. It was interesting to hear that this year the request to the United Appeal is slightly lower than in the previous years due to increased grants and also to the fluctuation of the blind population in the district.

Mr. Timmins also mentioned a film which is available to firms, through the C.N.I.B. This film is entitled, "Its up to You," and is produced by the Wise Owl Club. This club was originated in the United States, but has now been taken up by the C.N.I.B. Awards are given to sighted employees in factories who have had an eye accident while wearing safety goggles at the time. A citation is also given to the firm where the person is employed.

PURPOSE OF FILM

The purpose of the film is to stress the importance of safety goggles. C.N.I.B. is now sending out letters to all firms who are not already enrolled in the Wise Owl Club soliciting membership. The film is available, from the local office of the C.N.I.B. in Kingston on request.

Two new members were elected to the Board. They are Mr. K. J. MacDonald and Mr. T. Cokien.

Blast Aboard Train Kills 55

NEW DELHI (AP) — Fifty-seven persons were killed and 127 others were injured Wednesday night in the second explosion within three months aboard a train in a rebellious Naga area of eastern India, the Indian government radio announced.

The broadcast said the blast shattered several compartments of the train as it stood in Lumding railway station. Medical teams and investigators were sent to the isolated town deep in the hills about 250 miles northeast of Calcutta.

The cause of the disaster was not yet known, the radio said. But rebel Naga tribesmen in Assam State have been waging a guerrilla campaign for years against the central government's control.

The Nagas were blamed for the explosions aboard the Assam Mail Express Feb. 18 in which 36 persons were killed.

Naga leaders recently conferred with Prime Minister Indira Gandhi and pressed their case for establishment of a Naga state. She pronounced the talks satisfactory, but one Naga faction wants to fight rather than to negotiate and the rebellion has continued.

Speculation Fever Growing In Exchanges Across U. S.

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — Speculation fever is growing in stock exchanges across the United States.

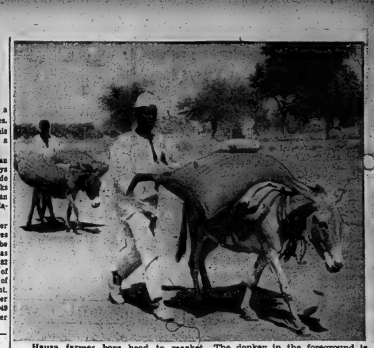
This is shown by the record volume of trading in recent weeks and by the sharp rise in quotations on low-priced stock where speculators hope for a quick dollar The blue chips have been dawdling at best.

The speculative bug has bitten both the small investor and the professional and institutional investor buying big blocks.

It has aroused misgivings not only in U.S. government circles but also among stock exchange officials and brokerage houses.

Many recall that a similar speculative spree in 1961, with little-known stocks getting the major play, was followed by the big turndown in most stock prices in 1962.

In the first quarter of 1966 a record 540,700,000 shares changed hands on the New York Stock Exchange. Big Board officials are quick to point out that the number of shares listed on the exchange has advanced rapidly in the last few years, and that the number of individual stockowners also has grown.



EXCHANGE STEPS IN

But the exchange has several times stepped in to discourage speculative activity in specific issues by raising margin requirements for buying them.

On the American Stock Exchange, where many smaller companies with lower - priced stocks are listed, trading volume so far this year has set a record of 307,900,000 shares. The previous record for this time of year was 136,650,000 a year ago.

Edwin Etherington, American Stock Exchange president, says the turnover figures and wide price swings of some stocks listed on this exchange show an "unusual degree of speculation."

He notes that the turnover ratio — the number of shares traded as a percentage of the number of shares listed—was running at an annual rate of 82 per cent in the first 10 days of April. In the first quarter of 1966 the rate was 56 per cent. In 1961 its high was 77 per cent, while in 1947 through 1949 the rate was at a low of 11 per cent.

Teacher Living in Nigeria Tells Of Preparing for Rainy Season

By DON LOCKYER

Editor's Note:—The author of this article, son of Mrs. C. G. Lockyer, Bleecker Avenue, was a Belleville public school principal before going, with his wife and three daughters, to Northern Nigeria last fall. Mr. Lockyer is an instructor at Bichi Training College for teachers, located near the ancient city of Kano. His two year term of service in Nigeria, is sponsored by the Canadian Government's External Aid Department. This is the first of two articles, the second will appear tomorrow.

Have you ever given much attention to the beauty of a well-formed cloud ? Yesterday, that's exactly what my friend and I did. In fact, there was great excitement in our household when my wife exclaimed, "Look, there's a cloud !" What a special cloud it was, too, for we had not seen one for the past five months.

This Fulani farmer is wearing a traditional Fulani style hat. The neck and sleeves of his rega (white gown) are embroidered in intricate patterns.

Here, in Northern Nigeria, we have experienced no rain since last October. Each day has been remarkably similar to the previous one. The only diversion from the blue sky has been the frequent but unpredictable appearance of the Harmattan, a dust - laden wind which blows off the Sahara Desert. During the periods of Harmattan, breathing is extremely difficult; visibility is greatly reduced, often to a few yards; the sunlight barely manages to filter through as a weak hazy light.

Even though clouds have reappeared, rain is still not expected for another two months, that is, until June April and May are exceedingly hot months since the sun then passes directly overhead. Shade temperatures are now reaching 110 degrees, which, combined with a rationed water supply, make living somewhat challenging here on our "bush" compound.

EARLY CLASSES BEAT THE HEAT

In order to beat the sun, classes at the College begin at 7:30 a.m. and finish by 2 p.m. Regardless, by the end of the day's lessons, both student and staff effort has been sapped. A few days ago the first term ended, and the students left for a two-month break. When they return, at the end of May, the rains will have begun, and, hopefully, the present water shortage will have ended.

During the afternoons we remain indoors, trying to rest. Our daughters, young and active, go off to their bedroom and pass these hours playing with their dolls, coloring, and reading; it is far too hot to consider doing anything more strenuous.

As a result we greatly enjoy the late afternoons and evenings, when, because it is a little cooler, we manage to go for walks, play tennis, or visit with other families on the compound.

STAFF A UNITED NATIONS

How fortunate we are to have such a congenial group here at our station. It's truly a "United Nations" staff, composed of English, Irish, American, Indian, and Nigerian teachers, as well as one Canadian.

In anticipation of the rains, the local inhabitants are putting in many hours repairing their mud dwellings and mending the grass roofs. As well, several families are constructing entirely new compounds. Fathers, mothers, sons and daughters, can be seen erecting, with enormous pride, new homes, and fences of cornstalk.

As a special treat for our daughters, my wife and I have arranged for a local builder to construct a mud play - house close to our quarters. How marvellous it is to watch the builder at work, using methods and tools which, I am sure, have endured for countless generations. The cost of one mud-play-house of ten foot diameter, complete with thatched roof and built-in shelves — $7.50!

Being located well out in "bush" we have splendid opportunities to observe the Hausa and Fulani in their daily living. Family compounds surround the Training College. A frequent experience, enjoyed by the entire family, is to visit one of these compounds, exchange greetings, and watch the members of the household as they perform their chores: grinding the corn, weaving cloth, carving calabash pots, firing clay pots, and like tasks.

Although geographically Northern Nigeria is in West Africa the atmosphere and patterns of living have a Middle East or North African emphasis. Christian influence has been, and continues to be, slight. The two main tribes of the region, the Hausa and Fulani, have been Moslem for generations. Koranic schools may be found everywhere; Arabic is a subject on the primary school timetable. The holy day of the week is Friday, not Sunday. We can readily hear the calls to prayer, five times a day, as the devout face Mecca, and bow on bended knees in homage to Allah.

Firm's Growth Outlined at Rotary Meet

NAPANEE — Napanee Rotarians learned about one of the town's growing industries at the luncheon meeting Tuesday. Ed. R. A. Racine business vice - president of the Napanee Industries, Ltd., outlined the growth of the firm from the days when it took over the old Napanee Iron Works, until today, when it has over 300 employees.

Mr. Robert (Bob) Curran vice - president in charge of production, exhibited the pictures and charts which illustrated the address.

Introducing Mr. Racine, Rotarian Harry Taylor stated that he joined the firm in 1959 in the accounting department. Two years later he was put in charge of the railroad car specialties as assistant works manager. This year he became vice-president.

"Bob" Curran, joined the Napanee Iron Works in 1946 and has seen all the changes which have taken place in the 20 years he has been with the firm.

Napanee Industries, Limited, is an all - Canadian company, Mr. Racine told the audience, which turns back all its profits into expansion. A new building costing $117,000 is to be erected this year, and capital expenditure for the year is set at $400,000. "With this expansion will come the demand for more employees," the speaker concluded.

Mr. Racine and Mr. Curry were thanked by President Robert Wartman, who presented each with a gift.

The problem of dealing with dogs running at large again came up, and a motion was passed empowering the police committee to have a dogcatcher. Kennels which are being prepared in the former hydro building are almost ready, Council learned from Councillor Clayton Brooks.

Council directed a letter be sent requesting a meeting with representatives of the Water Resources Commission, and the engineers, to give a report on the progress to date regarding installation of a sewage system, and an approximate date of the beginning of the work. They received from Councillor Marks a report on the work planned this year on Centennial Park, and decided to hold a public meeting April 28 so that Council and the committee could outline plans and stimulate interest in the project. The hours of parking on Main Street were a topic of discussion during the day and it was decided to limit the time.

As so many people attending the races at the Mohawk Drag-strip are strangers who have to inquire in town as to its location, Council decided to request the management of the dragstrip to put up directive signs in strategic places.

government to control the auto insurance industry.

He said he did not favor a government take-over of auto insurance but public concern might ultimately demand this and cost 5,000 insurance agents their jobs.

He suggested the government set up a committee to review complaints, and should not accept-insurance companies' complaints that they lose money on auto insurance.

Insurance companies that cancel policies should be forced by the government to file a written reason for the cancellation.

The government should examine premium rates and look into the whole question of lack of competition in rates to determine whether Canada's fair trade practices laws have been breached.

Mr. Singer said that in good years insurance companies take their profits, but in bad years increase premiums.

arduous the work would become. Most have interrupted their careers for months or years.

The difficulties are numerous: the commission's terms of reference cover a huge field, conflicting opinions abound and factual documentation is scarce.

Commissioners and senior research consultants split up into seven "task forces" in January to study different aspects. Their subject matter:

—The present extent of bilingualism in the civil service, the armed forces, Crown corporations and federal agencies and ways of increasing it. A major research project was needed just to find out exactly how many French-Canadians work for the government. Nobody ever counted them before.

—The extent and methods of teaching mother and second languages in the school systems of the 10 provinces. Could language other than English and French be taught in certain areas where demand is sufficient?

RIGHTS PROTECTED?

—Does the British North America Act adequately protect language and education rights or should it be expanded? Should French be an official language in provinces other than Quebec?

—The right accorded the 3,000,000 French - Canadians living outside Quebec and the 1,000,000 English - speaking residents of Quebec. Is it fair and equal?

—The other ethnic groups, each one with its particular characteristics. Are they treated fairly? How can they best make their cultural contributions?

—The performance of the press, broadcasters and other mass media in informing Canadians about each other.

—The performance of political institutions, business, labor unions and voluntary associations in relation to language and cultural factors.

Most key issues remain under consideration.

The inquiry's research staff of 110 and about 100 outside consultants have only reached the halfway mark in their work. A total of 174 research reports have been or will be drafted. Work is running to thousands of pages.

Government troops and police broke up a demonstration by about 1,000 students in the mountain city of Dalat, 140 miles northeast of Saigon, as agitation against Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's military regime continued despite a promise by the Buddhist leadership to call off the protests.

A warning of a possible coup came Wednesday night from a representative of Ky's Viet Nam's leading political monk, Thich Tri Quang, at a rally of 4,000 Buddhist militants.

Quang's deputy, Thich Tien Minh, said the uprising might be staged this week to nullify the regime's pledge to the Buddhists to hold elections in three to five months. Minh, director of Buddhist youth affairs and co-chairman of the anti-government buddhist struggle committee, did not identify the alleged plotters but implied they were members of the ruling junta.

Minh's words are usually regarded as a reflection of the thinking of Quang, who was the central figure in the months-long Buddhist campaign against the government.

Judge Who Made Legal History Faces New Monumental Task

By JOHN LeBLANC

TORONTO (CP)—For more than a month a spare octogenarian who has made considerable Canadian history has been engaged in what must be one of the heaviest tasks ever imposed on a jurist in this country.

Ivan C. Rand, whose age forced him off the Supreme Court of Canada by statute seven years ago, will be 82 next Wednesday, April 27. On that day he will probably be doing a couple of value-size briefcases up the broad steps of the Supreme Court building in Ottawa—and continuing to make history.

For he has the burden of presiding at the first formal Canadian inquiry into the judicial morality of a superior court justice. He is to render an opinion on whether Mr. Justice Leo Landreville, a 5½ years on the Supreme Court of Ontario, is fit to continue in office.

His investigation for the federal government — touched off by parliamentary proddings — is to determine whether the personable and dapper 56-year-old judge, a former Sudbury mayor, Liberal politician and one of the most successful lawyers in the history of Northern Ontario, was guilty of impropriety affecting his high office in his dealings with much - investigated Northern Ontario Natural Gas Company.

Mr. Justice Landreville's career is on the line. But more than that is at stake. The field of judicial behavior is a nebulous area, largely unexplored in Canada, and the findings of the Rand inquiry could lead to a more explicit definition of standards for members of the bench.

NOTED FOR DECISIONS

Adding new dimension to the law is not an unfamiliar role for the former Justice presiding over this case. When he wore the ermine of the Supreme Court between 1943 and 1956, he wrote more than 500 judgments. They were noted for incisiveness, a liberal philosophy and a deep knowledge of, and respect for, the law. Some are famous.

He had no hesitancy about batting down entrenched legislation. In 1957 he destroyed Quebec's noted anti-Communist "Padlock Law" as an interference with free speech, and one of his decisions likewise put an end to the use of seditious libel law to pursue the religious sect Jehovah's Witnesses in that province.

In the public mind, he is best known as the innovator of the "Rand formula" for the collection of union dues from non-union employees of a firm It was devised as an emergency solution to a big post-war strike in the auto industry and since has become widely accepted.

On the bench in Canada's highest court—adjoining the Exchequer Court room where he will begin the last phase of the Landreville hearings Monday — he came to be known as a judge of stern and chilly exterior but inward kindliness. The high-priced counsel who hadn't done his homework might get clouted around. An inexperienced and jittery lawyer fumbling away a worthy cause probably would get a helping hand.

KEEPS MIND HONED

The years haven't dimmed the mental acuity of the judge who has been called one of Canada's two greatest. Since his bench retirement he has kept it honed with such things as running a royal commission on the Maritime coal industry for the federal government and setting up and heading—until 1964—a law school at the University of Western Ontario in London.

Now the tall figure has more of a stoop and there are deeper furrows about the craggy features, but the familiar thrust of chin and frosty glint behind the spectacles are still danger signals. A few witnesses with fuzzy testimony got chewed up mildly in the interests of lucidity.

Clarity of thought was a hallmark of Mr. Justice Rand on the bench, and it will get a difficult workout when he comes to write his decision. The issues are far from the open - and - shut question of law-breaking, and they also cut across the two careers of Mr. Justice Landreville—the municipal politician and the judge There is no real legal precedent available for guidance the commissioner will have to make, his own.

So far the evidence—and only Mr. Justice Landreville's remains to be heard—has not turned up anything basically changed from what has trickled out in dribs and drabs since a disputed stock arrangement between the judge and gas company officials was uncovered in 1962. The bare bones of it is that NONG got a municipal gas franchise from Sudbury during Mayor Landreville's tenure in 1956 and several months later — after he had gone to the bench—he received free 7,500 shares of company stock. These turned out to be worth about $117,000.

WAS GIVEN OPTION

According to the evidence, the share deal came about this way: While the NONG franchise was still hanging fire but pretty sure to pass city council, the mayor proposed to company executives that he should go to work for it in a legal capacity after leaving office, and this was agreed to. He was to be given a stock option deal, as had been done for others in the firm.

His appointment to the bench cancelled any obligation under the option, according to NONG President Ralph K. Farris of Vancouver, but at the judge-designate's request the stock plan went ahead anyway. In February of 1957, Mr. Justice Landreville got a letter from a Vancouver brokerage firm enclosing 7,500 shares.

The brokerage firm's books showed that the stock came out of a block of 14,000 shares which its president declared he had been directed to buy by Farris (who was to be convicted of perjury in 1964 for telling an Ontario government investigation in 1959 that he did not know where these shares went). The broker also told the Rand inquiry that Farris directed the Landreville sale out of this block.

On the firm's books, 10,000 shares were shown as having been allotted to the judge at a price of $2.50 and simultaneously 7,500 of these sold at $10 to clear off the $25,000 price. The second ($10) sale was shown as charged to Farris' personal account. The inquiry received several versions of why this was done, most suggesting it was without Farris' knowledge.

There was also some question as to whether Mr. Justice Landreville actually had some direction over the trade or was just handed the stock after book entries were made. In any case, the broker said he did not pay anything —including brokerage fees.

FORGOT AGENT?

When Mr. Justice Landreville was interviewed here by two RCMP officers in 1962 after news of the stock trade had leaked out, according to their evidence, he told them he had ordered the stock through an agent at Sudbury. He could not remember the name of the agent, they said.

Commissioner Rand's task is to determine, under his terms of reference, whether all this "constituted misbehavior in Mr. Justice Landreville's official capacity as a judge" or whether he "has by such dealings proved himself unfit for the proper exercise of his judicial duties."

There is no question of convicting the judge of anything. In 1964 he was charged with municipal corruption under the Criminal Code—and Farris was charged with offering bribes to speed up NONG's franchises—but the judge was cleared at preliminary hearing and the proceedings against the company head in that connection were dropped. Witnesses who were in the Sudbury municipal arena at the time of the franchise debate—some of them holding opposed views to the then mayor—have been unanimous in telling Mr. Rand that he used no undue muscle on behalf of the gas company. In fact, there was considerable evidence that much of the impetus for action came from the Ontario Fuel Board which wanted to make sure that Northern Ontario communities did not miss out on hooking up with the east-west - bound pipeline of Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd.

After the 1964 criminal proceedings, Mr. Justice Landreville went back to his bench duties and that might have been the end of it had it not been disclosed last year that the Law Society of Upper Canada (Ontario) had called on the federal government to remove the judge from office. It cannot do this—only Parliament can—and it turned the problem over, at least for the critical stage of rounding up and analyzing the evidence, to the retired Mr. Rand. One way or another, his findings are sure to reverberate in Parliament later.

HIS DECISION WILL MAKE HISTORY AGAIN — Former Supreme Court of Canada Justice Ivan C. Rand, (above) whose decisions have made legal history in Canada, is conducting the first formal Canadian inquiry into the judicial morality of a superior court judge. He must render an opinion on whether Mr. Justice Landreville of the Supreme Court of Ontario, has proved unfit to continue in office, because of his dealings with Northern Ontario Natural Gas Company. only three votes—and then sidetracked for the election that gave Prime Minister Harold Wilson a majority of 97 in the Commons.

Foreign policy was basically unchanged.

But there was a slight shift in emphasis on the European Common Market, reflecting Wilson's position outlined during the election campaign.

In addition to working for links between the Common Market and the European Free Trade Association, the government said it would be ready to enter the European Economic Community provided essential British and Commonwealth interests were safeguarded."

NATIONALIZE STEEL

On steel nationalization, the throne speech said: "A bill will be introduced to restore public ownership and control of the main part of the steel industry."

This means the country's largest steel firms which dominate the industry.

The government pledged legislation to reinforce its policy of balancing prices, wages and productivity according to government guidelines. This is expected to include a bill forcing manufacturers and unions to report increases in prices and wages—and delay them for examination if the government insists.

The cabinet also proposed an industrial reorganization corporation to finance new and faltering industries which could help the economy become more efficient. The governmentsponsored stronger investment incentives for economic expansion—ants to install more modern machinery.

The government also said it would bring in legislation to reform labor relations on the docks and reorganize their administration. Dock disputes have affected the country's vital export program.

U.S. Pacifists

ernment ordered all six to leave the country "as soon as possible" Wednesday after denying their request to spend an additional five days in Viet Nam. They quietly entered the country last Thursday. As U.S. citizens they were allowed seven days without Vietnamese visas.

The group's trip to Saigon was financed by the Committee for Non-Violent Action at a cost of $10,200, Mr. Muste said.

The pacifists shunned publicity for the first six days of their stay in Saigon, meeting privately with various South Vietnamese. But they exploded into the limelight Wednesday when they tried to hold a press conference in the Caravelle Hotel in defiance of authorities who contended they had no permit.

After the pacifists, police and about 100 correspondents staged a chase through the corridors of the hotel, officials let the Americans meet the press in the Saigon city hall later in the afternoon.

That gathering broke up in an uproar when 50 hostile South Vietnamese youths hurled eggs, tomatoes and insults at the Americans. "Communist go home! Go home to North Viet Nam!" the students shouted while police stood by.

ART BOOM REPLACES MINING BOOM — Claude Grenier, a 35-year-old artist from Chicoutimi, Que., is helping the Eskimos of Rankin Inlet substitute art for nickel mining. When the mines closed in 1962 the government relief bill ran to $10,000 a month. Now, with the Eskimos producing ceramics under his direction, it has dropped to $600. A bank and a department store have placed large orders. (CP Photo)

Boom Times Are in Prospect For Art Capital of Far North

By STUART LAKE

RANKIN INLET, N.W.T. (CP) Boom times appear to be around the corner once again for this predominantly Eskimo community along the west coast of Hudson Bay.

Between 1957 and 1962 cash flowed into the pockets of residents from the operations of the North Rankin Nickel Mines Ltd. The boom ended when the mines closed in late 1962.

Today the Eskimo talent for handicrafts, carvings and pottery has led some to call Rankin the coming art centre of the North.

The switch from mining to art was accomplished under Claude Grenier, a 36-year-old artist from Chicoutimi, Que., hired as a crafts development officer by the northern affairs department.

A graduate in fine arts from Laval University, Mr. Grenier recalls his first days here in 1963 coaxing Eskimos to come to work under him in a shed-like building set aside for his use.

Both Mr. Grenier and the Eskimos were going through a trying period then.

Mr. Grenier came to Rankin with little knowledge of the English language. His first few months here weren't helped by lack of co-operation from other government employees and his prolonged efforts to find a suitable home for his young family.

The Eskimos themselves were learning to do without the wages they once earned as miners and get by on welfare payments.

The government relief bill for the community of some 300 persons then ran about $10,000 monthly. Today it is less than $600.

Mr. Grenier estimates the art colony comprising about 100 persons earns $2,000 monthly now and is convinced the ceramics works will find ready buyers in the south.

"It will go boom" when it reaches retail outlets, he said.

George Swinton of Winnipeg, a well-known art collector, appears to agree. He has placed a $2,000 order on behalf of the Toronto-Dominion Bank.

And a large Montreal department store, with an eye to centennial year, is ready to place a $7,000 order.

A small circle of private citizens are outspoken in their admiration for what Mr. Grenier has done in Rankin, but there's some hesitation among government officials.

While Mr. Swinton already has selected the ceramics he wants to buy for the bank, they are being held in Ottawa. An official there said more finishing work must be done on them before they can be sold.

The same holds true for the Montreal order.

The Ottawa view is that the market for Rankin pottery could be destroyed by selling what has been done so far. It is the intention to send a pottery expert to Rankin this year to help Mr. Grenier put the finishing touches to the Eskimo talent.

The feeling in Rankin is that this is not necessary.

Bang Boxcars in Research Aimed at Cutting Damage

By BOB MacKENZIE

OTTAWA (CP) — They're banging boxcars together at a special railway siding near Uplands Airport, but the railways don't mind.

They hope it will lead to a considerable saving in damage losses to freight shipments.

It's all part of a major research project seeking ways to eliminate part of a million - dollar losses in claims for damaged shipments. In 1964, railways in North America paid $143,000,000 for damage claims and the estimated loss for 1965 was more than $130,000,000.

The Uplands project initiated by Canadian railways in co-operation with the National Research Council is aimed at finding ways of reducing the damage by studying packing procedures and the actions of long trains.

S. H. G. Connock, head of the instrument section of NRC's mechanical engineering division, says he hopes the study will lead to improved design of freight cars and the components, including coupling and loading patterns, as well as improved stability for long trains.

"We must have a better understanding of the behavior of various classes of goods and of the freight cars and their components under conditions of impact."

The tests are being conducted at a special 200-foot railway siding which has a ramp and laboratory building.

The impact studies involve use of two cars—an "anvil" car on the level track a selected distance from the ramp and a "hammer" car which is winched up the ramp, then released so it will hit the lower car at a specified speed.

Special instruments record the reaction of the loads, cars and component parts at impact.

Road tests also are being conducted on regular railway freight remking from movement of the train and riding characteristics of the car.

Results of these studies are being used in a computer program to determine a mathematical model to simulate certain train actions which could prove costly and dangerous in tests runs to study the behavior of using actual trains.

SPORTS SLICES

By Geo. H. Carver
Sports Editor

A ten-years-old "dream" of the Belleville Fish and Game Club has become a reality.

Directors of a decade ago first considered the purchase of property for development as a conservation area — or both.

During that time several pieces of farm land in Thurlow township were examined and the suitability explored.

The end of the trail of a long and exhaustive search has finally been reached.

The club has acquired the lease of seventy-five acres lying between the sixth concession of Thurlow, Parks Creek and the Moira River.

To reach the property members and others turn directly east from the Home for Retarded Children.

The area, club directors say, is one of the few remaining virtually untouched pieces of property in this district.

Present plans call for the development of the property as a conservation-recreation area with a minimum of disturbance, thus leaving it in its natural state.

The property was known as shelter ducks, partridge, woodcock, a family of deer and a miscellany of small game.

In 1963 a colony of beaver moved in, built a new dam on the creek causing flooding of a considerable areasome of it to a depth of four feet.

The directors liked it since it is situated within a few miles of the city and accessible the year round.

The property was controlled by the Moira River Conservation Authority and under the management of the Lands and Forests Department.

Leasing of the property required a tremendous amount of red tape. Actually a petition to the legislature and the passing of an order-in-council were necessary before final approval was given.

The co-operation of the Authority and the Department of Lands and Forests was readily given and directors are greatly appreciative of the efforts of former chairman George Whhart the then secretary Jim McLeod and past chairman Bruce Smith of the Authority.

The immediate plan is to appoint a committee which will include personnel of the Authority and Lands and Forests officials. Bruce Kerr has been named committee chairman.

Land and Forests has already been asked to undertake a survey and make recommendations as to proper land use.

Directors state that all future developments will require the expenditure of funds — and there will be plenty of work for all members.

They point out that in accordance with the terms of the lease hunting is strictly forbidden as is the carrying of firearms or discharge of firearms and/or archery equipment on the property.

Matchmaker Tricked

100 Women See Fight!

VANCOUVER (CP) — Light-heavyweight Eddie Cotton, a veteran of 20 years in the ring, jabbed his way to a stutout victory over German heavyweight Emil Ulrich in a pro boxing card here Wednesday.

Cotton, 39, from Seattle, won all 10 rounds on all three judges' cards in the over-the-weight 15-rounder.

The bout was the main event on a card at which women were to be banned from attending because the promoting syndicate, Thunderhill Inc. of Seattle, believes boxing "is the last stronghold of the male species."

The ban was broken Tuesday after some fast footwork by Cotton's manager George Chemeres. About 100 of the 1,000 persons who saw the bout were women.

Chemeres tricked matchmaker Dave Brown when he announced a cartel of managers of fighters involved on the card had taken over direction and were dictating policy, said Thunderhill president Windsor Moore.

"He faked a tiephone call to me in Seattle," Olson said, "and then he told Brown that I had admitted defeat. He told Davey to go ahead and change our advertising and announce to the public that the ban was lifted."

Habs' Trigger-Fingers Getting Itchy

RALPH BACKSTROM

By AL McNEIL

MONTREAL (CP) — Several Montreal Canadiens piled up points against Detroit Red Wings in the National Hockey League this season, but not centre Ralph Backstrom.

Backstrom, the Kirkland Lake, Ont., flash, finished the regular 70-game schedule with 42 points on 22 goals and 20 assists, but he couldn't score a goal against Detroit.

The Wings and Canadiens open their best-of-seven Stanley Cup final series here Sunday and Backstrom is hoping he can break the hex that Detroit netminder Roger Crozier has had over him.

While left - winger Gilles Tremblay accounted for 19 goals against the Wings, Bobby Rousseau seven, Claude Provost five and Jean Beliveau four, Backstrom couldn't buy one of the 42 goals Canadiens scored against Detroit in their 14 season meetings.

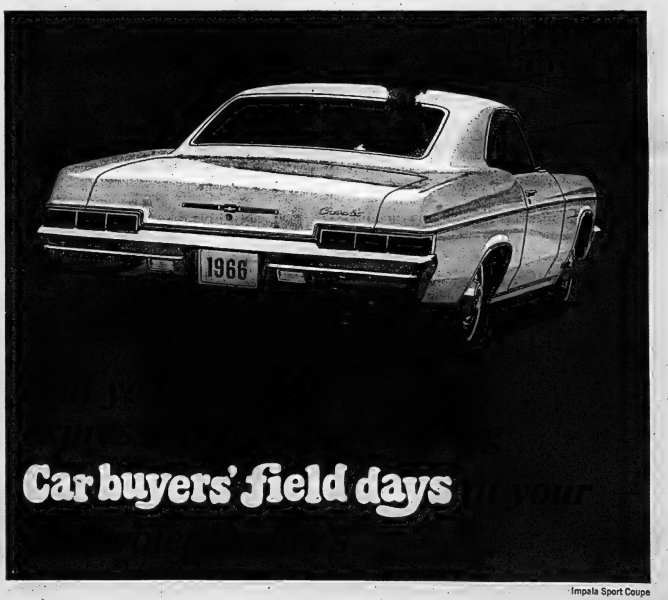
Montreal eliminated Toronto Maple Leafs in four straight games to advance to the final. Detroit got rid of Chicago Black Hawks in six games, winning the semi-final 4-2.

Backstrom, who scored a goal and two assists against Toronto, still looks forward to the final against Detroit. He says both clubs favor the skating game which suits his style of play.

HAS MORE CONFIDENCE

"I've got more confidence now," Backstrom said, after Canadiens' Wednesday workout. "Anytime I'm shooting the puck rather than just getting rid of it to my wings, I seem to go better."

He said that both coach Toe Blake and general manager Sam Pollock "stress that he carry the puck more.



"If I get the puck in our end, and I can get away from the first man forechecking against me, I feel I have a good chance of getting all the way down the ice with it. Now all I have to do is get a goal against Detroit."

Team - mate Henri Richard, sidelined with a knee injury in the second game of the Toronto series, said he felt like his old self at the Wednesday workout.

"It's taking me some time to get back into shape but I think I am back to 100 per cent."

The teams play here Sunday afternoon and Tuesday night with the third and fourth games at Detroit Olympia next Thursday night and Sunday afternoon.

Chevrolet builds a great deal into every one of its 15 models!

Car buyers' field days

Impala Sport Coupe

What makes one car a better buy than another? It's not just price! The car itself is mighty important. What it's got, what its reputation is like, what it's going to be worth when you trade again. Then look at price, trade-in allowance and the final deal. When you take them all into account, you'll come to the same conclusion thousands of Canadians reach every year — Chevrolet builds a great deal into every one of its cars, so you get a great deal when you buy.

What's Chevrolet got? Everything. A ride so easy going we call it Jet-smoother. A choice of engines that starts at 155 hp and tops off at 425 hp. A Body by Fisher that's a show-stopper. An interior that's a dream. And there's standard safety equipment such as outside-inside rearview mirrors, backup lights, padded instrument panel and sun visors, 2-speed wipers and washers and seat belts front and rear.

What's Chevrolet's reputation like? Impeccable. Chevrolet dependability is legend in the industry. That's why so many fleets choose Chevrolet. And what's it going to be worth when you trade? Chevrolets have traditionally brought higher trade-in allowances. Now, as to the deal. Your Chevrolet dealer is in the middle of his peak selling period — Car Buyers' Field Days — so he's in a position to give you the best price for your trade-in (no matter what make or model), the best deal in town and express delivery on just about any Caprice, Impala, Bel Air or Biscayne.

Now, when are you coming? Make it soon, because there's a great deal waiting for you at your Chevrolet dealer's during Car Buyers' Field Days.

Imlach Tosses "Punch" Lines

Squelches Rumors

TORONTO (CP)—Punch Imlach is one top management representative who has no quarrel with his producers. But some of his non-producers may be in trouble.

The plain - spoken general manager-coach of Toronto Maple Leafs, whose signature of s three - year contract was announced Wednesday, promptly squelched a few rumors that have floated around the Leaf camp since Montreal Canadiens eliminated Toronto in four straight games in their Stanley Cup semi-final.

The first rumor—that Imlach was moving to Los Angeles to handle the new National Hockey League team there—collapsed automatically when Imlach, who has a year to go under his present contract, extended it to four with the new pact.

"I never told anybody I wanted to leave Toronto," said Imlach, although he admitted having casual conversations with representatives of Los Angeles, one of the six teams due to join the NHL when it doubles its size in the 1967-8 season.

The conversations died when Leaf president Stafford Smythe signed him up Tuesday, five days after the team bowed out of the Stanley Cup picture.

ENDS ONE RUMOR

"I guess the message from the Gardens that I'll be back should take care of the prima donnas," Imlach said Wednesday night.

That led the 48-year-old firebrand to the second rumor, that three unnamed Leafs were prepared to retire rather than continue playing for Imlach.

"If that garbage is true, I've got a reason for knowing why some of them played so badly in spots," he said.

To drive the point home, Imlach took off on a scouting trip to see what replacements might be available in the Leaf farm system.

The closest thing to a comment on the rumors of player disenchantment came from Eddie Shack, the rough-hewn refugee from Imlach's doghouse whose 28 goals were one of the pleasanter surprises of the club's 1965-6 campaign.

SCORING SAVES TROUBLE

"I don't have trouble with Punch as long as I score goals," said Shack, the only Leaf to score two in the playoffs.

Imlach has been criticized for working his players too hard in practice and leaving them too tired to be effective in competition. Some players voicing such sentiments have been traded away in past years.

The club's record in the eight Imlach years hardly bears out his critics. The Leafs' thirdplace finish this season gave them a first, three seconds, two thirds and two fourths, with three Stanley Cups thrown in, since he took over.

A staunch Imlach booster is Frank (King) Clancy, ex, the onetime referee, coach and star defenceman who announced Wednesday he will stay on as Punch's assistant for at least one more year.

"This is a guy who came all the way from China eight years ago with nothing and built a dynasty," Clancy said. "The Toronto organization had 28 players when he arrived and now we have between 30 and 160. This guy is the biggest professional in the country."

Letter To The Sports Editor

A THANK-YOU TO MINOR HOCKEY

First of all I want to thank the Belleville Minor Hockey Association for presenting to me the trophy inscribed; "Miss Official Scorer B.M.H.A. Pee Wee Division 1965-66".

It was a great honor to stand among all the boys receiving their awards and receive one myself.

I truthfully hope that more females in the future will take an interest in minor hockey. It has given me the chance to meet and work with many people and to understand the feelings of many parents and boys.

It was all through my brother that I took an interest in minor hockey and I am sure that more brothers would appreciate the co - operation of their sisters.

If more teenagers made themselves available for minor hockey services their interest would soon become as great as mine.

Canadian Legion Track Program Success

MONTREAL (CP)—The track and field program sponsored by the Royal Canadian Legion has been so successful that it is in danger from apathy, the ex-servicemen's organization was told Wednesday by its president.

"Too many of us are taking the program for granted," said Fred O'Brien, chairman of the sports training plan. The national coaches' clinics, started in 1962, have given more than 800 courses at Guelph University, with training benefits extending to 32,000 Canadians.

More than 2,000 were participating in track and field programs and another 30,000 were benefitting from instruction by legion trained coaches in schools.

"But it is something that can be carried on exclusively at the international or provincial level," he said. "We need the participation of more branches.

"This doesn't mean a 55-year-old veteran has to go out on a track and teach youngsters to sprint. But every legion branch has the manpower, the contacts and resources to help a track and field club."

The program for 1966 includes a national clinic for young athletes to be held at the University of Alberta from June 26 to July 2, the first of its kind in Canada, with the participants chosen by the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada; a national clinic for track and field coaches at Guelph University from Aug. 16 to Aug. 24, and a series of trans-Canada clinics to be conducted by Geoff Dyson, director of the program.

Dyson, signed to a five-year contract until 13,000 are in 1972 to conduct the sports training program, is returning to his native Britain for a new job in 1968.

Sailing Class Laid Over For A Week

Lesson number two in the 1966 series of Adult Sailing Classes has been postponed for one week.

Bay of Quinte Yacht Club Ben Guyer reported that owing to a conflict of dates, the Club would not be available for the second lesson tonight.

"It's unfortunate, but we have no alternative but to one the session until n. urday. Perhaps it will give more people a chance to decide to sign up for the course too. There is still room for many more, and we'd like to see them down here at the Club."

Trappers Asked For Generals

NORTH BAY (CP) — Matt Leyden of Oshawa, president of the Ontario Hockey Association, said Wednesday night the Northern Ontario Hockey Association refused an offer of different playoff arrangements this year.

"We suggested . . . that it meet the Ottawa District team in the first round of the playoffs," Leyden said.

"We even offered to waive our share of gate receipts. But the NOHA refused. They wanted to meet the OHA winner first."

Leyden said Oshawa's fourth game here of a best-of-seven series between Oshawa Generals and North Bay Trappers. Oshawa won the game 10-6 and the series 4-0.

He was commenting on remarks by NOHA spokesmen that northern teams are being victimized by poor supervision from the OHA first round.

"I can only don't even know the rules of their own Association," said Leyden. "We didn't want to cause a row. We would have preferred to lengthen our own schedule."

Meet Shawinigan Falls

Generals Finish Trapper Romp

NORTH BAY (CP)—The statistics don't show it, but Oshawa Generals may have lost a little of their sharpness following their sweep Wednesday night of a series against North Bay Trappers in the Memorial Cup eastern - Canada best-of-seven quarter-final.

The Generals swamped the Trappers 10-0 in the fourth game, opening up with three goals in the first period, slamming in five more in the second and two in the third.

Billy White scored three of the goals. Defenceman Bobby Orr added two and others went to Bob Dickson, Roger Crowley, Bob Black, Ron Dussiaume and Bill Heindl.

The series figures show that the Generals outscored the Trappers 44-8 and outshot them 252-96.

But Oshawa coach Bep Guidolin isn't happy.

EXPECTS TOUGH SERIES

"We're looking for a tough series against Shawinigan. It's pretty hard to play three to get up for these games, but I know they will be ready for the Bruins."

The Generals meet the Bruins of Quebec in a best-of-five Eastern Canada finals. The series opens in Oshawa Saturday, with the second game in Oshawa Monday and the next three scheduled for Shawinigan.

Also not overjoyed about the outcome of the series was North Bay coach Pete Palangio.

He said he would not let his team meet the Eastern Hockey Association Junior A winner again if the Trappers win another Northern Ontario Hockey Association title.

"We haven't got a ghost of a chance against those teams. It's useless playing them. The only way we can compete against those teams is to draw at least 2,000 fans a game so that good junior players can be brought here to play."

About 1,823 fans sat through Wednesday night's game.

Barons Nip Indians, Aces Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

As far as Rochester American Hockey League fans are concerned, there's no place like home.

Home, for the last two months, has been the hockey rink occupied by a bowling tournament while the Americans set up shop in Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens for the tag end of the American Hockey League season.

Watched by 3,062 impartial Torontonians, the Americans took a 5-0 trimming from Quebec Aces Wednesday night and fell behind 2-1 in their best-of-seven Calder Cup semi - final after splitting the first two games in the unfriendlier atmosphere of Quebec.

Buoyed by their home fans, Cleveland Barons got off on the right foot in their best-of-three series against Springfield Indians, scoring a 3-1 victory in their bid for the other final berth.

Endurance once trailed by 300 points, but a four-hour rally tied the score at 4,476 with 34 hours remaining.

Olympic Games Banff Site Favorite

ROME (CP-AP)—Olympic officials said Wednesday that if not for the 1972 Olympic Games by Lahti, Finland, is weakened because the alpine ski events would have to be held elsewhere, possibly across the border in Sweden.

"The International Olympic Committee likes to see all the events staged in one centre," said one official.

This complication boosted the hopes of the three other cities bidding for the Games, with Banff, Alta., still the favorite to win the fight. Other bidders are Sapporo, Japan, and Salt Lake City, Utah.

Yoon Wakhloo, a member of the committee formed to promote Lahti's bid, said his community can stage Nordic events but lacks a proper alpine landscape for the slalom and downhill events.

MAY REJECT U.S.

A U.S. official said Salt Lake City's pitch may fail on the grounds that the United States has already staged the Winter Games twice, at Squaw Valley, N.Y., in 1932 and Squaw Valley, Calif., in 1960.

Finland's bid for the 1972 summer Games is also likely to get in the way of Salt Lake City's attempt to get the Winter Games because it is unlikely both games would be given to one country, observers said.

The strong Banff bid is likely to hurt Montreal's bid for the summer Games for the same reason. Others' bidding for the summer Games are Munich and Madrid.

The IOC opens its meeting Thursday. Games sites will be announced Tuesday.

Two Clutch Homers

Indians' Whitfield Yankee Nemesis

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Manager Johnny Keane supposedly has had a little talk with his New York Yankees. His might meet with more success if he had a long talk with Fred Whitfield.

Keane has minimized his meeting with the Yankees, but there was no way to minimize Whitfield's bat Wednesday night as the Cleveland first baseman continued his one-man assault on New York pitching by hammering a game-winning homer in the Indians' 4-2 victory.

Apparently upset at the Yankees' dismal start, Keane was reported to have blasted the players in a meeting before the Cleveland series got under way.

"The meeting was of a routine nature," said Keane. "It isn't anything for the press. It was a private meeting. We just went over some mistakes."

Keane now has two more mistakes to go over — Whitfield's homers.

Tuesday night, Whitfield provided all of Cleveland's runs with a homer in a 3-1 victory over New York, then Wednesday night he hit a two-run smash in the eighth inning that broke a 2-2 tie and gave the embattled Indians their sixth victory.

Whitfield murdered Yankee pitching last year, hitting 16 of his 26 homers against New York, and his latest homers have nailed the Yankees into last place in the American League with a 1-7 record—the worst in either league.

Elsewhere, Baltimore Orioles rode the hitting of Andy Etchebarren and Luis Aparicio to a 4-3 victory over Washington Senators, Tony Conigliaro hit his first homer as Boston Red Sox injured Detroit Tigers 5-3 and California Angels edged Chicago White Sox 4-3 in 11 innings. Minnesota Twins and Kansas City Athletics were rained out.

Etchebarren doubled and scored as the Orioles first run, then put Baltimore ahead to stay with a fifth-inning homer that broke a 1-1 tie. Aparicio stroked two doubles and a single, driving in the first run in a four-run seventh inning.

The Sox trailed the Tigers 3-1 when Conigliaro, last year's league home run king, connected in the sixth inning with two on and smashed his first 1966 homer with Lennie Green and Carl Yastrzemski aboard.

The Angels pushed across the winning run in the 11th when Bob Rodgers singled with two out, moved up on a walk to Ed Kranepool and scored on Joe Adcock's pinch-hit single.

Golfing Scorers Cancelled

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian Professional Golfers Association and the sponsoring company announced Wednesday night that the McNaughton Brooks bursaries for young Canadian golfers have been discontinued.

The announcement said the program, aimed at helping Canadian professionals under 30 to join the winter tour in the United States, has been halted because of stiffer qualifications set up by U.S. authorities for newcomers to the tour.

The bursaries, won in the past by George Knudson and Al Balding of Toronto, both now firmly established on the U.S. tournament circuit, went to the three low scorers in a 54-hole tournament held annually in Toronto.

The winners were enabled to compete in eight to 10 tournaments on the winter tour and also competed on the Canadian circuit.

"575-650 Feet" ... Bragan

Hank Aaron Clobbers Marathon Homer

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Hank Aaron, newest member of baseball's exclusive 400-homer club, has his potent bat aimed at another target.

Aaron poled a pair of home runs that helped Atlanta Braves rout Philadelphia Phillies 8-4 Wednesday night and the second one had Bobby Bragan's ruler giving a foot for every eight inches.

"It went between 575 and 650 feet," Bragan smiled in the Braves' dressing room. Then the Atlanta manager reflected for a moment. "I don't think the Babe ever hit one as far as Henry hit that one.

Aaron just nodded at Bragan's generous measure and the comparison with the legendary Ruth. He said he thought the historic homer went about 400 feet on the fly. "It was one of the longest home runs I ever hit."

What's next for the 32-year-old veteran of 13 seasons?

"Now I'm looking ahead to No. 500," Aaron told reporters. "I'll be happy with another 100 before I finish."

FOUR HAVE MORE

Only four active players, including Aaron's team-mate, Eddie Mathews, have more homers than the slugging right fielder. The others are Willie Mays of San Francisco Giants, Ernie Banks of Chicago Cubs and Mickey Mantle of New York Yankees.

Lee Thomas also homered for the Braves and added a pair of singles. Rico Johnson went all the way, permitting just six hits.

Elsewhere in the National League, Pittsburgh Pirates edged Cincinnati Reds 3-2 and Los Angeles Dodgers nipped Houston Astros 3-2. St. Louis Cardinals' game at New York and San Francisco game at Chicago were postponed.

Claude Osteen pitched his third straight complete game victory for the Dodgers, a seven-hitter.

Outfielder Al Ferrara walloped a second-inning homer and then drove in a tie-breaking run with a seventh-inning single that sent Los Angeles in front to stay.

Pinch-hitter Jose Pagan delivered Phillie's margin-winning run with a ninth-inning sacrifice fly. Pagan batted for the Pirates' No. 1 pinch hitter, Jerry Lynch, when lefthander Ted Davidson relieved Jack Hamilton. His fly ball brought Donn Clendenon home with the winning run.

Dupuis' Wife Heard Before Case Ended

SHERBROOKE, Que. (CP)— Hearing of testimony in the trial of Yvon Dupuis on charges of influence - peddling ended Wednesday with a brief appearance by Mr. Dupuis' wife, Roberte.

Defence and Crown lawyers are scheduled to sum up their cases today, and then presiding Judge Evender Veilleux will deliver his instructions to the jury.

Mr. Dupuis, a former minister without portfolio in the Quebec cabinet, is charged with having accepted $10,000 in return for his influence in efforts to obtain a provincial racetrack permit. The permit application was unsuccessful.

Lots of Girls Have Got MA This Way

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—Harvard boys are lining up for interviews with a Radcliffe girl who says she wants to get married for one year to escape dormitory life.

Only married students at Radcliffe College may live off campus, so to get around the regulation she has placed this advertisement in their Harvard Crimson:

"One-year marriage? Seems to be the only way for a girl to get out of the dorm. I'll share expenses, cook a good cook. Other details? We can work out. Coolact Crimson box 2,600."

So far, 13 eager boys have snapped at the bait to try to work out the terms of the proposed one-year marriage.

Richard Appleby, 20, of Great Neck, N.Y., who replied by mail, said:

"The trouble with American marriages is that we don't have enough practical experience. . . . Maybe this sort of thing is just what we need."

The Radcliffe girl declined to identify herself because she didn't want the whole bunch of nuts calling me."

"I just want to live off campus and earn my degree in history," she said, because it's "quieter there and I can get more work done."

"I really want a roommate, not a husband," she said, "but he's got to marry me to satisfy Radcliffe."

AT THE BELLE — The magnificent grouping of screen talent is an added bonus to Martin Ritt's "The Spy Who Came In From the Cold", a Paramount Picture, which is now showing at the Belle Theatre. Starring Richard Burton, Claire Bloom and Oskar Werner, "The Spy" is based on John le Carre's renowned and best-selling thriller of the same name.

Producer Not Allowed to Use Material

TORONTO (CP)—The executive producer of This Hour Has Seven Days said Wednesday night he was not allowed to telecast material collected about the Gerda Munsinger affair.

Douglas Leiterman, speaking on the Pierre Berton Show, said this included an interview with J. R. Donovan, a New York lawyer who has worked on United States security cases, and a man-on-the-street survey.

The Berton show, a daily television program carried to a number of stations in Canada, was broadcast on CFTO here.

Seven Days had negotiated an unrestricted interview with Mrs. Munsinger, Mr. Leiterman said, in which interviewers could have asked her anything they wanted about sex and security allegations in Ottawa. He said he was told later by his superiors at CBC it would not be proper to seek or execute such an interview.

FELT RESTRICTION

Norman DePoe interviewed Mrs. Munsinger in Munich for the CBC newsmagazine. Mr. Leiterman said he and others in his department felt the interview had been restricted.

He said Seven Days had interviewed Mr. Donovan, the lawyer who represented by appointment Russian spy Rudolph Abel who had been arrested in the U.S.

Mr. Donovan's comments on spying were interesting and relevant because of the security angle involved in the Munsinger affair, Mr. Leiterman said. Seven Days was not permitted to use the interview.

A man-on-the-street interview in the hometown of one of the persons accused of having intimate knowledge of Mrs. Munsinger was also banned.

"I don't know why," Mr. Leiterman said.

Montreal-Born Boy, Age 15, Is Talented Ballet Dancer

By HAROLD MORRISON

RICHMOND, England (CP)—Wayne Eagling is a talented dancing boy with a flair for dancing that has astonished the ballet teachers of Britain.

Brought to London from Montreal, Calif., where his parents now live, the sensitive, 15-year-old Montreal-born student is hard at work at the Royal Ballet school, preparing for a career that may take him to the distinguished Royal Ballet and the dance stages of the world.

But Eagling's road to fame appears to be studded with financial problems. The son of a garage mechanic, he is supported mainly by a one-year British Council bursary. Funds for at least another year's training must be found. His teachers hope the Council will help—otherwise they may seek funds from patrons in Britain.

"I tried to get a Canada Council grant at first," Wayne said the slender, fair - haired schoolboy, "but I was told I would have to go into a Canadian ballet company."

His British discoverers, including Ballet Rambert, the outstanding ballet performer, would like to keep him in Britain where, they feel, he would have far greater opportunities to launch a career in the international theatres. Those who saw him dance during a San Francisco audition describes Eagling as having "quite exceptional talent."

Wayne was six years old and had just completed kindergarten in Montreal when his parents decided to move their family of four to Monterey, just south of San Francisco. Wayne got a bicycle and started a color collection. One day he watched a brother and sister perform at a dancing school and he itched to try his own ability.

FOUND BALLET BEST

"I tried tap dancing and then jazz and other kinds of dancing. Now I want to be a classical dancer. I think the Swan Lake and Sleeping Beauty ballets are great."

To help pay his way across the Atlantic, Wayne sold his bicycle. Now he lives amid the serene pastoral scenes of Richmond Park at historic White Lodge, the former 18th-century royal residence that has become the centre of the Royal Ballet school.

For two hours each day he practises his steps under the guidance of some of Britain's most outstanding teachers. In a lobby are sketches of ballet scenes and paintings and drawings of some of the great performers. In one corner is a lifesize bronze statue of Margot Fonteyn, one of the world's most brilliant ballerinas.

In this atmosphere isolated from noisy, bustling London, of which Richmond now is a borough, Wayne and about 130 other students dream of a starry future. But amid the rustle of leotards and the tinkle of a piano are the sounds of scratchy pens and the thump of schoolbooks.

The fledgling dancers are subjected to a rigid British grammar school education, to prepare them for university in case they do not make the grade in their highly specialized, artistic field and must turn their efforts elsewhere.

Between the dance and schoolbooks, Wayne finds his day is occasionally his own. He watch television or see a movie at a nearby cinema. He writes home to Montreal every week. But loneliness seems no major concern. A British Council official has been appointed as Wayne's "guardian" to give him guidance and assist him over the hurdles.

AFFECT POLIO
OTTAWA (CP)—Illegal immigrants who have taken advantage of Canada's relaxed visitors' visa are playing havoc with the country's selective immigration policy, Immigration Minister Marchand said Wednesday night, but deportation was not the answer. Of the estimated 20,000 aliens in Canada illegally about 13,000 have applied for permits at landed immigrants, he told the Ottawa Board of Trade.

Academy Event Seems To Grow More Ritualistic

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Academy aftermath . . . Gregory Peck gazed serenely at the incredible clamor of the Oscar ball.

"We put up with it," he said, "because it is our tribal rite."

Indeed the Academy Awards event seems to grow more ritualistic and tribal as the years pass. There are many who carp at the tedium of awards, the endlessness of the telecast, the inevitable thanks to fellow workers by the winners, the utter chaos of the ball afterward.

Yet the Oscar affair seems to work. The confused atmosphere somehow adds to the excitement. And even a mishandled Academy event bears more prestige than any other undertakings, because of the vast, colorful history behind it.

TAKES TOO LONG

That doesn't mean Oscar couldn't stand improvement. It shouldn't take 2½ hours to distribute the awards. Hollywood's cast ended at half-past midnight in the east, and many a viewer of course had dozed off to bed before the big prizes came up.

A change of setting would help. The Santa Monica Civic Auditorium is serviceable, but it remains what it is: a civic auditorium.

Joe Pasternak, who has produced the Oscar show for the last two years, agrees the site should be moved.

A plan is being formulated to provide the Academy a new home in Century City, the vast development on what used to be 20th Century-Fox's back lot. The place would include a hall which could be used for the awards.

Watson States CBC Target Is "Quiet Life"

OTTAWA (CP) — "Adventurous programming" such as attempted there has been an attempt to inhibit development of a program that arouses concern or provokes discussion.

"The tendency has been to discourage the program that does not lead to the quiet life."

Mr. Watson, who along with Laurier LaPierre has been told he will not be with the program next season, was the second witness to testify before the committee Thursday. Hearings resume today.

State Secretary Judy LaMarsh, cabinet minister responsible for the CBC, said she would be glad to see moves afoot to solve a "basic conflict" between management's right to manage and "freedom for creative minds to create." But it would

Witness Being Paid By Paper

CHESTER, England (Reuter) — The chief prosecution witness in a triple murder trial admitted today he expected money from a newspaper if his sister-in-law and her lover were found guilty.

David Smith, 17, agreed with defence counsel that a British paper promised him a large sum for help with articles on the case. But he refused eight times to name the paper, despite a warning from the judge.

Mr. Justice Fenton Atkinson told Smith he was grossly interfering with the course of justice, then ordered a full investigation.

Smith's sister - in - law, Myra Hindley, 23, and her lover Ian Brady, 26, are charged with triple murder in the sensational "bodies on the moor" case.

Brady is alleged to have

Viet Cong Attacks Air Base

By STEPHEN SOMERVILLE

SAIGON (Reuters) — Viet Cong guerrillas crept to the edge of a U.S. air base in Pleiku in the central highlands of South Viet Nam under the cover of darkness today and burned out five aircraft in a rapid 20-minute mortar attack.

One South Vietnamese soldier and a child were killed in the raid, Saigon radio reported.

Fifteen other planes were damaged, and two U.S. servicemen were wounded.

The defenders launched a counter - attack but the Viet Cong fled. No guerrilla bodies were found.

Canada's Total Output Said Rising Faster Than Predicted

OTTAWA (CP)—The nation's total output rose in 1965 more than even Finance Minister Sharp suggested a month ago, but a large part of it was a reflection of higher prices.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported Thursday the gross national product — total dollar value of the output of all goods and services in the land at the price paid by the final buyer—rose 8.7 per cent from 1964 to $51,996,000,000.

But there was a three-per-cent rise in prices generally during the year, making the real increase in output a gain of 6.6 per cent.

In its breakdown of the price factor, DBS said the prices of durable goods fell one-third of one per cent, the prices of goods entering into personal expenditure rose two per cent, and the prices entering into new non-residential construction jumped up 6.1 per cent.

"As the expansion continued and the economy moved close to a full utilization of resources, price increases were more evident than in the preceding years," the bureau said.

The current expansion has been under way since the spring of 1961, a record postwar boom for longevity. The gross national product measured in current market dollars showed a

Artificial Heart Works Well But Fear Man's Brain Damaged

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A 65-year-old patient with a partial artificial heart may have suffered some brain damage after a dramatic operation to save his life, doctors said today.

However, almost 24 hours after the device — no larger than a grapefruit — was implanted inside the man's chest his condition was generally reported as satisfactory.

Physicians feared there may be brain damage because the patient, Marcel L. DeRudder, of Westville, Ill., had not regained consciousness.

A team of noted specialists from Baylor and Rice universities headed by Dr. Michael E. DeBakey performed a six-hour operation on DeRudder Thursday at Methodist Hospital.

They hope it will prolong his life and usher in a new era in the treatment of heart disease that could help thousands of other heart patients.

TOO EARLY TO TELL

The latest medical advisory said it was too early to tell the extent of the brain damage DeRudder may have suffered.

The advisory noted that the heart device was functioning normally as expected.

Other than the report of possible brain damage, it was similar to an earlier advisory that said DeRudder was "exhibiting no evidence of heart failure and everything was progressing most satisfactorily."

The next 12 to 24 hours are considered critical.

DeBakey said in an interview that the pump, as he called it, is doing its job.

"It is maintaining his blood

Unlikely to Bring Home Dependents Of Servicemen

Pack Up Budget Debate

By DENNIS ORCHARD

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons today will pack up debate on Finance Minister Sharp's budget.

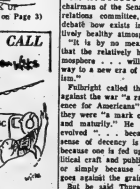
Next week it will take a hard look at collective bargaining for civil servants, then start a 15-day debate on new boundaries proposed for Canada's 265 federal constituencies.

The first four days of the budget debate closed Thursday night with a Conservative non-confidence motion against the government. The motion went down 112 to 93, with unusual Social Credit support, and equally surprising Creditiste opposition.

The vote was much closer than one Tuesday night, when a New Democratic Party motion went down 172 to 20.

Next Monday would normally be taken up by the last day of budget debate, all - party agreement has left the day free for legislation.

House Leader said he has seven bills ready by a lull for cost effective planning in the civil service — the slate for Monday and Tuesday.



PROTESTS FLOW IN

No more than one or two are expected to be cleared up before Wednesday's opening of the debate on the blueprints of 10 provincial commissions for redistribution of Commons seats. Protests have flowed in from MPs in each province.

On Tuesday night's Conservative motion said the Liberal government had failed to stimulate trade and production and had not tackled problems of inflation.

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Martin said today it is "extremely unlikely" that families of Canadian servicemen in Europe will be brought home and the troops there rotated every few months.

However, he said in the Commons, this was one of many possibilities which would receive the government's attention.

Mr. Martin was replying to Opposition Leader Diefenbaker who said Mr. Martin's statement Thursday in the Commons external affairs committee had raised "great fear and consternation" among Canada's NATO allies.

There are about 11,600 servicemen in West Germany and France and some 21,000 dependents.

The general reaction of the Defence Department was that such frequent rotation of troops would be impractical and ineffective.

Mr. Martin said in the committee that Canadian forces shouldn't remain in Europe "for all time."

He also said in reply to a question by Gordon Churchill, Progressive Conservative defence minister, that the idea of bringing home the families and of rotating servicemen in Europe would be examined.

Mr. Martin said that his comment that Canada's forces aren't in Europe for all time doesn't mean there will be a withdrawal in the near future.

"What we are needed, Canada will not let NATO down," Mr. Martin declared.

Robarts Refuses Inquiry

TORONTO (CP)—The government will not set up a judicial inquiry into allegations that a Progressive Conservative fund-raiser was given a political donation by Melchers' Distilled., Montreal, Premier Robarts said in the legislature Thursday.

The premier said there was no "validized scintilla of evidence of wrongdoing on the part of the government or government officials."

In other business:

—A complete study of the provincial electoral system will be carried out by a still-to-be appointed select committee of the legislature, Premier Robarts said.

Protests at Viet Nam War Sign of Strength: Fulbright

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator J. W. Fulbright has warned against permitting "a new era of McCarthyism" to darken the debate over the Viet Nam war.

The Arkansas Democrat, chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee, said the debate now exists in a "relatively healthy atmosphere."

"It is by no means certain that the relatively healthy atmosphere . . . will not give way to a new era of McCarthyism."

Fulbright called the protests against the war "a rare experience for Americans" and said they were "a mark of strength and maturity." He said they involved ". . . because one's sense of decency is offended, because one is fed up with political craft and public images, or simply because something goes against the grain."

But he said Thursday night at a lecture at Johns Hopkins University school of advanced international studies:

"Past experience provides little basis for confidence that reason can prevail in an atmosphere of mounting war fever. . . .

"The longer the Vietnamese war goes on without prospect of victory or negotiated peace, the war fever will rise, hope will give way to fears, and tolerance and freedom of discussion will give way to a false and strident patriotism."

Fulbright told the committee's hearings on Viet Nam and China, which have been the focal point of the war policy debate, would continue.

"It is my hope that this experiment will not only contribute to public education but will help to restore the Senate to its proper role as adviser to the president on the great issues of foreign policy. . . ."

Meanwhile, Gerald Ford, Republican leader in the House of Representatives, returned to his criticism of the administration's handling of the war, including bomb shortages.

Canadian Fears Race War in Africa If Rhodesian Solution Is Too Slow

LONDON (CP) — Canada's Arnold Smith, head of the Commonwealth secretariat, says failure to solve the Rhodesian crisis on an equitable basis could gravely weaken the Commonwealth and the United Nations and destroy African trust in the West, including Canada and the United States.

"The dangers of eventual racial war in central and southern Africa would be increased," the secretary-general said in an interview setting out his position on an issue which has become a highly emotional factor in international relations between the white man and the Negro.

The Toronto born diplomat who has visited Africa twice and plans to visit Asia next fall believes that "a very determined effort" has been made to bring the Ian Smith rebellion in Rhodesia to an end.

"The Commonwealth could have collapsed if the Rhodesian question had not been faced with resolution," he said in his Marlborough House office. "I think that it is not too much a question of whether the Rhodesian question will be solved but of how it will be solved.

". . . The choice is whether it will be solved as soon as possible with the minimum disruption inside and outside Rhodesia, or too slowly with the risk of great damage to race relations everywhere and in Africa especially."

Smith, 51, former assistant deputy external affairs minister in Canada, said the minority white regime in Rhodesia stocks to perpetuate a system which has all the marks of totalitarianism and could not for removed from "older institutions of slavery."

It was an attempt in part by a small group of white men, about 200,000, to maintain dominance of cheap labor from the population's majority, the 4,000,000 blacks.

If the crisis was not settled on "a just basis," there not only would be increased dangers of racial war, but "the experiences in multi-racial societies now being attempted in Zambia and Kenya would probably be jeopardized, to say the least, as would the position of moderate African leaders whose policies include trust and co-operation with the West."

"The cohesion of the Commonwealth itself, as an instrument for multi - racial understanding and co-operation in the international field, would be threatened if not destroyed.

"The authority of the international community, including the United Nations, would be gravely weakened. And finally the West itself, including the United States and Canada, could lose the trust of Africa and many other parts of the world as well."

Smith said that as Commonwealth secretary-general he has no role other than to serve Commonwealth governments which have made "certain commitments to each other in the future of Rhodesia."

These can be read in the communique issued after the Lagos meeting of heads of government last January. The prime ministers agreed that "one man one vote' was the essence of democracy. They also agreed, however, that this aim should be reached by a process of evolution and that after the end of the illegal regime there would have to be a period of direct rule by Britain.

"As stated in the Lagos communique, the Commonwealth heads of government gave me certain responsibilities to assist in the process of continuing consultations they decided on with regard to economic measures to end the rebellion and with regard to plans for the training of African Rhodesians in administration."

While some commentators have concluded that many old Commonwealth ties have weakened, Smith suggested the Commonwealth has been strengthened by the response to the Rhodesian crisis.

He said the Lagos conference was "a very considerable success and at that time resolved doubts and misunderstandings among its members."

Planning Board's Objection To Medical Clinic Is Based On Manner Owner Acted

Belleville and Suburban Planning Board has reaffirmed its opposition to re-zoning to permit operation of the controversial Williamson medical clinic at 295 Dundas St. East.

At the Board's regular meeting Thursday night, Mayor J. R. Ellis said: "The Board's refusal to recommend re-zoning was based on the manner in which action was taken by the owner to precipitate extension of non-conforming use of the property." He added, "the owner's manner of action impeded orderly development of land in the area."

Planning Director F. J. Beavis prompted discussion of the clinic when he notified the Board of an Ontario Municipal Board hearing into the case today at City Hall. The Planning Board instructed Mr. Beavis to attend the hearing and present its views.

Dr. H. Williamson first applied more than a year ago for rezoning of his property to a hospital to permit erection of a medical clinic. Present zoning by-laws permit only single and two-family dwellings in the area. At the time Dr. William son bought the property, an old house converted into apartments was situated on the lot. The apartment house, owner-occupied at present by-laws came into effect, is considered a permitted but "non-conforming" use.

Shortly after he bought the property Dr. Williamson began to up a building containing two doctor's offices and two apartments. Before construction was finished, he decided the two apartments were not economically feasible under applications for re-zoning of the area to allow all suites in the new building to be used as doctor's offices.

Mayor Ellis and Alderman D. G. Jose told the Board last night it is their understanding that both Dr. H. Williamson and Dr. E. Williamson have now condoning their medical practices in the building.

HISTORY OF CASE

Following a public hearing April 15, 1963, Belleville City Council, acting on the Planning Board's recommendation, granted Dr. Williamson's bid for rezoning. Council based its decision on the objections of Duffer in St. property owners who wanted to keep their district residential.

Dr. Williamson made another application for re-zoning of the lot only. It was refused by the Planning Board, but approved by Council, Nov. 1, andowners in the vicinity have lodged an appeal to the Ontario Municipal Board against Council's approval.

Mr. Beavis told the Board that re-zoning of the lot for a clinic would or an extension of an original non-conforming use, a policy the Board usually opposes.

Mr. Beavis said that re-zoning will be re-zoning were permitted, the buildings would meet requirements for multi-family and clinic use. Parking spaces are adequate, Mr. Beavis said, and a concrete block connecting wall between the two buildings nullifies the need for side yard allowances.

"This isn't a straight-forward application approved by Council and objected to by a few neighbors," Mayor Ellis said. "The Director has not entirely agreed with the Board's decision. He feels there may be a case for a clinic. The main thing is all background information should be given to the O.M.B. at its hearing."

Both Mayor Ellis and Dr. J. S. Barlow said the case might set a precedent which might be followed by other developers.

The Board's feeling is that there should, perhaps, be a clinic." Dr. Barlow said, "but we don't like this man's way of going about getting it."

The Board directed Mr. Beavis to attend the O.M.B. hearing and tell officials of what Mayor Ellis referred to as "the three and one year history of this most unhappy piece of property."

WOULD CLARIFY BYLAWS

The Board also recommended that Council consider existing by-laws to clarify the permitted use of houses in older residential areas of the city.

In districts now zoned for single and two-family dwellings, it is possible for an office or consulting room for use by a physician, dentist or other professional person when located in his or her residence." "Other professional person" has been interpreted in the past to mean a lawyer, architect, engineer, accountant, artist, a barber, or hairdresser. The Board feels these professions and trades should not be accommodated in a business district.

The amended by-law recommended by the Board is designed to plug any loop-holes in the law. It permits only physicians, dentists, chiropractors, osteopaths, chiropractors or drugless practitioners to have offices in their own private dwellings. The floor space used as an office cannot exceed 30 percent of the total floor space of the house. This amendment brings permit the house to be used solely as the city in line with those in the newer, annexed areas.

The Board also took steps to ensure that in the future no rural subdivider will submit plans for building lots in areas where the soil is unsuited for septic tanks. It recommended that developers submit, with their draft plan, the results of tests of the soil's water absorption rate.

Mr. Beavis reported that as a result of the Board's objection to Ontario Energy Board hearings in Toronto, the proposed route of the gas pipeline from the high pressure line in the third concession of Thurlow to Point Anne has been modified. Lakeland Natural Gas Company will now run the pipeline due south, parallel to Leming Sideroad, as suggested by Thurlow Township and the Planning Board.

CNR Deficit Lower in '65

OTTAWA (CP) — Gross revenues of Canadian National Railways this year will draw close to $1 billion, Donald Gordon, president, said in his 1955 annual report tabled in the Commons.

The Crown-owned company had a deficit last year of $35,400,000 and is budgeting for a deficit of $36,700,000 this year. But without its heavy debt burden, stemming in part from amalgamation of old railways in the early Nineteen Hundreds, the CNR would have shown a decent profit.

Gross revenues in 1965 were $971,000,000 and there was a net profit of $28,500,000 before interest on the debt. This was up 19.2 per cent from 1964.

Mr. Gordon again urged parliamentary action to bring the company's debt burden into reasonable proportions.

Last year's deficit, Mr. Gordon noted, was 13.7 per cent higher than the $31,200,000 deficit in 1964, and less than half the deficit in 1960.

He credited aggressive sales, modern equipment and facilities, and the booming economy generally particularly in pulp, automobile, and mineral traffic. But he said the CNR is facing increasing competition and increased costs for its pension plan and other expenses.

Railway operating revenues last year were $827,300,00, compared with $782,600,000 the previous year, and railway operating expenses were $817,400,000 compared with $753,200,000. This left a net operating profit on railway operations alone last year amounting to $9,900,000, compared with $7,400,000 the previous year.

hacked and strangled to death 17 years old Edward Evans. Smith gave evidence Thursday that he watched the killing.

3 CHILDREN SMOTHERED

The prosecution also claims the two lovers smothered two children, Lesley Anne Downey 10, and John Kilbride, 12, after luring them from the streets for orgies of sexual perversion.

The remains of the children were found in moorland peat graves on the windswept Pennine Hills.

Cross - examined by the defences today Smith agreed he had been unemployed for several months and was being paid £15 ($42) a week by the newspaper. He was to get a large sum "in a certain eventuality" —which he imagined to mean the conviction of the accused.

He agreed he had vested interest in their conviction.

Smith was questioned on a notebook he kept containing references to sadism, masochism and murder. One entry said: "Every man and woman is one of two things, masochist or sadist. Only a few practice what they feel."

Another said: "Rape is not a crime, it is a state of mind. Murder is a hobby and a supreme pleasure."

Another said: "God is a disease, a plague, a weight round a man's neck."

Asked if this was his view, Smith said: "Oh God, yes."

He denied he possessed books on sadism and perversion before meeting Brady, whom the prosecution alleges cunningly corrupted Smith.

pressure and keeping him out of heart failure. If he progresses well, within a week or 10 days, we can let his heart take over."

TWO OTHERS FAILED

The new device "is much more satisfactory and sophisticated than the more primitive version" that had kept a 43-year-old heart victim alive for four days in 1961, and another for 24 hours, he said.

The pump, operated by an outside power supply, was installed on the left side of Dr. Ruddee's heart to give his own damaged organ a partial rest and a chance to heal.

It was designed to do the work of the left ventricle, the lower chamber, which pumps blood through the body and is a common source of heart trouble.

DeBakey, a former coal miner with a 25-year history of heart ailments, entered hospital April 7 complaining from a damaged valve between the upper and lower chambers of the heart.

"He certainly would not have survived without surgery," said DeBakey. And all chances of survival with surgery were low. The pump is doing two-thirds of the heart's normal workload."

be folly to "paper over the cracks."

Both called for restraint in efforts to resolve the dispute which arose when the CBC announced it would remove Mr. LaPierre's contract for next season and that Mr. Watson would be offered another job.

The police that he would be dropped from the show followed a 1965 agreement between CBC management and program producers, Mr. Watson said. No arbitrary changes in programs were to be made without consulting producers and their supervisors, and there had been no consultation in his case.

He said CBC General Manager H. G. Walker gave no indication that program content had anything to do with his dismissal. Mr. Walker had cited his (Mr. Watson's) role as president of the Toronto Producers Association which presented a brief to the Fowler committee of Broadcasting and said the action was totally improper.

Fire Dept. Burns Shack At Colborne

COLBORNE — Colborne Fire Department, under the direction of Fire Chief Ted Lee, put the torch to a one-storey shack in the centre of the village shortly before 8 p.m. today. The shack was that in which the body of Ira Mathews, retired Colborne businessman, was found Tuesday.

It was burned under supervision of the Fire Department and Colborne P.U.C. after being declared unfit for human habitation by Trilled Coomlins Health Unit Authorities in Cobourg, which also recommended the building be destroyed. Police say the shack was cluttered with debris and infested with rats.

Colborne Police Chief George Blyth obtained written permission to burn it from the property owner, Mrs. Lorne Mathews, a sister-in-law of the man found dead in the shack.

An autopsy report gave the cause of Mr. Mathew's death as "accidental asphyxiation" by malnutrition and general debility.

Chief Blyth said, "there is absolutely no suggestion of foul play in the death of Mathews."

Another man who also lived in the shack, George Puffer, 65, is in the Memorial Hospital, Kingston, for a 30-day observation period. He is also said to be suffering from malnutrition.

Police Chief Blyth said today he is not considering the matter with a medical authorities suggestion that the appointment of medical guardians, to act in local municipalities could prevent the recurrence of similar situations."

Wishart said the government will not be considering the withdrawal of drinking privileges for Indians in Ontario.

Recommendations of the Evidence Act and Judicature Act introduced Thursday will allow specially-appointed persons who examine injured persons seeking damages in civil suits, to ask questions of their patients, Mr. Wishart said.

MAKES PROMISE

Mr. Robarts promised the house he would investigate allegations of influence peddling in connection with the so-called Melchers' case after Kennedy Bryden (NDP—Toronto Woodbine) said he got a record March 24 as exchange of letters between Neal McDowell, former employee of Melchers and Sarto Marchand, president of Melchers.

The letters implied that Harry Price of Toronto, a fund-raiser for the Conservatives, had been given a political donation by the distillery and, in turn, had suggested McDowell would be able to bare two of its products listed for sale by the LCBO.

"I have been unable to discover any evidence that these two products have any foundation in fact," Mr. Robarts said.

He expressed confidence in the former LCBO chairman, Allan Grossman, now minister of reform institutions, and the present chairman, G. Harry Sheppard.

Mr. Robarts also said a judicial inquiry could produce a lawsuit launched against Melchers by McDowell. The suit has not yet come to trial.

After Mr. Roberts finished his statement Mr. Bryden rose to ask if the premier would permit a question.

"The statement stands for itself," Mr. Robarts said.

"It certainly wouldn't stand up under analysis," Mr. Bryden said. He said the premier's statement was a complete evasion of the issue.

Clean Up Week Real Success Says Engineer

TRENTON — Clean Up Week in Trenton this week has been an outstanding success, according to town engineer Eric Aldersey.

Mr. Aldersey said yesterday the town had hired two trucks to pick up rubbish at the curbside and these are working along with the two town trucks earmarked for the job.

So much rubbish is being cleared out of backyards, garages and attics that the job won't be completed today as planned for but will go on tomorrow and possibly into the first part of the week.

Everything from last year's Christmas trees to the kitchen sink is being thrown out this year. Some residents have been seen sorting through their neighbors' rubbish, presumably for "treasures" which will doubtless be kept in the Resident No. One until it gets thrown out during Clean Up Week next year.

Start Clearing Land for New Reservoir

TRENTON — Work on the clearing of the land for the new water reservoir in Murray township has already started but the members of the Public Utilities Commission only yesterday received official notice that Ontario Municipal Board approval for the project, an agreement has been signed between the PUC and the contractor, Mel Willis Construction Co.

Meanwhile, the town of Trenton has launched expropriation proceedings against York Road land owners, Jack Alves and Frances Helyer. Half the appraised value of their land will be paid into court. The land is required for the reservoir project.

The Hydro Electric Power Commission has approved the local commission's 1966 capital budget of $149,524, utility manager James Page told the members of the commission yesterday afternoon. This sum will be spent for such things as the purchase of water heaters, extension of electrical services and street lighting.

Celebrate Centennial In "Personal" Way Dinner Guests Told

TRENTON — "Canadians should stop worrying about whether or not they have a separate identity," guest speaker Peter Large told those who attended last night's annual Chamber of Commerce dinner. "Identity cannot be positived. It must evolve."

Mr. Large, who is a member of the Centennial speaking committee and a past president of the Alliance for Canadian Promotion of Understanding among Canadians, said Canadians would celebrate Canada's 100th birthday in much the same way Canadians celebrated Confederation in 1967 by being divided across the country in opinions. "In 1867," he said, "there was great rejoicing in some parts of Canada but on the east coast flags were flown at half mast and crepe hung on public buildings."

"Down through the years," said Mr. Large, "Canadians and people of other nations had regarded Canada as a country which was geographically and economically impossible."

But Canadian genius lay in the fact that she was a nation of compromise, the speaker said. "Canada was legislated into existence without revolution or bloodshed. Canadians have had a unique brand of stubbornness which has held the country together for 100 years. What we need is determination to keep it and the ability to laugh at ourselves."

Mr. Large advised the 94 persons at the dinner to celebrate the Centennial in "personal" ways but to enjoy into public celebrations with enthusiasm. "If English is your first language," learn a bit of French, and if you're reading the French side of the corn flake box."

Canadians could well celebrate the Centenial by attacking the "pockets of poverty" in Canada.

(Entries from the diary of S. Wilmot of the original Surveys of Belleville in 1816, notes by Tom Easson O.L.S.)

Monday 22nd — Making out the Plan of Survey.

Note: Captain Thomas Coleman, of His Majesty's Provincial Light Dragoons, came to Belleville from Kingston and purchased 179 acres of Lot 3 in Concession 1 of Thurlow (immediately west of the Town Plot) in December, 1814, from James McNabb, for 1775 pounds sterling. Together with the land came a grist mill, saw mill, carding machine and other buildings. A total of 13 land deed feet wide was reserved for the King's Highway (Dundas Street). In October of 1815, he sold a 150 foot parcel with a blacksmith shop to John Everett Junior for 50 pounds.

When Wilmot laid out Front Street along the east boundary of Lot 3, Coleman seized the opportunity to become Belleville's first subdivider. His first sale on Front Street was made to Robert Smith, merchant of all the land between Front Street and the River Moira on the north side of Bridge Street for a depth of 136 feet, for 150 pounds.

Coleman was shrewd enough to reserve a 40 foot road across this parcel 76 feet east of the river, but this was released in 1831. Today city officials would be very happy indeed to have Coleman's old road as an exit for the riverfront area.

Child birth and Retardation

Allegations of negligence of mothers at childbirth, often resulting in permanently defects in the children, have been made by a former president of the Ontario Association for Children with Learning Disabilities.

Robert Shannon told a divisional meeting of the Council for Exceptional Children in Toronto that he saw a bleeding pregnant woman, in immediate need of a Caesarian operation, kept waiting for 20 minutes in a hospital waiting room while forms were signed.

He also cited instances of women having their legs held together to arrest birth because the doctor was not at hand.

"Word from all over North America indicates that subtle damage arising at birth with respect to current delivery and medical practices is an important cause of later learning disabilities," he said. "We have been aware that birth injury is a cause of retardation, cerebral palsy and epilepsy, but these are gross and obvious birth damage.

"I submit that there are many more injuries of a more subtle nature which result in learning disabilities."

There are very serious allegations which should be investigated. One medical authority, at least, is skeptical — Dr. W. M. Paul, professor of obstetrics and gynecology at the University of Toronto medical school and head of the department of obstetrics and gynecology at Toronto General Hospital. He said he doubted that any mother now has her legs held together, to keep back the birth, and in any event it was "completely insignificant" as a cause of brain injury.

He said Mr. Shannon should provide names of hospitals and patients — or shut up."

True, but a man in Mr. Shannon's position would scarcely make such statements if they did not have some grounds in fact. At the same time he should be more specific and provide detailed information on all cases of abnormal birth and subsequent evidence of brain damage, as suggested by Dr. Paul.

One thing is certain, his statements are much too serious to be ignored.

Encouraging Sculpture

During Toronto's recent controversy whether to purchase a $120,000 piece of bronze sculpture by the British sculptor Henry Moore, we suggested that rather than invest in such an expensive work the city should try to encourage the work of Canadian artists in this medium.

The Moore work, if it had been accepted, would have been placed outside the new city hall. Stockholm, we pointed out, has its Millesgarden where works of the celebrated Swedish sculptor Carl Milles are displayed in an attractive outdoor setting overlooking the harbor area.

Stockholm of course was fortunate in being presented with these works by the sculptor himself, as a tribute to his native land after he had spent many fruitful years in the United States.

Sculpture in Canada, however, is a relatively unknown medium. It has not achieved the same degree of fame as did the celebrated Group of Seven with paint and brush. Here then is a golden opportunity to foster the medium in this country.

And Toronto is grasping the opportunity. Sculpture contributed by devotees of this medium from the Maritimes to British Columbia will be placed on Toronto's civic square for three months next summer as the National Gallery of Canada's contribution to the city's centennial celebration.

Selection of sculpture for the civic square getting will be made by Dorothy Cameron, former Toronto art gallery owner, who will travel across Canada in search of suitable works.

"I'd like to see us meet the challenge of Henry Moore and be equally inspiring. Which is precisely what we meant when we suggested that native-born sculptors be encouraged. The fact that the National Gallery intends to buy some of the sculpture is a step in this direction.

A Dog's Life

There is a common theme in the letters we have been receiving on the subject of keeping dogs under control in Belleville. And that is a dislike for dogs as such.

This is understandable considering the legitimacy of complaints that dogs have been known to bite children, bare their teeth at anyone crossing their path, make a mess of well-manicured lawns and gardens and generally roam around at will.

But none of the letters have acknowledged dog owners' responsibility in this matter. Looking after a dog is much like bringing up children. They need training and discipline, care and attention. Clearly many of the critics are not getting this kind of necessary attention. For them it is literally a dog's life.

What is needed, first and foremost, is a recognition by owners of their responsibility toward their charges, combined with more rigorous enforcement of the local by-law governing the conduct of dogs. That the Animal Enforcement officer has a difficult task is obvious, but it is due in large part to the indifference of dog owners.

To Your Good Health

To Cure 'Picky' Eater Put a Stop to Snacks

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: My four-year-old hardly touches his food at the table. However, within an hour after dinner he is looking for something to eat.

I have tried everything, including bribes, no dessert without finishing dinner, etc. Have you any suggestions? Oh, here are 10 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped, envelope for copies of "The Lost Secret of Reducing" and "Calorie Count." Since I usually "clean up" my boy's plate, I need to reduce. — Mrs. O. K.

* * *

You've tried everything except the one way that virtually never fails — and that's to put food before a child at mealtime let him eat it or not but establish a rule of no eating between meals. And make it stick.

A good rule is no dessert unless an adequate dinner has been eaten, but it won't cure the habitual food-fusser. The no-eating-between-meals will.

At the age four, any child can have some rather firm ideas and habits. As soon as you try any suggestion, I'm sure you'll run into some resistance and whining and maybe tears. Don't get mad. Just be firm. A healthy child's appetite, under such a rule, fairly soon makes it clear to him that the way not to be hungry is to eat his dinner when it is served.

Since you usually "clean up" the boy's plate, it is eminently clear that his fussing is a habit by now. Certainly expect him to change in the first day or two. (Does he watch you clean the plate?) It may take a day or a couple of weeks to change habits. During what will be a dismal time for both of you, remember that he isn't going to starve and his health won't suffer. When he's really hungry, he'll start to eat.

Another part of the rule is that No fussing at mealtime. If he doesn't even raise a fork, ignore it and ignore it just as firmly but calmly when, as he is sure to do, he tries the old routine that has always worked for him before: Trying to wheedle food an hour after dinner.

I've sent you "Lost Secret of Reducing" and "Calorie Chart," but as a special bonus, at no extra cost whatever, I will offer you this pearl of wisdom: Quit "cleaning up" the boy's plate!

Dear Dr. Molner: If chest X-ray is taken while the patient is letting breath out, does this make for a good result? Or should another picture be taken while the breath is being held? — Mrs. J. S.

The best X-ray is when the patient is motionless and holding the breath in. X-rays are taken at exposures of about a fifth of a second or so — something slower than the speed of an inexpensive camera. With a fast camera you can shoot quickly and the picture will be sharp. With a slow camera, any motion leaves the image somewhat blurred.

That's how it is with an X-ray. The sharpest picture is when there is the least motion. The best chest X-rays are taken with the lungs inflated and the breath held.

If at the instant of exposure the patient is breathing, the X-ray still can show gross abnormalities but another picture usually will be taken for a sharper image.

Dear Dr. Molner: The last two times I had alcoholic beverages I noticed blood in my urine. Is this coincidence or is there a relationship? — Mrs. J. S.

Whether it is coincidence isn't the point. Something obviously is wrong in the urinary tract, and an examination is necessary at once.

Professionalism In Hockey

Windsor Star

The day of the hard-nose amateur hockey player in Canada has disappeared.

No longer are there games of shinny organized on local ponds or rinks by the boys who took their bumps with catalogue-for-body pads, a hand-me-down jock a round patch over the knee of a pair and even a make-shift goal comprised of a couple of stones pulled from the frozen earth.

Today a boy with hockey ambitions, whether he is exceptional or just another to fill in a team, is treated like a professional with nothing but the best.

Sponsors supply uniforms and sticks, a minor organization pays for ice time and parents outfit their youngsters with the best of equipment. Dressed and equipped like a professional, the boy is expected to play like one but in the majority of cases he only looks and acts like one.

Hockey, as all other sports, is overly organized. The players have nothing to do but report at specified times, play their games and win. The winning attitude has been instilled in the boys as the main thing, sportsmanship coming second.

Thousands of Canadian youngsters, most still in public school or early high school, are coached to win. The glory of victory is the ambition of not only their parents, coach and organization sponsor but, sadly, but often an entire community.

Today's so-called minor hockey is being used as a status symbol for communities at the expense of youngsters who have never heard of the term amateur. By the time they are 15 years they are looking for a professional team to pick up their bills for education or they are seeking a scholarship at some United States university.

Whatever the case, the boys are backed by their coaches, managers and sponsors and without actually working for what they have achieved. There is no argument that minor sport has to be organized, but in today's society it is overly organized with nine and ten year olds playing as many as 40 games a season.

Despite the organization of hockey on a minor level across Canada, there are but a few players today there were 20 or 30 years ago who make the grade to the National Hockey League.

The reason may be the boys are so well organized with all their needs catered to, that by no ambition to make the top, and why should they, when all treated like professionals in the minor leagues?

Whether those who sponsor and organize minor hockey like it or not, the players of today are given too much for too soon. All the need needed is to look back at the records of the NHL to see the top players were involved during hard times when equipment, sponsors and organization were not thought of, but the boy organized himself.

Platform Collapses With Many People During the presentation of the Colors to the 80th battalion upon the parade grounds at the armouries, the long narrow platform along the west side of the Griffin Theatre, overlooking the armouries lawn collapsed with about 40 men, women and children upon it. The fall to the ground was about 12 feet.

After a reading of the timbers, the screaming of the women and children were heard for some distance. It was with difficulty that the soldiers, who were drawn up in line for the presentation of the Colors, were restrained from rushing to the scene of the collapsed platform. Ambulance men and Lieut. Col. Alex. Medical Officer of the 80th Battalion, went to the scene and aided in the rescue. Mixed with the timbers and planking were women and children who could not move—until the timbers were removed. A soldier spectator on the platform sustained a broken nose, but otherwise, except for shock, bruises and scratches, no others were injured.

Strictly Personal

Dictators Have Big Mouths

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Last month, in Havana, Fidel Castro made a 4½ hour speech attacking Red China, the United States, Chile, and a number of Western countries which, he said, are trying to corrupt Cuban government officials.

What interested me about this was more the length of the talk than the substance. I have long noted an inverse ratio between the length of a politician's speech and the truth of what he has to say.

Hitler used to harangue for many hours, working himself up into a typical paranoid frenzy. Every demagogue and despot in history has been long - winded. Long, loud rant—for hours on end in the—is—the—stock—in—trade of—the—political—orator.

Psychologically, one basic distinction between truth and falsehood is that truth does not require words, while falsehood does. The liar is almost always forced to use a large number of words, while falsehood does. The liar is almost always forced to use a tremendous amount of words—and support.

If it takes a man 4½ hours to indict his political enemies, we can be reasonably sure that he is embroidering the truth with fantasy. No catalog of an enemy's sins can be that long, and any list of just grievances can be made in 10 minutes. The American—indictment—case against King George — which provided the basis for the Revolution — can be spoken in 10 minutes or less.

Indeed, it is one mark of the chronic liar that he talks too much. He does not know when to stop, or how to stop, for he must work himself up into such a state that he actually begins to believe his own lies. At this point, I am sure, Castro is totally unable to distinguish between objective reality and the feverish creations of his own inflamed mind.

The Gettysburg Address is a model of brevity because Lincoln was not trying to justify or rationalize or defend any partisan viewpoint. If he were, it would take him more than seven hours. Likewise, the Sermon on the Mount is terse and compact because Jesus was not trying to—manufacture and confute and attack those who disagreed, but only to explain the essence of the true disciple.

The truth does not only make us free, it makes one concise. In most trials, the lawyer with the weaker case invariably makes the longest perambulation to the jury — for he is using words as a substitute for evidence, and style as a camouflage for lack of substance. And it is well known in legal circles that prolixers in the witness box are found out because they insist on talking too much andtry to make their lies too convincing.

The U. S. has behaved stupidly toward Cuba, both before and after Castro; he is entitled to 10 minutes of bitterness. When he takes 4½ hours, we know he is using our stupidity to condone his own tyranny.

Universities in Transition

The development of the huge, sprawling university shortcut and graduate is an impersonal assembly line, has thrown up its own problems in recent years. Both students and faculty are demanding a greater role in the institutions that sometimes seem more like giant business concerns.

Responsible the commissioners, Sir James Duff, of University of Durham, and political scientist Robert Berdahl of San Francisco State College to study 35 Canadian universities.

Their major conclusions are that the universities must let the winds of change blow through the hallowed halls of governors and the senate.

The board, they find, is its most influential but homogeneous membership, too much composed of the same group of conservative lawyers and businessmen. Since their traditional duties as fund-raisers and estate managers are growing less important, these boards should have a wider range as membership.

The report emphasizes the practice, followed at U.B.C., of electing certain alumni to the boards and the senate and urges that the faculty, who now regard the administration as a "distant and impersonal monolith," be given up to 25 per cent of the seats. Even the students — and this should shake some university officials — should have direct representation through a rector, a non-student speaking for students. DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP) — U.S. dollar in terms of Canadian funds was unchanged at $1.07 21-32. Pound sterling was down 1-32 at $2.94¾.

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's sharper rise in 1965 than in the previous three years, with virtually none of the usual autumn hesitation.

In the final three months alone it rose two per cent, taking into account seasonal fluctuations.

Economists generally say a moderate rise in prices can help a country move forward when there is some slack in the economy. It encourages business investment in new plant and other facilities and labor to produce, while retaining an element of competitiveness.

But once an economy is fully employed, they say, the Canadian economy became in 1965 —increased demand for goods and services resulting from higher personal incomes and business income can only push prices higher because of the time-lag in enlarging productive capacity.

Finance Minister Sharp, who a month ago in his budget speech measured last year's GNP growth as 9.5 per cent over the previous year, called for moderation in the rate of expansion.

Personal expenditure on consumer goods and services last year amounted to $32,000,000,000 of the $51,398,000,000 total national expenditure or gross national product. In 1964, personal expenditure amounted to $29,-656,000,000 of the year's $47,402,000,000 total.

Government expenditure on goods and services — counting governments at federal, provincial and municipal levels — amounted to $9,596,000,000 last year and $8,654,000,000 the previous year.

Present School Budget at Council Meet

NAPANEE — Dr. A. E. Fyfe, chairman of the Napanee and District Collegiate Institute Board, presented the school budget to the Napanee Town Council at a special meeting Tuesday night. He also stated that this budget will go to an arbitration board. The school board has had a great deal of trouble this year with its budget, and it would only give the details to the press until the matter was finally settled.

Napanee Town Council brings down its budget in February, as a rule, and, as the Collegiate board had no definite budget at that time, Dr. Fyffe gave the town what he called "an educated guess" that it would approximate $90,000 for Napanee as against roughly $43,000 for 1965. That figure was used by the town and was partly responsible for an increase of 9.5 in the mill rate for residential property and of 9.8 for business and industry.

The first budget was drawn up using the county assessment equalization as the factor, but Camden Township protested, and the second budget was based on the provincial equalization factor. Camden benefited, but Adolphustown found itself with such a high levy that it decided to go for arbitration. Secretary-treasurer and administrator Gordon MacGregor states that Adolphustown has already made this request. It is his duty now to call together all the clerk-treasurers of the area board to arrange for a meeting. It will not affect this year's levy, but the decisions reached by arbitration will be good for the three subsequent years.

For some unknown reason Napanee's assessment for high school purposes has appreciately the same under both county and provincial factors. Unfortunately for the town, its share is 'over' $9,000 more than the school chairman's "educated guess." However, the town had over-levied $20,000 for high school purposes last year.

WILL MAKE REPORT

EDMONTON (CP) — Premier E. C. Manning said Thursday Alberta attorney-general's department intends to report to the Canadian Underwriters' Association in the absence of the federal combines branch for apparent price-fixing as recommended by a legislative committee committee last week.

New Head P.S. Board Is Appointed

DESERONTO — James W. McVicker was appointed to the Deseronto Public School Board to take the place of William Burkitt, who resigned on moving to the Belleville area, Mr. McVicker is Deseronto's postmaster. The recorded vote was unanimous one.

The appointment was made at a meeting Wednesday evening which was attended by a representative of the firm of Sorensen, Thompson, Laframboise and Mallette, Kingston architects. Plans for the addition to the school were discussed at length, and Mr. Sorensen agreed to have work begin on the plans immediately, in time for them to be submitted to the Department of Education in Toronto shortly, possibly next week.

Tenders could probably be called for within a month, the architect said. The addition will contain two classrooms, additional storage space, and lockers for the boys' pupils of grades seven and eight.

It was decided after a motion that the school property be surveyed. This has never been properly done, but is more or less of a formality in this case. The policy offered by Mr. Morris for insurance of the old high school and its contents was found to be a satisfactory one. A motion was passed authorizing the purchase of two portable TV sets for the school. These will be taken from room to room for special programs as needed. Chairman Jack Spencer spoke favorably of the move, saying that he believed children should have the best possible aids to their education. The school already has one set.

Mayor Orval Lott was an interested listener as the architect discussed proposed plans for the new addition. All board members were present except Donald Reid.

Ann Landers

Experienced Secretary Tells Success Secrets

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'll bet you've had thousands of letters from readers who felt sorry for the high school girl who wanted you to help her find a job. She was the one who couldn't sing in the choir because she needed a blue sweater and her folks couldn't spare the money.

I was in that spot a few years ago. When I was 14 I got my social security card and right away I began to hunt for after-school work. It's against the law in this state to hire anyone under 16 so, naturally, I didn't find anything. Baby-sitting was the best I could do.

I turned 16 and made the rounds again ANN LANDERS and found a job as a waitress for $13 a week. I was a junior in high school that year and saved my money for senior year expenses. I paid for my own clothes, medical and dental bills and had enough left for a class ring, senior pictures and a year book.

When I graduated from high school I knew from my search for part-time work that it was going to take perseverance to find a job. I went out every day and made call after call until I landed a position in a stenographic pool. By December I was in charge of the pool. I now run an office and make an excellent salary.

My advice to teen-agers who want part-time work is to wait until your 16th birthday. After that you can do anything you want to do — and be anything you want to be. You can make something out of it or you can use all summer playing the lizard and feeling sorry for yourself. — SEVEN YEARS BACK.

DEAR SEVEN YEARS: Thank you for an inspiring letter. I know of no better way to encourage people who think they can't do it, than to read a letter from someone who did. And you did it. Bull.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'll level with you because I need a straight answer. Here are the facts and I know they are not pretty.

Two years ago I came to Los Angeles from a little burg in Idaho — not a dumb kid of 20. I was sure I could make it big in modeling.

I got plenty of propositions, but no job offers! After two months my money was out and I was behind in my room rent, so I moved in with Wally.

Wally was lucky for me. I got a job that same week (cocktail waitress) and I made good money. Wally doesn't believe in marriage and that's that. The trouble is, everybody thinks we are married.

Last week I met the most wonderful man in the world. I lied and told him I was living with my brother. Last night he asked me to marry him. This is the highest compliment any man ever paid me and it's the first legit proposal I've ever had. I am dying to say yes, but I'm afraid of what Wally will do if I leave him. Please help me. — GIGI.

DEAR GIGI: If you don't own a suitcase, get some cartons and move into a place of your own — even if it's only a room. You owe Wally nothing but a farewell handshake.

Tell the world's most wonderful man" the truth about Wally and add, if he still wants you, you are the world's luckiest girl. And don't move in with Mr. Wonderful until you are Mrs. Wonderful.

Mrs. Agnes Benn to Head Women's Section of Curlers

The women's section closed their curling season with a pot luck supper, followed by their annual meeting, on Wednesday evening with a large number in attendance. A grand array of casseroles and desserts, prepared by each member, was served buffet style.

The president, Mrs. Mary Livingston, opened the meeting and minutes of the semi-annual meeting—were read by Mrs. Jean Acton and the treasurer's report by Mrs. Grace Carruthers. Committee chairmen reports were given by Mrs. Beverley Neill, Mrs. Jessie Baber, Mrs. Ella Trepanier, Mrs. Helen McConnell, Mrs. Yvonne McPherson and Mrs. Eileen Webster.

Before the closing of the meeting, presentation of the Belle Cleaners' Trophy and individual trophies were presented by Mrs. Grace Carruthers on behalf of Belle Cleaners to winners — Mrs. Anne Acton, skip, Mrs. Mary Livingston, vice-skip, Mrs. Katherine Black, second and Mrs. Claire Hopwood-Jones, lead.

The high eight rinks in the playoffs and the winner and runners-up of the consolation round were presented with lucky prizes by Mrs. Beverley Neill and her committee. Successful Living

Deceived Husband Needs Honest Answers

DEAR DORIS: We have been married 25 years, and I love my husband very much. However, in the first half of our marriage I was very foolish and cheated, having affairs with former boy friends.

DORIS CLARK

One day I realized how foolish it all was and how fortunate I was to have a good husband. I was successful in putting these men out of my mind and my life and keeping the secret from my unsuspecting husband.

But now he has somehow found out. He can pinpoint some occasions very accurately. He says he loves me and wants to forgive me and forget providing I confess everything.

I am too ashamed to confess and frightened I may lose his love if I don't. What shall I do? — MARION S.

DEAR MARION S: Tell all. Finish up by declaring your love and appreciation of him in no uncertain terms. He deserves some courageous honesty from you.

DEAR DORIS: Please print this for the 14-year-old girl who complained of yellow teeth. Nothing will change the color but you can make them look whiter with the right shade of lipstick or even clothing.

Try using a blue-red or pink lipstick; never orange or true red. I don't even wear anything that bears a resemblance to yellow (luckily it is not my color!) And I don't think anyone suspects that I don't have white teeth — MRS. R.M.

DEAR MRS. R.M.: Thank you for this word-to-the-wise.

HOMEMADE GLAMOR

Dear Susan: A gift of homemade preserves is a delight to receive. Sometimes, however, even though she has gone to a great deal of trouble, the giver feels as though her present does not look like much.

The solution is to glamorize the product. With a few deft strokes, a jar of jam or jelly can look special, and expensive.

Cover the lid or wax topping with colored or parchment paper. Pull it taut and seal the edges with transparent tape. Add a ribbon if you wish.

Instead of writing the date on top, use that old decorator touch — trace out the year (1966) in sequins. — Miss Elsa Gorman

LOOK AGAIN, SPORT

SHEVINGTON, England (CP) — Thirty-pipers at a Lancashire girls' school thought they had a legion of Amazons when 140 15-year-olds raced across the finishing line of a one-mile track inside the world weight record. But the leader had taken the wrong turn and the others followed, cutting the race to half a mile.

The ladies of the Afternoon Guild of St. Margaret's-on-the-Hill Anglican Church have, for the second year, named their annual tea and bazaar "April Shower." Each time, to their dismay, the shower has been very rosy. However, due to the loyalty of the ladies of Belleville the tea and bazaar on Thursday afternoon proved to be a success.

The tables of homecooking, candy, novelties and children's wear were well stocked with interesting articles. Little girls' dresses and children's hand-made sweaters with embroidery and a variety of small - fry designs were especially attractive. The homebaking table seemed to be replenished constantly with homemade breads, buns, cookies, pies, cakes and yummy squares. Aprons, frilly pillows, and bathroom accessories were among the most eye - catching articles on the fancywork table. Also there were flowers and fudges and a fish pond for the children. Of great interest was a display of exquisite Pakistani embroidery.

Mrs. J. A. Dunlop, wife of the rector and Mrs. R. Babcock, convenor of the afternoon guild, received the guests.

After shopping at all the attractive tables, tea and goodies were served from a table covered with white linen and centred with a lovely linen square with wide hand crocheted edge. This was topped with pink roses and pink and white candles in silver candelabra.

The attractive tables for the guests were centred with small vases of blue scilla, a real touch of spring.

Those who worked so diligently to make the bazaar a success by pouring tea: Mrs. P. R. Welch, Mrs. Charles Cooke, Mrs. Charles Male and Mrs. William Bateman; cashiers, Mrs. Ine Smith; baking, Mrs. Don Leeming Sr., Mrs. Gordon Hall and Mrs. James Ritchie; fancywork, aprons, Mrs. S. Dobson, Mrs. Charles Parn and Mrs. W. A. Mercer; variety table, Mrs. W. R. Collyer; fish pond, Miss Annabelle Proctor.

A nursery, was in charge of Mrs. William Jose and Mrs. George Tanner.

Fast Time Returns Sunday to Most Parts of Country

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It's that time of year when the unwary citizen gets up on Sunday morning and a short time later finds he is one hour late for church or for a game of golf and out of step with millions of more alert Canadians.

Sunday, April 24, most parts of the country push the clock ahead one hour to mark the arrival of daylight time. With few exceptions the fast time remains in effect until Oct. 30.

For the traveller there are special problems. The motorist may find himself in Ontario leaving one city on daylight time and arriving in another where standard time still prevails. The train traveller consulting timetables will find the CNR times are daylight-except in regions remaining on standard, the CPR times standard. Airline timetables are expressed in local time.

A Cross - Canada Survey by The Canadian Press shows that Alberta is the only province which adheres to standard time all year round.

However, the Alberta legislature has passed legislation allowing Albertans to demand a provincial plebiscite on the adoption of daylight time, prohibited in the province since 1948. Presumably this request would come from municipal governments.

Here's the situation across Canada:

In the four Atlantic provinces municipalities will observe daylight time uniformly, from April 24 to Oct. 30.

Montreal, Quebec and most Quebec cities will put the clocks ahead for the same period. But the Gaspe region in the Atlantic time zone, will stick with standard time.

Daylight time will be observed in Ontario except in Windsor and Essex County and in Port Arthur and Fort William, which do not change.

Manitoba municipalities will put the clock ahead April 24 and all but the smaller communities will stay on fast time until Oct. 30. Some smaller centres, among them Dauphin, revert to standard time Sept. 11, the weekend after Labor Day.

Under legislation adopted at the latest session of the Saskatchewan legislature, central standard time will prevail everywhere this summer except for Lloydminster, on the Alberta border, which will be on mountain standard time. The period covered is from April 24 to Oct. 30.

Most of British Columbia will be on daylight time from April 24 to Oct. 30 except for the southeastern corner of the province. There mountain standard time will remain in effect, because of economic ties between the Fernie - Creston-Cranbrook area and nearby Alberta towns.

Sunday School Lesson

Religious Iron Curtain

By CLARENCE W. CRANFORD

The Berlin wall is a moment to failure. It is the failure of communism to attract and hold the loyalty of thousands of people forced to live under its system. The wall was not built to keep other people out, but to keep East Germans in. So it is a stern visual to prevent contact with the outside world. People in the two halves of Berlin, cannot even talk with each other, for the telephone cables have been disconnected at the wall.

In ancient times, Jeroboam tried to achieve the same result in a more subtle way. At Solomon's death, his son Rhoboam succeeded him to the throne, but his tyrannous ways soon led to a rebellion that split the kingdom in two. He was left with only the southern tribe of Judah while Jeroboam, a former leader under Solomon, set himself up as king of the northern tribes of Israel.

IGNORES POLITICAL BOUNDARIES

But Jerusalem was in Judah, and since religion knows no political boundaries, Jeroboam knew the people would want to go to the temple in Jerusalem for the holy days. This would bring them into contact with the south, and many might defect to Rhoboam's kingdom.

To prevent this, Jeroboam set up two rival temples in Bethel and Dan, and sent out word to the people, "You have gone up to Jerusalem long enough." (I Kings 12:28) Instead of capitalizing on their traditions and religious faith to hold their affection, he used the communist method of trying to uproot their old faith and ways. Instead of Jehovah, he made two golden calves, and told the people to worship them. Instead of Levites, he chose others to serve as priests in the new cult.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for April 24: "Jeroboam Misuses Religion." I Kings 12:25 through 14.20.

But his tactics did not work. What he did "became a sin" to the people. Word of his actions penetrated the religious "iron curtain" he tried to establish, and aroused one courageous prophet in Judah to risk his life by going directly into Israel to challenge the king.

The courage of God's prophets is amazing. David had his Nathan who dared to accuse the king of his sins to his face. (II Samuel 12:7) Jeroboam had his accuser in the person of an unnamed prophet who came from Judah to pronounce God's judgment upon him. Only a sudden affliction of the king's hand kept the prophet from paying with his life for his courage. (I Kings 13:4-5)

STRANGE TURN OF EVENTS

Here the story takes a strange turn. Upon the flagrant sins of the king, it turns to be the heinous sin of the prophet. Whatever his motive may have been, Jeroboam invited the prophet to be his guest. The prophet refused. Undoubtedly he distrusted the king. He also knew that to accept such hospitality would put him in the king's debt, and blunt his prophetic mission.

The prophet had been warned to eat with no one in Israel, and to return home "another way." Perhaps if he tarried his life would be endangered, yet he did tarry at the insistence of a man who claimed to be a prophet of Israel. This man even lied to entice the fearless prophet to his home. To accept the invitation was a violation of God's warning. It may have seemed a minor thing, but this disobedience was followed by his tragic death as a lion-infested region of Israel. (I Kings 13:20-24)

The prophet was short-sighted. If it was wrong to ignore God's warning in the king's palace, it was just as wrong to ignore it in the prophet's home. Disobedience to God is sin wherever it is committed. A lie is a lie even if it is told in church. It is just as wrong to violate one's conscience in private as in a crowd.

KING AND ECONOMY SIZE SINS

King size or economy size, all sins are grievous in the sight of God. The king sinned against God in a spectacular way. Only the prophet knew he had sinned against God in his heart. Yet both paid dearly for their sins.

It is no victory to resist the big temptations, and then fall victim to smaller ones. It is not enough to resist sins of the flesh and then give in to the sins of avarice and pride. God asks to be obeyed, and it is not up to His servants to decide when or where they will obey Him. The lions of remorse wait to attack those who will not hear God's call to turn from the tables of self-indulgence and enter into life by "another way" of discipline and service.

External Affairs Minister Martin said the government is considering return of all dependents of Canadian military personnel in Europe to cut expenditures.

Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported the 1965 gross national product reached $51,-906,000,000, up 9.7 per cent.

Dept. Agrees With Board on School Needs

PICTON (STAFF) — The Ontario Department of Education says it agrees with the Picton Public School Board that the report of the Consultative Committee contained "logical solutions" to future public school needs in Prince Edward.

The Hallowell Township School Area Board has issued a statement to clear up a possible misunderstanding in the minds of some members of the Picton Public School Board that the township has a "reserve fund" of $50,000 or $60,000. The statement reads: The Hallowell Township School Area Board wishes to dispel the recent rumor to the effect that the board has a $60,000 reserve fund.

"The fact is that the Hallowell T.S.A. through carefully budgeting has a working surplus as of December 31, 1965, of $44,862.

Under the provisions of the Public School Act, a school board may provide for a reserve for working funds of 20 per cent of their total budget.

It is important to stress that this surplus was never at any time represented by the board as a reserve fund.

The fact that Hallowell T.S.A. had a budgetary surplus at the end of 1965 in no way affected their decision not to accept amalgamation with Picton Public School Board.

The Hallowell T.S.A. Board wishes to emphasize the fact that the books of the Board are open to public inspection by any ratepayer at any reasonable time at the office of the secretary - treasurer.

TRIAL ORDERED

OTTAWA (CP) — Rodolphe Landriault, 32, was ordered to trial Thursday on two counts of conspiracy in an alleged scheme to fix traffic tickets but similar charges against his mother, Mrs. Louis Landriault, 63, were withdrawn.

EARLY BIRD GETS THE HAT — Belleville Harbormaster Don Barrett (at left) is been presenting Captain Robert Daneau of Montreal with the traditional top hat for being master of the first ship to dock in Belleville's harbor this year. Captain Daneau's ship is the 250-foot-long tanker "Coastal Carrier," out of Montreal, which arrived at the government dock yesterday afternoon to unload its cargo of 1,600 tons of stove oil. This is the first time that Captain Daneau has been a recipient of the top hat.

Council Forced to Raise Tax Rate by Six Mills

PICTON — Public school supporters in the town of Picton will have their tax rate upped by more than six mills for 1966, but separate school supporters will get by with just over a three-mill increase.

Town council struck its 1966 budget last night setting the public school residential rate at 94.87 mills and the public school commercial rate at 102.40 mills. This is an increase over 1965 of 6.39 mills and 6.37 mills respectively.

The separate school residential rate for this year will be 94.45 mills, up 3.37 mills from last year, and the separate school commercial rate, 102.18 mills, up 3.01 mills from that of a year ago.

The new mill rates are designed to raise a total of $559,969 in local taxes.

Also at last night's meeting, council rescinded a 1965 motion authorizing the town to assume the share of the $500,000 cost for the new high school addition.

The high school addition is now in use and school officials say that increasing enrolment again is demanding additional classroom capacity.

Council members said there appeared to be a few discrepancies in the per footage cost of the school addition and that the financing motion would be held up until these could be investigated.

Canada's Best-Known Eskimo Is Teacher's Wife in Hamlet

By STUART LAKE

GRISE FIORD, N.W.T. (CP) Being in the public eye for a number of years hasn't spoiled 26-year-old Mary Panegoosho.

Perhaps Canada's best-known Eskimo in the early 1960s, the vivacious, brown-haired, brown-eyed beauty has settled down to married life as the wife of schoolteacher Roger Cousins in this tiny Ellesmere Island community.

It's fair to say official Ottawa flipped when Mary made a resounding success of Inuktitut, an Eskimo-language magazine she founded several years after joining the northern affairs department as a translator. Earlier, attention had been heaped upon her for her ability to paint and write poetry.

Government officials gladly posed with her for newspaper pictures—including Walter Dinsdale, then northern affairs minister. And there was a big fuss when the Ghanaian government invited her in 1963 to visit Ghana as its guest.

The Canadian government threw in a side trip to Nigeria and also helped her blossom out in a stylish wardrobe for her three-month African tour.

Now after 12 years in the provinces, for much of the time on display as a showpiece of her people, Mary is back in the North—and loving it.

"But I do miss Ottawa and the cultural opportunities it offers," she said.

STILL PAINTS

Being only some 600 miles from the North Pole and with a population of less than 100, Grise Fiord is well out of the main cultural stream.

But Mary and her husband keep a well-stocked library and evidence of her talents in drawing and oil painting can be seen on the walls of her home—a few rooms at the rear of the federal school building.

Between preparing meals and looking after an infant daughter, Mary continues her artistic career.

She remains an outspoken champion of her people and proudly says she's thought of in the North as an Eskimo despite her long stay in the south.

Intelligent, sensitive and a beauty in the bargain, Mary was taught in mission schools at Pond Inlet, where her father [illegible] RCMP constable. Hamilton to get her senior matriculation and then spent three summers as an interpreter for the federal health department aboard the Arctic supply ship C. D. Howe.

In 1958 she began her distinguished career with the northern affairs department.

One of her chief concerns is the preservation of the Eskimo language which led her to found the magazine. She attributes her own success in school to the fact she was taught in her own language in the early grades.

"The Canadian government has provided everything for the education of Eskimos today except, of course, the Eskimo language," she once wrote.

Her experience as a school teacher's wife hasn't changed her strong views on the need to teach the Eskimo youngster in his own tongue.

OUT OF THE LIMELIGHT — Mary Panegoosho, one of Canada's best-known Eskimos in the early 1960's, has settled down to life as the wife of school teacher Roger Cousins at Grise Fiord, N.W.T. She toured African countries as guest of the Canadian government and founded an Eskimo magazine while she was with the department of northern affairs. (CP Photo)

Air Cadets To Observe Anniversary

OTTAWA (CP)—National Air Cadet Week will be observed in Canada April 24-30.

The week will also mark the 25th anniversary of the Air Cadet League of Canada. President Robert F. Inch said today.

Over 300 air cadet squadrons in communities across the country will hold church parades, "open houses" and father and son banquets to observe the week.

Mr. Inch said the main purpose of the week is to familiarize the public with the league's work in providing aviation and citizenship training for more than 28,000 cadets in Canada.

Since the movement was founded in 1941, over 175,000 young Canadians have received air cadet training. Some 118,000 have attended summer camps.

Over 6,200 have learned to fly and 1,065 top cadets have made goodwill exchange visits abroad.

Editor's Note—This is the concluding article of a two-part series written by Don Lockyer, son of Mrs. C. G. Lockyer, Bleecker Avenue. Mr. Lockyer was a Belleville public school principal before going, with his wife and three daughters, to Northern Nigeria last fall. There, he is an Instructor at Bichi Training College for teachers, serving for a two year term under the sponsorship of the Canadian Government's External Aid Department. Mr. Lockyer and his family accompanied by Mrs. Lockyer Sr., are now spending a two-month holiday touring Europe. Mrs. Lockyer Sr. will accompany her son and his family to Nigeria in June for a short stay before returning to Belleville.

Long, meandering camel caravans are a common sight at present, as the Tuaregs, desert nomads with a rich and fascinating history, transport their limited harvest of groundnuts, dates, and salt from the desert oases to Kano. There they sell the produce in return for a few manufactured items.

Just a few days ago I stopped along the roadside to inspect one of these caravans more closely. Perhaps you have seen movies of the Foreign Legion being set upon by sinister looking Arabs garbed in dark, flowing cloth, their faces covered except for the area about the eyes. That's the very way in which these Tuaregs dress, complete with curved swords, sharp-pointed daggers, and amulets. Because of their appearance, we approached the Tuaregs and their camels with some reluctance. What a pleasant surprise however, to find them quite willing to have us wander about, and watch them as they rearranged the loads. How we chuckled to myself as one of our daughters went right up to one of the more fearsome appearing Tuaregs in order to examine his weapons more carefully. He in turn raised his arms about her, mover her closer to a camel so she could stroke its snout then peering at me with masked eyes, smiled, patiently while I took a photograph.

ATTEND INITIATION

Some time ago, my wife and I had a truly unique experience. We were invited to attend a Fulani "beating" ceremony, that ritual in which the Fulani youth are initiated into manhood. Following footpaths and passing through remote little settlements that, I am sure, had never before known the presence of a white man, we were guided several miles into bush.

At the location for the ceremony, a broad, flat area, were thousands of Fulani men, women and children. Some were pounding furiously upon enormous drums, others were dancing about wildly, clasping spears in their hands, still others were charging up and down the open areas on horseback, thrilling the crowd with every manoeuvre.

In order to be granted the rights of manhood, especially the right to marry, a Fulani youth must prove him self worthy by withstanding a torrent of violent blows from a six-foot staff. Two youths, both being initiated, worked together as partners, and took turns trifling blows upon one another. The 'crack of the staff as it pounded against the chest and back was an unnerving sound to us. However, the boys concerned seemed to endure it surprisingly well. To have withered would have meant disgrace.

FRIDAY MARKET DAY

Friday, as well as being that Holy Day, is also the day for the weekly market in the village of Bichi, three miles from the College. From early morning until late at night, there is a constant procession of people and animals going to, and returning from, the market. The market area itself consists of hundreds of open stalls grouped in sections according to the nature of the merchandise or business.

A wide variety of local produce, handcrafts, and manufactured items are bought and sold with considerable excitement and enthusiasm. Since nothing has a "fixed" price, the air is filled with the constant din of haggling, a manner of merchandising which is greatly enjoyed by both buyer and seller.

This lively atmosphere becomes even more lively when 'fasure' (whites) stroll through the market area. Indeed, I feel like the Pied Piper, as I browse amongst the stalls, followed by dozens of curious onlookers. My wife, fascinated by the local leathercrafts and pottery always manages to collect a sizeable following of children, who are anxious to carry Madam's purchases back to the car.

WAY OF LIFE TIMELESS

Visiting the markets has been to us, the most exciting experience since coming to Nigeria. It is in the markets that one senses the timelessness of this way of life; the craftsman toiling the leather with a skilled hands, the pottery maker shaping clay jugs with effortless ease; the butcher, framing his carving boards with dripping goats' heads; the Ju-Ju man, and the snake charmer with their tremendous powers of attraction; the blind, the crippled and the lepers seeking alms.

At the same time, what a remarkable contrast exists. It is possible to turn one's eyes away from the market and view a modern Nigeria Airways VC 10 climbing powerfully into the sky. As well, a few miles down the road, one can visit the Amin 'Trekking Station' which provides a vital link in the communications system for space exploration!

Dow Beer Not Only Possible Death Cause

QUEBEC (CP)—A committee formed to study the deaths of 18 men from a form of heart disease has reported that "Dow beer is not the only possible causative factor" involved in the illnesses, the Quebec health department said Thursday.

The department said in a statement:

"The committee now has established that at least one of the 18 men who died from the myocardosis (a heart condition) was not drinking Dow beer but a brand of beer made by another company.

"This shows, to the satisfaction of the committee that Dow beer is not the only possible causative factor in this condition and that other elements, still unknown, can be at the origins of it."

The health department called "satisfactory" the results of studies made at the Dow Brewery plant in Quebec City.

"The various analyses made on the beer specimens have not revealed any presence of abnormal components."

Legionnaires Busy

Study 200 Resolutions

By FRED HAMILTON

MONTREAL (CP) — Delegates to the national convention of the Royal Canadian Legion Thursday waded through the last of more than 200 resolutions, bringing to a virtual conclusion a week of debate on matters concerning Canada's ex-servicemen.

The 1,063 voting delegates at what may have been the largest convention in the legion's history—there were another 431 fraternal delegates—also elected Ronald E MacBeath, 53, of Moncton, N.B., as Dominion president for 1966-67. He succeeds Fred T. O'Brecht, 56, of Durham, Ont.

Some of Thursday's resolutions were brought back to the floor after being rejected by the resolutions committee. Those approved included:

—A requested revision of the gambling sections of the Criminal Code to make it legal for "bona fide organizations" to hold lotteries, draws, raffles and bingos.

—A request that regulations be changed to permit a veteran, on testamentary request, to have a military funeral with his coffin draped in the ensign of his former service.

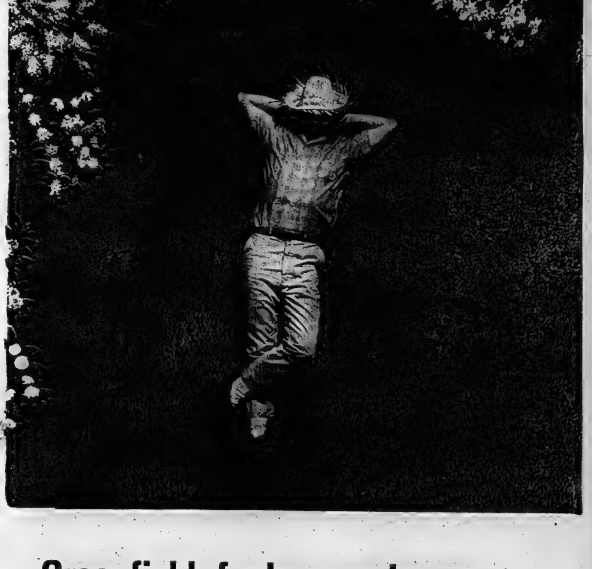
—A recommendation that eligibility for widow's allowance be extended to widows with young children who find it difficult to maintain themselves without neglecting the children.

Earlier in the day, delegates had called for a resolution, approved earlier, for what one man said, was assurance that "the Legion's stand on pensions is very clear" to Ottawa.

The resolution had asked for a cyclical review of pension and war veterans' allowance rates, to permit automatic adjustments to account for increases in the cost of living.

MAY ACCEPT REVIEW

Veterans Affairs Minister Roger Teillet, in a speech to the convention, had said the government might accept a cyclical review if it could establish a yardstick on which to establish base rates. Finding such a comparative yardstick was difficult.



The amendment moved later deplored "attempts to downgrade the services of the war disabled" and demanded, for a single veteran on a 100-per-cent pension, an amount "approximately equal to what he could have earned by his own labors."

While nothing was discussed on the floor of the convention concerning the day when there may no longer be living service veterans, it has been a popular topic in corridors, hotel rooms and at all informal assemblies. Involved is the preparation for a day when membership may have to be broadened if the Legion is to continue as such, the transfer to some new form of organization of millions of dollars in property and real estate, and a method of continuing the principles the Legion represents.

Habs 5-2 Favorites To Retain Cup

By AL McNEIL

MONTREAL (CP) — If it's any consolation to coach Toe Blake and his Montreal Canadiens, the men who study the form charts and set the odds have picked his club to repeat.

His winning Stanley Cup performance of last year.

Odds-makers pick Canadiens as 3-to-2 favorites to down Detroit Red Wings in the best-of-seven final, and a 13-to-5 choice to take the opening game of the round on Canadiens' home ice at 7:30 p.m. Sunday.

The Montrealers have been chosen on the strength of their strong drive to the league title, as compared to a stuttering Detroit effort that found the Wings dropping to fourth spot after topping the league just one year previously.

Canadiens are currently riding a nine-game winning streak in which they took their last five season games to win the Prince of Wales Trophy as league champions, and then moved into the semi-final round of the Stanley Cup play and beat Toronto Maple Leafs in four straight games.

Detroit took six games to knock second-finishing Chicago Black Hawks, out of the running.

In all, Canadiens now have won 11 Stanley Cup championships, one more than Toronto and four more than Detroit. Their most recent cup victory was against Chicago last season when they edged the Hawks in seven games.

It will be the Montrealers' 17th performance in a final series and Detroit will be playing its 18th final round, equalling a record previously held by the Leafs.

Canadiens, Leafs and Wings also run one-two-three for most playoff appearances.

This year's play will mark the 37th time the Montreal club has reached the playoffs, while the Wings are making their 32nd appearance, one less than Toronto.

However, the Detroit club holds the record for the most consecutive playoff appearances, having appeared 20 times running from 1939 through 1958.

Blake will be seeking his seventh Stanley Cup and he still holds the record for the coach with the longest consecutive cup streak, winning the silverware from 1956 through to 1960. After that streak was broken, he picked up the cup again last year.

MADOC — This historic mid-Hastings village is not taking a back seat to any comparable community in the district as far as "togetherness" is concerned.

RUDY PILOUS

"We've got neighborliness and the helping hand" Harry Brown told me. The former well - known Belleville athlete can usually be found in the middle of anything that smacks of community betterment.

Harry should know. He has been one of the burghers for the past 14 years and has contributed three "Brownies" and one "Brownette" to the population.

Soon after his arrival Harry got into the community swim, sports chiefly, among other activities.

A year ago the hockey fraternity of the village decided the local arena needed a touch of modern equipment. Artificial ice, they felt was a "must." The young hockey players of the village and surrounding districts would benefit tremendously. As would teams of the upper income group.

A committee of Cal. Kincaid, Glenn Nickle and Harry was formed as the base of a working body. The word got around. Things began to move. The call for financial help went out.

A second-hand artificial ice-plant was purchased at a cost of $28,000. Villagers, the council, county officials and local organizations put their shoulders to the wheel.

The plant was installed with voluntary labor and mechanical assistance provided gratis in many cases.

"It has been a success" said Harry". "Installed on Feb. 1st the ice plant is paying its way. The canteen showed a February profit of $300. Operational profit is $1,000 with overhead expenses cut by voluntary help."

But there is an item on the arena books that the committee would like to see erased. That is the balance of $4,000 owing on the ice equipment.

To help wipe out this debt the committee decided to hold Madoc's first Celebrities Dinner. It is scheduled for the Moira Recreational Centre (old-timers need to know it as the Madoc Armouries, the fighting ground of many a political battle) on Wednesday June 1st.

The idea has proved a popular one, not only in the village but in surrounding communities particularly those which have native sons in professional sport. The Madoc Kiwanis Club, a leading community-wise organization has agreed to underwrite the cost of the dinner approximated at $1,500.

It will be strictly a "stag" dinner with tickets at $10 for adults and $5.00 for students. Upwards of 400 are expected to attend. There will be accommodation for that number.

Chairman Kincaid and his committee expects a brilliant array of sports luminaries to be present. Hockey is the predominating sport represented but others will send their stars.

Rudy Pilous, former NHL coach and master of the quip and bon mot is the master of ceremonies. Billy Shipp of the Argonauts himself a clever witty speaker will be there. Dr. W. Dafoe, Toronto, recently elected to the BC lacrosse Hall of Fame is coming. Bill Crothers, Canada's famous runner says he will be here. Lord Athol Layton, well-known wrestler and TV commentator is another guest.

The Maple Leaf ebullient "Punch" Imlach, says the committee heads a brilliant array of professional puckstars. He's bringing along his new Eddie Shack, Bob Pulford, Johnny Bower and former pro Harry Watson.

Bobby Hull, through Picton's Mayor H. J. McFarland, says he will be on hand. I don't know whether Bobby will vocalize "Me and My Shadow" for near him will be seated the Bancroft Basher, Bryan Watson. The two were almost inseparable in the last game between the Black Hawks and Detroit.

Bob Dillabough, the pride of McArthur's Mills and professionally with the Boston Bruins rounds out the hockey greats. Other sports stars are expected to be added to the guest list.

There will be a "Meet the Celebrities" session in the Recreation Centre from six o'clock. Dinner at 7 p.m.

Tickets are now available at Carl Thompson's Variety Shop, Front St.

Allocation of Players

NHL Moguls To Meet

ernors of the National Hockey League will meet in Detroit, Friday, April 29, for further discussion of a plan to allocate players to the six new teams in the league's expansion program, scheduled for the 1967-68 season.

President Clarence Campbell of the NHL said Thursday the coming session will be a follow-up to an April 5 meeting in New York when a report was presented, but no decision was reached.

Campbell said Sam Pollock, general manager of Montreal Canadiens, had been selected by the six current team owners as the person best suited to deal with the allocation of players in the new teams.

Marichal Ahead Of Pace

Giants, Reds Run Win Strings

Bruce Rathel
Associated Press Sports Writer

Juan Marichal is ahead of last year's pace. He's already won three games and one fight.

Marichal, who last season tangled with John Roseboro in one of the most celebrated brawls in baseball history, pitched San Francisco Giants to their fifth straight victory Thursday by checking Chicago Cubs 2-0 on six hits.

It was Marichal's third straight complete game victory, and emphasized that he is winning his battle to wipe out any mental scars left by the bat-swinging incident that cost him an eight-day suspension and a $1,750 fine.

In his three wins this season, the Giants' ace right-hander has allowed only 18 hits, striking out 28 while walking just two, and allowing only two earned runs for a microscopic .067 earned run average.

The loss was the fifth straight for the Cubs who announced after the game they had traded pitchers Bob Buhl and Larry Jackson to Philadelphia for outfielders John Herrnstein and Adolfo Phillips and pitcher Ferguson Jenkins of Chatham, Ont.

Phillies Phillies, who need pitching help, dropped a 5-4 decision to Atlanta Braves for their third straight loss, while Pittsburgh Pirates edged Cincinnati Reds and Mil Pappas 2-1 for their sixth straight victory and eighth in nine games.

CARDS EDGE METS

In the only other National League game scheduled, St. Louis Cardinals edged New York Mets 5-4. Chicago belted California Angels 8-2 in the only American League game as rookie Tom Agee scored five runs for the White Sox.

Marichal, who struck out 12, got more support than he needed as Willie Mays and Mo Hart each smacked two - run homers. It was Mays' fourth homer of the season and No. 509 of his career, leaving him only two short of Mel Ott's National League record.

Eddie Mathews set a major league record by playing in his 2,000th game as a third baseman for the Braves, who rode Chris Short's wildness and Rico Carty's key triple to their victory over the Phillies.

Pappas, acquired from Baltimore in the Frank Robinson trade, was jagged for a solo homer by Jesse Gonder in the third inning, then surrendered the winning run in the sixth on Matty Alou's triple and a successful squeeze bunt by Gene Alley.

Bert Flood collected three hits for the Cardinals, including a two-run homer in the ninth inning that pulled them from behind as Bob Gibson pitched a four-hitter.

Agee hit his third homer for the White Sox, all against the Angels, and also collected a single and two walks while reaching base a fifth time when he was hit by a pitch. He also stole a base. Pete Ward collected one of Chicago's key hits, a bases-loaded triple in a four-run third inning uprising.

STUART AILS

NEW YORK (AP)—Dick Stuart was placed on the disabled list by New York Mets Thursday and will be out of action for at least 15 days.

MAYS EDGES CLOSER

CHICAGO (AP)—Willie Mays hit his 509th home run of his major league career in the first inning of a National League baseball game between San Francisco Giants and Chicago Cubs Thursday. Mays is two short of the National League home run record of 511 held by the late Mel Ott of the old New York Giants.

How fast is fast?

Try the New Evinrude 100 and find out

and while you're at it, give the 60 & 80 a go, (they're new too)

By the time you've got the throttle only part way open, you'll have a pretty good idea of just how fast the Evinrude 100 really is. And you'll wonder why a motor like this one was never introduced before. You see, this is a new kind of high performance outboard. It emphasizes the theory that you've got to make a motor monstrously high, and let's face it, horsey, to get the kind of action you find in every Evinrude 100.

The Evinrude 100 is the product of the industry's most sophisticated engineering. Instead of making it bigger, Evinrude used the complex method of exhaust tuning to bring out the high power today's boating requires. It took the most advanced computers to work out the formula and the effect of this tuning is the same as super-charging—without the mechanical complications. The result: reduced back pressure, a remarkable step-up in combustion efficiency, more torque, faster acceleration, higher speeds, more miles per gallon than ever before with any high horsepower motor.

And a few other benefits accrue, also. Being a V4, the Evinrude 100 is gentle as your boat. The hundred-horse motor won't shake the transom off. And it's quiet because it's sound-sealed to the water line.

See the new Evinrude 100 and the two other V4 outboards—the 60 and 80 at your Evinrude Dealer's now. There are 15 motors in the Evinrude line for 1966, and he's got them for you to see. Also, OMC stern drive units: 90, 120, 150 and 200 hp. models.

All Evinrudes use a 50-1 gas/oil mixture, which increases engine life, saves wear and expense. And every Evinrude carries a full 2-year warranty.

Abel Confident; "Playing Best Now"

Rest Didn't Hurt

By BERNIE KENNEDY

DETROIT (AP) — Almost completely smothered in Detroit Red Wings' surge into the Stanley Cup hockey finals against Montreal Canadiens is the fact that Alex Delvecchio is approaching a playoff milestone.

Delvecchio, who has scored in the playoffs but has assisted on eight goals, needs one more point to become only the fifth man in National Hockey League history to score 100 points in the playoffs.

Delvecchio, Red Wings' captain since the 1961-62 season, entered the playoffs with 91 points on 35 goals and 56 assists. He was seventh on the all-time playoff goal-scoring list but dropped to eighth when Chicago's Bobby Hull notched a pair to give him 36.

Gordie Howe is the leader in playoff points with 154 through this year's semi-finals. He has scored 84 goals to strengthen his second-place position behind Montreal's Maurice Richard, who has 82 goals, and has increased his Detroit assist production to 90.

Montreal's Jean Beliveau, who has scored two goals and added three assists in the playoffs so far, needs four more points to move past former team - mate Bernie Geoffrion into third place on the all-time list.

HAD 118 POINTS

Geoffrion finished with 118 points, 11 fewer than Richard. Geoffrion is third in playoff goals with 58. Beliveau now has 52.

Manager-coach Sid Abel instructed goalie Roger Crozier to wear a mask during practice Thursday. He said he wasn't taking any chances with the young pretender who held Chicago Black Hawks to 10 goals in the six semi - final games.

Abel said he was not bothered by the fact that Montreal has been idle since eliminating Toronto Maple Leafs in the other series last Thursday.

"We are getting four days' rest ourselves so it doesn't bother me," Abel said. "But I would have been worried if we would have had to play Chicago in a seventh game and then face the Canadiens.

"We are playing better now than at any time during the season, including December and January, our two best months."

1968 Olympics

South Africa Fights For Admission

By JOHN FARROW

ROME (AP)—South African delegates are preparing to battle for their country's athletes to be admitted to the 1968 Olympic Games in Mexico City.

South Africa was barred from competing in the 1964 Olympics in Tokyo because of apartheid in South African sport.

"We have no revolutionary new proposals to advance to the International Olympic Committee meeting in Rome," Frank Braun, president of the South African National Olympic Committee, said today.

"But we have this question to ask: 'Is the IOC here to fight political issues or is it to give athletes a chance to get to the top?'

"The banning of our athletes from the Tokyo Olympics already has had a bad effect on sports at home. Many of our non-white boxers have turned professional. Some of our cyclists have turned to pro soccer."

Braun claimed the South Africans had planned to include non-whites on their Olympic team for the Tokyo Games "I'm afraid that if this ban continues, then our non-white athletes are the ones who are going to take the hardest knock."

The South African issue is due to come up at the IOC meeting next Thursday.

Meanwhile, Banff's chances of getting the 1972 Winter Olympics continue to rise.

The combined United States-Canadian Ski Federation called on American delegates to the IOC meeting here to support the Canadian bid over that of Salt Lake City, Utah, as an "international sign of goodwill."

The appeal came from the Pacific Northwest Ski Areas Federation, made up of 20 members from Oregon, Washington and Idaho, and eight from Alberta and British Columbia.

No comment on the appeal was forthcoming from Banff delegates, nor from those representing the other bidders—Sapporo, Japan, and Lahti, Finland.

A decision on the 1972 winter site will be announced next Wednesday.

Montreal, Munich, Detroit and Madrid are bidding for the 1972 summer Games, with Munich rated the favorite to date.

Deal With Cubs

Phils Get Veteran Hurlers

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

In giving up a pair of proven, older pitchers for three youngsters of potential in a trade Thursday with Philadelphia Phillies, Chicago Cubs may in the long run have got the best of a deal that right now has everyone happy.

The Phillies got Larry Jackson, 34, a 16-game winner, and Bob Buhl, 37, a 13-game winner, in return for outfielder Adolfo Phillips, 23, first baseman - outfielder John Herrnstein, 23, and right - handed pitcher Ferguson Jenkins, 22, a native of Chatham, Ont.

While Cubs' manager Leo Durocher says Phillips "is the centre fielder the Cubs, and a lot of other clubs, have been trying to get since the last major league winter meeting," it may be that Jenkins is the sleeper in the deal.

Durocher said Cub scouts Rube Wilson and Mel Wright were high on Jenkins, who posted an 8-6 record with Kansas Travellers of the Pacific Coast League before being called up by the Phillies in midjuly to help last season.

"Our scouts say Jenkins can really fire that ball and is a fine prospect," said Durocher.

SOUGHT HIM BEFORE

The Cubs were hot on Jenkins' trail before he signed with Philadelphia in 1962, missing him by one day.

His played minor ball in Little Rock, Ark., Chattanooga, Tenn., Miami and Buffalo and last winter set a record with an earned run average of 1.36 while winning 16 games for Caguas of the Puerto Rican League.

The record had been 1.35, set by Juan Pizarro, now with Chicago White Sox, 10 years later.

Football TV Has Problems

REGINA (CP) — Internal problems being experienced by the Canadian Television Network have delayed a contract for television coverage of Canadian Football League games this year, Ken Preston, general manager of Saskatchewan Roughriders, said Thursday.

Preston said in an interview the CBC agreed it would not compete with CTV, allowing the private television network a clear field in contract negotiations.

"About one month ago CTV was ready to submit a bid but then decided to wait because of problems which involved a change in the network's ownership," Preston said.

"I'm pretty confident there will be television coverage this year and the delay is not alarming. However, we'd like to get the contract straightened out as soon as possible."

Bergman Faces Lawsuit

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

CHATHAM (CP)—James Riddell, 37, of Chatham said Thursday he will sue Detroit Red Wing defenceman Gary Bergman for injuries inflicted during a penalty-box fight in Tuesday night's Stanley Cup semi-final game at Detroit's Olympia Stadium.

Riddell said he received a two-inch gash on his forehead in a scuffle at the penalty box in the third period of the sixth game of the series, won 3-2 by Detroit over Chicago Black Hawks.

Riddell said he is also considering legal action against Olympia Stadium officials for their failure "to provide protection for fans and players from each other."

Riddell claimed he was refused treatment in Olympia. He said he was treated at a Detroit hospital.

"Bergman entered the penalty box and I asked him, 'When are you going to collect your slip for penalties?' Nothing more was said before he struck me," Riddell said.

Sasky Riders Sign Pair

REGINA (CP) — Saskatchewan Roughriders of the Western Football Conference today announced the signing of two players, one Canadian and one American.

Offensive end and flanker Gil Petmanis, 23, a six-foot-one 195-pounder, was the only Canadian with Golden Hilles of the Continental League last year. He played high school football in Toronto and later with Oakville Black Knights of the Ontario Senior League.

Roger Headland, 21, is a six-foot-one, 225-pound offensive guard from Mount Union College in Ohio.

Armbro Flight Eyes Top

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian-bred Armbro Flight can become the all-time leading money-winning trotting mare in North America Saturday night with its first-place finish in the $60,250 Speedster Trot for four-year-olds at Washington Park Raceway in Homewood, Ill.

The mare, owned and bred by Elgin, Ted and Charles Armstrong of Brampton, has won $362,402 in North America in three years at the trots. She beaten in three 1966 starts, she has won 63 of 85 races in her career.

She has a record of 11 straight victories since she was last beaten Sept. 1, 1965, by Ezzie Candor in the final heat of the Hambletonian at Du Quoin Ill.

Currently leading in North American earnings—but now retired—is Fresh Yankee Rodney who had winnings of $386,808 when retired to broodmare ranks by her Italian owner last fall.

World leaders in money winnings for active mares, including mares now retired to broodmares—are Elaine Rodney with $610,665, the French-bred Oro with $406,378 and Armbro Flight with $362,402.

It saves you from an overdose of sales tax.

Because of the low price.
Either new or used.
Of course, even our low price is still susceptible to sales-tax. But you get a milder case of it.
The same with the cost of running a Volkswagen. When you get around 28 miles to the gallon, you don't spend much money on gas. Or on gas sales-tax.
When you average 35,000 to 40,000 miles on one set of tires, your tire sales-tax is hardly more than a pin-prick.
And you're immune to anti-freeze sales-tax. The Volkswagen engine is air-cooled. No radiator.
Then there's oil. Hardly ever needs any between regular changes. And when you do change, you buy fewer pints of it than with a conventional car. Which means you pay less money. And less sales-tax.
The same with brakes. If you drive a Beetle, you don't have to replace half the body, just the Beetles. Replacements for sales-tax.
So when you own a VW you don't get rid of sales-taxes altogether. You just get them in small, smaller doses.

Poile Resigns As Seals GM

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Norman (Bud) Poile, general manager of San Francisco Seals the last four years, confirmed reports Thursday he will sever connections with the Western Hockey League club.

The San Francisco Examiner reported that the 42-year-old executive, who also coached the Seals most of the three seasons, would resign at the end of the current campaign.

"It's true, I won't deny it," Poile said. "I didn't want it known until after the Seals finished the playoffs. I felt it might hurt the team. I hope it won't."

The Seals and Victoria Maple Leafs currently are tied 2-2 in the semi - final playoffs. San Francisco, under Poile's leadership, won the league title in the 1962-63 and 1963-64 campaigns.

Poile said he planned to take a vacation, his first in four years. Then he will either stay in San Francisco in some other endeavor or seek a position as general manager in the National Hockey League which will expand in 1967.

The Seals have been granted one of the new NHL franchises.

Poile was offered a vice-presidency in the Seals' new major league setup, but prefers a job closer to the ice.

"I'm still pretty young and I'd like to stay close to the picture in a managerial capacity," he said, while emphasizing there was no bitterness in his decision to leave the Seals.

Poile was with the Detroit organization for 10 years. Prior to joining the Seals, only one of the teams he coached in 12 years had missed reaching playoffs.

Dallas Open

Sanders' 67 Leads Pack

DALLAS (AP) — Doug Sanders set out with a five-stroke lead in the second round of the $85,000 Dallas open golf tournament today.

He shot a four-under-par 67 Thursday to top the first round and show why he was one of the favorites.

He was playing in his 15th tournament of the year, which is all of them when you consider the fact that he couldn't play in the Azalea Open at Wilmington, N.C., because he was in the Tournament of Champions at Las Vegas at the same time.

Sanders is the only "name" player making all the tournaments and he's doing it because he wants to win one of the big ones—something he hasn't yet accomplished.

He has captured three tournaments though and been in contention in all the others, and he leads the money-winners for the year.

Two strokes behind Sanders are Miller Barber of San Antonio, Ken Still of Tacoma, Wash., and Bob Goalby of Belleville, Ill.

Nine tied at 70 include Bob Charles, Jacky Cupit, Kermit Zarley R. H. Sikes and Dow Finsterwald.

May Cost Million

Ingy Loses Tax Bout

STOCKHOLM (AP)—A Swedish court ruled Thursday that Ingemar Johansson was a Swede when he defeated Floyd Patterson of New York for the world heavyweight title.

The decision, which cannot be appealed, may cost Johansson more than $1,000,000 in taxes.

Soon after winning the title from Patterson in 1959, Johansson moved from his native Sweden to Switzerland, where the tax laws are more lenient.

Thursday's decision involved only his first title fight and not more than $20,000 was at stake. However, similar rulings now are expected in cases involving the 1960 and 1961 title fights.

The United States has filed tax claims of a million dollars against Johansson for those two years in which Sweden is asking $200,000. U.S. authorities still are holding $640,000 of his purses.

The Tracks

FORT ERIE, Ont. (CP)—Whistling Sea, the first Western Canada-bred horse to win the Queen's Plate, started on the comeback trail Thursday at Fort Erie racetrack by winning the featured $3,000 Broadway Purse.

Whistling Sea, owned by Paul Offerier of Calgary, ran the six furlongs over a good track in 1:12 2-5 and returned $5.50, $4.00 and $3.30.

The daily double of Balmoraretic and Paris Fashions paid $62.85 and the exacta of Davis Chop and Cole Harbor was worth $34.

Eastern Cup Finals

Beavers Stop Regals 7-2

SHERBROOKE, Que. (CP)—Sherbrooke Beavers displayed a fine performance of skating, passing and checking to dump Guelph Regals 7-2 Thursday night and take a 1-0 lead i nthe best-of-seven Eastern Canada Allan Cup final series.

The second game is scheduled for Sherbrooke Saturday night.

Bill Dupre scored two goals for the Beavers while others came from Rene Pepin, Rejean Richer, Gilles Cartier, Lionel Rohldas and Guy Black.

Ray Ross and Keith Worrall scored for Guelph.

Both clubs hit hard in the first two periods but the Regals appeared to slow down in the final frame.

The Beavers fired a total of 41 shots at Boat Harley of Guelph while the Regals managed a total of 25 shots at Sherbrooke netminder Serge Aubry.

The Regals appeared as though they might run away with the game as they jumped to a 1-0 lead on Worrall's goal just 30 seconds after the opening faceoff.

However, Sherbrooke settled down and took command.

Several Kentucky Derby hopefuls reach the hour of decision Saturday in races at Aqueduct, Bowie and Golden Gate Fields.

The results of the Wood Memorial at Aqueduct, the Governor's Gold Cup at Bowie and the California Derby at Golden Gate Fields will go a long way toward determining the opposition for the highly - regarded Graustark in the Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs May 7.

Three - year - olds trained by Eddie Neloy will be favored in the two $100,000 races. Ogden Phipps' impressive is the 3-1 choice in the measure a probable field of 10 in the Wood and Stupendous, from Mrs. H. C. Phipps' Wheatley Stable, is quoted at the same odds to take the Gold Cup.

With 10 starters, the Wood will be worth $113,500 and the winner will pick up $73,775. The Gold Cup, richest race in Bowie's history, will have a gross value of $120,500, with $78,325 to the winner if 13 start, as expected.

Three Programs in Series Have Been Disappointment

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—It began about three years ago as an ambitious project to explain little-known United Nations activities in dramatic entertainment form. It comes to an end tonight with ABC's broadcast of The Poppy Is also a Flower, a spy story about the narcotics traffic. But up in between, three programs in the series have been a disappointment.

Paul Hoffman, director of the United Nations special fund, was impressed by the Second World War propaganda value of the film, Mrs. Miniver. He wanted to do something along that line for the United Nations —particularly on television.

An office equipment company (Xerox) agreed to sponsor the effort by setting up a non-profit, tax-free corporation with $4,000,000 to finance the programs. Writers, producers, directors and stars, according to Hoffman, would happily work for the minimum salaries permitted by the worthy cause.

But what looked great on paper developed bugs in operation. Edgar Ansel Mowrer, a theatrical producer turned public relations executive, was put in charge.

LINE UP 'NAMES'

"We lined up some important names and normally available stars for television," he said. "Then we found it was almost impossible to get them together at the time they were needed."

Some big-name performers, at the peaks of careers that are notoriously short, just could not afford to take off weeks and months to perform for a fraction of normal salaries. Others didn't have enough free time between commitments.

Originally it was expected to make six programs, each on a budget of around $400,000—a bit for a TV show. There were actually funds for only four.

Saddest of all was the fact that the first three efforts attracted neither the big audiences nor the critical acclaim that had been anticipated. But tonight's finale holds promise. It is based on an outline by the late Ian Fleming, who dreamed up James Bond. The stars appearing include Yul Brynner and Princess Grace of Monaco. Recommended tonight:

The Poppy is also a Flower, at ABC, 10-11 EST.

"THE SPY WHO CAME IN FROM THE COLD"

"The Spy Who Came in from the Cold," a stunning new espionage thriller which combines contemporary drama, classical style and the talents of some of the world's top creative artists, is now playing at the Belle Theatre.

Produced and directed by Martin Ritt for Paramount Pictures, the powerful film co-stars Richard Burton, Claire Bloom and Oskar Werner. Based on the best-selling novel by John Le Carre that was a literary sensation, the drama has become a gritty, intense screen portrait of the chilling cold war that ends in a carefully planned duel between East and West.

At a time when the "spy craze," with its super-heroes and incredible villains, has wrung every last drop of wonder from its wonderlands — no matter how strange a place it is, it loses its strangeness when lived in long enough — "The Spy Who Came in From the Cold" takes the spotlight with a fresh approach.

A new style story exceedingly well done would seem to be enough of an achievement, but "The Spy" is good, not just because of freshness, but because it moves swiftly through the world of espionage with classical simplicity, style, and a clearly human viewpoint.

The Spy Who Came in from the Cold," with a color cartoon and a very entertaining short, reject "Snow Fun" will be shown at 2.00, 7.00 and 9.00 p.m. daily at the Belle Theatre in Belleville.

RUMPELSTILTSKIN

From The Wonder World of K. Gordon Murray

It is a tremendous team when the great fairy tale classics from the magical world of the Bros. Grimm, classics that have lived for over 200 years...are brought to the screen with all their color and beauty by the Producer, of the Wonder World for children —K. Gordon Murray. Rumpelstiltskin is probably the most universally 'known of all of the Grimm fairy tales. It's the story of the miller's daughter who was forced to spin gold from straw for the King. When she was found crying with a room full of straw in the Royal Palace, a little elf offered to help for a price. Each time she gave him an article of value until there was nothing left to give. The King has promised that on this final day if again she were able to spin gold from straw, she could marry his son the handsome Prince. If she were unable to perform this feat, she was to lose her head. One must see the picture to appreciate the story and the simple beauty that has made these Grimm stories live down thrflight the Ages.

Rumpelstiltskin was made in the Bavaria of the Grimms with its beautiful castles and the gorgeous scenery along the river Rhine. As is true with all G. Gordon Murray productions for children, Rumpelstiltskin will be shown at the Park theatre for matinees only on Saturday and Sunday. Matinees are at 1.30 and 3.30 p.m.

Dave's Hideaway

By

— Dave Charles —

I meant every word I said last week and will add that it applies to those who have little interest in something worthwhile ! ! ! I have received many letters from mod music makers all over the Quinte district . . . some agreed with what I had to say and others didn't. As I said . . .you are entitled to your opinion and I am entitled to mine. One letter stated that they appreciated the great bands that come to Belleville but didn't feel that they should have to show their appreciation at these dances. They went on to say that for the price of admission I also wanted a cheering section. "That is not the idea" ! ! ! Can you imagine telling a joke to a crowd of your friends and then, upon completion of your joke, have no one laugh and then proceed to tell another joke and again have no one laugh. What would you feel like ? ? ? That is exactly how a band feels after working out all night and receiving negative response . . . Enough said . . . It's up to you . . . Boss . . .

Tonight another Quinte district first in mod country. Moira Secondary School will be holding their first mod semi-formal . . . It's true. Featuring none other than "Dee and Yeomen," the group that has won the hearts of Belleville and Trenton. This fab group has the number one song this week on the "908 Twin Twenty File."

I hope to see you and your date at the semi-formal tonight, it should be a flip . . .

This Saturday I will also be pleased to appear with the "Fiends" from Toronto. Another groovey Canadian group especially for Bay of Quinte mods . . . I would like to officially announce that the teens in Trenton have not been forgotten. Teen Club 106, is an example of one of the finest teen clubs in Canada. This group is capable of handling every aspect of such an organization and so far they have been more than successful. They also bring the top Canadian groups to that area. However for those teens in Trenton who are not able to make it to Teen Club 106 because of transportation or other reasons the new Trenton Community Gardens, Ted Kingsella, and myself have been working on a place that would be ideal for your Friday night and Saturday "in crowd" to be . . . The Community Gardens is said to have a bad name, but I fail to see why? It is only a matter of a few things around on the inside . . . updated the entertainment and called this new place . . . "The Hideaway." Opening night for "The Hideaway" is May 7th with a Saturday night . . . I will be there with "Sounds Incorpy" . . . and Canada's favorites "Dee and the Yeomen" . . . Yes Dee and the Yeomen will open up "The Hideaway" on May 7th.

"The Hideaway" will be open to teens on a Friday and Saturday night . . . On Friday night there will be records only, and Saturday night good Canadian bands, such as the Big Town Boys, Yeomen, J. B. and the Playboys, The King Bees, and others. Watch for these and other groups at "The Hideaway. Again I would like to say to Belleville and Trenton mods . . . there are many fine local bands in the Quinte district worthy of your support. These bands are striving for the top and need your help. So if your school or club has booked a local band for a dance make it a point to go . . . support at this time is most important to them and could mean that their dream of reaching the top some day will come true . . .To all local bands, join the union . . . Belleville has its own local and it is for your own good . . .

B.O.T.C.H. is busy working on their coffee house at the arena and should be finished very soon. Most of the heavy work is completed now and all that remains is a suitable interior. If you have any ideas as to the designs and can help, call me at CJBQ . . . Your talent is needed. If you do not have your B.O.T.C.H. membership card yet I suggest you pick it up at the "Big Town Dance" on April 30th. . . . Their record is number three on the new "File." Listen to "At The Top" for the time and place of this gig . . . everybody's going . . . so if you're everybody I'll see you there.

I have decided to concentrate on two sports this year, sailing and golf . . . I have also decided to add a new club to my set this year, "A shovel" . . . An old sailor never dies he just loses his wind . . . Golly ! Gee ! ! Gramma Quinte is at it again . . . B.A.F.T.S. is growing day by day . . . All scurfers have taken wheels and their state bonds are challenged the mighty Moira . . . Not only will our water supply be filled with its usual fine assortment of germs and plant life but bits of surfers too . . . Oh, sorry . . . B.A.F.T.S. stands for (Belleville's Association for Teenage Surfers) You're kidding ! ! . . . No ! !

Let us depart from this water wonderland into Dave's Cave . . . Remember Shotgun . . . "Junior Walker and the All Stars" have one on the go . . . called "I'm a Road Runner" . . . "The Byrds" are really flying "Eight Miles High" and going places too . . . Need we say that "Monday, Monday" is a hit. "Strange Loves" do it again introducing another great gal called Cher-lin . . . This is too much . . .

Mods . . . please understand that things are happening all over Canada and in the Quinte district . . . If you think I am pushing too hard . . . maybe you are right, but this is the time for action and not tomorrow or the next day . . . It will not happen, by itself . . . It needs interested enthusiastic, and loyal efforts on the part of all mod music makers. Belleville is respected in other parts of Canada as a young aggressive market where big things are happening, let's not disappoint them. I am not kidding when I state that we are "the Capital of the Canadian Music Scene" . . . Don't forget too that our one hundredth birthday is next year . . . Let's incorporate some of our good times into a trend to be carried across this great country of ours . . .

Shangri-la.

Proud Model Parliament

By PIERRE VENIOT

HALIFAX (CP) — Queen Elizabeth high school of Halifax takes pride in having the longest continuous mock Parliament in Canada.

Now in its 15th year, the model Parliament will begin sessions April 28 with the Liberal party holding 10 of the 13 seats.

The two Grade 12 students who are the leading force in the party, Gary Worth and Ross Logan, favor the retirement of Prime Minister Pearson, and Opposition Leader Diefenbaker, view with mixed feelings the stature of the Queen as the official monarch of Canada and oppose free tuition.

Gary, the Liberal party leader, says Mr. Pearson "is wavering—he should be replaced."

Ross, the party's president says Mr. Diefenbaker presents to become prime minister for the centennial year.

Although their school is named after the Queen, the boys feel with reservations she is an unnecessary luxury.

"I don't think the Queen should be abolished, but she doesn't do that much," says Ross. "To a lot of people, she represents sentimental ties."

Says Gary: "It does seem a gross waste of money to have the Queen. However, it doesn't cost us too much except for her representative the governor-general."

With a smile: "I don't think he eats too much."

The boys say they would like to have free tuition in university, but say there is a danger in both the student and the institution.

Says Gary: "If you pay for your own education, you probably would work harder and appreciate the education much more.

Weekly Youth Page

A Cure-All for Belleville's Ills

By N. D. Morrison (BCI)

Not too long ago the Intelligencer's editorial page was burdened with a number of letters, or letter, appeals, addressed to the city of Belleville in an effort to improve this general area. These letters, though probably written with the best of intentions, and though they certainly were amusing — one in particular I recall was so long and so priutable that the paper decided to serialize it — and finally though they sparkled here and there with the odd worth while suggestion, were, aside from these dubiously redemptive features, in a word useless; and in two words IS€!* useless I might even go so far as to say they were harmful, for the flippant style with which they — one in particular — were written tended to discourage any serious considerations (w h i c h the letters themselves might have prompted) of Belleville's multi-problem problem.

It is generally conceded that money is the basic and biggest problem anywhere, a n y t i me. Then it is that to be casual observer money, or rather the lack of it, would seem to be the major deterrent in any and all of this city's plans to enhance the landscape or to erect monumental entertainment and recreational facilities, or anything else of a like nature. But this is not so.

There are in fact, 31,000 reasons for the retardation of this area; and each one of them, if honest, could attest to the overwhelming were of apathy against which this tired, old town can not and will not fight. As for the occasional spasms of endeavour, they must be disqualified, for they are l i t t l e more than the asses struggles of slow and painful d e a t h. The truly agonizing throes are yet to come.

These spasms, incidentally, are becoming dangerously frequent. We have, or rather have had, an exceptionally stirring example not so very long ago; referring of course to the proposed recreational centre. I can not even remember its name, or even if it had come that far. The idea (no doubt after many months of hard work) was set before this city for suggestions and/or help. There were plenty suggestions (like "P e rget it!"), but very few of a constructive nature were offered, for the city was terrified of such an immense project, to "Give and Take . . . and money!" was simply beyond the shrivelled imaginations of its citizens; and in frantic desperation they saw no alternative but to 'sah out with thoughtless by disparaging and remarkably unqualified criticism of the plan: a plan which is now in the remember when.

Another example of this crippling wave of apathy is t h i s city's (our youth now) reaction to a really marvelous idea, the Youth Page. I need go no further than to say that roughly one-third of it is plastered with "Shangri-la", another third generally, though well-covered, is columnist who used to be content with page eight or nine; and when an occasional student finally does have something to utter, it is toss-up as to whether he or an advertiser enjoys what little space is left. But that may appear a bit one-sided. Perhaps a lack of student interest and participation resulting in oversized "fillers" would be closer to the truth. Just a warning though, the Youth Page is not too young to die: not in Belleville, at any rate. As for the city itself, it is not really dying; it is merely not living.

Obviously, then, neither our problem nor its solution is in itself (although it is of a little consequence that in t h e 15 years prior to our present century's initiation, contact did nothing in the way of attracting large enterprises to this locale); for the problem, as it is, p r o spers; and it rests equally on 31,000 shoulders.

NEVER SAY DIE

But never say die. Too real go-getter — thanks be to God — have appeared on the scene in more recent (recent if by relative to Belleville's hisp'ev) to stem the mighty wiens of the secret ballot and the order with at least the impressionable (for have of all, facade) axes and of which really is a ball stuff of all, beard, sandals, toughtured natural wave brought to my mind the wondrous scales of Beethoven, Bach rather than the prostituted scales of the beetles and smashy things like that. But I digressed.

The two glorious white characters to which I referred are of course a certain mayor and a particular (though no less zealous) civic jockey. These two, in all seriousness, have done a great deal in the way of pushing Belleville. These two at least — and myself makes three — realize that Belleville is a very small hub of an equally great wheel and that there is room here for absolutely nothing but growth, in spite of the fact that this city is not only weary, it is also unbearably and needlessly poor. Of course the accumulation of large sums of money in a relatively short period of time requires a bit of aggressive speculation; and if it were not for the happy sign (the two go-getting chargers) of a possible revivification of this stricken city, I would have had neither the courage nor the conviction to expound that which I am about to propose. Even so, I still choose to close into it.

1967 is Canada's birthday year. If five years ago — the year when expected precious little more than a casual, "So! Happy Birthday!" from out then suddenly, momentarily and just as conveniently disgruntled citizens. However I expect that things will be different in 1967; all a result of this "new-life" of which I spoke, and I understand that already Council is making a few plans for the big birthday party. Now I know nothing of the projected nature of these proposed birthday greetings, but if they sent going to be even remotely similar to the Christmas decorations which did in fact not adorn our streets last year, I shall be loudly and emphatically displeased. That puny attempt to decorate our city and thus usher in Christmas in the appropriate spirit was, I think, the most piteous and disheartening spectacle I have ever witnessed.

MAKE MONEY

No, rather than spend money (which we do not have) just for the sake of spending money, I suggest that we spend money just for the sake of making money (which we do not have); and my plan quite simply is this. The Expo 67 committee suitable "pastes "crowded" conditions within a 500 mile radius of Montreal during the exposition; and all Belleville has to do is to transform itself into a Montreal this summer, and with some feigned cheek, to rent several flicks from certain farmers in areas approximately five miles outside Montreal. Dividing these fields (into lots) and drawing up a few hundred tents to rent to the temporarily shelterless crowds should present no problem whatsoever: in fact our only difficulty (ideally and theoretically) would be in keeping track of the money back in our little piggy bank.

But supposing I am wrong, and the idea is scrapped — or worse, not even considered — If it prods only a few of our 31,000 imaginations and a number of worthwhile projects by that I mean money-making schemes — are introduced for the Centennial, I will not feel that it has been a complete loss. There is always victory in defeat.

In closing, Belleville's future will not be determined by me, nor by that certain mayor, nor by that particular civic jockey; rather her fate rests in our 31,000 hands — some of them only thought of — and p e r h a p s if Belleville is turned over to Belleville, although previous attempts would seem to discourage such action, things may very well improve. After all, there is one thing that will faithfully remain with us always (to spite of ourselves) and that is potential.

Recommends Camouflage For Those Broken Nails

By REBA and BONNIE CHURCHILL

It pays to give beauty a helping hand, particularly if you have broken fingernails to camouflage. Since an active girl moves her hands hundreds of times an hour, such careless grooming is hard to overlook. Fortunately, her digit distress can be solved with artificial nails that are so skilfully manioured, it's hard to tell the fake from the real. The secret is selecting nails scaled to the hand size — petite, average or large, and shaping them to a natural, manageable length.

If you're a coed or careerist, love long, claw-like tips is the fashion models. Actress Marta Kristen, who sees plenty of action in the 20th-TV adventure series, "Lost in Space," makes length conform to her work needs. As she demonstrates, to shorten fake nails, emery across the cuticle end, leaving the pre-shaped, tapered tips oval and symmetrical.

When applying polish, try this speed-up technique. Press a piece of double-face tape to the underside of the false nails, and secure them to a cardboard. This facilitate brushing on lacquer, prevents smudging, and quickens drying. To attach nails, clean natural nails and loosen the cuticles. Smooth a thin coat of adhesive on both the true and false nails, and press each coverup in position. For a snug fit, slide edge under the cuticle. Once cheek digit brightening are in place they look so real they can't be detected even in a TV closeup.

We May Have Seen Last Hour With Seven Days Says Producer

TORONTO (CP) — Douglas Leiterman said today viewers may have seen their last edition of This Hour Has Seven Days unless CBC President J. Alphonse Ouimet reverses the network's decision to dismiss the show's co-hosts.

Mr. Leiterman, the program's executive producer, said in a statement issued after his return from Halifax Friday he was astonished to hear the CBC's board of governors had backed the management's decision to take Laurier LaPierre and Patrick Watson off the show.

The board of governors confirmed the decision to drop the co-hosts at its meeting in Halifax Friday.

Mr. Leiterman said unless the decision is reversed "I have no alternative but to stop producing the program.

"Moreover, I expect the whole staff of Seven Days will walk out and that This Hour Has Seven Days will go off the air before completion of its season May 8."

He said that if the program was not satisfactory he, as executive producer, should have been fired and not the hosts.

"The real core of the dispute is that Pat and Laurier have been fired without any remotely acceptable reason at a time when they have been immensely popular as the hosts of Seven Days."

There are two more Seven Days programs scheduled for the Sunday night time slot. They will follow this Sunday's showing of the program Document, produced by Mr. Watson, on the drug LSD.

Mr. Leiterman said he thought it doubtful Mr. Watson would appear as host of Document Sunday night.

In its Halifax statement, the board of directors said it recognized "there had been a serious breakdown in formal communication between management and the producers of Seven Days."

The board directed that steps be taken, at whatever levels necessary, to ensure effective communication between management and producers.

Its statement added: "The board asked that every effort be made to continue the improvement of the program Seven Days. It recognizes that this production is lively and provocative and has attracted a large following.

"The people involved in this program are hard-working and dedicated. A serious short-coming of the program, however, has been its frequent departures from established corporation policy. . . ."

Support for the ousted co-hosts continued to flow in from across Canada Friday night.

In Toronto, a statement drawn up by Senator Gratian O'Leary of Ottawa and signed by 30 prominent Canadians expressed concern that the forces raised by the dismissals may shear the CBC of its function as a national forum of discussion.

Rhodesian Oil Supply Feeling Embargo Pinch

By RAYMOND PALMER

LONDON (AP) — Rhodesia's breakaway regime is apparently beginning to feel the pinch of the four month-old British oil embargo.

The white-minority regime's oil reserves face possible exhaustion by the end of the summer, even with stepped-up rationing and increased supplies from South Africa, say some observers.

A one-month supply of oil remains aboard the Greek tanker Joanna V in the Portuguese Mozambique port of Beira, 180 miles down the pipeline from the Rhodesian refineries at Umtali. Greece has called on Portugal to observe the United Nations resolution barring oil to Rhodesia and the ship's captain has said he will not discharge his 14,000-ton cargo.

A second Greek tanker, Manuela, carrying a further month's supply of oil, is believed to be somewhere on the high seas after being headed off from Beira by the British navy. The South African government refused to allow the ship to discharge its cargo at Durban.

These two tankers were re-

Seal Hunt 'Rookies' Blamed

By ED WALTERS

TORONTO (CP) — T. I. Hughes, general manager of the Ontario Humane Society, Friday night blamed airborne hunters from the Magdalen Islands and inexperienced young sealers for most of the cruelty reported during the annual spring seal hunt in the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

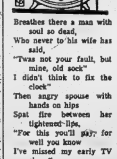
He said in an interview following a meeting of the society which recommended stricter control of Canadian hunters that old-time Newfoundland sealers were observed to work "humanely, quickly and efficiently."

Mr. Hughes visited ice floes in the gulf south of the Magdalen Islands last March 7-9 with other humane society officials and veterinarians.

He said most ships' crews were made up of 17- and 18-year-old youths making their first trip to the ice. They frequently were cruel ministering ally through inexperience in killing the "whitecoats"—baby harp seals valued for their pelts.

But the older Newfoundlanders knew how to do their jobs properly. After killing the whitecoats by a blow on the head with their gaffs, many took the precaution of jabbing their knives into the seal's heart during the skinning process.

Gaffs are four- and five-foot wooden sticks with a hook at the end.



SKINNED STILL CONSCIOUS

Mr. Hughes said airborne hunters carried only knives. They usually tried to kill whitecoats by kicking in the head or snout but this method frequently failed to even stun the animal. This meant it was still alive and sometimes conscious when skinned.

He said clubbing is the most humane method of killing because a proper blow shatters the animal's skull.

Sharp's Budget Passed

By PAUL DUNN

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons Monday will start a debate to bring collective bargaining to some 300,000 federal employees.

MPs gained one day in their attack on the big legislative program before them by approving Finance Minister Sharp's first budget Friday—without a formal vote—on the fifth day of what could have been a six-day debate.

Approval came after two confidence tests. A New Democratic Party amendment went down by a vote of 172 to 30, a Conservative motion went under 172 to 98.

Monday's debate is on a resolution proposing introduction of collective bargaining machinery into the public service, along with a grievance procedure and system for settling disputes likely compulsory arbitration.

At present, federal employees have the right to consultation with the government on pay matters. If the resolution is approved the draft bill will be referred to a joint Commons-Senate committee to meet interested employee organizations.

Students Protest 'Holiday'

QUEBEC (CP)—Some 1,000 students who are out of class because their teachers are on strike gathered before the Quebec Parliament Friday and bowled for cabinet ministers who weren't there.

In a mixed display of seriousness and buffoonery the placard - waving demonstrators urged Premier Lesage and Education Minister Paul Gerin-Lajoie, both of whom were in Montreal, to take steps necessary to end the strike of some 2,300 government - employed teachers in technical schools, art schools and teachers colleges.

The students, mainly from Montreal and the Quebec City region, said they represent the 30,000 students affected by the walkout of members of the Syndicat des Professeurs de l'Etat du Quebec (CNTU).

Organizers of the demonstration said that what they want is an end to the strike, which began April 12. However, they added that they supported their teachers and hoped the government would be the one to back down.

He described it as "a complete program of government" for the next legislature session.

To do this, Quebec needed a still larger share of fiscal resources from Ottawa, resources which would be sought "more insistently and more firmly than ever."

Quebec would seek further federal concessions in income tax, succession duties and corporation tax, beginning with those corporations that exploit natural resources.

It would opt out of all present and future federal - provincial programs in fields under provincial jurisdiction and seek equivalent compensation in cash.

Quebec would seek to take over family allowances and old age pensions from the federal authority.

Another concession sought from Ottawa was Quebec control of its own manpower.

The Quebec labor department would become the department of manpower and labor. Quebec would operate its own employment service and would "insist that Ottawa respect Quebec labor laws."

For the Quebec voters, Mr. Lesage outlined plans to make the province "more humane, more prosperous and more efficient."

Family allowances should be increased to $16 a month from $6 for children ranging in age from 13 to 15, beginning with the third child in each family. Monthly allowances for students of 16 and 17 should be doubled to $30 and a similar $30 allowance provided for 18-year-old students.

Lesage Wants to Take Over Family Allowances, Pensions

MONTREAL (CP) — Quebec's ruling Liberal party is seeking re-election June 5 on a pledge to make the province "stronger than ever."

Premier Jean Lesage repeated the phrase several times in both French and English at a press conference Friday during which he outlined the party's election platform.

PC Member Wants to Know Why Cars Not Called In

OTTAWA (CP)—Questions on auto safety brought a flurry of charges and counter-charges in the Commons Friday.

Creditiste Leader Caouette said Howard Graffley (PC—Brome-Missisquoi) was playing politics with the subject.

Mr. Graffley said Mr. Caouette "has a conflict of interest" in the matter because he runs an auto dealership in his home riding of Villeneuve.

Mr. Graffley started the exchange by referring to recalls by U.S. manufacturers of certain car models in remedy defects.

The same models are manufactured in Canada, he said, and asked Industry Minister Drury whether the Canadian industry had made any statement on why similar recalls had not been made in Canada.

Mr. Drury said he had not received any report from the Canadian industry.

Mr. Graffley then started to

Majority Of Victims Servicemen

ARDMORE, Okla. (AP) — A chartered airliner crashed in the foothills of the rugged Arbuckle Mountains in southern Oklahoma Friday night, killing 81 of its 86 passengers, most of them U.S. Army recruits.

Seventeen survivors of the crash, which occurred when the huge turboprop overshot a converted Second World War airbase runway, were taken to hospitals. Most were in critical condition.

Dead were taken to a temporary morgue set up in Ardmore's Civic Auditorium.

There, 81 bodies were counted within a few hours after scores of rescuers began the task of moving victims from heavily-timbered hillside.

The dead toll included one survivor who died later in an Ardmore hospital.

CONFIRMS DEATH COUNT

The official death count was confirmed by Colonel Donovan, battalion commander of the Ardmore National Guard unit.

The worse single plane crash involving military personnel occurred in 1948 when 52 U.S. servicemen were killed when a C-124 air force Globemaster went down near Tokyo.

The plane was an American Flyers airliner, preparing for a post-Easter hop while on a cross-country flight from Fort Ord, Calif., where the recruits had just completed basic training, en route to Fort Benning, Ga.

The plane was piloted by Reed Pigman, president of Americas Flyers. He was identified as one of the dead.

SEARCH FOR VICTIMS

A search continued through the night for victims of the crash, which left wreckage scattered over a wide area.

"The plane wobbled till over the place we were coming down," said Pte. James Gorman, one of the survivors. "Then the plane hit.

"There was fire all around me and I undid my seat belt and got out . . . but I didn't have to climb out. There wasn't any more plane."

The cause of the Lockheed Electra turboprop occurred during light rain. There was no severe weather.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: Unsettled weather is expected in the edge into the province during the day. Sunday will be mainly cloudy with a few showers likely in all but the extreme northern areas.

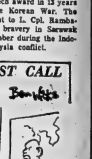
Dupuis Found Guilty

SHERBROOKE, Que. (CP)— Twelve jurors took 60 minutes Friday afternoon to find Yvon Dupuis guilty of influence-peddling. The trial lasted six weeks.

Mr. Dupuis lawyer, Paul Marcheseo, told reporters later he did not know yet if an appeal would be made.

Judge Evendor Veilleux sentenced Mr. Dupuis, 39, to a $5,000 fine or one year in prison.

The former federal minister without portfolio in the Pearson cabinet was found guilty of peddling influence in trying to obtain a contract on behalf for a St. Johns, Que., chiropractor, Roch Deslauriers. As chief Crown witness, Mr. Deslauriers said he gave Mr. Dupuis $10,000 for the job.



The permit never was granted.

Mr. Dupuis will appear at criminal assizes next September on two more counts in connection with the same charges.

When the verdict was announced Mrs. Yvon Dupuis ran to her husband, threw her arms around him and collapsed. Attendants carried her outside the courtroom where she revived.

WINS VC

LONDON (Reuters) — British's highest decoration for valor in battle — the Victoria Cross — was awarded by the Queen Friday to a young Gurkha lance-corporal. Galbraith Says Viet Nam to Be Graveyard of Fight-Reds-Anywhere Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Economist John Kenneth Galbraith said Friday night U.S. involvement in Viet Nam will prove to be the graveyard for a foreign policy of fighting communism without relating each conflict closely to the interests of the United States.

"It is worth hoping that the policy is all that gets buried," said the Canadian-born Galbraith, an adviser to the late president John F. Kennedy and former ambassador to India, in a speech prepared for the annual convention of Americans for Democratic Action.

The Harvard economist, a native of Iona Station, Ont., said it was assumed that in Viet Nam the United States faced "a unified conspiracy directed, according to changing preference, by Hanoi, Peking or international communism in general."

Galbraith said this proposition had not survived the experience.

As a solution, he said the United States must first "escape the entrapment of our own propaganda."

"Viet Nam is not important to us," nor is it a battle of freedom," he said. "Nor is it a testing place of democracy. It is none of these things. Had it been lost in 1954, no one would be thinking of it now."

Galbraith said the United States should "not going to push the Viet Cong back from the large areas they have controlled for the last 19 years."

Repeating a statement he has made many times previously, Galbraith said the United States must permanently suspend air attacks on North Viet Nam.

He also said the United States must "face seriously the likelihood that there will not again by a government in Saigon which is seriously capable of prosecuting the war along with us."

"What we should welcome, and in the end will have to welcome, is a regional settlement, as in Laos," Galbraith said. "The central government will, at best, be only a loose federalism of areas under different control. But that is about all Indochinese governments ever have been."

Wednesday 24th. — Making out the Plan of Survey.

Note: Coleman's site at the northwest corner of Bridge Street and Front Street to Smith also contained one of Belleville's first building restrictions. The land was "to be at the disposal of the said Smith in any way he may think proper, other then erecting a Building thereon to be occupied as a Tavern." One woodlers whether Coleman was a temperance advocate, or whether he wished to reserve such a profitable land use for himself.

By 1831 Coleman had sold two dozen parcels of land in the new Town. His sale to Smith took place April 27, 1816, the day after Wilmot had finished his work, and the deed was witnessed by S. Wilmot and William Zwick. Since Wilmot's survey had not been confirmed by the Government, Coleman was probably inserted the following condition of sale: "the whole lot herein described is considered and understood to be subject to any variation, or alterations that may at any time hereafter be made by any survey (authorised by Government) differing from the one recently established by Samuel S. Wilmot Esquire."

Cubs Guests Of Bridge St. AOTS Club

Bridge Street AOTS Men's Club held its annual "Father and Son" meeting Wednesday with the Cubs as special guests. A goodly turnout enjoyed the bountiful potluck supper, the cordial fellowship, and the interesting program.

Vice-president Bob Cruickshank, chairman, welcomed all present, with a special reference to the boys, then appointed Charlie Bristol as sergeant-at-arms and David McIntock as song leader, with Alec Gordon at the piano. When the supper was finished he also expressed appreciation to the ladies who had served the meal.

David McLintock conducted the evening devotional period.

Jack McLauchlan, Chief of Police in Belleville, introduced the speaker, Police-Inspector Ralph Blatchford, who appeared to be quite at home, having been president of such an organization for a few years back and inspector Blatchford emphasized the fact that the City police staff would be found always willing and anxious to serve the entire community in an effort to keep their town, and their streets safely and honestly. He appealed especially to the boys to regard police officers as their best friends, and assured them that as most policemen had boys of their own, they were only too anxious to see that all boys were brought up to co-operate with the officers of the law and so make Belleville a pleasant place in which to live.

Chief McLauchlan and Inspector Blatchford demonstrated the technique of fingerprinting and described several articles they had with them, that had been used by criminals in their unlawful activities. They also passed around some counterfeit paper money that looked very much like the real thing.

The appreciation of the Club was expressed by Ron McKinney.

Rev. Alf Poulter gave the evening benediction.

Construction Roundup
The addition to Belleville General Hospital is slowly but surely rising from its foundation with each passing day.
Since the first of April, the general contractor has poured concrete for the remainder of the first floor and majority of the columns — to the second floor level of the main portion of the wing. The first floor and two thirds of the second floor level itself have been poured.
The "roughing in" by plumbing and electrical sub-contractors continues and the erection of the frame to the second floor level is now underway.
Excavation has commenced for the new loading dock on the east side of the existing hospital building, as well as for a retaining wall at the south-west corner of the hospital property.
On the perimeter of the construction activity around the hospital, the installation of curbing is being completed for the east side parking areas and at the east entrance.
Mauro - Rollins Construction Ltd. has had the piles approved and is ready to start erection of a number of single family dwellings in the area, including [illegible], Belleville, 3 in Kingston, 4 in Peterborough.
Rollins has completed 37 other works homes, 46 of which are in Belleville, and 15 now putting the finishing touches on their exteriors by grading and laying topsoil.

Earlier this week, a number of interested bystanders, including several artists with their sketch pads, were on hand at the John St.-Victoria Avenue intersection to watch the demolition of the 80-year-old Lasher home.

M. Howe Wreckers of Bloomfield had been awarded the contract for the job and tried to bring the structure down with a bulldozer pulling attached heavy-duty cables — a technique that could put tremendous strain on the house.

After repeated attempts, one cable — with an hook-like cable snapping like a string — the superstructure of the house crashed to the ground in a huge cloud of dust.

Salvage work is being carried out on the ruins of the house.

Later in the year, construction will begin on a new apartment complex to be erected on the site.

In addition to current larger projects in which it is involved, such as the new Civic Centre in Ottawa, Wilson Concrete of Belleville has recently picked up a number of small ones, including a contract on a public school in Odessa, and a 2-storey garage in Ottawa.

Plans are on display at the Quinte Construction Association office on Pinnacle Street for the proposed revenue post office building in Newburgh (tenders due April 21st), and for the new terminal building at the water purification plant for the Belleville Utilities Commission (due May 3).

For the past several weeks, Tatham contractors have been working at installing improved parking facilities at the north side of the Quinte Hotel. The lot, which will eventually be asphalted, is intended to provide parking space for about 40 cars. Storm drainage and a retaining wall are also being installed.

Municipal Board Decision On Dundas Street Clinic Reserved After Hearing

Dr Harold Williamson, local physiotherapist, who for the past two years has been seeking city approval for the operation of a medical clinic at 260-262 Dundas Street, will have to wait a few weeks longer before learning whether he can do so legally.

Yesterday at city hall the Ontario Municipal Board reserved decision on the application of the city asking approval for a zoning change for several properties opposite the Belleville General Hospital, which would allow Dr. Williamson to operate a clinic.

The request for a zoning change is this area has been before council on several occasions in recent years but has been opposed by the Belleville and Suburban Planning Board.

In the last instance (in October 1965) Council decided against an opposing recommendation from the planning board and voted for the zoning change.

However, property owners in the area were against the zoning change and a public hearing was called by the OMB.

At the conclusion of yesterday's hearing Mr. P. J. Blake, hearing chairman, said the board would make its decision on the city's application in three to four weeks' time.

LONG CONTROVERSY

Controversy over the Dundas street medical clinic date back more than two years to when it was first proposed by Dr. J. N. Hartt.

Dr. Hartt's application for a zoning change to permit operation of a clinic was turned down by the planning board and the property was sold by Dr. Hartt to Dr. Williamson. Mr. Slater then Dr. Williamson has built a clinic building in which he and Mrs. Williamson will operate a suting doctor's offices. Under present zoning for the area a doctor's office is permitted only in connection with the doctor's residence.

At yesterday's hearing no witnesses were called on behalf of the city but Solicitor E. F. Porter, although three medical men, Dr. Williams, Dr. J. N. Hartt and Dr. Bruce Crook, testified in support of the application.

FOUR OPPOSED

Opposing the application for re-zoning were Miss J. Huff, property owner at 252 Dundas St., Mr. Les Shore, 129 Dufferin Ave., C. N. Nicholson, 131 Dufferin and Peter Nelson 121 Dufferin.

Under questioning by counsel R. E. Nourse of Picton, Miss Huff said that loss of privacy at the rear of her property would result from a parking lot planned for use in connection with the medical clinic.

The other three objectors said their properties would lose value as result of re-zoning, while two of them, Mr. Shore and Mr. Nicholson, complained of flooding which they said resulted from three feet of fill used to raise the parking lot area of the Williamson property.

They said that Dr. Williamson had declined to discuss the flooding with them.

IDEAL LOCATION

Dr. Williamson told the hearing that his site opposite the hospital was an ideal location for a medical clinic.

He said his assumption at the time he purchased the property was that the area was to be eventually re-zoned. He said the present "haphazard" zoning in the area was not good planning.

His original intention had been to establish his doctors' office in the basement - old residence already on the property, but due to the condition of the building, he had been advised against this.

As result he had built an addition which, he said, was now being used as a medical office.

Asked by Mr. Porter if he had received authority to build a doctor's office in which he did not reside, Dr. Williamson said he was prepared to move into the building the lower floor of which was now unfinished could be fitted as an apartment.

"I have slept there on several occasions," said the doctor.

Mr. Blake said, however, that the board was to establish more than one residence.

BLAMES TECHNICALITIES

"I would like to get this straightened out so I can operate legally," interjected Dr. Williamson who said he had been misled into his actions by "legal technicalities."

Instead of establishing residence in the adjoining building, Dr. Williamson said, he would like to set up a physiotherapy department in building.

He said it seemed "silly" to him to have to move in before he could operate his office legally.

Before you put up the addition did you go before the committee of adjustment?" asked Mr. Blake.

"No," was the reply, "but I did get legal advice and got a building permit from city hall.

"Your solicitor advised you had a legal right"—maybe you should ask again," said Mr. Blake.

Asked if he intended to live in the house in his medical building or other doctors the witness replied that he hoped to get into the real estate business. He said he had been approached by other doctors, but so far he had made no committment.

Actually, he would rather sell his property and rent office space, he said.

Dr. Williamson denied a suggestion by Mr. Nourse that if the area was re-zoned a very large medical clinic could be built.

IN GOOD FAITH

Mr. Blake commented that, although what Dr. Williamson had done might have been somewhat illegal, the hearing had to believe that he had acted in good faith.

Dr. Bruce Crook testified that Dr. Williamson was the only orthopedic surgeon and consultant between Oshawa and Kingston and that many of his patients were disabled to variable degrees.

As result, he said it was important that patients not be subjected to more stress than was absolutely necessary in getting from their doctor's office to the hospital for X-rays.

Dr. Hartt said that when he purchased the Dundas street property back in 1961, he had been misled regarding zoning. He said he had made certain changes and had been told there was no need to re-zone.

Later, when he made his original request for re-zoning the application had been rejected by the planning board.

He said that Dr. Williamson had purchased the property fully aware of the zoning problem and after receiving a building permit from city hall to build a medical office had gone ahead with construction.

"I have heard no one arguing against a medical building across from the hospital," Dr. Hartt said, claiming the matter had been "mis-managed and confused."

VOICE OBJECTIONS

Testifying against the application Mr. Les Shore said Dr. Williamson had gone ahead with his medical building with no consideration for the zoning by-law or for the neighbors.

Mr. Nicholson said the privacy of his back yard had been invaded. He said both the planning board and city council had turned down applications for rezoning but council changed its mind after a petition had been got up supporting Dr. Williamson.

Mr. Bolton said that if the rezoning were granted residents in the area would have no guarantee that an sparate set other large building would not go up against their backyards.

In summation city solicitor E. G. Porter said the city's view was that, due to other zoning in the area, and the use for which the Williamson property was intended, the area should be rezoned to permit the medical clinic.

WITHIN ESTIMATE

Thos. Burnside reported on the financial position of the Society at the end of March saying that expenditure for the first three months of the year was well within the approved estimate of expenditure for the first quarter. He felt that the new method of financing child welfare services was working quite satisfactorily. Over the year, the Province of Ontario will pay 37.5 per cent of the Society's approved expenditure of $217,566 and three - local municipalities the remaining 62.5 per cent.

Bruce Kerr, the local director, reported 137 in care at the end of March, a slight increase from the beginning of the year. He stated that a total of 21 children had been admitted to care during 1966, courtesy was Belleville, three from Hastings County and four from Trenton. Of this number twelve were infants born to unmarried parents.

Said Mr. Kerr "I firmly believe our stepped-up prevention program is paying dividends. Not many years ago we had between 350 and 375 children in care, many people in our care department are employed in our protection-prevention department. By the first of June we will have seven workers working with 150 families and more than 300 children."

Mr. Kerr further stated that one of the more unpleasant aspects of the work of the Local Director was the enforcement of the child welfare legislation dealing with the neglect of children. In the past six weeks the mother of three children from Deseronto and the parents of four children in Trenton had been charged with leaving their children unattended for an unreasonable period of time. Said Mr. Kerr: "I don't think this deters other people from leaving their children unattended, but with regular supervision there is little likelihood of the parent being found after the court doing it again."

PLAN HOME

In the absence of Mrs. E. E. Follwell, chairman of a committee appointed at an earlier date to establish a home for group living by high school-aged girls, Joel Maxer asked and received from the Board, permission to spend up to $25,000 for the construction or purchase of a house in the City. Mr. Maxer said it is hoped that the building will ultimately be occupancy September.

Asked about the local director said the home would be operated as a private residence by the couple in charge with a small group of girls as their foster children. He said that while the number of the house would be a salaried employee of the Society, her husband would be gainfully employed away from the home. To a further inquiry, he added that in other sections of the province, societies were using young secondary school teachers and their wives, graduate students attending university, etc. as house parents and that these were most acceptable. The Society will be advertising for house parents shortly.

Mrs. James H. Musgrove reported for the committee appointed to review existing policies in respect of unmarried parents services, foster home finding and the operation of the receiving home.

The receiving home. The recommendations of the committee were approved.

International Ceremony

Governor Nelson Rockefeller of New York is probably known to more Canadians than any other State governor in the United States.

The popular New Yorker likes to move around the area under his jurisdiction as much as possible, and meet the people. He is a shrewd judge of what might be termed the right occasion, and has demonstrated this no more effectively than in matters affecting U.S.—Canadian links.

Mr. Rockefeller does not pay mere lip service to the fostering of U.S.—Canadian relations. His friendship for this country and for Canadians is of a practical variety. Last fall, for instance, he facilitated the journey overland of a Kingston man and his family whose boat trip aegth was in jeopardy because of the impeding closure of the state canal system.

Now the governor is in the news again with an appearance at Watertown airport, 50 miles away from the Canadian border, to sign a document giving preliminary approval for the provision of another bridge link with Canada. It was the first time the governor had signed "permissive legislation" outside the state capital in Albany.

Although a final decision on the new link, including the question of its location, is still pending, a proposed link between Kingston, Wolfe Island and Cape Vincent is said to be favored.

Among officials present at the Watertown ceremony was Wolfe Island reeve T. D. O'Shea who said he believed the document would spur Canadians to take appropriate action so that both sides would be able to get on with the project.

Governor Rockefeller's presence, he added, was indicative of his personal interest in a proposal discussed by both Canadians and Americans over a four-year period.

Canadians and Americans have their differences, but the forging of still closer links between Ontario and New York is further proof that such differences are minimal and no bar to continuing happy relations between the two countries.

May Day Greetings

The Soviet Union's warm May Day greetings for Britain, the United States and France, in that order, is an encouraging sign in the midst of growing concern that the Viet Nam war and American participation in it may lead ultimately to a dangerous deterioration in relations between Washington and Moscow.

The slogan,which last November — on the occasion of Bolshevik Revolution Day — lumped the three western powers together, with Britain being named first, this time included separate greetings for the United States.

It read: "Friendly greetings to the American people. Let the co-operation between the peoples of the United States of America, and the Soviet Union expand with the aim of prevention of a world war . . .

Another slogan repeated demands for a U.S. withdrawal from Viet Nam and stressed the need for the Vietnamese people to solve their own problems alone. Such a demand was only to be expected, but taken in relation to the friendly greetings to the American people, it could scarcely be regarded as "sabre rattling."

China, significantly, was dropped from first to fifth place in order of greetings to countries of the Communist world.

Fashion Rivalry

In Britain short skirts are the rage these days. Even in the damp chilly conditions of early spring, the skirts of many girls average four inches above the knee.

And soon, an overawed American correspondent reports, "are five and six above."

Up north, in staid old Yorkshire, a factory overseer complained that production was dropping because the men spent too much time looking at a woman staffer in a short, short skirt.

With London hogging the fashion spotlight there were stirrings across the English Channel. A Paris dress designer, Daniel Hechter, not to be outdone, came up with a new line of clear plastic dresses.

Hechter observed, rather deprecatingly, that the dresses were "a joke," but a male spectator at the preview said they were "terrific."

As a concession to modesty, the dresses have two horizontal bands of darker-colored clear plastic above and below the midriff. Even the models seemed a little taken aback. One wore knee-length socks, saying they made her feel "more covered."

In matters of fashion, London and Paris are two of the world's leaders, though in Canada and even the United States, women seem to favor more conventional styles.

To Your Good Health

Excessive Vitamin D Can Cause Weakness

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have heard that excess Vitamin D, if taken over a long period, can be detrimental to adults. What would be considered excessive, and what sort of troubles can be caused? — C. W. M.

* * *

Yes, it's possible to get too much Vitamin D, although nobody is likely to do so unless for no valid reason he starts taking supplemental portions in excessive amount.

An excessive amount depends upon the individual. In general, it would be over 50,000 units a day, although in some instances it may be as little as 15,000.

Excessive Vitamin D, mobilizes calcium and phosphorus from the bones. This leads to fatigue, weakness, nausea, and possibly encourages formation of kidney stones.

Rarely does an adult need large doses of Vitamin D, since ample amounts are obtained from ordinary foods and from normal exposure to sunlight.

Children, it is true, particularly infants, may benefit from moderate Vitamin D supplements, which is why a few drops on behalf of cod-liver oil may be added to formulas but the average daily requirement for a growing child is only about 400 units.

Dear Dr. Molner: What, do you think of cabbage juice for ulcers? In Europe it is very popular and even sold in drug stores. Please send me your booklet, "How to Heal Peptic Ulcers and Keep Them Healed."

If someone believes that cabbage juice — or any special food or juice — helps him, the psychological effect may be beneficial. But I don't recommend it as well, if one believed in it.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am nearly 80 and recovering from a bad case of shingles. I have heard that after a case a person should be on the lookout for cancer, as shingles denotes a susceptibility to that disease. — C. F. F.

Everybody should be on the lookout for cancer, because the time to find it successfully is as soon as it is discovered. However, shingles does not predispose to cancer in any way.

Note to Mrs. A. J.: I don't think a cold sore has a connection with a double chin, except when you are wearing it.

The life a prune, as to isometric exercises, my thought is that they will help, but not in a hurry. Please, nobody write and say, "I've done the exercises for two months, but can't see any improvement yet." Plastic surgery? Yes, in suitable cases, useless in others. If the double chin is merely a matter of being too fat, reducing is the better answer.

I enclose the required 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope. — A. M.

Along with other doctors my age, I've been all through the cabbage juice vogue and it just didn't hold up.

It is more to the point to use measures which we know are helpful — diet, medications, simple rest, changes in living habits, avoiding or modifying smoking and drinking, and, perhaps most important of all, changing your psychological outlook on life, avoiding tensions, hostility and so on.

Quinte Parkway Issue

Kingston Whig-Standard

Is the Minister of Tourism and Information, Hon. James Auld, trying to mislead the public over the Quinte Parkway proposal or is he simply ignorant of the facts and of the law?

First of all Mr. Auld in an interview the other day introduced a new and totally irrelevant issue into the controversy. It seems that five municipalities in the Sarnia area asked for a parkway and a committee has been established by the Legislature to study the proposal. This type of legislation, Mr. Auld commented, could be applied to a parkway from Belleville to St. Lawrence, Bay of Quinte or anywhere in the province". Perhaps it could, but surely there is no need for another such commission when one already exists to serve the area under discussion — namely, the St. Lawrence Parks Commission.

According to Mr. Auld the major difference between the Sarnia parkway project and the one in that area is that the people in the former region have "asked" for park development. As he put it, "there has been no opposition from land owners there . . . in fact, the municipalities want it (and) it's not a case of a group of people trying to impose it on the municipalities." He infers, of course, that the people living along Highway 33 from Colling Bay to Adolphustown are against a parkway. Where is the evidence of any widespread opposition to the proposal? It is certain individuals and politicians who are providing most of the opposition (for what specific reason we have never been able to fathom)? And what has the Government done to encourage acceptance of the parkway proposal, despite the endorsement of former Premier Frost and Mr. Apps, among others?

Mr. Auld's inference that the Quinte Association is trying to "impose" its idea on the municipalities is of course, arrant nonsense What the proponents of the parkway have been trying to do is the face of the most short sighted Government apathy, if not outright obstruction, is to save something, not only for the municipalities involved, but for people everywhere, in this and future generations. Even Mr. Auld must agree, as other Government leaders before him have agreed, that this beautiful shoreline is worth saving. But it will be lost, perhaps forever, if the constant talking is not soon replaced by action.

Discipline

Some psychologist, a preacher for the advancement of individuality in their life and work, has stated that every person should do one necessary disciplinary thing every day.

Most people already do at least one, so perhaps the psychologist means that it is two. The first unpleasant act is to get out of bed.

It was the late Josh Billings, one of the noted New England humorists, who said that he left his bed in the morning not because he was dissatisfied with the bed but because it would be inconvenient to carry it around with him all day.

Domestic Budget Can Be Manipulated Like Ottawa's

By RICHARD JACKSON

From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Now that Parliament's back at work and the Budget debate is full cry, it might just be an idea to keep the newspaper out of your wife's way, lest she start thinking like a Finance Minister in drawing up her household accounting.

For it can happen, you know, as it has happened to one of our Honorable Members who, in the simple basic interest of self-defence, insists he must remain nameless for fear, frankly, of his good wife taking domestic sanctions against him.

And it can be pretty devastating.

The way he tells it, his wife in the last couple of years has taken to co-ordinating, as she calls it, employing one of the red-tape words of the bureaucracy, the presentation of her household Federal Finance Minister Budget.

On the of course, that when [illegible] is still in shock from reading the Finance Minister's annual accounts, he won't be too upset by here.

This year, he relates, she's proudly presented her budget as a "place the bonus" thing, just like Finance Minister Sharp, promising to hold down unnecessary expenditures, wipe out waste, meet the need of the family and reduce the deficit.

DEFENCE ESTIMATE

As the self-proclaimed "Opposition Budgetary Critic" in the family's fiscal affairs, he was quick to note with some alarm that the "Defence Estimate" estimate as usual was budgeting for an imbalance of expenditure over income, currently by something approaching $500 for the year.

It was "deficit financing," she explained patiently, pointing out that in her budget she was undertaking only to reduce the fiscal imbalance from year's $700, not eliminate it altogether.

So, with the keen eye of an Opposition Financial Critic in the Budget Debate, he ran over her accounting, item by item, hoping further to reduce that deficit, and came to an entry of $200 listed under "Health and Welfare."

"Holidays," she explained with forbearance, "it's weeks this summer in New York, air fares included, with tickets to three Broadway shows and shopping for perhaps a new pair of shoes or a little black dress — or 10 days next Winter in Mexico. Either one will do us both good, benefiting our family health and welfare, n'est-ce pas?"

That, he agreed, but what about this item of $850 for mink stole?

"That," she reported, "is a Defence expenditure, drafted in the interest of protecting you from being called a drip-skate by our friends and your business activities if we go to that convention with you still having to wear that ratty muskrat."

Well, perhaps, he allowed, it might be wise to invest, and budget it under External Affairs rather than Defence.

EDUCATION AND RESOURCES

And what's this $250 for Arthur Astaire's School of the Dance?

"Oh, that," she disclosed, "comes under Aid to Education. We'll be in New York or Acapulco or the convention with you still doing the Toddle or even the Fox Trot. You've got to get with the Frug."

What could be say except run his eye down the Budget and ask about the entry of $1,875. for ex-tra Income Tax?

"That's Public Works," she enlightened him, "or perhaps you would prefer to enter it under Reconstruction and Supply or even Central Mortgage and Housing."

But for what, he wanted to know, and who needs an extra bedroom anyway?

"You forget," she told him, "or maybe you just don't want to remember that Mother's coming to live with us this summer, and we can't sleep her in the laundry room with the dog or in the kennel next to the furnace."

What's to do, except go on with examination of the Budget?

This item of $550 for re-upholstery of the sunroom chesterfield and new drapes, what gives there?

"That is our Conservation, or, if you prefer, our Development of Resources Program, designed to direct a long-term establishment in preparation for the Centennial or perhaps Expo '67. I am sure Astaire Institute" only serve our assets such as the chesterfield, and develope our decoration potential, with a new drapes."

What happened to the "estimate," as she calls it, that he put in for new golf clubs?

"Retrenchment," is what happened to it, she smiles. "It got cut in our drive against waste and extravagance."

Garbage Pick-Up Earns Praise

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

George Bernard Shaw in The Intelligent Women's Guide to Socialism states that garbage collection is one of the basic needs of civilized man, and that in a truly socialist state every citizen should be expected to do his share in carrying on this lowly but necessary work.

Would she to convey my appreciation to whoever is responsible for the garbage collection of the city, for the efficiency and neatness with which this work is accomplished. You no longer hear loud yells and curses as the garbage collectors proceed down the street. Your front lawn is no longer littered with overturned refuse. You no longer hear the crash of cans as they hit the sidewalk and the lids as they hit the roads.

Garbage cans are in themselves very drab, utilitarian combines, but at least one sees after the collectors have passed neat rows of cans with their lids on.

Today in History

Brian Boru paid with his life for Ireland's freedom 952 years ago today — in 1014. His army defeated the allied Norsemen and Leinstermen at the battle of Clontarf, near Dublin, but Brian was killed in his tent by a Viking who had taken refuge in a wood. His death epitomizes Ireland's history for many people. Though a great religious centre before the Norse invasion started, in 795, Ireland was almost without cities or political organization. The Vikings built ports and began trade, but divided the Irish. Brian united the country and put down foreign influence, but he was murdered at the moment of triumph and civil war soon resumed.

The Bible in Many Tongues

Canadian Bible Society

Just announced is the total number of languages into which the Bible has been translated as of the end of 1969. At least one book of the Bible has now been translated into 1,350 languages, announced the United Bible Societies. (Complete Bibles now appear in 237 languages.)

This represents an additional 18 new tongues, mostly in Africa, Asia, South America and New Guinea.

Complete New Testaments have been published in 297 languages. The latest publications include one in the Kota tongue, the language of a hill tribe in the Indian State of Orissa, where Canadian Baptist missionaries have been at work.

Never in the course of Christian history, writes Wesley Shrupshire, a linguist and anthropologist, has the assistant secretary of the United Bible Societies, has there been so much activity in the work of Bible translation and revision. All is no exaggeration to say that, at the present time, new versions are being prepared in most of the major languages of the world. At the same time, pioneer translation is being carried on among small tribal languages in which the word of God is often the first written literature.

A new development, adds Mr. Culshaw, in recent days is the co-operation that now exists between Catholic and Protestant scholars and missionaries are working in collaborate in the preparation of versions which they hope will be acceptable to all Christians.

The joint working committee between the Roman Catholic Church and the World Council of Churches is its first report returned to the desirability of the translations of the Bible being undertaken in various parts of the world.

Know Your Antiques

Always remember the soup, and the soup tureen. This American tureen, one of the pair of Hardwicke Soup tureens, was made by Paul de Lamerie about 1735 in London, England.

Soup Tureen, Fashionable 200 Years Ago; Still Is

By RALPH and TERRY KOVEL

Serving soup from a large tureen is considered fashionable. The original custom of serving from a soup tureen developed during the late seventeenth century in England and France.

The large bowl or tureen was placed on a side table or in the centre of the dining room table. The word tureen is derived from the French word, "terrine," which means "an earthenware pot used to hold soup." The idea of an attractive, large covered bowl for soup Kin-changed little in the past 200 years.

Q. We have a very small wooden piece that looks like an ox yoke. It just fits on my shoulders. What is it and how was it used?

A. You own what we call a "people yoke". It is similar to an ox yoke but was used by humans to carry several buckets of milk at one time. The yoke was placed over the shoulders and the load was hung from each end to distribute the weight. It was used primarily in Europe. Some "people yokes" found in the mid-western United States date from the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries.

Keep the bottle if you like it. If you don't want it, find a collector who will.

Propose IODE Name Should Be Identic Order, Daughters of Era

HAMILTON (CP) — Ontario members of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire aren't unanimously in favor of their name.

At the closing session Friday of their three-day annual meeting, there was a proposal that the letters IODE be retained, but the name changed to Identic Order, Daughters of the Era.

A motion that the proposal be forwarded to the national chapter was approved.

Provincial President Mrs. W. R. Morrison, Hamilton, said the proposal would be forwarded with the clear understanding that it was not the opinion of all the persons assembled.

Also forwarded to the national chapter's committee was a suggestion that the order design its own flag, incorporating both the Union Jack, the official flag of the order, and the IODE crest on a red background.

The executive elected as conveners of standing committees: Mrs. J. A. Vivash, Oshawa, film convener; Mrs. J. S. Sneehnut, Hamilton, Victoria League convener; and Mrs. H. B. Church, Orangeville, Commonwealth correspondence convener.

Extra councillors elected were: Mrs. C. H. Carruthers, Owen Sound; Miss Fowler, Barnia; Mrs. T. D. Milne, Toronto; Mrs. Thomas Opsi, Burlington; Mrs. J. B. Rooney, Ottawa; Mrs. R. Root, Dunnville; Mrs. Morris Ripley, London; Mrs. D. M. Sloat, Ancaster; Mrs. Albert Southill, Cookville; and Mrs. J. A. Vivash, Oshawa.

The national IODE annual meeting will take place May 28 in Montreal. The provincial semi-annual meeting is planned for October 30 and 31 in Owen Sound.

Next year's provincial annual meeting will be held in Hamilton April 12, 13 and 14.

Going Places

Ghosts of Famed Buccaneers Still Haunt Kingston, Jamaica

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

KINGSTON, Jamaica — Yes! Victoria, There is a Jamaica.

It is not just the Jamaica of the Victoria Cross Market. This bewildering maze of stalls piled high with raffia-ribboned straw hats and bags is where the tourists, fresh off the cruise ships across the street, invade like the Spanish Armada.

Even less is Jamaica merely the hotels of the North Shore and Montego Bay, isolated pockets of luxury afloat on swimming pools and Planter's Punches, still not quite congruous with the tangled jungles, bad roads and shantytowns that surround them in this problem-ridden new nation struggling for an identity.

It is that identity, born of sugar, rum, slavery and a wild, woolly history, that comes to life here in Jamaica's capital. The history rings with romantic names few countries can match . . . Rodney and Nelson, Sir Henry Morgan and Sam Sharpe, Port Royal. They were all real.

Kingston is no Montego Bay. A city of 400,000 — the largest English-speaking community in the Western Hemisphere outside of North America — it has the greatest natural harbor, but it runs the gamut from grubby slums, industrial areas, and street markets, to neat, porticoed and palm-lined pastel buildings of the tropical-colonial style so familiar wherever the Union Jack has flown.

Spanish Town was St. Jago de la Vega. That wasn't its name either but was as close as the British could come to San Diego de la Vega. For three and-a-half centuries, from 1505, it was either the Spanish or British capital of the island whose name was synonymous with mastery of the trade routes in New Spain. The Spanish Main was the passage between Jamaica and Cuba. One cave across to all of Central and South America.

Naturally, there was nothing Britain wanted less for Spain to have. And there was nothing Spain needed more for her security than Jamaica.

Kingston harbor became the focal point of British attack. On the end of a nine-mile spit of land guarding the bay rose what was to become a wild and notorious city in the history of the Western Hemisphere, a place whose name still rings out with connotations of evil — Port Royal.

Port Royal was politely known as the shipping capital of Jamaica. From it, Sir Henry Morgan and his buccaneers engaged in a kind of licensed piracy against Spain. Their gold and navy sacked such rich New Spain cities as Porto Bello, Cartagena, and Panama, and filled the warehouses of Port Royal with untold fortunes in booty.

Port Royal became a city of debauched cutthroats where violence and revelry blended into a kind of hell not seen since Sodom. And then on the morning of June 7, 1692, it was destroyed as Sodom. A violent earthquake toppled the city into Kingston harbor, and an era had ended.

HALF OF THE TEAM

Across the harbor lay the other half of the team that made Kingston — and Jamaica — unconquerable from the time the British took it in 1655. This was Pt. Henderson, site of the royal naval installation and its fearsome Apostles' Battery, so named for its 12 guns — minus Judas, of course.

What are these places today? For those who can tear themselves away from Jamaica's better publicized attractions, it is possible to tread in the footsteps of Morgan and Nelson — and even live among them.

Today the road to Spanish Town passes through lush plantations of sugar shaded by bananas and coconut palms. At the entrance to the village square stands what was once the primo cathedral of Jamaica. A tropical Westminster Abbey of red brick, it is filled with typical English marble headstones and wall memorials, many with delightful allusions to slavery by the renowned John Bacon.

The quiet street turns into a square that may make you wonder where you are. It must be the Spanish town. A painted iron fence encloses the village green. Red brick colonial government buildings surround it on two sides. On a third stands the facade of King's House, a pure eighteenth-century colonial governor's residence. And surmounting the scene stands the most unlikely structure of all, a memorial to Admiral George Rodney's victory over the French in 1782.

In the centre Rodney stands in the classic pose and costume of a Roman senator. An ornately carved cupola shelters him. Soldiers Exhibiting from either side in an aroused portico supported by Grecian columns salvaged from the old House of Assembly.

UNIQUE FOLK MUSEUM

In a corner of the square is a unique Folk Museum, crammed with artifacts culled from the countryside of Jamaica — paintstatched houses of wattle-and-daub adobe, straw fish traps, canoes, carts, water wheels, sugar mills, drip stone urns for filtering water, even a fully furnished country store shack all far from unknown in the island.

The timeless committed character of Spanish Town is carried out in its peaceful old streets. They are lined with characteristic tin-roofed, woodshuttered, window box houses hidden behind stone walls tumbling with hibiscus and poinsettia.

All of Spanish Town is a dream-like outdoor museum of Jamaica, a long tourist's way from air-conditioned suites and Planter's Punches.

Across the way at Pt. Henderson aught remains but the gun embankments and the restored native stone naval barracks, complete with tile slate. But in them you can rent from the National Trust in Kingston, two-bedroom apartments with lei-loaded balconies and carved polished mahogany fourposters for — get this — $12 a week. That's about half what they get per day in Montego Bay.

At Port Royal, only the crenelated parapets of 300-year-old Fort Charles, where Nelson was stationed as a youth, and St. Peter's Church, to which Morgan walked in white-equipped frog cup and silver plate, remain. Still standing too is most of the manager mill that once enclosed the city. A multi-million dollar restoration of the infamous city has been charted and soon will get under way on a scale comparable with Williamsburg.

In a land that has not quite left magic and myth in dappled (ghosts), there may yet be tourist attractions to rival calypso and sunburn.

Mother's Helper

If your muppets are not under half of the taxes that made Kingston — and Jamaica — unconquerable from the time the British took it in 1655. This was Pt. Henderson, site of the royal naval installation and its fearsome Apostles' Battery, so named for its 12 guns — minus Judas, of course.

What are these places today? For those who can tear themselves away from Jamaica's better publicized attractions, it is possible to tread in the footsteps of Morgan and Nelson — and even live among them.

Today the road to Spanish Town passes through lush plantations of sugar shaded by bananas and coconut palms. At the entrance to the village square

Even after two years the Howes of Kingston are still discovering good things about electric heating

"Anyone who is looking to the future should certainly consider electric heating. It's more comfortable because it's always even. There are no cold draughts. It's really comfortable," says Mr. F. Howes. Recently the Howes were interviewed to discover their feelings about electric heating. They continue:

"We make full use of the individual thermostats — they're really the answer. While the children's rooms are at 70, ours is at 64. It's nice being able to make the bathroom warmer when bathing the wee baby.

"I am more than happy with the heating and the cost. I wouldn't consider living in a house again without electric heating."

Many families in Ontario share the Howes' feelings. However, there's more to electric heating than its unmatched comfort. Flameless electric heating is safe, dependable and completely clean. There is no combustion to produce dust, dirt, film or soot.

With all its advantages electric heating costs far less than you may think. No wonder so many people are turning to electric heating for the comfort, cleanliness and economy they want in a heating system.

LOOK FOR THE TRIPLE SEAL OF QUALITY— THE STRONGEST GUARANTEE A HEATING SYSTEM CAN HAVE

The Triple Seal of Quality is a three-fold guarantee backed by the manufacturer of the heating equipment, the contractor who installed it, and the Electric Heating Association of Ontario who ensure that the system is correctly designed and the house adequately insulated.

For full information about electric heating, consult a qualified electric heating contractor, or your Hydro.

Successful Living

Shyness Keeps Us From Full Life

DEAR DORIS: I am 18 and think it is time I was over my inferiority complex, but unfortunately it seems to be getting worse instead of better. If I see someone laughing I always have the feeling they are laughing at me. If I feel someone is looking at me I think they are criticizing me.

This problem prevents me from talking and getting to know people I like very much. —WORRIED.

DEAR WORRIED: It's a universal malady. It just shows more on some than on others.

DORIS CLARK

The late Eleanor Roosevelt told about the agonies of shyness she suffered as a child. She was not pretty, and people would even comment on her plainness! At times, she said, she wished the floor would swallow her up.

Yet, by deliberately putting herself aside, as it were, and devoting herself to service, she became the power behind one of the great presidents of the United States.

The next time you find yourself saying "I wish I could meet people easily and entertain," why don't you? Everyone needs friends, and those supposed critics may just be waiting for you to make the first move.

The leaflet "Don't—Be Shy" is on its way to you to suggest some simple first moves. (And is available to other readers writing in for it and enclosing ten cents and a stamped envelope.)

Tactless Husband Needs Hard Lesson

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I have eight lovely children. Last night we were discussing the oldest. She is a very attractive girl and is doing exceptionally well in her studies. Naturally we are proud of her.

In the course of the conversation, my husband leaned back in his chair and said, "Yes, she is a lovely girl. And nothing would please me more than to see her grow up to be just like my sister."

My husband's sister is a fine person and we are good friends, but it was deeply hurt by his remark and I told him so. He said I was silly and that you would agree with him. Do you? — PEACHES.

DEAR PEACHES: No, I don't. Your husband was tactless in the extreme. I wonder how he would have liked it if your oldest son had been under discussion, and you had said, "I hope he grows up to be just like my brother." Ask him and see what he says.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our 20-year-old daughter phoned from college to say she was bringing a young man home for the weekend. She said she was considering becoming engaged, which was a surprise to us.

When we met them at the bus depot Friday night we were shocked that the boy didn't have a suitcase. He came only with the clothes on his back and a toothbrush in his pocket, no clean shirt — not even a shaving kit. He asked my husband if he could borrow his razor because "he didn't have time to pack anything."

We had relatives over Saturday and the boy didn't even stand up when he was introduced to adults and uncles. His manners were appalling and his conversation was so stupid I couldn't understand what our daughter saw in him. Her father was so upset that he was counting the hours for the boy to leave. I begged him to be quiet.

Before they returned to school Sunday morning our daughter apologized for bringing him home and thanked us for our patience. We were very much relieved and want to know what cooled her off so fast. I thought love was blind. — GRATEFUL.

DEAR GRATEFUL: Love may be blind but it's not deaf and dumb. Seeing the boy in her home atmosphere made your daughter realize that he was no prize.

You were wise not to let on about your feelings. If you had tipped your hand your daughter would have been forced to defend him and the battle would have been joined.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a 16-year-old girl! My mother is a true alcoholic, but she won't admit it. She refuses to get help. Mom and dad get into terrible fights and more than once I have got beaten up because I tried to separate them.

There are many nights I go to bed hungry because I make them. I have to do all the laundry and cleaning, too. My 20-year-old brother moved out seven months ago and he has a nice apartment. He wants me to leave this mess and come to live with him. We are the only kids in the family so I wouldn't be leaving any little brothers or sisters.

Should I continue fighting a losing battle or make a break for me. Please tell me what I should do. — SHAKING.

DEAR SHAKING: Call Alcoholics Anonymous. (Look in the phone book) Find out where the next meetings of Alateen will be held. After you attend six meetings, if you still want to move out of the house I say GO; provided you are not considered a minor in your state.

Lines on Life

Joy Rewards Charity

By Dr. Stuart E. Rosenberg

The highest form of love is that which is given freely without the thought, need, or wish for repayment. Thus, the greatest acts of charity and generosity are those done in "the dark," when nobody else sees and nobody else knows.

Any active assistance or encouragement to those who need our help, when done in the light of day for all to see, always has the possibility of being tainted with ulterior motives.

Even mother-love can be seen as a form of human barter.

Some unselfishness is at being a kind of "love-fear". A special fear being rejected by her child. (This fear of being rejected by the young is a very real concern in our society, where the worship of youth has become so widespread). Fearing rejection we become more and more permissive — we love our children because we are often afraid that if we didn't love them, they wouldn't love us! From this angle of vision, even mother-love is a loyalty based upon a bargain agreement, not always a conscious wish, not a wish about which we are willing to talk, yet a deeply - rooted desire of the parent to be accepted by the child.

If even mother-love, so crucial and delicate a feeling in the human heart, is often — even if unconsciously — filled with ulterior purpose, what chance is there for any other love to be free from egotism? Our ulterior motives always seem to get in the way of our interior motives.

Much chance, indeed!

The heart of the moral life is the joy received, the satisfaction obtained, from doing the right things — even if our motives are not always clear, or of the most perfect order. After all, we are human beings, and even in the way of human behaviour, if sometimes we do the right thing for any reason, we have still achieved more than if those who refuse to do the right thing for any reason. Clearly, it is better to do good for the wrong reason than to remain reasonably bad while we sit on our hands clucking at the world's unreasonableness.

Some day, even those who have misunderstood their own purposes, those who have nevertheless enjoyed the thrill and excitement of kindness and generosity — some day these will do the right thing for the right reason. They have known the joy of doing well, and from such joy, all good things are possible.

We may not always be capable of the unselfish act. Most often the human ego gets in the way. Some will argue there are some cynical about what lazy others are doing, reading evil into good. Wiser heads will go beyond such naivete. They will seek to gain their will, that from repeated acts of love, the joy of giving more and more may reach them to seek for themselves less and less.

One day they, and not their detractors, will come to know the right reasons for the right deeds.

Note from Essex: In January Kay J. requested my recipe for Fruit Balls and I could not identify it by that name, I had called it Heavenly Food.

Last week Mrs. Walter M. wrote saying she had it from a 1951 clipping of my column. I checked the "Fruit Balls" and "Heavenly Food" recipes Mrs. Walter M. enclosed and here they are for Kay J., better late than never. Thank you Mrs. Walter M.

SATURDAY

Dinner Menu

by Mary Moore

Chinese Chicken Fried Rice (see Friday); Sweet and Sour Spareribs; Shredded Cabbage and Chinese Lettuce with French Dressing; Mandarin Oranges and Grapefruit Cup; Fortune Cookies; Coffee.

HEAVENLY FOOD (brought up-to-date from 1951; makes forty-eight 1½" balls)

½ cup sugar
2 eggs
1 cup chopped stoned dates
¾ cup finely chopped walnuts
½ tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt

Put all ingredients in heater bowl and beat until thoroughly mixed. Spread evenly on 2 buttered 8½" layer cake pans and bake at 320 deg. Fahr. about 15 to 15 mins. but edges shouldn't brown. While baking cut teaspoonfuls in rough ball shapes and drop into Butter Icing; first melt together 2 tablespoons butter, 1½ cups unsifted icing sugar, 5 tablespoons milk, lend the salt. With fork roll balls over icing and then lift out and roll in shredded or desiccated coconut on wax paper and coat each with it. Transfer to wax paper to cool and set.

FRUIT BALL COOKIES (brought up-to-date from 1951; makes forty-eight 1½" balls)

Note: These are paler and finer and more spinney better than Heavenly Food above.

2 eggs
1 cup granulated sugar
1 cup ground pecans (I chopped mine in blender goblet)
30 stoned dates ground in food grinder
¼ cup unsifted all-purpose flour
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon vanilla

In heater bowl beat together until thick the eggs and sugar. Add ground and finely chopped pecans and ground dates (Note: Chase the dates through the grinder with a slice of dry bread but do not let much bread get into the mixture.) Add remaining ingredients and mix well. Spread evenly on 2 unbuttered 8½" layer cake pans. Bake at 320 deg. Fahr. 15 minutes. Remove from oven and while hot scoop up teaspoonfuls in rough ball shapes. (Note: If centre portion is not quite cooked after you have scooped away edges, return it to oven for 5 minutes until puffed again.) Drop balls into Lemon Icing: 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1 tablespoon water (or you may use 2 tablespoons lemon juice and no water) 1½ cups unsifted icing sugar; mix well together. With fork turn balls to cover with icing, lift and drain a little, then drop on shredded or desiccated coconut on sheet of wax paper and roll to coat. Transfer to wax-paper to cool and set.

Notes: Obviously these take time and patience but are contrarian pieces. If you care to go to the trouble you can toast your cocoanut (you need about ¼ lb. to cover balls for both recipes); you can roll in chopped nuts; or tint the icings green or/and pink before coating with cocoanut or nuts.

Imagination Is Sacred Tool To Be Used for Others' Good

By REV. HAROLD E. KOHN

If a minister stood before his pulpit on a Sunday morning and announced that his sermon would be on "imagination," many members of his congregation would no doubt think he had gone secular. Others would fear he was selling himself up as a pulpit-psychologist. At best some parishioners might guess their minister was about to warn his flock about the dangers of a suspicious or fruitful imagination.

Surprisingly, a good case can be made for imagination's elemental place in the devout life. Jesus taught His disciples that imagination was a sacred tool that should not be profaned, but put to use for the good of others. Indeed, the beginning of goodness to others rests upon a person's imagining himself in another's place. This is our meaning of the Golden Rule.

When Jesus said, "As ye would that men should do to you, do ye also to them likewise," He was promising that they use their God-given imagination! Think of yourself as inhabiting another's shoes. Treat him as you would want to be treated if you were in his place.

The late Dr. William Sloger of the Boston School of Theology once saw a cluster of children on the street. Every one of them was crying. As Dr. Sloger drew near, he observed a boy lying on the sidewalk in the middle of the group. He was weeping and best double with pain. When Sloger asked a little girl what was the trouble, she answered between sobs: "We've all got a pain in Jim my's stomach."

MEANING OF COMPASSION

Literally this is the meaning of compassion, identifying one's self with another's anguish, so you would take such children to bed then in the midst of adults with dull, jaded imaginations and would say, "Of such is the Kingdom of Heaven."

One of the most significant things about the life of faith, as it is pictured in the Bible and illustrated in the lives of the great, is its capacity to grow, to expand its ideal directions. The person who is deeply dedicated to God becomes not only more aware of God but more alive to all beauty, more eager for all truth, no matter where he finds them, and more appreciative of any goodness.

Especially, does the imagination expand when it becomes dedicated. It becomes more sympathetic, and begins to range widely into new areas where it had been impossible to venture.

Perhaps here is a secret for world changer: instead of asking God to intervene and graciously present to us a ready-made better world, let us pray for hearts and minds that possess imaginative grace. Then all human relationships will be redeemed.

Enter another's skin, stand in his shoe, attempt to think from his viewpoint and through his mind, feel with his emotions, live in his situations. Husbands and wives, parents and children, employees and employers, governors and governed, members of opposing political parties and members of various nations, races and religions, might all have such other with compassion then.

And, of course, such a sanctified use of the imagination would make war impossible, at last.

GOD OF WAR!

If war is ended in our time, by God's grace and by man's desperation and best efforts, it will be partly because of dedicated imaginations. Statesmen in places of crucial decision and leadership, far from the battle, will imaginatively feel the horrors of war. They will sense a widow's terror and loneliness and an orphan's bewilderment and unspeakable grief. When all of us who dwell in momentary safety feel the fighter's agony like that, war will be doomed.

In George Bernard Shaw's play, "Saint Joan," a skeptic says of the voices Joan hears, "That's all imagination."

Joan replies, "Of course. That is how the messages of God come to us!"

While it isn't the only way that God speaks to us, it is a mighty important way, producing art and poetry and the inventions that have advanced civilization, but especially producing all the unselfish, kindly and heroic deeds in the world.

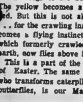
What is the secret of serving human need, and making a difference for good in the world? It's all in your imagination!

Lighting the Way

By Walter S. Crone

A NEW LIFE FOR YOU

There is so much that we can learn from Nature. Take the lowly caterpillar. As we watch it making slow but steady progress in any direction, what are our thoughts? Do we ever think of the remarkable transformation that takes place when this upholstered worm spins itself in its home-made casket, and is changed into a beautiful butterfly?



Science tells us that its hair is changed to scales, a million to the square inch. The many legs of the caterpillar become the six legs of the butterfly. The yellow becomes a glorious red. But this is not all . . . no . . . for the crawling instinct becomes a flying instinct! That which formerly crawled on the earth, now flies above it!

This is a part of the meaning of Easter. The same creator who transforms caterpillars into butterflies, is our Maker and Redeemer. He provides new life for us humans. We don't have to crawl through life on the earthly and material level. We can rise above selfishness and sin. No longer must we live in bondage to moral defeat. By God's grace, we can fly above this level, by the wings of faith . . . faith in God!

TEXT FOR TODAY: "We are buried with Him by baptism into death: that like as Christ was raised up from the dead by the glory of the Father, even so we also should walk in newness of life." (Romans, 6:4)

Employment News

By J. R. STAVELEY

Employer Relations Officer

During the past week, a strong local demand existed for the male worker seeking employment in the industrial and construction fields. Further strengthening this trend were the cut-of-town industrial and mining organizations whose personnel representatives were endeavoring to fulfil their labor hiring requirements in this community. The local employment opportunities for women were fewer than for the men.

The use of the local National Employment Service Office facilities as a central clearing house for labor by these internationally known companies is no longer a novelty with the local employment staff, but accepted as normal procedure in assisting towards the national objective of achieving maximum production within the present economy.

The irony, in the Canadian labor market is often the fact, that in the midst of general prosperity, there are unemployed workers in some areas with very few job opportunities and employers in other areas urgently in need of suitable workers. The objective of the present manpower mobility program is decreasing the hardships of the unemployed worker and at the same time increasing the efficient utilization of the available manpower throughout Canada.

JOBS OPEN

The following job opportunities represent only a few of those now available at the local NES office:

In the female division locally, there is a continual requirement for experienced cashiers for part-time work. This work offers a good rate of pay and is suitable for married women.

Still required is a mature woman to work as a receptionist. Openings are available for experienced clerk-typists. An excellent opportunity is open for an experienced stenographer who possesses a Grade 12 education.

In continuing demand are waitresses for licensed dining room and reliable baby-sitters.

In the male division locally, a well known manufacturing branch of an international company, requires a cost clerk. Candidates must have passed a recognized course in accountancy or have obtained some solid experience in this field. The same firm has a second opening for a shipping and office clerk.

There are numerous career openings available in the consumer credit and banking fields. Also recommended are the career openings in chain store merchandising. It is not well-known that branch store managers often reach top level salary brackets in this field, frequently after only a few years' experience. Many openings in the personnel service industry are being listed. These include hotel, industrial, and institutional positions.

FARM HELP WANTED

Single and married men are being sought by local area farmers for work during the growing season.

The annual summer track maintenance gang is being organized by the local railway district headquarters. Applicants should check with the NES office at once.

Some other requirements listed in NES are 4th Class Stationary Engineers, body and fender mechanics, a road-building machine maintenance mechanic and machinists.

CIVIL SERVICE OPENINGS

Attention is again directed to positions which are advertised by the Federal Civil Service Commission for taxation officers in the taxation division of the Department of National Revenue. These openings are available in various centres across Ontario, including Belleville. The desired qualifications are divided into three groupings:

1. Applicants must have a knowledge equivalent to that obtained through ten years of progressive schooling and years of diversified experience in financial, accounting or collection work.

2. or Junior matriculation and five years' experience in accounting, financial or collection work.

3. or a Bachelor of Commerce degree.

Anyone desiring additional information regarding these openings is invited to contact Mr. Jack Graves, at the local office of the Taxation Division, New Federal Bldg., 11 Station St., Belleville, or the local NES office.

Both workers seeking employment and employers seeking workers are invited to contact the NES office, 324 Church St. 962-8681.

Labor Vote At Northern Protested

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — The Ontario Labor Relations Board Friday reserved decision on the Canada Labor Code certification vote at London's Northern Electric plant.

The independent United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America lost the vote to the International Electrical Employee Association. It called for a second ballot because, it said, the Canada Labor Congress had violated the Labor Relations Act.

Its accusation was based on a CLC advertisement in a London newspaper Feb. 14 and a pamphlet issued by the London and District Labor Council the same day.

The act imposes a 72-hour silent period prior to a certification vote.

Rhodesian

ported to have been intended as the frontrunners in a $3,000,000 scheme which South Africa hoped to break the embargo and ship in 400,000 tons of oil—about two months' current consumption rates.

TRIM OIL AID?

With the plan apparently foiled, Rhodesia now is thrown back on the expensive and uncertain supplies coming north by road and rail from South Africa. British officials, after recent talks with the South Africans, are confident Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd's white minority government soon will begin trimming oil aid to Rhodesia.

What seems to worry the South Africans is that if they openly flout the UN resolution on oil for Rhodesia, they could become the target for reprisals, including a possible oil embargo.

Rhodesia's normal consumption of oil before it declared itself independent from Britain last Nov. 11 was around 72,000,000 gallons annually.

When Britain imposed the oil embargo Dec. 17, experts estimated Rhodesia had about seven to eight weeks' supply on hand—roughly between 10,000,000 and 11,000,000 gallons.

Rhodesia introduced gasoline rationing Dec. 28. The ration was cut by 30 per cent in some cases—on Jan. 4—and again tightened two days later.

The basic ration for private users was set at half a gallon a week for motorcycles and two gallons for autos.

Available evidence indicates that consumption was cut by nearly half, to around 875,000 gallons a week. At that rate, the original stocks would have been exhausted after about 13 weeks—about five weeks ago.

Rhodesia has kept going on oil which apparently comes from two sources—South Africa and Portuguese African territories. British sources believe South Africa is the main source.

Road and rail shipments from South Africa have soared during the last four months to between 500,000 and 600,000 gallons a week from less than 200,000 gallons a week in January, according to some reports.

The higher of these two figures still leaves an indicated gap between supplies and consumption of some 245,000 gallons weekly.

Unless Rhodesia can step up its supplies the present drain on reserves could exhaust them in some 30 to 40 weeks—between mid-July and the end of September. And if South Africa begins turning off the tap, the reserves could dry up much sooner.

ask whether anyone in the government had asked the industry why there had been no recalls of "unsafe" cars. Speaker Lucien Lamoureux ruled this question out of order as argumentative.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said his back-bencher had asked a responsible and reasonable question that deserved an answer because it was aimed at stopping the "tremendous massacre" on Canada's roads. He passed the question again.

Prime Minister Pearson said he would look into it.

An increased federal role in establishing national safety standards in vehicles and uniform traffic laws was later predicted by a Liberal MP.

John Addison (York North), an auto agency president who has been in the business 15 years, said Canada "must have uniform signs and signals."

QUESTION: We are taking a trip around the Great Lakes this summer and wondered if it would be possible to visit the Magdalen Islands and if you could tell us anything about them. — C. Bu., Trenton

ANSWER: The Magdalen Islands in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, are 155 miles from the coast of Gaspe Peninsula, this archipelago is comprised of nine islands and several islets covering 55,000 acres. These islands were first visited by Jacques Cartier in 1534 but were not settled until 1774 when the Acadians fled from Nova Scotia.

This remote area now has a population of 13,000 and a growing economy. Farming and fishing are the main industries. Magdalen lobsters are said to be the best in the world. Visitors will find mixed beaches, rocky coastline and countryside with quaint houses. French is the language but many Magdalenians also speak English.

The eight main islands are connected by bridges and causeways. The island of Rocher-aux-Oiseaux, a large bird sanctuary, may be visited by boat through arrangements with local fishermen.

The Magdalen Islands are accessible by boat from Pictou, N.S., Charlottetown, P.E.I., and Souris, P.E.I. Daily air services available from Charlottetown P.E.I., and Moncton, N.B.

SPORTS SLICES

By Geo. H. Carver
Sports Editor

In the history and books of Woodward Avenue; Olympia, the homing grounds of the Red Wings; in Windsor's cooperative quiet and wherever Detroit fans gather, they call him "Bryan the Basher."

Back in his native Bancroft he's the mathes, matinee and vespers idol of the village. They tell me the mosey, deer and trout axioms are holding a special "Bryan Watson Day."

But high beseth the rafters of Chicago's Stadium, the gunners of the launching gods have another game for him. They're honored one of their favorite missiles by dubbing him the "Octopus."

They claim in the Windsor - Chicago hassle, the Watsonian xxtacies reached out and clobbered Master Robert Hull in close but unloving embrace.

Referee John Ashley, they say, a Dan Cupid at heart, was touched with this show of "amour, toujour l'amour" and did not want to interrupt the romance.

So when Hull, unimpressed by the display of Watson fervor, objected the "Basher" was sent to the sin-bin. Ashley thought he detected a tear in the Hull eyes, as rather than have the "Basher" sit in lonely exile, he sent the "Jet" along as company.

This happened three times in one period and by that time the fans got the impression the pair was going steady.

There has been some criticism of the Watson "shadowing methods" other than Chicago. Claude Provost of the Canadiens did an equally effective job in holding Hull off the scoresheets but without benefit of the Cupid clutch.

But the "Basher" isn't bothered. He raised his 5-9, 160 pounds to full height in the Wings dressing room after the game and is quoted as saying "Bobby is a very strong guy but if he tackled me I'd fight back. I'd do my best. . . . I want to win and if I have to show up first through a guy to do it ,then that's what I'll do."

Watson, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Watson of Bancroft played minor hockey up "thataway" before going to the Peterborough Junior "B" team and graduating in the "A" squad.

He is ,I'm told, a keen student of hockey, and used to watch his NHL favorites in action in order to develop his own style. Gordie Howe is his idol, and, the story goes, Howe has taken him under his wing. The "Basher" likes Gordie so much "he blinks like Howe does when talking."

Watson turned pro with Hull-Ottawa of the ill-fated EPHL going from there to Omaha. From there to the Montreal Canadiens for a season, thence to Quebec in 1964-65 and back to the Habs. While with the Quebec team he apparently earned his sobriquet "Basher" spending 136 minutes in the sinbin.

Tomorrow's game will see him reunited, in battle only, with two former Montreal buddies, Ralph Backstrom and John Ferguson.

Once when he forgot his skates, Jean Beliveau went to him in the dressing room and said with solemn face "Listen son, sometimes those things come in handy in this league."

On another occasion when he left his skates behind, buddies Backstrom, and Ferguson loaded them with several coats of white paint and sent them to him.

Skating in the shadow of Howe during training camp, he told the Detroit great "I'm going to make this club. I don't care who I hit, I'm going to make it."

The 24-year-old Red Wing can't be bothered with writing letters, not even home. Once when the Wings were on a losing string, he decided to phone the folks back in Bancroft. That night the Wings broke the losing line. Watson called every night after that and the Wings won quite a few in a row. Now that phone-call bonus is a flusi.

Watson has two brothers Jack and Bill. The latter is a student at McMaster and one of the better junior "B" referees down around Hamilton way.

No Wars, But Don't Start One--Fergy

By AL McNEIL

MONTREAL (CP) — John Ferguson, Montreal Canadiens' hardy left winger whose crushing checks and flying fists were responsible at least in part for the sudden departure of Toronto Maple Leafs from this year's Stanley Cup scene, isn't looking for a renewal of hostilities, but chances are he won't back up either.

When Canadiens open their best-of-seven final series here at 2:30 p.m. EDT Sunday against Detroit Red Wings, Ferguson figures he will be too busy trying to check goalie Roger Crozier to start his own private war.

Canadiens set the Toronto club down in four straight games. While Ferguson picked up 30 minutes in penalties and a $25 fine for drawing a misconduct he still managed to score two goals.

That's one more goal than he could pick up against Detroit all season.

Ferguson played on a line with centre Ralph Backstrom and right winger Claude Larose most of the season, and the threesome had little success against the Detroit netminder. ONLY GOT SINGLE Larose, like Ferguson, scored only a single goal, while Backstrom had to settle for a pair of assists.

"Anyway, I'll have to be more careful taking penalties against Detroit because they're a real power play working now," Ferguson said after Friday practice.

When Vancouver native said he doesn't think the Canadiens-Wings series will produce "nearly the scrapping" that emerged in the bruising Toronto round.

Asked if he may attempt to cool out Detroit's utility man Bryan Watson if he gets too close, Ferguson said while he and Watson are good friends and Watson is a good wrestler and I'm playing for that extra $1,000."

Watson, a former Canadiens' defenceman, gained prominence as the shadow for Bobby Hull, Chicago's great left winger, as Detroit eliminated the Black Hawks in a six-game semi-final round.

At Friday's workout, coach Toe Blake had his team getting used to the conditions under which they will meet the Red Wings Sunday.

MAKE COLOR DEBUT

It will be Montreal's debut on the color television network of the National Broadcasting Company throughout the United States. The team practised with more than 100 additional light fixtures blazing down on the blue-tinted ice.

Blake said Detroit has a good number of players on the team who have never been with a Stanley Cup winner. "Fellows like Bill Gadsby will play hard for their first cup."

He rated Detroit next to Canadiens in skating and said that with veterans Gordie Howe, Alex Delvecchio, Norm Ullman, Andy Bathgate and Dean Prentice, Detroit has plenty of scoring potential.

Blake said during the regular season his club scored 13 power-play goals against Detroit while Wings scored nine against Montreal.

In the Chicago series, Bathgate alone scored five power-play goals in the six games. Detroit outscored Chicago 22-10 in the series with 10 of Wings' goals coming when they held an advantage in manpower.

Tiger, Griffith

See 15-Round Battle

NEW YORK (AP)—The hard world was all over for Dick Tiger and Emile Griffith today but the hours began dragging for the two champions who meet in a 15-rounder for Tiger's middleweight title at Madison Square Garden Monday night.

"This will be my 13th title fight," said Griffith, "and always the hardest part is waiting for the bell."

"It's a long wait," admitted Tiger, a veteran of five middleweight title engagements.

They attempted their boxing preparations in two-round drills Friday at their camps in the Catskill Mountains and will loosen up with light gym work over the weekend.

"I feel great," said Tiger, 36, "I'll have to be at my best to defeat Griffith. He's the fastest opponent I've ever had and I think I'll have to go 15 rounds."

"I'm ready to go the full 15 rounds," said Griffith, 28, who has a 9-2 record in welterweight title fights. "But I think I will catch up to him long before then. He's going to get tired along about the 10th round and then I'm going after him."

Have To Hit 'Em, Martin

SHERBROOKE, Que. (CP)—Butch Martin, playing coach of Guelph Regals, says his club is going to have to hit Sherbrooke Beavers in order to beat them in the Eastern Canada Allan Cup final series.

The Regals, looking for their first Canada senior hockey title, meet the Beavers in the second game of the best-of-seven series here tonight. Sherbrooke won the first game 7-2 Thursday night.

Martin said the Beavers are not as tough as some of the teams his club came up against during the regular season.

Both teams threw their weight around in the first two periods of Thursday's game but Guelph appeared to slow down in the third period as Sherbrooke scored three goals to win.

Georges Roy, coach of the defending Allan Cup champions said the Regals might have slowed down because of their tiring trip from Guelph to Sherbrooke. The Regals arrived in Sherbrooke just a few hours before game time.

Sees Pilous Seals' Boss

TORONTO (CP)—The Globe and Mail says a source close to the hockey scene in San Francisco Friday confirmed that Rudy Pilous, former coach of Chicago Black Hawks, will be general manager and coach of California Seals, San Francisco-Oakland's new entry in the expanded National Hockey League in 1967-68.

Pilous, who coached the Hawks for five seasons from 1957 to 1962, lives in near-by Hamilton but was unavailable for comment. Last winter he coached Hamilton Red Wings of The Junior A Ontario Hockey Association, a farm club of Detroit Red Wings.

The report says Pilous will serve only as manager of the Seals next season, leaving the coaching to Charlie Burns, former member of Whitby (Ont.) Dunlops, winners of the world amateur hockey title in 1958.

But Pilous is slated to take over as manager-coach for the 1967-68 campaign, the first in the NHL for the club.

At Chicago, Pilous guided the Hawks to the Stanley Cup championship in 1961.

San Francisco, now in the Western Hockey League, has been managed or coached by Norman (Bud) Polle for the last eight seasons, but Polle confirmed Thursday he will not return as manager next season.

The Seals offered Polle a post as vice - president which he turned down.

Bathgate Seen As Wings' Spearhead

Prentice Can Help

DETROIT (CP)—Andy Bathgate is heading into the second Stanley Cup final of his 11-year National Hockey League career and has served notice he'll do as well as he did in his first one.

ANDY BATHGATE

If he does, manager-coach Sid Abel of Toronto Maple Leafs is going to lose some of the glitter that has showered his reputation as hockey's shrewdest trader.

Bathgate, a right winger with Detroit Red Wings who open their best-of-seven Cup series against the Canadiens at 2:30 p.m. EDT Sunday in Montreal, snapped out of a scoring slump this season as the Wings polished off Chicago Black Hawks in six games of their semi-final. He rattled in five goals in the series and is the leading playoff scorer on the Wings.

The last time Bathgate got into a final was with the Leafs in 1964, the last of three successive Stanley Cup years for Toronto.

He was picked up by Imlach after a late-season trade with New York Rangers and he responded with five playoff goals for his new employers. Price is that he got into four series in rounds with the Rangers, who were eliminated each time.

SHIPPED HIM OUT

A year later, disenchanted by Imlach's hard - driving tactics, Bathgate voiced his objections publicly and Imlach promptly shipped him to the most lenient club in the league, the Wings.

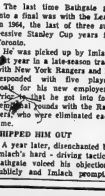
And for a while it appeared that coach Sid Abel could easy - going ways weren't Andy's cup of tea either. He sat 36 games without a goal this season and finished the schedule with just 15.

But after the playoffs started, Abel has suddenly taken on the qualities of a brilliant hockey swapper and limelinch, whose Leafs were sculled in four semi-final games by Montreal, is probably willing he had Bathgate back.

He could also have used Dick Duff, winger with Montreal, another Imlach castoff two years ago. Duff was one of the players the Leafs gave up to get Bathgate and Rangers' Don McKenney.

A year later Duff was dealt to Montreal and he was a key man in Habs' win over the Leafs in last week's series.

USES SAME TACTICS



Abel used the following in Imlach's footsteps all the way down the line. Imlach clinched his third Stanley Cup in a row by trading four veterans and Abel, who made a late-season swap this year to get Leo Boivin and Dean Prentice from Toronto, has done the same thing.

It was Bathgate who helped lead the Leafs to their 1964 win over Detroit in the finals by scoring the winning goals in two games. This year it's been Bathgate and Prentice, who has four goals including the tying shot and the two markers against Chicago in the wrapup contest last Tuesday, that have spearheaded the Wings.

The Wings indulged in a brief shooting session before taking off for Montreal.

The workout followed an hour-long session Friday.

The game will be televised on both the NBC and CBC networks with NBC showing it in color.

Outdoor Tips And Tricks

By BOB BLAIND

Smelt fishing has been in full swing this past week with good catches reported in all the popular spots in the Quinte area, one angler reporting that he have caught 17 bushels in less than three hours seining. Many fishermen feel that this sport covering such places as Consecon Beach, Outlet Park, Salmon Point and the Lake River, are using seines, dip-nets and just about everything in the way of net to catch these succulent fish.

Speckle trout fishing has been poor in the last couple of days with very few being caught locally.

Lake trout fishermen on Desert and Canes lakes north of Kingston had nice weather but the catches were small.

Sometimes, just as the ice goes out of a lake the fishing publicity and Imlach promptly is excellent, while other times

"Mr. Bowling" of 1966 will be crowned at the local Bowl-O-Drama just one week from this evening. Interest in the tournament, which is now in its fifteenth year, continues to grow, year by year. Entries are already in from Kingston (8), Brampton (4), and area towns such as Deseronto, Picton, Trenton, and a deluge from our own Belleville trundlers.

Twice during the 11 previous tournaments the "Mr. Bowling" title has gone to Kingston and one to Trenton. The other ten winners were residents of Belleville. Ron Saylor leads the parade of winners with four victories. Two others have won the title twice. Hence, it is no surprise to find that, once again, Saylor is the bowler carrying the shortest odds.

Leo Labelle, who has had an outstanding year in local five pin activity, should really be the favored one and you may feel that this is the year he'll end the personal "Mr. Bowling" drought. Labelle has won the honor of having the highest average in the city for three of the last four years. The law of averages dictates that this should be the "Mr. Bowling" year.

Competition begins, in the "Mr. Bowling" Tournament next Friday evening at 7:30, with a second ten game shift scheduled to start at 1:00 on Saturday. The general public are invited to view the proceedings and those venturing to the Bowl-O-Drama can be assured of seeing interesting competition.

* * *

Secretary of Leo Labelle, although he's a high average bowler himself, follows last years winner in average, it still points to a definite improvement that has been obvious over the last few seasons. During each of the last five seasons at least one local five-pitcher has hit over the 230 seasonal average mark.

It is very poor for a week or two until the pins get settled on the bars or holes.

The Department of Lands and Forests reports very poor pickerel run in the Moira River also mainly they presume, to the bottom condition of the water, by this they mean pollution.

Pollution is caused by garbage and refuse being dumped. Bottles, oil cans, tires, dead cats and dogs and now a cow can be seen any day of the week floating down the river. The bottom is covered with a sludge consting of slime and is very poor spawning grounds for fish.

The local harbor is in a filthy condition, as well as the garbage and junk there is very heavy oil slick has appeared. The harbor master has been doing his utmost to remedy this condition and has called in Ken Boyer would like to stop fielding like a New York Met, and Cincinnati Reds would like to start hitting like Frank Robinson.

Boyer, the National League's best - fielding third baseman while with St. Louis last year, committed three errors that contributed to Atlanta Braves' 8-4 victory over the Mets Friday night.

The Reds, meanwhile, again failed to play their role as preseason pennant favorites by dropping their sixth straight game 9-7 to Philadelphia Phillies.

Boyer made only 12 errors all last season but already has that many this year, all in the last three games. Two of the miscues came in the third inning when the Braves erupted for three runs and a 5-0 lead.

The Reds did some erupting of their own for the first time this season, but it wasn't enough to offset their miscues.

RAISED TEAM AVERAGE

Their 11-hit display raised the team batting average to .241, a level far below team mark of .272 and even further below Frank Robinson's .417.

Robinson is the slugging outfielder whom the Reds traded to Baltimore for pitcher Jack Baldschun in winter in an attempt to strengthen their pitching. That pitching hasn't been overly stout but the weakness at the plate has.

The seven runs against the Braves marked the first time this year the Reds have scored more than four runs in a game. They also have hit only four home runs as a team, the same number Robinson has.

"It's a good ball club," manager Don Heffner helped.

"They're all breaking their necks to snap out of this. Our pitching has been good and so has the fielding. We've made some errors, but we just haven't been getting the tough run in."

Or the easy one either.

DODGERS EDGE CUBS

In other NL games, Los Angeles Dodgers edged Chicago Cubs 2-1 on Jim Lefebvre's run-scoring single in the 10th inning, Houston Astros trimmed San Francisco Giants 2-0 and Houston Astros trimmed New York Mets 2-1.

In the only American League game, California Angels nipped Minnesota Twins 2-1 in 10 innings.

Boyer's error helped Cincinnati's first run in the third inning. Bobby Bolin opened the inning with a routine grounder. The only

Reds pitcher to escape their second victory of the season until ten-scoring singles by John Callison and Dick Groat in the seventh put Philadelphia ahead 6-5. The Phillies added two more in the eighth on Ted Davidson's wild pitch and Johnny Briggs' single.

Sandy Koufax pitched his first complete game of the season, bringing his record to 2-0 while scattering the hits and striking out 11. Jeff Torborg singled across the deciding run in the sixth.

Mid-Year Daktari, Batman Appear Likely Survivors

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Marshall Thompson's appearance at the 50th anniversary celebration for the San Diego Zoo was a revelation to him.

The actor experienced a variety of crowd reactions, including the clamorous kind when he was a teen-ager at MGM in the late 1940s. But this was different, all because of his television series, Daktari.

"They said there was a record crowd of 30,000 at the zoo, remarked Thompson. "Would you believe 5,000?"

Daktari was greeted with loud applause when it premiered on CBS in January. Despite the critical yawns, the show was an immediate hit — in the ratings. Now Daktari and Batmen appear to be the only mid-season entries to survive the season.

All this is gratifying, if surprising to Thompson.

ADVENT AMAZING

"The amazing thing is that we were able to get on the air at all," he commented. "We were notified in November that we would be on the air in January. The scripts had to be thrown together, and the first few shows were pretty bad. I think we're getting more quality into them now."

Thompson works with a variety of animals in the series, notably Clarence, the cross-eyed lion. His relations with Clarence?

"Excellent," said the actor, "but I don't push my luck. The important thing about working with wild animals is to know how they're feeling. I always check to see if Clarence is spooky or nervous. If he is, I don't try to push him too hard.

While the rest of the Daktari cast visits a needed rest, Thompson is flying to Africa to film backgrounds. His travel companion: Judy, the show's star chimp.

Best Actress
Julie Christie Plays Strong Role
In Joseph E. Levine's 'Darling'

The rare opportunity to play what most actresses would consider a "dream part" opposite such stars as Dick Bogarde and Laurence Harvey, falls to a lovely young woman whose remarkable qualities clearly have marked her for fame and fortune.

The lush and devastating role of Diana Scott, the beautiful, amoral model and the "darling" of the title in Joseph E. Levine's "Darling," a biting, satirical drama of lies and love inside the international "jet-set" society, now at the Park Theatre tonight and Sunday and continuing until Wednesday April 27th.

Born in India, where her British father was a tea planter, Miss Christie was sent to England to boarding school, which she left at 15 to study art in Paris. She later studied drama for three years at the Central School of Speech Training and Dramatic Art, and gained professional experience at the Frinton Repertory Company.

Her first big opportunity came when she appeared in various British TV shows, which led to a career - launching "discovery" in the motion picture, "Billy Liar."

John Schlesinger, the acclaimed young director of "Darling," also cast, guided and directed her in "Billy Liar." And it was then that she gained attention as a remarkable and exciting new actress. The critics raved, and the offers of parts poured in. But after signing a contract with Joseph Janni, the fascinating new star decided to return to the theatre to perfect her acting talent in repertory.

This was followed by a scintillating performance in "Young Cassidy" in which she starred with Rod Taylor. After completing her mammoth role in "Darling," she immediately began work on the David Lean Production of "Doctor Zhivago," in which she plays the part of Lara.

Thus, Miss Christie, an unconventional girl who critics and the public believe will claim was "born for greatness," moves from acting career into high-ly demanding herself to be one coming an increasingly accomplished actress and perserving her own natural independence in the process. An avid sun-worshipper who spends her holidays on the Italian Riviera or sun Coast, the blonde, blue - eyed beauty of vitality represents the essence of the new "swinging generation."

Complete shows are at 7.00 and 9.20 p.m. Evenings only.

AT THE BELLE — The spirit of triumphant good and the spirit of frustrated evil meet and compete in "The Great Race" a Warner Bros. new comedy in Technicolor-Panavision which opens Wednesday at the Belle Theatre. "The Great Race" was directed by Blake Edwards and produced by Martin Jurow.

AT THE BELLEVILLE DRIVE-IN — Elvis Presley serenades a seemingly preoccupied Shelley Fabares in this poolside scene from "Girl Happy", a big new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer romantic comedy, filmed in Panavision and color. 10-PIN TIDBITS

At a recent meeting of the Medical Association held in Chicago— Dr. Donald A. Dikeman, who five years ago retired, recommended 10-pin bowling an ideal conditioner to keep up returned from the prove the action of the heart.

72 year old Dr. Clarence Rapp, another speaker, is a proficient sport providing exercise, builds four extremeties and abdominal muscles. Bowling provides physical and mental relaxation. Mrs. Lady Bird Johnson took up bowling in Washington, John Wayne, movie actor, bowls, it was a nation of spectators,, was a nation of participants in bowling alleys.

Most bowling lanes are within reach of everyone, minutes from home and work.

League Roll-off at the illuminated Bowl for next two weeks, with 16 teams competing, also team standings.

Bowling is an interesting sport, not exciting or trying for a goal each time you bowl. Improve your average, and make a high game or high three games. Each bowler has these goals on his mind if he bowls in league or tournament leagues. Eighty per-cent of bowlers use some excuse or another for not obtaining them.

The following are used: "Ball doesn't fit." "Lanes are too dry." "Approach needs cleaning." "My timing is off." "Lost my spot." "I don't feel well."

And if each and everyone of us bowlers would just stop and think this is a game, No one is perfect. Each day or night of bowling is a new experience.

RELIGION IN PIONEER DAYS

"Be of good courage and He shall strengthen your heart, all ye that hope in the Lord." — Psalm XXXI, v-24.

* * *

"Upon the arrival in Canada the Loyalists were adherents of many different religions," writes Miss Helen Fralick, 113 Moira Street, West, in "The Loyalist Gazette." Because her research so aptly compliments the background of the brief stories of local churches which have appeared in this column, Miss Fralick has kindly made her findings available to our readers. She continues:

"At this unsettled time the Colonial Government decided that the province must look to England for her clergy for the present and thus it was that the Church of England became the Established Church and at the creation of Upper Canada in 1792, the official church.

"Because of the many nationalities to be found among the Loyalists; English, Scottish, Irish, Dutch, Palatine German, French, the number of communicants were small. In the townships outside of Kingston the adherents to this church were fewer.

"The first clergyman to settle in Upper Canada was the Reverend John Stuart. Born in Harrisburgh, Pennsylvania, he was ordained in England in 1770 and appointed missionary to the Mohawks at Fort Hunter, New York.

He migrated to Canada and in 1785 settled in Kingston having been promised the chaplaincy to the Garrison and hoping to continue his ministrations to the Mohawks.

"At the request of the Townships of Ernestown and Fredericksburgh for a minister of the Church of England, Rev. Langhorn was appointed missionary and arrived in Bath in October, 1792. He found no church in all townships of the Bay of Quinte extending from Kingston to the Carrying Place.Before any churches were erected he held services in private houses.

"Among those mentioned in this connection were Captain Hawley and Mr. Meeks, Mr. Smith, Woodcock, MacLeod, Rowswell, William Fairfield and Squire Ferguson.

Rev. Langhorn worked under difficulties and hardships. Reverend Stuart laid the foundation of the Church of England in the Bay of Quinte district.

"Reverend Robert McDowall was the first regularly ordained minister of the Presbyterian Church sent as a missionary in Upper Canada.

"He was a native of Saratoga County, New York, educated at Williams College, Schenectady, N.Y. He was ordained by Synod of the Reformed Dutch Church of Albany as a missionary to the United Empire Loyalist refugees of the Bay of Quinte District, members of whom had come from various parts and points on the Hudson River and were members of that denomination before the Revolution.

"He reached Kingston early in the spring of 1792 and soon went to Bath and Fredericksburgh and settled in the latter township where he remained until his death in 1834. During the first two years he worked as a missionary at large and preached at Kingston, Adolphustown, Ernestown, Hallowell and Fredericksburgh and Ernestown, three miles north of Bath. He built the first regular minister of these and had churches built.

"Reverend McDowall continued his regular mission visitations to Kingston and Prince Edward County, sometimes preaching as far west as where London now stands. He married more couples probably, than any other minister in Upper Canada. His register is now at Queen's University, of which he was the founder.

"The McDowall Memorial Church is at Sandhurst, Frederickburgh, where he died and where his remains and those of his descendants and of his family are buried."

Of special interest concerning today's column is a letter Miss Fralick received from a dear friend, who is the grandmother of one of the Rev. McDowall, mentioned above. She is Mrs. Keith P. (Ecla) Johnston, who wrote on Christ-ferent Bath Street, Frederick Manor, Chula Vista, California, in part as follows:

"This July we moved into the Manor which is completed a multi-million dollar luxury apartment hotel type seven story building containing 164 units.

"It has a dining-room also an auditorium each seating 300, a hobby room, a game room, and a library and a beauty parlor, also each floor has their own lounges and balconies which face east, south and west respectively. We have the west one on our floor where we often sit in the morning with the sun behind us, there is a magnificent view out over the San Diego Bay and the ocean.

"Twelve of the apartments have balconies on private balconies and we were lucky enough to get the one we wanted on Southwest corner. Our private balcony is like an outside living-room, 29 feet long and 6 feet wide. It is furnished with a nice sufficient view of the horizon ringed with a range of 4,000 ft. mountains extending into Mexico and over which we so often see beautiful sun set colors, stars, and sometimes snow in "winter."

"We have life contracts for laundry, maid service, meals and complete medical and surgical care. In fact we have a full hospital on our own grounds (27 acres) and each unit has 24 hour intercom service. Dr. Donald Dikeman of Sydney N.S., and Bill McCrandle of Edmonton in the Alberta city, are two residents of R. B. (Dick) Pearson of Saint John Friday announced that writer awards of $1,000 each to 5 of Halifax, light heavyweight king Leslie Borden of Montreal and junior welterweight champion Ferdinand Simard of Quebec City were among the 320 conferences not later than June 30.

An elimination tournament will be proposed to decide a challenger for George Chuvalo's national heavyweight crown.

Mutual Funds at Age 65---

A Look At What They Offer

By THOMAS COLLINS

"I would like your opinion re-garding the monthly income plan being offered for reinvestment by some of the Mutual Funds . . .

"The plan I am considering calls for me to deposit a minimum of $100.00. From this sum will be deducted an eight per cent commission fee. The remainder will be given to me in shares of the fund. I will be able to sell these shares any time I choose, at whatever the market price of the shares is at that time.

"Under the plan I may commence drawing $100 a month. Thereafter one month after my account is opened. The investment offering the plan has referred me to a local resident who has drawn this $100 a month for 63 consecutive months and now has in her account a balance in excess of her original deposit.

"I know there can be a decrease as well as an increase in the value of Mutual Fund shares. But their history has been most favorable.

"The appeal of the plan to me is that it offers a good income, and that I would not have to forfeit my principal as I would if I took out a lifetime annuity. Also, the increase in the value of my shares would act as a safeguard against inflation. . ."

BEST ADVICE

Probably the best general advice that can be given on these Mutual Fund plans is this: If you can afford to see your $10,000 shrink, or if you can afford to see up all of the $10,000 in five or ten years, then you might try it. If you can't afford either of these developments, then you'd better watch your step.

Many of the Mutual Funds offering these monthly income plans invest their money heavily in common stocks. If you are old enough to retire you are old enough to know about wars and the collapse of common stocks.

But just as pertinent to you in retirement is the simple arithmetic of some of these plans. A Mutual Fund probably would be able to provide you about four per cent return on your investment . . . certainly not much more. On $10,000, this would be $400 a year. But under the $100-a-month plan it would be paying you $1,200. Where does the extra $800 a year come from? From the sale of your shares.

If hard times come, the four percent return presumably would drop. This would mean more of your shares would have to be sold to come up with the $1,200. But if the four percent return dropped, so presumably would the value of the shares. Which would mean even more shares being sold. In brief, in a falling economy you probably would be selling more and more shares for less and less money.

WHO KNOWS?

Now the history of Mutual Funds over the last 10 years or so has been good. So indeed has been the history of nearly everything else. Maybe prosperity is here to stay. Who knows?

Mutual Funds come in many flavors. There are growth funds, income funds, speculative funds, conservative funds. With their monthly income plan and other plans they have appealed to many intelligent people. And certainly they should be a safer bet than for you to go out willy-nilly buying up stocks. Because they are managed by professionals who are very careful to maintain their good name.

Then too, you can figure, if they aren't a good investment, what is? An account in a Trust Company or a bank can look pretty sad if serious inflation comes.

If you've got $10,000 you've got money. If you've got money you've got a problem. Your safest course is to know all the facts, apply them to your personal financial situation, close your eyes, and decide. Whether you decide on government bonds or speculative electronic stocks, you should have a rabbit's foot in the house, preferably from a right, rear leg. A horseshoe nailed over the front door would help, too.

Federal Govt. To Pay for Flood Control.

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government announced Friday it will pay a major portion of Manitoba's present and future flood-control costs.

In this spring's emergency, the federal government will pay 75 per cent of the public flood-fighting expenditure.

The federal government will also pay 75 per cent of the cost of new permanent dikes to protect several Red River valley communities not protected by the Winnipeg floodway now under construction.

Western Oils Advance Again Due New Rainbow Lake Finds

By LARRY DWORKIN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Western oils, sparked by enthusiasm about the potential of northern Alberta's Rainbow Lake area, highlighted trading on Canada's stock markets this week.

It was the third consecutive weekly advance for the group, although this week's increase didn't start until Thursday's session.

At Toronto, the oil index rose .80 to 114.14 despite a 1.44 loss during the first three days of trading.

Pacific Petroleum, which slid ¾ to 14¼ as a result of profit taking, ignited the advance on its announcement Wednesday that it had found oil in the area. The company said the well was producing 17 barrels an hour.

B-A Oil increased ¼ to 33¾ following an announcement Thursday it had encountered oil in four of seven holes it drilled in the Rainbow area.

SUPERIOR UP 1¼

Among other companies that have interests in the area, Canadian Superior climbed 1¼ to 20¼, Union Oil ¾ to 30¾ and Banff Oil ¼ to 18¼.

Canadian Industrial Gas and Oil moved up ¼ to 14¼. It has been announced that Northern and Central Gas, which dropped ¼ to 33½, is considering taking over Canadian Industrial Gas and Oil.

In speculative oils, Canadian Export Gas lost 16 cents to 3.55, Sazamex 15 cents to 4.05 and International Helium 6 cents to 2.11. Spooner was up 11 cents to 1.33.

Industrials drifted lower as total volume fell to 22,033,886 shares compared with 23,772,343 last week.

A number of analysts say they expect the market to adjust to lower levels in order to reach better price-earnings ratios.

They said that a lot of large institutions are sitting on short-term money waiting for better market opportunities. As a result some of these institutions have put their money into the short-term bond market.

CPR FALLS

In the main list, CPR fell 1¼ to 58¼, Atlantic Sugar 1½ to 28, Du Pont 1¼ to 42¼, Bell Telephone 1¼ to 55¾ and B.C. Forest ¾ to 25.

On the Toronto Stock Exchange, Superteel and Texaco each moved up 1¼ to 22¼ and 36½, Dominion Electrohome 1¼ to 18½, Aluminium and Massey-Ferguson ¾ each to 44¼ and 23¼.

Bee metals suffered the largest decline as the index dropped 1.39 to 94.81.

Falconbridge lost 1¼ to 100, Noranda and Campbell Chibougamau 1¼ to 81¾ and 21½, Rio Algom 1 to 21¾ and Denison ¾ to 48.

Pine Point bucked the trend as it moved up 3¼ to 63¼. The company announced quarterly earnings of 2.49 a share.

Jaye Exploration was the most active speculative, jumping 14 to 34 cents on 1,308,350 shares.

On index, industrials were off .75 to 170.24, golds were up .30 to 181.43, golds were up .30 to 170.24.

At Montreal, industrials were down .35 to 168.68, utilities 2.73 to 146.12, banks 1.21 to 123.0 and papers 1.35 to 112.31. Volume was 3,975,885 shares compared with 6,136,887 last week.

Honor Medal Given Father Of Negro Boy

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson presented the highest U.S. military award Thursday to the father of a 19-year-old Chicago Negro who gave his life in Viet Nam to protect his fellow paratroopers.

At a solemn ceremony in the sun-dappled rose garden of the White House, Johnson said Pfc. Milton Lee Olive III "taught those of us who remain how we ought to live."

Johnson presented the Medal of Honor to Olive's father, Milton L. Olive Jr.

The medal was awarded posthumously for "extraordinary heroism and intrepidity" after Olive threw himself on a hand grenade last Oct. 22 and shielded four other soldiers.

TV Producers Move Closer to Strike Action

TORONTO (CP)—CBC President Alphonse Ouimet arrived in Toronto today from Ottawa for an emergency meeting with local CBC producers who have threatened strike action over management involvement in production decisions.

Mr. Ouimet is scheduled to meet later today with 70 members of the Toronto Producers Association and public affairs supervisors including those of This Hour Has Seven Days.

The association is demanding that CBC management make no production decisions on television programs without first consulting the producers of the programs and their supervisors.

It is also demanding that no firings or "disciplinary transfers" be made without "showing demonstrative cause." Where disputes arise the association is demanding compulsory and binding arbitration by a mediator appointed by the federal minister of labor.

The latest move in the flare-up resulting from the dismissals by Dave Davy co-hosts Laurier LaPierre and Patrick Watson followed a meeting Sunday of 41 association members.

The CBC said on its Sunday night radio and TV national newscasts the producers have decided to withdraw their services unless Mr. Ouimet accepts their proposals.

Douglas Leiterman, executive producer of the program, would not confirm the report of a strike but added the newscasts' version of the three points was "substantially correct."

Although Mr. Leiterman expressed doubts Saturday that Mr. Watson would appear Sunday night as host of Document, a one-hour program which replaces Seven Days once a month, Mr. Watson videotaped a brief introduction Sunday afternoon to the documentary examining the drug LSD.

About 40 members of the Seven Days' staff issued a statement Saturday saying they are unwilling to continue production of the program without Mr. Watson and Mr. LaPierre.

However, in an interview on the CBC radio network television news Saturday night, Mr. Leiterman declined to say whether Seven Days would be broadcast May 1 and 8, completing its current season.

He also refused to say whether he would resign as executive producer if Mr. Watson and Mr. LaPierre are not reinstated.

Earlier Saturday, he had been quoted as saying he expected the whole staff of Seven Days will walk out and that [illegible] Hour Has Seven Days will go off the air before completion of its season May 8."

May Not Call Cardin

OTTAWA (CP)—Justice Minister Cardin may not be called as a witness before the Gerda Munsinger inquiry, a royal commission was informed today.

C. P. H. Dacre of Toronto, counsel for Opposition Leader Diefenbaker and former justice minister Pickup, said commission counsel J. L. O'Brien of Montreal had said he will call no further witnesses.

Mr. O'Brien replied that his statement had been "not quite so categorical" but he had expressed doubt whether he would call further witnesses.

Statement by Mr. Cardin at a press conference and in a letter to Prime Minister Pearson led to the Liberal government's appointment of Mr. Justice Wishart Spence of the Supreme Court of Canada to conduct a royal commission inquiry.

Mr. Carson read into the record a letter asking the commission that lawyers for the Conservative leader and Mr. Pickup would be legal arguments that Mr. Diefenbaker and Mr. Pickup must be given notice of the charges against them.

NEED POSTPONEMENT

He said that if Mr. Justice Spence agrees, cross - examination of former RCMP commissioner C. L. Harvison and RCMP Commissioner McClellan must be postponed.

However, if the judge ruled against the application, Mr. Diefenbaker and Mr. Pickup would have to recall their lawyers on whether to cross-examine the two RCMP witnesses who have been in the witness box since April 6 at which neither Conservative leader was present or represented by counsel.

Mr. Carson said that for the first time in his legal experience he was being asked in cross - examine witnesses whose initial testimony he had not heard and whom he had not been able to observe in the witness box.

Mr. O'Brien, saying he would oppose the application on behalf of the two Conservatives, said he said cross - examination of the RCMP commissioner and former RCMP commissioner should be completed by April 27.

BOTH TRAVELLING

Commissioner McClellan was going out of the country April 28 on [illegible] engagement, and former commissioner Harvison had been summoned back to Canada from a foreign country to appear.

Mr. O'Brien said he doubts whether a public hearing to examine the two is in the public interest cause of the need to protect sources of information and techniques of investigation.

The inquiry hearings April 5 and 6 were also entirely in secret except for a brief period April 18 when Mr. Carson made a formal application to permit press and public to be present. Mr. Justice Spence, in an in - private decision, ruled against the application.

The allegations by Mr. Carson, which prompted the inquiry, said Mrs. Munsinger, 36-year-old German blonde, had been involved with her before she left the country in 1961.

Without naming them, the justice minister said two or more ministers of the previous Conservative government had been involved with her before she left the country in 1961.

Red Planes Vacate Skies After Whipping in Challenge

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. planes set deep into North Viet Nam's vital centres Sunday, again attacking a bridge on the main rail link to China.

Enemy MiG fighters made no new challenge to U.S. planes.

However, two U.S. jets were shot down Sunday by ground fire 30 miles northeast of Hanoi, a U.S. Air Force spokesman reported today. Two other U.S. planes were lost Saturday apparently to anti-aircraft fire.

U.S. planes flew a total of 77 missions against North Viet Nam Sunday, returning to the same areas where Saturday they encountered at least 14 Soviet-built MiGs in the first aerial battles with Communist planes in 10 months. The Communists lost two MiG-17s to U.S. air-to-air missiles. Two faster MiG-21s fought the American planes but fled when attacked.

On the ground in South Viet Nam, five major American operations met with little enemy resistance. South Vietnamese forces claimed 265 Viet Cong killed in the Mekong delta 100 miles southwest of Saigon.

A South Vietnamese spokesman reported the Viet Cong had left another 50 dead in an attack on a battalion preparing to open a road north of Nha Trang.

The weekend plane losses brought to 34 the total number of U.S. planes lost over North Viet Nam.

The American planes Saturday and Sunday were on similar missions—disrupting of the main rail line from Hanoi to China. Key targets were the Bac Giang railway bridge, 25 miles northeast of Hanoi.

WILL CONDUCT ELECTION

In political developments, the government announced it would appoint a commission of 100 to conduct the national elections it has promised in three to five months.

But even as it did, a student speaker told a rally in Saigon: "Before we have free elections, the government must stabilize the situation in the country." It was warmly applauded.

Some thousand Roman Catholics demonstrated in Saigon Sunday while others marched in nearby Phan Thiet and in the northern city of Da Nang. The demonstrations, a show of strength and loyalty to Buddhism, all demanded a more vigorous war effort against the Viet Cong.

U.S. jets skirmished three times with Communist fighters Saturday and Sunday but in the only air fight since last July 10, Communist planes of unconfirmed nationality challenged the U.S. aircraft.

For the first time in the Vietnamese war, the U.S. jets were pitted against the Soviet-built MiG-21s, delta-winged supersonic fighters manned by the Communists as equal to any in the world.

U.S. Pat Pleasions fought the MiGs to a draw 55 miles northwest of Hanoi, while neither side scoring a kill. The Phantoms and MiG-21s are both capable of 1,200 miles an hour.

MISSILES GET TWO

A few minutes later at least three MiG-17s fired at another flight of American Phantoms flying cover for an attack on the Bac Giang bridge. The American planes knocked down two MiGs with missiles. The other MiGs fled.

Six more MiG-17s swept in on a "flight of F-105 Thunderchief fighter-bombers hammering the road and highway network north of Hanoi. The U.S. planes took evasive action and easily outpaced the slower MiG-17s.

Howe Told Him Act Fast

By JOHN LeBLANC

OTTAWA (CP) — Mr. Justice Leo Landreville of the Supreme Court of Ontario said today that in 1956 Liberal Trade Minister C. D. Howe telephoned him to ask for action in getting the Sudbury city council to start proceedings for a natural gas franchise there.

Mr. Justice Landreville, then judge of Sudbury, is under a judicial inquiry to determine his fitness to continue in office as the result of obtaining 7,500 shares of Northern Ontario Natural Gas Company stock after that firm got the Sudbury franchise in 1956.

The 56-year-old judge, first witness in the Rand inquiry opened the last stage of its hearings here, testified that until receiving a call from Mr. Howe in late March of 1956, he had taken a "wait and see" attitude toward NONG's attempt to get the Sudbury franchise.

He said Mr. Howe—then engaged in piloting through Parliament the controversial legislation for the eastbound line of Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd.—telephoned him from Ottawa to say:

"Leo, what's going on up there with respect to your gas franchise? What's the holdup?"

Mr. Justice Landreville said that he had advised Mr. Howe there was no holdup, that dealing on NONG's franchise, which he said was mainly because city authorities were waiting to see whether International Nickel Co. of Canada would sign up for natural gas for its big plant at adjacent Copper Cliff.

He said that Mr. Howe "gave me the assurance" that Inco would sign with NONG.

FRANCHISE VITAL

Mr. Justice Landreville said Mr. Howe told him that it was important for the Trans-Canada Pipe Line legislation that Trans-Canada's prospective payload be known and for that reason it would "be important that we get our franchise through."

The judge also said Ivan C. Rand, the retired Supreme Court of Canada justice conducting the inquiry, and federal government, that during a meeting with Northern Ontario Natural Gas officials sometime earlier, then Ontario attorney-general Dana Porter had objected that NONG was a realiable company.

However, Mr. Justice Landreville said Mr. Porter also at one time did the attorney -general — who now is chief Justice of Ontario — say anything that could be taken as order or a command regarding any particular company."

He also said the attorney-general had taken the view that the legislature should not give the franchise to a company other than the one chosen by the legislature.

He had the impression that if the Sudbury municipal council could get a company different from the one chosen by Inco, the final selection would have been taken out of his hands by the Ontario fuel board.

Paper Shut Down

NEW YORK (AP)—A strike by the Newspaper Guild of New York shut down the merged World Journal Tribune before the new corporation could start publication scheduled for today.

But a voluntary shutdown by four other daily newspapers was averted when their publishers decided to keep printing on a day-to-day basis.

Matt Meyer, president of the new corporation, said he could not predict when the merged papers would be published. None of the 18 unions in the newspaper industry has a contract with the World Journal Tribune Inc.

The Newspaper Guild (AFL-CIO) set up picket lines Sunday at the plants of The Journal American, The World - Telegram and The Sun and the New York Herald Tribune—all of which published their last editions as separate papers during the weekend.

The pickets signalled the start of the third major newspaper strike in New York in less than four years.

DISMISSALS ISSUE

Officials of the Guild, which represents editorial and business office workers, said the strike was called primarily because of a dispute over who should be dismissed in the merger. The Guild and other unions are seeking provisions to cushion the effects of the merger on the 2,000 of the 5,700 union employees of the three papers who will lose their jobs. The Guild is to lose 904 of its 1,800 jobs.

The new corporation had planned to publish The Herald Tribune this morning and The World Journal this afternoon. The World Journal replaced The Journal American and The World-Telegram and The Sun both of which were evening newspapers. Publication of the World Journal Tribune is scheduled to start next Sunday. It replaces the Sunday editions of The Herald Tribune and The Journal American.

The net effect of the merger —one of the major realignments in the U.S. newspaper industry—is the loss of an evening newspaper and one Sunday paper. The cities will have New York City with five daily newspapers of general circulation and three Sunday papers.

Besides The World Journal Tribune, which recently was accepted as a member of the publishers association includes The Times, Daily News, Long Island Press and Long Island Star-Journal.

During the last four years, member newspapers have shut down when one or more members were strikebound.

DON'T CHARGE LEWIS

Members of the nine craft unions—including printers, pressmen and others—who did not show up for work for the new corporation Sunday or refused to cross the picket lines of the Guild.

Negotiations between the new corporation and various unions are continuing.

Jodoin Wants Committee To Study CLC Changes

WINNIPEG (CP) — Establishment of a special commission to study changes in the structure of the Canadian Labor Congress was proposed today by President Claude Jodoin.

He told the opening of the CLC's biennial convention such a study should be made before inter-union warfare, now a major problem in the 1,200,000-member congress.

"There is no place in a united labor movement for fratricidal warfare," he said. "We must not stop there."
